Investigation Bureau Chief Speaker Here

Nebergall Addresses Two Classes in Adult Education Group

R. W. Nebergall, head of the bureau of investigation of the state of Iowa, spoke before the combined government problems class and the safety education class at the adult school Monday night.

Prefacing his talk with a few statistics on crime, Mr. Nebergall said that crime was traceable back to the time Cain slew Abel and that as time passed the percentage of crimes committed increased. In the U. S. alone there is a murder every 45 minutes, a major crime is committed every 24 seconds and one out of every 16 American homes is entered by crime.

The cost to each person alone is $120 a year, the total crime bill is sixteen million dollars and it is $28,000 per minute.

Most of the major crimes are committed by boys and girls still in their teens.

Terming crime as an illegal act or an offense against society, Nebergall outlined methods which had been worked out for the detection of these crimes. Recently crime machinery has been greatly modernized.

In the bureau of investigation there are rigidly trained, special agents who are given assignments on murder, bank robbery, forgeries, conspiracies and other like cases. Often times the agents are called to aid sheriffs, who need efficient assistance to solve difficult problems.

Before any arrests are made, Nebergall's bureau gets all the evidence and information necessary about crime and criminal. As a result, the agents seldom arrest the wrong man and the case is practically settled then.

Identification, which includes the fingerprinting division, is the most detailed. In their intricate filing

On July 1, 1906, he bought the entire plant of the Sentinel and conducted that newspaper until Aug. 1, 1911, as editor and publisher. In subsequent years he served as a state checker.

Nov. 24, 1889, Mr. Colclo was married to Mrs. Sadie E. (Kail) Snyder, who died May 2, 1937.

His only immediate survivor is one sister, Mrs. Anna Steigerwalt of Payette, Idaho. He was one of a family of seven children.

Fraternally, Mr. Colclo belonged to Signet Lodge, No. 264, A.F. & A. M., and to Copestone Chapter No. 78.

22 Injured as Big Locomotive Explodes Today

Several Victims Were in Motor Cars Stopped at Intersection

Denver (AP)—At least twenty-two persons were injured, some seriously, by the explosion of a large Denver and Rio Grande western railroad passenger locomotive today as it was being pushed into the railroad yards in the southwest industrial section.

SOME MOTORISTS

Several of the persons injured were motorists who had stopped at the intersection for the train to cross.

The boiler and cab of the locomotive were lifted from the undercarriage hurled sixty feet into the air and thrown upside down on an empty railway express car. Before landing the boiler and cab arched over the locomotive immediately behind.

PEOPLE DAZED

Fireman Ray Shaffer, member of the first fire department rescue squad reaching the scene, said "we found people wandering around over a whole square block

Officers Beat Path to Site Of Plane Crash

Rancher-Woodsmen Discovered Army Bomber Lost Jan. 16, 7 Aboard

FEAR ALL ARE DEAD

Extreme Secrecy Surrounds Expedition — Army Will Dynamite It

Morton, Wash., (AP)—Surrounded by military secrecy a force of soldiers with state and county officials undertook trek today into a thickly wooded region in quest of a wrecked army bomber which two rancher-woodsmen reported sighting yesterday.

FEAR ALL DEAD

A bomber with seven officers aboard disappeared January 16 on a flight from McChord Field, Washington. It was feared should as prove to be the wreckage that all seven men were killed. The woodsmen said there was no sign of life at the scene.

Major C. B. Overacker, Commander of the 73rd Bombardment Squadron, to which the plane and crew belonged, said remnants of the plane probably would be dynamited after all possible salvage.

NO BOMB SIGHT

Colonel Walter Peck, operations chief at McChord Field, denied flatly to newsmen early today that the big plane which vanished from there was equipped with an army bomb sight. Previously he had expressed belief the craft had carried some type of bomb sight.

C. C. Colclo, Long A Well Known Local Resident, Dies Today

Believed to Have Lived In Carroll Longer Than Any Other

Early this afternoon death claimed Craton C. Colclo, whose life had long been identified with that of Carroll. After being in declining health for some time, he succumbed at the Evor Morgan home on North Carroll Street, where he had been cared for since the first part of December. Prior to this, he had been at the St. Anthony Hospital for a short time. He was eighty-nine years old.

The body is at the Huffman Funeral Home, pending the completion of funeral arrangements.

For many years Mr. Colclo was a public figure, having been county superintendent of schools, postmaster, state representative, newspaper publisher and state checker. Later he served as custodian of the Carroll Chamber of Commerce, a position he had held for the last several years.

Born in a log cabin in Putnam County, Ohio, Nov. 2, 1851, he was a son of James H. and Hannah Cretsinger Colclo. He was only two years old when he came with his parents to Madison County, Ia. Two years later the family moved to Carroll county.

Living in Carroll since 1869, Mr. Colclo had probably made his home here longer than any other resident. His father came to Carroll county in 1856 and took up a claim of 160 acres just east of Coon Rapids in Union township. He lived on this farm until 1865 when he moved to Carrollton, the old county seat, and went into the hotel business. Three years later he settled at Carroll and followed the same line of business until his death.

C. C. Colclo attended the public schools here, graduating in 1870. In the spring of 1874 he entered Iowa State College at Ames, graduating in the same class in 1877 with J. B. Hungerford, a longtime Carroll resident, who now lives in California.

Mr. Colclo was then elected

Claus Dammann Rites Will Be Held Wednesday

Aged Manning Resident Died at His Home There Sunday

Manning (HNS)—Funeral rites for Claus Dammann, who died at his home here Sunday, will be conducted at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Ohde Funeral Home, with the Rev. Alexander Wimberly, minister of the Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial will be in the Manning cemetery with six grandsons serving as pallbearers.

Mr. Dammann, a retired farmer, would have been eighty-nine years old in April. He was born April 29, 1852, in Besdorf, Germany. In May, 1887, he was married to Margaretha Dammann at the place of his birth. They emigrated to the United States in 1885, living in Crawford County for three years before moving to Carroll County in 1888.

Mr. Dammann leaves his wife and six children: Mrs. Anna Langbehn, Woolsey, S. D.; Henry, George, William, Herman and John Dammann, Manning. Three children preceded him in death, Mrs. Emma Herschmann and Harry Dammann, both of Manning, and another child who died in infancy.

He was the last of a family of five children.

Mr. Dammann was a member of the Carroll Daily Herald and Times Three-Quarter Century Club.
