Rock Rapids Reporter: S. D. Riniker, Auditor Riegel, and Mr. Erickson of Inwood went to Des Moines Monday afternoon to be in attendance on the state good roads meeting scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday. The gentlemen report a very largely attended and lively session. Mr. Riniker was made a member of the committee on resolutions, and after a warm fight with a bunch of fellows who were anxious to throw the auto tax fund into a "jackpot" to be distributed by a state board for the benefit of the big towns, and at the expense of the smaller places generally, succeeded in defeating a resolution committing the delegates to such a program.

Rock Rapids Reporter: J. W. Ladd, who last summer went east and purchased a place near Syracuse, N. Y., removed there Monday and will engage in dairy farming and truck gardening. Mr. Ladd secured a farm of ninety-two acres in the edge of a small town called Mexico, together with a small herd of thoroughbred Holstein cows. The place is improved, having a big brick house, which cost in the neighborhood of $10,000, a barn that cost $3,000, plenty of smaller buildings, orchards and all kinds of fruit. It is close to a cream buying station and a canning factory, and much revenue is derived from selling peas for canning, which is done by cutting the vines when the er can have the vines back for feed for cattle. Mr. Ladd secured the place for $9,000 and thinks he got a bargain.

DEATH OF MAHLON HARVEY

An Upright Man and Useful Citizen Goes to His Rest

The body of Hon. Mahlon Harvey was brought from Rochester, Minn., Sunday evening, and was buried in the Sibley cemetery Tuesday afternoon. The funeral was largely attended. Services were held in the M. E. church and the Masonic order performed its ritual at the grave.

Mr. Harvey died at Cook's hotel, an adjunct of the Mayo hospital in Rochester, Saturday night.

About a month before his death Mr. Harvey's acquaintances were surprised to learn that he had been taken to Rochester for surgical treatment. He was rugged looking for a man of 68 years and never complained of illness. Yet a post mortem investigation disclosed that he had suffered from cirrhosis of the liver and from acute nephritis, either of which spelled death, and that the end was hastened by pneumonia, which attacked him in his weakness. He was not considered fit to go under the surgeon's knife after his arrival in Rochester and was not operated upon.

Mr. Harvey was born in St. Lawrence county, N. Y., in August, 1844, and grew to manhood in his native state. He came to Osceola county in the early 70s and settled upon a farm in East Holman township which he never left. A wife and a son survive him.

Mr. Harvey was a man of the strictest probity and a very useful citizen. In his early life he taught school. Irving Bacheller, the author, was one of his pupils. All his days he was interested in educational affairs and for many years served his neighborhood as a school director. For the past six years, ever since Osceola county was made a representative district, he represented the county in the general assembly of Iowa. He was of sane judgment, a strong but not bitter partisan, not easily moved by excitement nor given to moods; frank in the expression of his opinions, but tolerant of the views of others, with a large capacity for friendship and abounding charity, he steadily pursued an honorable career, and was most loved by those who best knew him.
