Fiscal Note Version – New

Description

House File 2483 instructs the Iowa Supreme Court to create three specialty probate courts in the State, each with a qualified full-time associate probate judge. One probate court is to be in the county with the largest population, one is to be in an eastern county, and one is to be in a western county. Each probate court has jurisdiction granted to the district court under the probate code and the trust code.

Background

Iowa Code chapter 633 allows a full-time associate probate judge to be appointed, but only one county is currently utilizing this option.

Under Iowa Code section 633.10, the jurisdiction of the district court under the probate code includes: estates of decedents and absentees, the construction of wills, conservatorships and guardianships, trusts and trustees, and actions for accounting against a beneficiary of a transfer on death security registration.

According to Iowa Code section 633A.6101, under the trust code, a district court sitting in probate has exclusive jurisdiction of proceedings concerning the internal affairs of a trust and of actions and proceedings to determine the existence of a trust, actions and proceedings by or against creditors or debtors of a trust, and other actions and proceedings involving a trust and third persons.

Assumptions

- The Supreme Court will establish two more probate courts in the State.
- The Judicial Branch reports that it will require the following full-time equivalent (FTE) positions to support two additional probate courts:
  - 2.0 FTE positions for associate probate judges, at the cost of $191,000 per FTE position.
  - 1.0 FTE position for a judicial specialist, at the cost of $49,000 per FTE position.
  - 1.8 FTE positions for court reporters, at the cost of $72,000 per FTE position.
  - 2.0 FTE positions for law clerks, at the cost of $63,000 per FTE position.
- It will take approximately three months to hire new positions and set up the new probate courts, so costs related to the FTE positions are calculated at 75.0% for the first year.

Fiscal Impact

House File 2483 is estimated to have a cost of $516,000 to the Judicial Branch in FY 2023 and a cost of $687,000 each fiscal year after, as shown in Table 1 below. The Judicial Branch is funded from the State General Fund.

Table 1 — Estimated Cost to Judicial Branch

New Positions	FY 2023	FY 2024 and After
Associate Probate Judges	$287,000	$382,000
Judicial Specialist	$37,000	$49,000
Court Reporters	$97,000	$130,000
Law Clerks	$95,000	$126,000
Total Cost	$516,000	$687,000

HF 2519 – Iowa Energy Center Authorization Extension and Technical Changes (LSB5319HZ)

Fiscal Note Version – New

Description

House File 2519 relates to matters under the purview of the Iowa Economic Development Authority (IEDA). The Bill:

- Extends the authorization of the Iowa Energy Center (IEC) and the IEC Board through the end of FY 2027 and requires the IEC to support research and development of strategies for carbon management.
- Alters the criteria of the High Quality Jobs Program (HQJP) for brownfield and grayfield projects and in counties that qualify as an economically distressed area.
- Allows a second extension for a project's completion deadline under the Workforce Housing Tax Credit program if an extension is warranted due to extenuating circumstances outside the control of the housing business.
- Updates the definitions of "small city" and "urban area" and creates new caps for the average dwelling unit cost on housing projects.
- Is effective upon enactment.

Background

Iowa Code section 15.120 establishes the IEC and establishes a governing board appointed by the Governor to oversee, approve, and provide direction concerning the programs established by the IEC, including the Iowa Energy Center Grant Program and the Energy Infrastructure Revolving Loan Program. Current law repeals the IEC on July 1, 2022.

Iowa Code section 476.10A funds the IEC through an Iowa Utilities Board remittance to the Treasurer of State of 0.1% of the total gross operating revenues of all gas and electric utilities' public utility operations in the State during the previous calendar year. Since FY 2019, 85.0% of this total has been appropriated to the IEC, while the remaining 15.0% has been appropriated to the Center for Global and Regional Environmental Research established by the Board of Regents (BOR). Current law repeals these funding sources on July 1, 2022. Since FY 2019, the following appropriations to the IEC have been made:

- FY 2019: $4.5 million
- FY 2020: $3.5 million
- FY 2021: $6.4 million

Iowa Code section 15.119 specifies tax credit caps for overall IEDA activities. As of FY 2022, the aggregate tax credit cap for specified IEDA programs is $170.0 million. The tax credit cap for the HQJP is $70.0 million beginning in FY 2022. The HQJP was created in 1994 Iowa Acts, chapter 1008, and provides qualifying businesses cash and/or tax credit assistance to offset some of the costs incurred to locate, expand, or modernize a facility located in the State. Wage thresholds apply at 120.0% of the qualifying threshold for retained jobs upon project completion and through a maintenance period. The qualifying wage threshold is determined by the county where the job is created and/or maintained. Currently, the IEDA may provide awards for jobs that pay less than 120.0% of the qualifying wage threshold if the job is located in a brownfield or grayfield area, as defined in Iowa Code section 15.291, or in an economically distressed area, which is determined solely through unemployment rates in the county per Iowa Code section 15.335C.

Iowa Code section 15.354 authorizes the Workforce Housing Tax Credit program, which provides tax benefits to developers to provide housing in Iowa communities, focusing especially on abandoned, dilapidated, or empty properties. Iowa Code section 15.119 specifies a total Workforce Housing Tax Credit allocation of not more than $40.0 million in FY 2022 and an allocation of not more than $35.0 million beginning in FY 2023.

Assumption

Administrative expenditures of the IEC total $250,000 annually, per IEDA data. Under current law, the expenditures would cease if the IEC authorization were not extended beyond FY 2022. The revenue for these expenditures comes from remittances to the Treasurer of State of operating revenues from gas and electric utilities' public utility operations in the State and would be expected to come from other internal IEDA sources of revenue or appropriations if the remittances cease after FY 2022, as currently scheduled.

Fiscal Impact

- The Bill would require continued annual administrative expenditures by the IEC totaling $250,000 beginning in FY 2023 and continuing through FY 2027.
- The Bill's change to the definition of "economically distressed area," the Workforce Housing Tax Credit program extension, and the definition changes and cap changes to the HQJP are expected to have no or minimal fiscal impact.
