and Congressman Ramseyer. Addresses were also made by John R. Price, Charles E. Miller, W. E. Giltner and John F. Abegglen for the county ticket.

The basket of corn in The Union office window has attracted considerable attention this week. John Visser, who lives near Frederic, was awarded the blue ribbon on corn at the Albia Fall Festival and left the samples at this office for a few days. It is of fine quality and well worthy the prize in almost any corn contest.

Word has been receivied from Rev. C. V. Pearce at Des Moines that people have come in throngs to the national Christian convention being held at the capital city and a great time is being enjoyed. Rev. Pearce expressed the wish that all his church people might be in attendance to receive the inspiration of the wonderful meetings.

Miss Keo Dotts delightfully entertained the members of her Sunday school class, The Gleaners, at her home one evening recently. The young ladies enjoyed a comparison of their fancy work and had a merry time while their needles were busy. Miss Dotts served dainty refreshments and a pleasant time is reported by those present.

The Republicans held another splendid meeting at Mine No. 18 Wednesday evening. Congressman Ramseyer dwelt at length on National issues and John R. Price, W. E. Giltner, Chas. E. Miller and John F. Abegglen addressed the people on state issues. The meeting was largely attended and was presided over by Wm. Pryer, who made an excellent chairman.

Mrs. Caroline Delmar died from congestion of the stomach at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. D. Randolph, Monday morning, October 9, 1916, aged seventy-eight years. The body was prepared for burial by D. S. Humeston and taken to Lucas for interment. Funeral services were held at the Randolph home Wednesday morning, Rev. W. E. Fisher of the First Presbyterian church officiating.

Mrs. Sarah F. Ireland, a pioneer citizen of Albia, passed away at Fremont, Iowa, Tuesday, October 10, 1916, aged 78 years, 10 months and 10 days and the remains were brought to Albia and the funeral was held at the Friends church Thursday afternoon, Rev. Edwin Loft and D. C. Smith officiating. Mrs. Ireland and daughter Miss Anna, were in Fremont visiting when she was taken down with pneumonia and she was too frail to stand the ravages of the disease.

After the regular work Past Master jewels were presented to J. C. Mabry, C. W. Guthrie, John F. Nelson and George H. Hobson, the speech of presentation being made by David Streiff and responded to by those who received the gifts.

The music of the evening was furnished by ten members of the Albia Glee club and was a great treat, they being called upon for five numbers.

The refreshments furnished by the house committee were no doubt all that could be expected if the way they disappeared is any indication.

After refreshments and during the smoking hour friends, neighbors and visitors mingled together for an hour, breaking up about 11:30 ,all saying it was the best and most valuable meeting that Astor Lodge has ever held.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Robert Arnold passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. D. Devereaux, Thursday evening, after an illness of more than a year. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon with interment in Oak View. Rev. G. B. Hankins of Milton a long time and intimate friend of Mr. Arnold, conducted the funeral which was largely attended as the deceased was highly respected and popular pioneer citizen. Out of town relatives and friends coming to Albia because of Mr. Arnold's death were Mrs. S. W. Hurst, Margaret and James Hurst of Leon, Dr. J. B. Horner and daughter of Lamoni. FAMILY REUNION.

An enjoyable family reunion has been the event of the week at the home of D. A. Jay on what is known as the Waveland stock farm near Blakesburg. The brothers and sisters of Mrs. Candence Jay have come from various parts of the United States for a reunion and old time visit together. On Tuesday other members of the family and several friends were invited to join in the festiviti s and the company that day consisted of the following: Mrs. Candace Jay, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Arnold, Long Island, Kan.; Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Arnold, Humeston, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bower, St. Paul, Neb.; Lake Bower, Des Moines, Iowa; Mrs. S. P. Newcomb, San Dimas, Calif.; Mrs. Cummins Hoy, Long Island, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. John Forster, Mrs. Vaughn Gass, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Devereaux, Albia, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Arnold, Neal Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Cohagan, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Eakins, Mrs. Herman Snow, Mrs. Kate Jones, Mrs. Eva Jay, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jay and Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Jay of Blakesburg; Mrs. Myra Devereaux of Lovilia.

XV CLUB MEETS.

The XV club met with Mrs. Maggie Nichol Tuesday afternoon, October 10. Eleven members were in attendance. The members were conveyed to and from the Nichol home in automobiles by C. S. Prizer and Geo. Alexander.

The study of the lesson was followed by a social hour, during which time a luncheon was served by Miss Madge Nichol, who was assisted by Mrs. Grace Seaman. The next club meeting will be held with Mrs. Anna Schreiner on October 17. The lesson will commence with chapter four in "Training for Citizenship." Mrs. Schreiner, leader.

GROWING INTO PURE HERDS

"Here is a real gold bond with the coupon still attached," the auctioneer remarked as a fine big cow with a husky calf at foot is led into the ring. The cow is a bit thin in flesh. She has been giving of her own body to feed her calf; but she is a good cow of a good type, with plenty of maternal qualities; and the calf is the very best possible evidence that she is tending strictly to the business for which she is kept, namely, reproducing herself.

But the bidding is not enthusiastic. She is started at a price far below the prices at which yearling heifers in full bloom have been selling; and notwithstanding the pleading of the auctioneer, she is knocked down at a price which her calf alone doubtless would bring under the same conditions six months afterwards. Her buyer is not, as might be expected, some man who is starting a pure bred herd, not some man who has a few cows already; but an old, experienced breeder who really is not in the market for anything just then, but who sees in this cow too good a bargain to let go.

Cows like this, regular breeders with five to eight years of breeding life yet before them, with calves at foot, are the very sort that should be picked up by the less experienced breeders. Our mind runs back twenty-seven years to another such cow. She was a big-square roan in quite thin flesh, with a five-months bull calf at foot, a splendid looking cow and a splendid looking calf. She was dragging along at something like eighty dollars. The writer happened to be sitting next to B. F. Elbert, an Iowa breeder who handled during his life some of the best Shorthorns ever brought to the state. He said, "Young man, buy that cow and calf. You can't make a mistake. If she loses you any money, just send the bill to me, and I will make it good" We bought her at $105. In three months we sold the calf for $150; and and for five years that cow every year produced a splendid calf, and there was never any trouble in finding a market for it.

The young breeder is too often carried away by the charms of a flashy heifer in full bloom. He pays three or four times as much for her as good, useful cows well along in calf, or with calves at side may be selling for at the same sale. If the young breeder has had considerable experience and buys these young things with judgment, we are not saying that he may not do all right with them; but if he is building up a herd and has no money to throw away, he is making a mistake to neglect the claims of good, useful, producing cows which show poorly because suckled down.

The prices at which pure bred cattle have been selling during the past year have been most gratifying not alone to breeders but to all who appreciate the importance of improving our grades of live stock in the corn belt. During the last four or five months over 500 Shorthorns have sold for an something like 150 have brought $1,000 or more each. We do not have corre-

ARNOLD

Robert Bruce Arnold, son of Lewis and Margaret Arnold, was born near Greencastle, Ind., January 29, 1834; came with his father's family to Monroe county, Iowa, in 1846; was married to Maggie Stamm, of Monroe county, January 1, 1860; lived in Monroe county, with the exception of two years in Davis City, Iowa, during the time of the war, and one year in Ottumwa, until the time of his death at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. D. Devereaux, at Albia, Iowa, October 5, 1916. The funeral was conducted from the Devereaux home Sunday, October 8, by Rev. Hankins, of Melton, Iowa, a warm personal friend of the deceased.

His wife and two infant children have preceded him to the life beyond. He is survived by four children and nine grandchildren. His children are W. H. Arnold of St. Louis; W. S. Arnold, of Blakesburg, Iowa; Mrs. T. E. Horner, of Osage, Iowa, and Mrs. J. D. Devereaux, of Albia. He is also survived by two foster children, Bert Arnold of Moravia, and Mrs. Walter Lowry of Chicago. Mrs. S. W. Hurst, of Leon, Ia., is the only surviving member of the Arnold family.

Mr. Arnold was peculiarly identified with the history of Monroe county, having come to the county the day Iowa became a state, December 28, 1846. He was always interested in the development of the county and state; was ever an advocate of civic righteousness, and had the courage to stand for his convictions. It was fitting that one so identified with the development of the country should represent his county in the State Legislature. This was his privilege in the Twenty-seventh General Assembly.

Although he enjoyed but the limited opportunities for schooling afforded in pioneer days, Mr. Arnold was really a man of excellent education in the true sense of the word. He was a great student of history, especially of the political history of the state and nation. He was familiar with the best in English literature. "In the love of nature," he held "communion with her visible forms," and learned, not only her various language, but her secrets and laws as well. In his early manhood he taught school. In truth he was always a teacher, for even when he had reached four score, those who were privileged to hold converse with him, gained food for thot; some citation of historical fact; some application of moral or political philosophy; some choice line from poet or author, or some bit of nature lore.

He was a man of high ideals, of clean thought, clean lips and clean life; a man who aspired to live for higher things and whose influence made for righteousness. A man who deserved to be loved.

It were a double grief if the departed,
Being released from earth, should still retain
A sense of earthly pain.

The prices at which pure bred cattle have been selling during the past year have been most gratifying not alone to breeders but to all who appreciate the importance of improving our grades of live stock in the corn belt. During the last four or five months over 500 Shorthorns have sold for an average of about $750 per head, while something like 150 have brought $1,000 or more each. We do not have corresponding figures for the Angus and Herefords, but relatively they have been selling as well. The breeder of pure bred cattle has been going thru a rather discouraging period, and he is fully entitled to the reward which he is now getting.

Naturally such prices are attracting attention to the value of pure breds. They will attract the speculators, who go in and out with the ups and downs of the business. They will also attract a number of farmers who have not thot very much about the value of pure bred cattle heretofore. We are not offering any advice to the speculators, and the experienced breeders do not need any from us; but we wish to drop a word of caution to inexperienced men.

The pure bred business has its ups and downs from the beginning. The farmer who is attracted by the high prices and determines to go into it simply because he thinks he can make a lot of money in it is likely to be disappointed. He goes in when prices are high, and he is likely to go out when prices are low. The men who jump
