funeral will take place to-day, at two o'clock p. m., from his late residence, corner of Main and High streets.

Death of Hon. J. L. Corse.

It is made our painful duty to announce the death of our distinguished fellow-townsman, John Lockwood Corse, who expired at midnight of Thursday, March 18th, at his residence on South Main street. Mr. Corse had suffered for several weeks from an enlargement of the liver and a general debility from which he soon discovered he could not rally, and for over a week past has daily expected his final hour. He retained his consciousness to the last and had arranged his business affairs in anticipation of his decease. The funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian Church at 2 o'clock, Sunday afternoon.

J. L. Corse was a native of Delaware and was born in the city of Dover, in that State, on the 5th of March, 1813, and consequently was 55 years and 14 days of age. Early in life he moved to Philadelphia, where he learned the trade of carriage making, and in 1834, was married, his estimable wife having departed this life about a year and a half ago. In 1835 he moved West, and for a short time lived in St. Louis, Mo., and Belleville, Ill. From the latter point he removed to Burlington in 1842, and at once engaged in business by erecting a carriage factory on the corner of Jefferson and Fourth streets, on the present site of Hedge's new block. He subsequently disposed of his interest in the carriage factory, and for a time was engaged in the livery business, and then next opened a book store, which he maintained up to the date of his decease. Mr. Corse served two terms in the General Assembly of this State, and at different times has filled the Mayoralty of our city for a period of ten years, and received other marks of distinction and trust from the hands of his fellow citizens. Mr. Corse has always actively identified himself with the living interests of our city, especially the important public improvements and local interests, and the cause of education. No one ever responded more readily with voice and purse in aid of any public enterprise, and none have exhibited more public spirit and devotion to the upbuilding of our public school system.

As a business man Mr. Corse was eminently successful, and by a strict attention to the details of his business and a liberal course in his acts, he built up a large trade, and gathered around him numerous patrons and friends. He leaves four children to mourn his death—Major General J. M. Corse, Mrs. McArthur, wife of our well known citizen, M. C. McArthur, and two unmarried daughters.

As a citizen and neighbor Mr. Corse had the universal respect and confidence of all who enjoyed his acquaintance, and his death has cast a pall over the feelings of the public such as occasionally befalls every people when one whom long years of public services and kindly relationship is removed from them. Thus one after another of our pioneer citizens are passing away, yet
