IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the official seal of the Secretary of State at the Statehouse in Des Moines this third day of January, 2005.

CHESTER J. CULVER
Secretary of State

I hereby acknowledge receipt of the original copy of this document on this seventh day of January, 2005.

Secretary of the Senate

On motion of Senator Shull, the report was adopted by a voice vote, and the duly elected senators appeared before the rostrum of the Senate, were duly sworn, and subscribed their names to the oath of office.

President Kibbie took the chair at 10:20 a.m.

President Lamberti took the chair at 10:25 a.m.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENTS

Senator Gronstal placed in nomination the names of Senators John P. Kibbie of Palo Alto County and Jeff Lamberti of Polk County as candidates for the offices of Co-president of the Senate for the Eighty-first General Assembly.

There being no further nominations, the Chair put the question to the Senate, and Senators John P. Kibbie of Palo Alto County and Jeff Lamberti of Polk County were unanimously elected by a voice vote, pursuant to the terms of Senate Resolution 1.

Senators Kibbie and Lamberti were administered the oath of office by Chief Justice Louis A. Lavorato of the Iowa Supreme Court.

President Kibbie took the chair at 10:34 a.m.

REMARKS BY REPUBLICAN PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE

President Lamberti addressed the Senate with the following remarks:

Thank you. I am again humbled by the opportunity to serve you as the Republican President for the Eighty-first General Assembly.

This is truly an historic moment for the Iowa Legislature.

More important, it is a unique opportunity—an opportunity to demonstrate to the people of Iowa that we can rise above partisan differences, and move this state forward.

When we enter this chamber, we bring with us our many differences—party affiliation, gender, age, religious background—but there is one common thread that binds us together—trust. The citizens of this great state placed their trust in us by exercising their most precious right—they voted for us.

You may not always agree with the person to your left or right, but you must respect them because Iowans gave them the same trust that was given to you.

Iowans expect us to do the right thing. I realize that is simplistic—but at the same time, it is true. After the political rhetoric fades, people want us to make the best decisions for this state—period.

The people of Iowa trust us to lead this state to a brighter future.

Iowans trust us to:

- Provide our children with the best education possible;
- Create an environment where individuals and businesses can prosper;
- Assist those less fortunate in times of need; and
- Make Iowa a better place than it was when we began.

Quite simply, the people of Iowa have entrusted us with the heavy responsibility of improving their quality of life.

As we begin our work, let me paraphrase Mark Twain: Trust, like glass, is a little thing until it is absent, then it becomes a big thing.

We have a rare opportunity—to seize this opportunity, we must trust each other.

Neither side has the ability to accomplish anything without the help of the other. We have an historic opportunity to shed our partisan clothes and begin anew with the goal of making Iowa a better place.

I am not under some grand illusion that the glass will remain clean and unspotted throughout the session, but it must not break.

With the trust of the people of Iowa, and the trust in one another, we can seize this opportunity—and make history.

Thank you.

President Lamberti took the chair at 10:43 a.m.

REMARKS BY DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE

President Kibbie addressed the Senate with the following remarks:

Welcome to the Eighty-first General Assembly, 2005 Session. I want to thank my Democratic colleagues for electing me to share the President's duties with Senator Lamberti. My office is in the area where the Secretary of the Senate was, and I want all members and staff of the Senate to know you are welcome at any time.

This session can be very productive as we make history with this co-equal sharing of responsibility. Our committee process will have the opportunity to move progressive legislation forward as we are now all members of the majority. It is my hope that each committee will have priority bills, and that our Floor Leaders will allow those bills to be debated.

We all campaigned on three main issues: jobs, education, and health care. My hope is that we can successfully make history by developing a common agenda and address these critical issues for our state in a truly bipartisan fashion.

We must formulate a jobs bill that will provide a framework for a successful long-range regional economic development plan that has a reliable funding source.

We need to build on the excellence of our education system at all levels. That includes ensuring that all young people enter school ready to learn by virtue of a comprehensive early childhood program; increasing student achievement so that our young people are prepared for post high school education or the world of work; and setting a goal that we keep higher education affordable by controlling huge tuition increases so that year-to-year increases are no more than the rate of inflation.

As an additional thought, I would point out that our community college system is an integral part of Iowa's educational establishment, and we continue to see record increases in enrollment. Because of the critical nature of their mission and the demands placed on them, we need to ensure that they are not priced out of the education market because their tuitions are the highest in the nation.

In the health care area, our responding positively to the short fall in Medicaid will mean that our seniors, the disabled, and low-income families will not have to worry about the loss of access. Almost 300,000 of the most vulnerable Iowans count on us to ensure that their health care safety net remains intact, and shame on us, if we fail them.

Mental health parity also needs to stay on our "must do" list. I firmly believe that if we are allowed to debate and vote on this issue it will have broad bipartisan support. Public opinion polls clearly indicate that our constituents are ahead of us on this issue as 83 percent favor institution of this initiative. We have too long neglected this common sense reform and now is the time to act.

While those are the major issues, we have other priorities that need to be addressed.

The protection of our natural resources is vitally important. Our lakes and state parks have not had the attention needed from grass not being mowed to shelter houses in need of repair. We need to reduce the number of impaired lakes so that they will be safer, thereby improving the potential for tourism dollars.

A long-range energy policy needs to be passed in our state. Renewable energy must be a priority. Enhanced ethanol use would include E-85 outlets as well as expanded use of biodiesel. Wind energy as an alternative source should give small producers the same incentives as the major utilities receive.

Profitable and competitive agriculture is still the backbone of Iowa's economy. Small and independent farmers look to us to ensure they have a level playing field in order to compete. We are all in this economic system together and to succeed we need a balanced economy that recognizes the needs of rural Iowa's farmers and their communities.

In comparing Iowa's tax laws to other states, we are ranked about in the middle for fairness. It is my belief that our property tax laws should be reformed so that independent businesses with commercial property do not carry an unreasonable burden. This General Assembly should make it clear why Iowa's growth is dead last in comparison to all the other states and chart a course that will improve that standing.

There are many other issues that should be addressed such as campaign reform, making it easier for Iowans to vote, and increasing the contribution rates for our public retirement systems to make them actuarially sound. I hope that the committees of appropriate jurisdiction see fit to explore these issues as well.

Last but not least, we are all too painfully aware that the war in Iraq continues to hit close to home. One of our own, Senator Larson, is completing his service, and we expect to welcome him back to the chamber in the next few weeks. We are also saddened by the death last week of the 19th Iowan to die in Iraq or Afghanistan, Sgt. Thomas Houser from Council Bluffs. As a tribute to their service and memory, we must review all those issues that affect our current and future veterans and their families.

The voters have presented us with a unique opportunity. All 50 of us now have an equal say in the future of our state. In many respects, it is a heavier burden for us all. We need to chart a course that is fiscally sound and provides value for the dollars the taxpayers provide. Each of us has our own priorities, but together this General Assembly can and will provide our fellow citizens with an Iowa that is a better place to live, work, and grow.

Clearly, we can't do everything that we might want to do, but working together we can accomplish much and regain the confidence and trust of our constituents who sent us here with high expectations of finding common ground.

Thank you very much.

REMARKS BY THE REPUBLICAN FLOOR LEADER

Senator Iverson addressed the Senate as follows:

I want to take this opportunity to welcome everyone back for the 2005 Regular Session of our great state's Eighty-first General Assembly.

My friends, this is truly an historic time to serve in the Iowa Senate. Not since 1933 has our sacred chamber been divided equally, and if history gives any indication of the future, it will be another 73 years before this happens again. Some pundits take this unique situation to mean that Iowans should expect little this legislative session, that tempers will flare, true colors will show, and partisanship will rear its ugly head.

My colleagues, I take a different outlook.

Just last September, we gathered in this chamber, and at the height of our own campaigns and one of the most heated presidential campaigns in history, we worked in a bipartisan way to get Iowa's economic development engine moving again. We appropriated $100 million for this effort, which some thought excessive, and we also passed a significant change to our workers' compensation law. A change that cost the taxpayers nothing and reduced workers' compensation insurance costs saving Iowa employers $13 million a year. That's $13 million more dollars employers have to expand their businesses, hire more employees, and continue operation in Iowa.

Unfortunately, given the competitive environment with surrounding states, our action last fall is not enough to keep us growing. More work is needed. One of the most endangered species living in Iowa is no longer the bald eagle, but rather it's the small business owner. Our friends that run the main street stores can no longer be neglected. We cannot continue to raise property taxes, increase mandates, expand the size and scope of government, and still expect our small businesses to create two-thirds of all new jobs. More must be done to cut the regulation on our small businesses.

I will work this session to ensure that education remains a priority in this chamber. I want to focus on the classroom by stressing the importance of the basics: reading, writing, and arithmetic. Teachers should be prepared when they enter the classroom. Iowa is one of only six states that does not test teachers before they enter a classroom. This policy may have served us well when almost every new teacher was a graduate of an Iowa college or university. However, with more new teachers coming in from out of state, I believe testing those who teach our children makes sense.

At the beginning of the last legislative session, I spoke about the health insurance crisis affecting all Iowans. We worked last session to help reduce insurance costs for doctors which would lower costs for all Iowans, only to have the bill vetoed. So this morning in Iowa, many employers are left with the difficult situation of being unable to provide both a good job and health insurance benefits. This is simply not acceptable, and I will work to lower health insurance costs.

My friends, it has been 390 days since our colleague Chuck Larson left Iowa to help rebuild a devastated country. And for those 390 days, I have prayed for his safe return as well as for every other Iowan serving their country in uniform. I know I speak for everyone when I say we hope to see our friend returned to us soon, and safe. Senator Larson's vacant desk will once again serve as a reminder of the sacrifices Iowans have made to further the cause of democracy in the world.

Finally, I stand here today in a different role than I have played for the previous eight years. The Iowa Senate will be noted for bipartisanship and consensus building this year. I look forward to this historical opportunity to move our state forward.

Thank you, Mr. President.

COMMITTEE FROM THE HOUSE

A committee from the House appeared and notified the Senate that the House was duly organized and ready to receive any communication the Senate might be ready to transmit.

REMARKS BY THE DEMOCRATIC FLOOR LEADER

Senator Gronstal addressed the Senate as follows:

Welcome to the historic opening of the Eighty-first General Assembly in the Iowa Senate. I think it is safe to say that none of us expected to be in this position when we adjourned last spring. I think it is also safe to say that none of us is completely sure of what to expect this year.

What I know for sure is that the voters have given the Iowa Senate an incredible opportunity to lead the nation by conducting our work in the open and working together with members of the other party, by showing how to put the common concerns of Iowans ahead of the differences that divide us, and by showing how elected leaders can put good policy before partisan politics.

Too often it's been as if we are both standing on different mountains looking at each other and sensing the huge distance between us, instead of looking below at the fertile valley of common ground.

Actually, this shouldn't be that difficult for us. Despite the tough election campaigns we've just been through, there is not a single senator in this chamber who ran for office because they wanted to beat up on the other party.

On the contrary, each of us ran for office because we want to accomplish good things for our communities and our neighbors.

We want to protect and promote Iowa's exceptional quality of life, our excellent schools and universities, our caring communities, our camping facilities and other recreational opportunities, and our open spaces.

We want to see our young people succeed, and we want those young people to find a future here in our state, close to their families, where they can create the Iowa of the future.

And that is what both parties told the voters they would do. Both parties campaigned on the same priorities: jobs, education, and health care.

We will have to remember those priorities because we are challenged by another tough budget year. Everyone knew last April that the budget we passed was going to come up short.

We are now somewhere between $250 and $500 million dollars in the red, and most of the funds that have been raided to balance the budget in past years are pretty much empty. So while the latest estimates show we have a little more money coming in, we are still in a tough situation.

More important, there are troubling signs of increasing difficulties faced by Iowa families. Iowa leads the nation in the percentage of families with children where both parents work. Too often both parents are working full time because it's necessary just to get by. And even many of those two-income families struggle because too many Iowa jobs fail to pay a living wage.

That is the main reason I would like to get right to work on recreating the Iowa Values Fund. Improving Iowa's economy should be the first accomplishment of this session. Democratic senators are particularly interested in restoring some of the original emphasis on rural economic development.

I believe there is also bipartisan agreement that we need to restore our commitment to reducing class sizes, increasing teacher quality, and starting on the task of making sure Iowa's children have access to early education and their parents become their first and best teachers.

And there is also a growing consensus that there should be a state role in keeping the cost of health care under control, especially for small business owners, their employees, and farmers.

In summary, we are looking forward with excitement and optimism to working hard in a new Iowa Senate, a less partisan Iowa Senate, and an Iowa Senate that puts jobs, education, and health care first.

Thank you, Mr. President.

Senator Iverson moved that the roll call be dispensed with and that the President of the joint convention be authorized to declare a quorum present, which motion prevailed by a voice vote.

President Kibbie declared a quorum present and the joint convention duly organized.

Senator Iverson moved that a committee of seven, four members from the Senate and three members from the House, be appointed to notify Governor Thomas J. Vilsack that the joint convention was ready to receive him.

The motion prevailed by a voice vote and the Chair announced the appointment of Senators Beall, Putney, Ragan, and Ward on the part of the Senate, and Representatives Elgin, Raecker, and Reichart on the part of the House.

Secretary of State Chet Culver, Secretary of Agriculture Patty Judge, Auditor of State David A. Vaudt, and Attorney General Tom Miller were escorted into the House chamber.

Chief Justice Louis A. Lavorato and the Justices of the Supreme Court, and Chief Judge Rosemary Shaw Sackett and the Judges of the Court of Appeals were escorted into the House chamber.

Lieutenant Governor Sally J. Pederson was escorted into the House chamber.

First Lady Christie Vilsack, wife of the Governor, and their sons, Jess and Doug, were escorted into the House chamber.

The committee waited upon Governor Thomas J. Vilsack and escorted him to the Speaker's station.

President Kibbie presented Governor Thomas J. Vilsack, who delivered the following Condition of the State Address:

Thank you very much. Thank you. Mr. President, thank you very much. Mr. Speaker, thank you. To the members of the General Assembly, thank you for your kind invitation to visit with you today about the condition of our great state. Before I do, I want to take this opportunity to acknowledge Chief Justice Lavarato and members of our Iowa Supreme Court and our Iowa Court of Appeals, as well as our other statewide elected officials—our Attorney General, our Auditor, our Secretary of Agriculture, and our Secretary of State. I need to extend a special acknowledgment to Sally Pederson for her outstanding work as our Lieutenant Governor, and to my First Lady and Iowa's First Lady, Christie Vilsack, for her voluntary efforts on behalf of literacy and libraries. Each of you and all of you are making a difference, and I want to take this opportunity to personally thank you for making each life in Iowa better.

Each year, I address the General Assembly and the people of Iowa on the condition of our state. In a word, I am pleased to report that the condition of our state is improving. More Iowans are working now than a year ago, and after several years of decline, state revenues are rebounding. We will unveil a budget process in the next week or so that focuses on priorities and on results. While difficult choices and challenges face us, progress is being achieved.

Six years ago when I spoke to the General Assembly, we worried about declining math and reading scores among our earliest learners. Fulfilling our responsibility to our children, we focused resources on class size reduction efforts and reversed an eight-year decline in test scores. Today, our youngsters benefit from four straight years of improved test scores—scores that rank among the nation's best.

Six years ago, we agonized over whether or not we would have access to health care for some of our most vulnerable Iowans—our children, our veterans, and our seniors. Working together, we expanded the Healthy and Well Kids in Iowa program, our hawk-i. We educated veterans and their families about benefits, and we created the senior living trust to extend health care options for seniors. In doing so, we expanded health security to thousands of Iowans. Today in our state, 15,000 more children have access to the health care they need when they need it through expanded hawk-i. Thirty-eight thousand more veterans are receiving the health care benefits they have earned with their service, and over 28,700 more seniors, as a result of the senior living trust, are living in their own homes with greater dignity and independence rather than going to a nursing facility before it is their time. And we accomplished all of that by working together.

Six years ago, we wondered whether or not we would have the people and the power and the resources to transform an economy. We embraced Vision Iowa and the Community Attraction and Tourism program, we reformed our regulatory structure for electric utilities, and we funded the first two years of the Grow Iowa Values Fund. In doing so, we changed the economic landscape of our state. One hundred seventy projects that have received Vision Iowa and Community Attraction and Tourism grants allowed us to expand and grow the number of cultural and recreational opportunities. At the same time, we grew the number of college-educated workers in our work force by over 50,000 in the last three years alone.

The six new power facilities that have been constructed or are under construction are the first new such power facilities in the last 20 years. When the power from those facilities is added to our efforts to expand wind and renewable energy, Iowans will no longer have to look beyond our borders for power. We will have true energy independence.

With the investments made in the Iowa Values Fund, we have supported thousands of good-paying jobs in the life sciences, information solutions, and advanced manufacturing. We have allowed our state to gain a national reputation as a leader in biotechnology and insurance, and we have also enabled our state to be among the nation's leaders in per capita income growth—all of this by working together.

Now, as much as we have achieved, there is still more work to be done. My friends, history calls us to this time and to this place. A solemn choice rests with us—where do we go from here? Do we move slowly and incrementally? Or do we seize the challenge of our time and tackle the great issues of our day.

Some will look at this Legislature nearly equally divided and split and suggest and predict that not much will be accomplished. Those who do so, do not know as I know, do not have the faith that I have in the leaders of this General Assembly and in the members of this General Assembly. I know that you care deeply about this state. I know that you believe that it can and it should be the best place to live, work, and raise a family. In that spirit, let us seize this historic moment, let us put aside party politics, let us put aside partisanship and ideology. Let us commit to governing as one—no Republican agenda, no Democratic agenda—just simply one common, shared Iowa agenda.

Let us tackle those great issues with bold ideas—ideas that transform; ideas that are rooted and reflective of our shared values of responsibility, opportunity, and security; ideas that fundamentally change Iowa; ideas that allow us to accomplish our shared mission to grow Iowa; and ideas that realize the shared vision of Iowa as the best place to live, work, and raise a family.

This is a critical moment, and we must start this effort to transform our state with education. For every child in this state needs and must have a world-class educational opportunity in order to prepare them for the global competition. While our schools are good, they must be the best, if our youngsters are to succeed in that competition and succeed in life. Let us commit from this day forward that good will no longer be good enough.

Thirty-eight dedicated Iowans from all walks of life, inside and outside of education, have met for over a year to determine what we needed to do to provide that world-class and seamless educational learning opportunity for our children. The recommendations of that group, the Iowa Learns Council, form the basis for transforming education in our state. I want to take this opportunity to acknowledge members of the Iowa Learns Council who could join us today. I have asked them to stand, and I would ask you to join me in thanking them for their service.

The council recommended that we begin with our youngest children. Brain research has established and proved that 85 percent of the core structure of the brain of a child forms in the first six years of life. To fulfill our collective responsibility to our children, we must have a comprehensive commitment to these young learners. We must have a commitment that coordinates and integrates early child care and education.

The council recommended three significant steps. First, we should begin by helping parents, by providing assistance to parents, so that they can be their child's first and best teacher. Several years ago, this General Assembly had the foresight to create and to fund community empowerment areas. The concept was to integrate and coordinate our early child efforts. We should invest more in empowerment. In doing so, we can expand home visitation and parent education programs. And we can increase the tools and knowledge available to parents so that they can create even more stimulating environments for their children at home.

The second step requires us to recognize that many, in fact most, of the parents of these young children work. And as a result, they rely on child care during a part of their day. Many Iowa families struggle every day, every week, every month, every year, in finding and paying for quality childcare. We need to help. We need to expand financial assistance so parents can afford quality childcare, and we need to begin to create a rating system that will allow us to identify and define what quality childcare is. The fact is if we know what quality is, if parents know where they can find it in their community and they can afford it, they will make the right choice for their child or for their children.

The third step in this process involves preschool—access to preschool. It is a core essential to any comprehensive commitment to our youngsters. It forms the basis, the foundation, for a great start to learning once school begins. Most Iowans would be surprised to learn that less than 20 percent of our children have access to accredited quality preschool. Let this be the General Assembly that makes the decision to begin now to increase every year the number of children having access to accredited preschool. Let this be the General Assembly that challenges schools, Head Start, faith-based efforts, and private providers to expand access to preschool so that we reach the day that every child in our state, every child in our state, has access to quality preschool. Let it begin now.

Now some will say that in order for us to reach a world-class learning experience in education, all we need to do is simply invest more in the current K–12 system. Clearly we do need to do a better job of supporting general school aid, and we must make sure our teaching salaries are competitive. The fact is that our children will not succeed, will not have the level of success that they need, if we continue to languish 37th in the country in teaching salaries. So the budget that we submit will not only fully fund our allowable growth commitment, but it will more than double our commitment to the teacher compensation and student achievement program that we started together several years ago.

But if that's all we do, it will not be good enough. High schools need to be transformed in this state. Most Iowans would not be surprised to learn that Iowa graduates a higher percentage of its high school students than all but four states in our country. But I suspect that many Iowans would be surprised to learn that for every 100 students starting 9th grade in our state, only 83 graduate from high school within four years. Of that number, only 54 go on to college immediately after high school graduation. Of that number, only 37 are in college the second year, and of that number only 28—28 out the original 100 students will get their associate's degree within three years of graduation or their bachelor's degree within six years of graduation. When the Department of Labor reports that 49 out of the top 50 jobs in this country, 49 out of the top 50 highest-paying jobs in this economy now and in the future, will require post high school education, Iowans have the right to expect, and I would submit to you we have the right to demand, better.

We need to transform high school. The Iowa Learns Council recommended a more rigorous and more relevant high school experience. They suggested that we needed to strengthen curriculum, we needed to toughen graduation requirements, and we needed to tighten relationships between our high schools, our colleges, our universities, and our community colleges so that youngsters can gain college credit before they even graduate from high school.

Those recommendations should be followed. For in our high schools today, a young person can graduate from most of our high schools with but two years of math and two years of science. In a global economy, in a competitive world, we must challenge our children academically. So I have asked Judy Jeffrey, the director of the Department of Education, and members of our State Board of Education to travel throughout the state the next four months to meet with local school officials to urge them to adopt the Iowa Learns Council's recommendations: to strengthen that curriculum, to tighten and toughen those requirements, and to create those relationships that will expand learning opportunities.

Our children deserve this. They need it. And it's up to us. It's up to us, because the reality is that many of these schools will find it difficult. Forty percent of our high schools today have fewer than 200 students. They have fewer experienced teachers. They have increased work loads. They have fewer class offerings. They have declining enrollments and declining revenues. They will find it very difficult, if not impossible, to meet these recommendations. They need our help. They also need to be willing to help themselves. Whole-grade sharing, the sharing of administrative staff and superintendents, consolidation of high schools, if at the local level the decision is made to consolidate school districts—all of those are strategies to expand learning opportunities for our children. And we should encourage those strategies. We should provide financial incentives to encourage school districts to look at those strategies. The budget that we submit will not only provide the resources for allowable growth and teacher compensation, but it will also fund supplemental weighting to encourage these steps be taken now.

The time to make this commitment is now. Our children deserve it, and I would strongly suggest to you that our values command it.

Now, while transformation begins with education, it does not end there. If we are to grow Iowa, if we are to become the great place to live, work, and raise a family, we must have expanded economic opportunity through economic development. It remains a key. Several years ago, we began the process of transforming the economy focused on three industry clusters that play to the strengths of Iowa: the life sciences, advanced manufacturing, and information solutions with a focus on insurance and financial services.

We invested in the life sciences, in companies that added value to the crops that we grow changing them from surplus commodities to value-added ingredients. For example, we nearly tripled the number of ethanol production facilities in our state, doubling our ethanol capacity. Today, I'm proud to stand before you as the Governor of the number one state in ethanol production. We supported biodiesel as a more effective fuel. We invested in bio-based opportunities arising from our state universities—all of which allowed us to enhance our reputation as a leader in biotechnology.

We invested in advanced manufacturing jobs—the jobs that require higher skills, command higher pay.

We welcomed small, high-tech firms to Iowa while at the same time we celebrated the announcement of the largest economic development project in our state's history with the expansion of Wells Fargo. We were able to do all of that by working together by creating and promoting the Iowa Values Fund.

We know the Iowa Values Fund works. Our job now is to ensure that it works for years to come. Low interest rates, a very high credit rating, and additional gaming revenues create a real opportunity to make a substantial and significant and sustained commitment to economic development and to a brighter and better future for our state.

I propose that we create, and put forward, a five-year, $800 million dollar commitment to build that better future—a future that encourages entrepreneurship in small business development. A future that rewards us with 50,000 better-paying jobs that support families and communities. A future that allows us to maintain our critical infrastructure. A future that allows us to expand access to cultural and recreational opportunities so we can continue to make the case to our bright, young people that Iowa is the best place to live, work, and raise a family. And a future that invests in our natural resources so that we have clean water and improved water resources. We must begin building that future now.

Once we identify the resources to grow Iowa, we also have to make sure that our regulatory structures keep pace with the times. The one constant in this global economy that we find ourselves in is change. Changing environments—no better example of that than in the telecommunications area. Wireless, voice over IP, and all of the changing technologies suggest to us that we need a new regulatory structure and design. One that moves away from a system that regulates price, to one that allows the market to regulate price while we regulate and guarantee service, access, and quality. I propose that we begin this effort. We begin this transition by directing our utility board to deregulate business lines for telecommunications. Iowa can lead in this changing environment. And if we act now, we will.

Local government officials, community leaders, and government generally must be part of this effort to transform. We need to stimulate more creative thought, more innovative thought, at the local level, and we need to build great places to live, to work, and to raise a family. We can begin that process to build those great places and stimulate that thought, and in fact we have begun that today with a directive entitled Great Places, a directive that I've ordered and signed today. A directive that suggests and directs the Department of Economic Development, Workforce Development, Natural Resources, Human Rights, Cultural Affairs, and the Iowa Finance Authority to streamline their application processes to package a portion of the resources under their control and target and direct resources to reward the most innovative, most creative communities that aspire to be "great places." We can begin building those great places, and we will start today.

Last month I talked to you about a program to make Iowa more competitive, one that focused on our income tax structure. Today, I want to visit with you about our property tax structure. Everybody in this building knows that property taxes are too high. Everybody in this building knows that the current property tax system unfairly penalizes commercial and industrial interests that make it more difficult for us to develop and expand our economy. Everyone knows that the current structure does not reward efficiency.

I have in my hand a book entitled "Survey of Administration in Iowa" from the Brookings Institute. It was published in 1933. And it contained many of the same observations. What was true in 1933 apparently, is still true today in 2005. This system needs to be transformed. I suggest we take it in two steps.

The first step. Let's deal with the current inequities in our system by adjusting the rollback and creating a workable and reasonable limitation on future property tax increases. But let us not stop with that temporary fix. Let us go to the next step. Let us complete the work that began in 1933. Let us put in motion a process that allows us to restructure government. A government at every level and at all levels that is more autonomous, but also more efficient. A government that provides better service at less cost. We have waited far too long. The time to act is now, and you are the folks that can get the job done.

Governments have no greater responsibility than to secure the safety and security of their citizens. There are many different functions and responsibilities that government has that intersect at that solemn duty. Not the least of which is homeland security. I want to take this opportunity to remind all of us that still today, we have men and women, husband and wives, and sons and daughters in harm's way. And some, who over the last 12 months, paid the ultimate sacrifice and the ultimate price for us. We are proud. We are extraordinarily proud of the men and women who serve us in uniform, here and abroad, in a variety of functions and with varying responsibilities—from the Armed Forces to police officers, sheriffs, firefighters, and others. We are proud of them. And we want to thank them for their effort, and we want to daily pray for their safety.

Joining us today is U.S. Army Specialist Chad Running. Chad is the son of Rich Running, director of Iowa Workforce Development. He's the third generation of that family to have served in combat. He is currently on leave from the "Green Zone" in Baghdad as a medical lab technician. He has been in the Army for four years. Chad, we are happy to have you home, and thank you for your service.

Another place where our responsibility to provide security and safety intersects is the war on drugs. This is a war we must win. And this is a war that we will win if we control the production of methamphetamine in this state. I strongly support, I strongly support, efforts to restrict the sale of pseudophedrine and other precursors that are vital to the manufacturing of methamphetamine. Over the Christmas holiday, I met with parents of children who made the wrong choice for themselves, for their family, and for their community. Some of you, I suspect, have also met with parents. You see the anguish on their faces. You see and hear the urgency in their message. They know that it is too late for their son or their daughter, the choice has been made. But they care deeply about the next son and daughter, and I know you do as well. It may be a minor inconvenience for some, but it is great protection for all. Please support this effort. Please work with me to drive the makers of this poison that robs our children of their childhood and of their future, out of this state, out of this country, and out of business.

Now our job, our duty, our responsibility to ensure the safety and security of our citizens cannot be complete unless we guarantee health care security for our citizens. For several years, the Lieutenant Governor and I have urged the General Assembly to expand health care security to tens of thousands of Iowans who suffer from mental illness or substance abuse. Our health care system will never be transformed until such time as mental health parity and substance abuse parity become part of our health care system. We have waited a long time. It is time to make parity the law of this state, and the time to act is now.

But we cannot stop with that. We must recognize that affordability and accessibility also threaten access to health care security for many Iowans. An underfunded Medicaid budget prevents us from providing vital services to vulnerable Iowans: children, people with disabilities, and seniors on fixed incomes. Unreasonably high and unpredictably high increases in medical malpractice insurance make it difficult to provide access to doctors in critical areas in high-risk specialties. The lack of emphasis on efficiency and electronic medical recordkeeping makes it more difficult for us to avoid medical errors that cost us in lives and in money.

Small businesses continue to struggle with ever-increasing health care insurance costs while they try to remain competitive and do right by their employees. And our seniors need a universal assessment of their condition so they can get the right care at the right time.

Now, we need innovative and creative solutions to all of these, and we need the resources to implement them. In Iowa today, and across this great country, smoking costs us—it costs us in lives, it costs us in money and in medical expense, and it costs us in lost productivity. According to the campaign for tobacco-free kids, in Iowa last year we spent $235 million dollars as a state for healthcare costs related to tobacco use. While we received $88 million dollars from revenues generated by tobacco products. That fundamental inequity must be corrected.

Fairness dictates a better balance between what we pay out and what we receive. I support an increase in the cigarette tax and in the tobacco tax. And I support it in the understanding that it will be used to provide health care security. It will be used to provide resources to adequately fund Medicaid to provide those vital services. It be used in an innovative and creative way to establish a critical care compensation fund to reduce the risk of high malpractice costs for doctors in specialty areas. It be used to incent clinics and hospitals to embrace efficiencies and embrace electronic recordkeeping. It be used to help us promote small business group insurance reform so that costs can come down to small businesses, and they can remain competitive. And it will be used to fund and create a universal assessment tool for our seniors. In point of fact, we must do this. It is time for us to do it. It's the right thing to do. Health care security is important, and the time to act on it is right now this year.

Thirty years ago, I made the decision with Christie to move to Iowa, to live in Iowa, and to hopefully raise a family in Iowa. It was a conscious decision based on what I knew about our great state. I knew it was a state that honestly, truly, believed in potential. I knew that at its roots, with its agricultural heritage, it believed every year in the renewal of potential. Every time a crop is planted it is about potential. I knew it was a state that supported community. And that community surrounded and helped to raise children. I knew it was a special place, but I didn't know how special.

I didn't know how special until I had two sons, and I saw what happened as they grew up. I saw people care about them—coaches, Sunday School teachers, priests, nuns, next door neighbors cared about my children. I saw a community invest in the potential of my children. I saw a school district invest in the potential of my children. I can never repay the state—never, as long as I live, no matter how hard I work—for what they have done for me. They have allowed me to reach my life's dream—which is to raise a family where my children experience childhood. When you grow up as I did in a situation with abuse and alcoholism, it's tough to experience childhood. But this is a state that celebrates childhood. This is a state that embraces childhood. This is a state that provides resources and help. This is a state that is committed to children and to the potential of the future.

The agenda we have laid out is not just about programs. I can make the case that it's good policy. I can make the case that there's a return on investment. There are early childhood studies, such as studies from Ypsilanti, Michigan, and the federal reserve bank of Minneapolis, all reporting high returns on investment and extraordinary results when you invest in early childhood. I can tell you all of that. The real reason we need to do this is because our values dictate we do this. When we invest in our children, when we invest in expanded economic opportunity, when we encourage innovation and creativity, when we guarantee health care security, we are in essence reaffirming our belief in potential. Reaffirming our belief in a future—a brighter, a better future. Reaffirming the concept of what it is to be an Iowan and an American—the belief that if you work hard, you play by the rules, you sacrifice, and you invest, then the next generation, the future generation, the potential of America and of Iowa can be realized.

You all have an historic opportunity. We all have an historic opportunity. And all of those who live in this state are watching us. They're not just watching us, they're depending on us. They want our children to grow strong and healthy with an opportunity for success. They want good-paying jobs. They want a government that's effective and efficient and creative and innovative. They want health care security for vulnerable Iowans and for people who need it. They want us to create a better Iowa, and by working together, setting aside our differences, and figuring out strategies for dealing with our differences, we can create that Iowa. And in doing so, we will live up to our values, because if you believe, as I do, in an Iowa where every child has a chance for success; if you believe as I do, in an Iowa that is served by an effective, innovative, creative government; if you believe, as I do, in jobs that transform an economy; if you believe, as I do, that health care security is a guarantee we make to all—if we act on those beliefs, we can create an Iowa that is consistent with our values. We can create an Iowa that provides to every citizen the opportunity for success. We can create an Iowa that is the best place to live, to work, and to raise a family. That is our challenge. That is our call. That is our duty. God bless our work here. God bless the great people of this state and of this nation. And let's get to work.

The committee waited upon Chief Justice Louis A. Lavorato and escorted him to the Speaker's station.

President Lamberti then presented Chief Justice Louis A. Lavorato, who delivered the following Condition of the Iowa Judiciary Message:

It is indeed an honor and a privilege to address this assembly each year. Thank you for the invitation. In return, I'd like to extend an invitation to you. I invite everyone to join us for refreshments and conversation downstairs in the courtroom following my remarks.

I would also like to extend a warm welcome to the new legislators. I look forward to meeting each of you and hope you'll feel free to call on us if you have questions about the administration of the courts.

Now, I would like to turn our attention to the state of the judiciary.

This annual report is our best opportunity to inform you about the condition of our state court system, its strengths, and its weaknesses. This is important because our system of government calls upon all three branches, in differing roles, to contribute to the administration of justice. Our role is to promptly but carefully decide cases according to law, equally to all. However, it is up to you—the Legislature and the Governor—to provide the tools and resources we need to carry out our enormous responsibilities.

Over the years, we have enjoyed a relationship of candor, cooperation, and mutual respect, and I address you in that spirit again today. In my previous messages, I have reported that despite financial hardships brought on by budget cuts, the Judicial Branch was managing to fulfill its responsibilities to the public. My report this year, however, is less than favorable. Although we are continuing to provide basic court services, our resources are spread painfully thin, and the cumulative effects of five years of fiscal austerity have begun to show. The quality of justice in Iowa is at risk.

History of Budget Cuts

For the benefit of those of you who are not familiar with the details of the budget cuts, I will explain how we reached this point. Let's go back to fiscal year 2001.

That year, the state's problem with the health insurance terminal liability fund resulted in a shortfall of about $2.4 million for the Judicial Branch. We balanced our budget through a variety of measures, and we carried on. Near the end of the fiscal year, state revenues dropped unexpectedly, and to cover the deficit, you transferred money from several sources, including $4 million from our earmarked technology fund.

We began fiscal year 2002 with a flat, or status quo, operating budget. But as you know, that year state revenues took a turn for the worse, and the Legislature met in special session to implement severe across-the-board cuts. Our share of that cut was $5.2 million. Balancing our operating budget that year required drastic and unprecedented action. We cut deep and wide. We laid off 117 employees, eliminated 20 vacant positions, downgraded the positions of 79 supervisory employees, and reduced the hours of 67 employees. In addition, we implemented a hiring freeze, eliminated some highly regarded programs, and imposed other stringent cost-saving measures. Good people lost their jobs; others took a large pay cut. These were difficult decisions to make. But we made them, and we carried on.

More cuts followed as the state's budget crisis lingered. In March 2002, we sustained another cut of $2.2 million, and fiscal year 2003 brought yet another cut—$2.1 million. We cut whatever we could without disrupting service, and we carried on.

Fiscal year 2004 was more or less status quo. The current fiscal year, however, is a different matter.

FY 2005 Budget Problems

In July, we implemented approximately $5 million worth of cost-cutting measures. This was necessary because of a flat appropriation and rising expenses. All of our increased expenses this fiscal year spring from higher personnel costs.

First, we must pay nearly $2.5 million for increases in health and dental insurance premiums, the deferred compensation program match, and salary increases approved in the previous year and carried over to the current year.

In addition, our collective bargaining contract with two unions costs about $1 million for salary increases to our contract employees. We tried to defer this expense. Last summer, the state court administrator asked both unions to accept a salary freeze for the current year. They rejected the request, and of course we must honor the contracts.

Once the matter of raises for contract employees was settled, we decided to approve similar raises for noncontract employees. Although this cost another $1.3 million, it was the right thing to do. If we had not treated both groups of employees the same, noncontract employees would have paid a disproportionate price in terms of the budget cuts.

In the past, personnel expenses such as those I described have been covered by salary adjustment funds appropriated in the annual state salary bill. Last session, however, you and the Governor chose not to provide salary adjustment funds to anyone, and consequently, as I mentioned earlier, we had to absorb about $5 million.

This leads me to the steps we took to balance our budget this fiscal year.

Unpaid Leave and Office Closures

To operate within the parameters of our appropriation, the court ordered a variety of cost-cutting measures. Because personnel expenses account for 96 percent of our operating budget, we had few choices but to balance the budget on the backs of our employees.

This year, the biggest cut in our budget resulted in eight days of mandatory unpaid leave for all nonjudicial employees. Because our rural offices are not sufficiently staffed to allow for staggered implementation of the unpaid leave, we chose to enforce the unpaid leave for everyone at the same time. On days of unpaid leave, all of our offices are closed. To lessen the effect of these closures on the public, the court scheduled them, as much as possible, on federal and county holidays, and on Fridays.

The court considered, but rejected, more layoffs as a way to reduce expenses. Since we cut our workforce by 11 percent in fiscal year 2002, we have operated with minimum staffing levels. Additional layoffs would cripple our ability to provide basic services, particularly in the rural areas of the state.

Holding Open Vacant Positions and Judgeships

In addition to the money saved by office closures and forced leave, we continue to hold down expenditures by holding open jobs when they become vacant. We have relied heavily on this measure since the state's budget problems first began. There have been times when we have held open as many as 70 positions, or about 5 percent of our nonjudicial workforce.

This year we had to take this policy one step further. Beginning this year, judgeships will not be filled for six months after they become vacant. This unprecedented action is a far cry from our practice of having new judges ready to take over on the date a vacancy occurs, but we have little choice. And this comes when the statutory formula for district judgeships shows we are thirty judges short.

Substantial Travel Cuts

On top of everything else, we have again cut our travel budget, nearly all of which we need just to ensure that all 99 counties see a district judge, court reporter, and juvenile court officers on a regular basis.

Pardon this digression, but I must tell you I was quite surprised to read in the newspaper last month that the amount spent on travel by state agencies has increased significantly in recent years. In stark contrast, Judicial Branch travel expenses have decreased nearly 22 percent in the past four years.

Impact on Public Service

I've heard it said by some legislators that the courts have not sacrificed enough. I say: Look at the facts. The magnitude of the cuts I have just described clearly demonstrates that we have done our part to lessen the state's budgetary woes. We have slashed our expenses to the bone and managed as best we can with the resources you have provided. Now the public is beginning to pay too high a price for the dollars we've saved. They are being short-changed.

This is the first time in Iowa's history that courts have closed for lack of funds. We all should be alarmed any time courthouse doors are closed to those seeking justice.

The closures of clerk of court offices result in delays in case processing, and other vital services such as forwarding child support payments to parents, sending copies of court orders and notices of hearings, and providing up-to-date criminal history data to law enforcement.

Ruth Godfrey, Pottawattamie County Clerk of Court, says: "There have been times when notices for hearings were not issued in a timely manner; people didn't show up for hearings, and arrest warrants went out."

Closing clerk of court offices hinders many businesses that depend on information contained in court records. According to Jim Rosendahl, owner of Estherville Abstract, the court closure days have delayed real estate transactions, including the purchasing of homes.

Some jury trials have been prolonged because of closure days. This is more than a mere inconvenience for litigants, witnesses, and jurors. It means one more day away from their workplace or business, as well as more time away from family responsibilities.

Because of the cuts and closures, juvenile court officers have less time and opportunity to check on juvenile offenders. Juvenile Court Officer Al Blair tells me that the frequency of juvenile court services in Wright County was reduced this fall from two days a week to once a week. Also, he cannot visit juveniles placed in group care or at Eldora on a regular basis.

Judges are traveling less to provide court services. Take for example, the juvenile court schedule for the Fourth Judicial District, which covers the southwest corner of the state. For years, eight of the nine counties in the district have had the service of a juvenile court judge one day a month. To begin with, this is not very often. Now these eight counties have a juvenile judge one day every other month. As a consequence of this reduced schedule, juveniles remain in detention longer.

Our chief juvenile court officers indicate that the travel cuts and disruptions in service undermine our ability to hold juvenile offenders accountable for their actions. At a minimum, these service gaps increase expenses for county and state government, but ultimately the public pays the price in terms of diminished safety.

The travel cuts are causing problems for civil litigants as well. These cases involve dissolution of marriage, child support, personal injury, property damage, and contracts. For a few months this year, some counties without a resident judge did not have trials for nonjury civil cases. Litigants had to make a difficult choice: either travel to another county for a hearing where a judge is available or have their cases delayed. Either choice increases the cost of litigation.

Manchester Attorney Stephanie Rattenborg can attest to this. When faced with this dilemma, two of her clients, one who was involved in a paternity suit, and another who was a party in a dissolution of marriage action, decided to have their hearings as soon as possible. Attorney Rattenborg says: "My clients had to pay me significantly more in attorney fees to travel to and from the hearings. In addition, witnesses had to endure the significant inconvenience of further travel to be available to testify."

There are other reasons litigants must wait longer for resolution of their cases. As a result of cuts in support staff, judges must spend time retrieving court files, calling parties and witnesses waiting in courthouse corridors for trials, and making copies of documents. When judges must do these things, they have less time for hearings and decision making. This is not a question of whether or not a judge is above doing these things. It is simply a question of the most efficient use of the state's valuable and scarce judicial resources.

Because our clerk of court offices are overwhelmed with work, we've cut some services that, while important, are nevertheless discretionary. This summer the chief judges of the judicial districts ordered clerks to stop finding hospital placements for persons subject to involuntary commitment orders. This freed up time that clerks desperately need for other duties. Fortunately for people with mental health or substance abuse problems and their families, county officials, hospitals, and mental health providers stepped in to take over.

The extremely high vacancy rate we've maintained in recent years leaves many offices, particularly clerk of court offices, severely understaffed. This money-saving measure coupled with the forced leave days lowers productivity, causes more delays, and increases the risk of costly errors.

Craig Jorgensen, Woodbury County Clerk of Court says: "Thoroughness, accuracy, and dependability have been compromised, and timeliness is a constant struggle."

As you can see, services are eroding, delays are mounting, and access is decreasing. The short-term improvement in our bottom line will cost dearly in the long run; ultimately, the burden of the budget cuts falls on the public.

There are those who say we can solve these problems by working smarter and managing better. They simply do not know what has been going on. Because we take our stewardship of public funds seriously, we have done everything in our power over the years to streamline operations, stretch our resources farther, and reduce the cost of running the court system while maintaining quality service. And although we will continue to search for ways to operate more efficiently, efficiency measures won't fix the serious problems I've described.

Wheels of Justice

Remarkably, we continue to accomplish a great deal even within the confines of our limited means. Last year, our courts disposed of about one million cases that covered the gamut of issues, from felonies to family law, delinquency to domestic abuse, and traffic violations to torts.

Under the circumstances, you may wonder how the courts keep up to the extent that we do. All the credit for this belongs to our steadfast judges, magistrates, and staff. Faced with dwindling resources and an endless amount of work, they carry on undaunted, doing all they can to keep the justice system running as smoothly as possible. And they do so with dignity.

While we are immensely grateful for their sacrifices and devotion and heartened by their indomitable spirit, we must face reality. Even the most productive and determined person can shoulder only so much. There comes a point when quality suffers and productivity drops.

If we stay on this path, court services won't necessarily come to a screeching halt. However, the result will be a steady erosion of access, service, and quality. We'll see more of the problems I described earlier, and they will snowball.

Funding Justice

With your help, we can stop this decline and prevent these problems. All it takes is a reasonable boost in operating funds and sufficient salary adjustment funds to cover rising personnel expenses. Naturally, we are fully aware of the state's budgetary constraints and recognize the continued need for frugality. Therefore, we suggest only those improvements that are absolutely necessary and well within your means.

We recommend a modest supplemental appropriation that would be enough to restore basic services for the remainder of this fiscal year. For fiscal year 2006, we seek just enough to meet the public's demand for access and quality. The details of our recommendations are contained in our budget request that we submitted to you last month.

Importance of a Strong and Independent Judiciary

We, of course, know of the many demands being made upon you, and we appreciate the tough choices you are called upon to make. We trust that you appreciate the vital nature of our work and the serious consequences we all will face if the condition of our court system worsens.

Justice is the essence of government, and a strong, reliable, and stable government is essential for a prosperous and harmonious democratic society. Without question, a strong judicial system ensures the overall well-being of our citizens, our communities, and our state.

Undoubtedly, everyone here is aware of recent events in Ukraine. In December, the Ukraine Supreme Court annulled the results of the country's disputed presidential election and ordered another election between the two main candidates. Political observers around the world were surprised the Court ordered a new run-off election, as opposed to starting the entire process from scratch—a course of action advocated by Ukraine's pro-Moscow government. Although Ukraine has struggled to establish a high quality and independent judiciary, its courts are reputed for caving in to interference and pressure from the government. However, in this instance, the Supreme Court's action demonstrates the critical value of a strong and independent judiciary. The Court resolved a crisis that threatened to destabilize Ukraine—politically, socially, and economically.

Coincidentally, in the late 1990s, our court met with a group of Ukraine lawyers and judges, as well as groups from Bosnia, Russia, and Moldova. They traveled to Iowa to study our judicial system, which they regard as a model of judicial independence and integrity. Others share this high opinion of our court system. For example, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce ranks our judiciary in the top five among all fifty state judicial systems for creating a fair and reasonable litigation environment. Our judiciary ranks high on the quality, competence, and impartiality of its judges, and the timeliness of dispositions.

Iowans have always prided themselves on the integrity and quality of all of their government institutions. It would be wrong to lower our standards. We're often reminded these days that government can't do everything. I agree. Government cannot do everything. But there are a few things that only government can do, and that it must do well. One of those is administering justice.

Promise of Justice

With so much at stake, it's time we ask ourselves if Iowans are getting the justice system they demand, the justice system they expect, and the justice system they deserve. I suggest that they are not. Surely, the state can afford to do better.

If you are not inclined to provide the level of funding we recommend, then I must caution you—we cannot continue on this downward path. It is neither a constructive nor a long-term solution. Rather, it is a recipe for failure.

Finally, let's remember always that the courts do not belong to the temporary incumbents, but rather to the people who sent all of us here. I believe that should those people, our constituents, ever need their day in court, they would expect open doors, full service, timely hearings, and prompt resolution of their disputes. And when the courts do not meet these expectations, the people look to us for real solutions—not empty promises. If we keep this foremost in our minds, I am confident that we can ensure Iowans have meaningful access to a high-caliber court system, and we can make the promise of justice a reality.

Thank you.

Chief Justice Louis A. Lavorato was escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

Good afternoon—thank you for the warm welcome!

Thank you Speaker Rants, Presidents Lamberti and Kibbie, and members of the General Assembly for your kind invitation to speak to the Iowa General Assembly this afternoon.

On behalf of the men and women of the Iowa Guard, we want to thank all of you for your outstanding support over the years, especially during the recent mobilization of our soldiers and airmen, as we participate in the Global War on Terror. As a matter of fact, Iowa was one of only 15 states that offered benefits in six separate categories ranging from educational benefits, to family support, to tax breaks for soldiers.

Governor Vilsack, our Commander-in-Chief, and Lieutenant Governor Pederson, we thank you for your unwavering support of our men and women in uniform. You have been with us every step of the way, especially during our recent mobilizations. You have participated in the sendoffs and welcome home ceremonies for our soldiers and airmen. You have visited our injured soldiers in hospitals. Also, you have been there to offer your deepest sympathy to our families who have lost loved ones during this War on Terror. Governor Vilsack always makes that first and most difficult call. We thank you for your caring leadership and strong support.

I am very honored to be with such a distinguished audience today to present a brief update on your Iowa National Guard. My update will include comments on:
• Our continued mobilization for the Global War on Terror, and
• My recent trip to Afghanistan, including the introduction of two special young Americans and defenders of freedom who have joined us in the chamber today, and our family readiness and support programs that are invaluable to our soldiers and airmen as we execute the War on Terror.

Our involvement in the Global War on Terror continues. Today, we have approximately 1,600 soldiers and airmen deployed around the world—850 with Operation Iraqi Freedom, 750 with Operation Enduring Freedom, and 100 preparing for overseas deployment. There are currently very few Iowa airmen deployed, but that will change this summer when the 132nd Fighter Wing deploys to Al Udeid Air Base, Qatar, for the seventh deployment in eight years to the Middle East—400 are expected to deploy. The 185th Aerial Refueling Wing continues to fly ongoing missions for the War on Terror. This is approximately 17 percent of our available force, much better than 50–80 percent of our force deployed in the past two years. These percentages ranked us number one in the nation many different times.

Since the events of September 11, 2001, approximately 7,500 soldiers and airmen have been on duty for the Global War on Terror (nearly 80 percent of our force). Of this 7,500, 6,612 soldiers and airmen have been mobilized and deployed for the War on Terror. These are unprecedented taskings for sure! As a matter of fact, the number of soldiers and airmen involved in the Global War on Terror since September 11, 2001, exceeds the number of soldiers mobilized during World War II. We are experiencing the highest tasking levels ever, and it will be recorded as a very significant period of time in the history of the Iowa Guard.

The Active Duty continues to ask for Iowa units! Why does Active Duty continue to ask for Iowa units? Simply put, because Iowa is one of the most combat-ready states in the nation. We have relevant units and relevant missions. We have combat-ready units. We have high strength levels—at 100 percent strength. And we have the quality of young men and women who get the job done!

The challenge we now have is one of regaining our readiness and reconstituting our equipment. We have left some equipment in Iraq and Afghanistan. Replacement and repair of that equipment is paramount. We must maintain our strength. One hundred percent strength is a must!

We must improve on lessons learned from recent mobilizations and continue to work with senior leadership to implement necessary changes and improvements to streamline future deployments. We are continuously preparing for follow-on rotations as required. We need predictability in this area for our members and their families and employers who have been so supportive. We understand this is a long and protracted War on Terror, and we will be involved for some time to come.

I must add, we are very proud of still being at 100 percent strength. The Iowa Guard was recognized in January as being number one in the nation for recruiting production. We realize this is a down market nationally, but we are number one in a down market. We now have the largest number of students signed up for the National Guard Tuition Assistance Program ever! This is a true testimony to the value of this program for the Iowa Guard and the state of Iowa.

We are currently fifth in the nation for retention, as we retain 85 percent plus of members every year, and 94 percent last year. A commitment to the Iowa Guard is a commitment to Iowa. We thank you for the strong support of this program.

I just recently experienced a highlight of my entire military career, which I have not fully realized. I had the opportunity to visit the Iowa soldiers of Task Force 168 in Afghanistan just before the holidays. Task Force 168 is approximately 750 Iowa soldiers and is the largest number of soldiers deployed in any one unit of Task Force since World War II. In addition, this is the first time the 168th Infantry Battalion from southwest Iowa has been deployed since World War II.

I visited Major General Olson, the 25th Infantry Division Commander, at Bagram Air Field in Afghanistan. He was quick to compliment the Iowa soldiers. He stated that Task Force 168 is performing their mission in an outstanding manner, and he was very proud of our soldiers. We are also very proud of our soldiers of Task Force 168. They are located in 13 Provincial Reconstruction Team sites (PRTs) throughout Afghanistan and are providing security for reconstruction efforts, resupplying fire bases close to Pakistan and Iran, and working with Afghan people in their communities.

It is hard to explain what I saw—you have to be on the ground and see it firsthand. New schools are being built, including 34 at the Gardez PRT. Women and children fill the streets, and women are attending school for the first time. We now have programs for shoes and clothing for women and children, and we are providing medical attention to Afghan people. Civil affairs assistance is being provided on provincial government issues. New highways are being built, new wells are being dug, and various infrastructure projects are underway. It was an incredible sight to behold!

Interesting facts on Afghan people:
- They continue to maintain a defensive mentality; they have been fighting for 40 years.
- Everything is built with walls around it, even the houses.
- Many children have open sores on their faces and arms from no medical attention.
- There are no shoes for most everyone.
- One child in five dies before the age of five.
- Of Afghan detainees, only 10 percent can read or write.

The Afghan people have embraced this rebuilding of Afghanistan. They want democracy, and they want to enjoy the freedoms we enjoy today. They want all the Taliban, Al Qaeda, and remnants of the old Afghanistan military gone.

How do we know this? Their intelligence to Coalition Forces, and now the Afghan National Army, is precise and exact. They are attempting to take their country back! A ground swell you could not turn back if you wanted.

The Afghan National Army was certified in January 2005, after 3½ plus years of training. The commanding general, Major General Muslim, was captured by the Taliban and he escaped. He estimates that the country is 400 years behind the United States. He thanked us for the opportunity to come from darkness and see the light. They want to hunt down every last Taliban, Al Qaeda, and member of the old Afghanistan military. And I believe they will!

I visited Iowa soldiers at PRTs all over Afghanistan. We flew in Blackhawk and Chinook helicopters with Apache helicopter escort and cover. I presented Combat Infantry Badges, Division Combat Patches, Purple Hearts, and Adjutant General Medallions. We visited about the opportunity and the experience that these soldiers were having, and the impact they will have on a new Afghanistan. They were all very proud of their accomplishments and recognize they were making a difference.

Most importantly, I told the soldiers how proud we were of them and thanked them for the sacrifices they and their families are making, as well as their dedication to duty, their commitment to excellence, and their willingness to serve. They truly are our "hometown heroes."

One of the PRTs I visited was in Sharan, Afghanistan, which is a few miles from the Pakistan border. It has special meaning to me. The PRT was renamed "Kearney Base" in honor of Specialist James Kearney, an Iowan from Emerson who died from wounds suffered in convoy attack on November 1, 2004. In this attack, both Specialist Michael Johnson and Sergeant Ken Lukes were injured.

I visited Sergeant Ken Lukes at Walter Reed Medical Center in Washington, D.C., while I was en route to Afghanistan. Again, I was so impressed with the unbreakable spirit our young men and women maintain today after all they have experienced. They remain so positive and anxious to return to their units. Sergeant Lukes was no exception.

I visited with Specialist Johnson at Specialist Kearney's funeral, and he had the same attitude. He was very positive and wanted to be back with his unit in Afghanistan. Everything is put into perspective after you visit with these soldiers.

It causes me to pause and reflect upon how fortunate we are to have these quality young men and women in uniform today. They have altered their lives forever with injuries but yet remain so positive. It is an honor to meet the troops who have been wounded. It is so uplifting and inspiring to see their spirit, their drive to become rehabilitated, their love of country, and their continued support of the mission.

I delivered a personal letter from Governor Vilsack to Sergeant Lukes. He was very honored to receive a letter from the Governor, his Commander-in-Chief. I asked Sergeant Lukes what his message was to the soldiers at "Kearney Base." He said, "Tell them I miss them. Tell them I wish I could be with them and that I am doing okay." I delivered that message Ken!

We talked about Specialist Kearney's funeral in Red Oak and the tremendous display of American spirit and patriotism in Red Oak and Emerson. Ken, they send a message back to you. They all miss you and wish you the best of luck in your rehab. You are an inspiration to us all!

Allow me to introduce to you "heroes from the battlefield." They represent bravery, heroism, and valor above and beyond the call of duty. Both soldiers have received Purple Hearts and Bronze Stars. They are great Americans, patriots for sure—Sergeant Ken Lukes from Protivin and Specialist Michael Johnson from Red Oak!

Ladies and gentlemen, our families are our greatest treasure. I always say, take every opportunity to tell your family how much they mean to you; we sometimes have a tendency to take them for granted. This is a main theme in my philosophy of command. Our guard family is the heart and soul of the Iowa Guard.

Our family readiness support program is recognized as a top program in the nation. Cathy Luther, the state coordinator of our Family Readiness Group, her staff, and volunteers do an outstanding job in executing this program. Recently, the Family Readiness Group from Company A 1-168 Infantry was awarded the 2004 Reserve Family Readiness Award. This is a very prestigious award that is given to only one unit from each reserve component across the nation—they were one of six total awardees. Members of this group traveled to Washington, D.C., over this past weekend to receive the award in a ceremony. This is an example of the quality family support program that I refer to.

They and our guard families are working with family issues. They are serving their state and nation, and they are making sacrifices. They are providing strong support for their deployed loved ones, as 15-, 16-, and 18-month separations are a considerable period of time. Yes, they are providing comfort and support to families who have soldiers who have been injured and have even died as a result of injuries in the Global War on Terror! They truly are our "heroes on the home front." This is proof you don't have to wear a uniform today to be a hero.

Today our Enduring Family Program is helping our returning soldiers and airmen with their transition back into everyday family life and the transition back to a full-time civilian job. Due to the length of deployment (up to 18 months, with some even extended for a second year) and the numbers of deaths, injuries, and close calls our soldiers have experienced, as well as anxieties our families were going through at home, we realized that we needed help from many different areas. Specialists that have assisted our families are from:

- Iowa Network of Critical Incident Stress Management Teams
- National Association of Social Workers
- American Red Cross
- Iowa Attorney General's Crisis Response Team
- Iowa Association for Marriage and Family Therapists
- Iowa Psychological Association
- Iowa Mental Health Counselors Association
- Iowa Legal Aid
- Army Community Service of Rock Island, Illinois
- United Way of Iowa

We thank all agencies and specialists for their expertise and assistance to our families and returning soldiers and airmen. The Enduring Family Program truly has been an Iowa effort!

Many of you have joined us on sendoffs and welcome home events, as we do the best we can in recognizing our soldiers and airmen for their service to their country. We are doing everything we can to make this transition as seamless as possible.

Ladies and gentlemen, the members of the Family Support Group, our Enduring Family Program, and our guard family have joined us in the chamber today. Please stand and allow us to recognize you and say thanks for all you do for our men and women in uniform.

As I close my remarks today, we pause to pay tribute to and recognize the service of our fallen heroes. These losses have touched Iowa in a deep and profound way. Thirty young men in uniform have made the ultimate sacrifice with their lives while defending or preparing to defend this country from the evils of terror. It is a sad day when we lose a member of the Armed Forces, especially when that person is an Iowan or whose family is an Iowa family.

We pay a special tribute today to the families of the 30 young men who have given their lives in defense of freedom. These families' lives are forever changed by the death of their loved one. The void left in their hearts by their loss must at times seem impossible to fill.

My profound hope is that they sense the love and support of so many, and they realize our eternal gratitude for the price their loved one paid. Be assured they are not alone in their loss. They now share a common bond with other families and with all members of our military family. The sacrifice these young men have made will never be forgotten!

Ladies and gentlemen, it was an honor being with you today. Thank you for your support of the men and women in uniform. God bless you and your families. Thank you!

Representatives Tymeson, Heddens, and Schickel introduced Tracy Andrele of the Honoring Iowa's Families project. She presented a painting to Governor Thomas J. Vilsack to be displayed at the Capitol. The artist, David Rottinghaus, addressed the General Assembly describing his painting entitled "Honoring Iowa's Heroes."

Major General Ron Dardis was escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

Governor Thomas J. Vilsack was escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

President Kibbie presented the Honorable Robert Dvorsky, President Pro Tempore of the Senate, who welcomed the Pioneer Lawmakers on behalf of the Senate.

President Kibbie presented the Honorable Christopher Rants, Speaker of the House of Representatives, who welcomed the Pioneer Lawmakers on behalf of the House.

President Kibbie presented the Honorable Don Shoultz, member of the House of Representatives and President of the Pioneer Lawmakers Association, who responded to the welcome.

Shoultz announced the following 1985 class of Pioneer Lawmakers: Linda L. Beatty, Leonard Boswell, Joy Corning, Beverly A. Hannon, Jack Hatch, Joan L. Hester, Paul W. Johnson, Joseph M. Kremer, Janet S. Metcalf, Larry Murphy, Daniel F. Petersen, Michael K. Peterson, James R. Riordon, J. Brent Siegrist, and Jane Teaford.

Honorary members of the 2005 class were the following: Donald G. Hauser, Michael Heller, Kay Henderson, Bernie Koebernick, Todd Schulz, David Smitherman, and Dawn Vance.

Representative Shoultz presented Steven Rapp, Senior Prosecutor for the United Nations at the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, who addressed the joint convention:

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, colleagues, and friends,

You know that you have truly become an old-timer when you attend one of these biennial meetings and find that there are Pioneer Lawmakers who were first elected after you left office.

I see some of my fellow old-timers from the class of '73, from that year when a majority of legislators were new and many were young.

When we arrived, the handful of veterans in these halls did not know what to expect. Three of us new Democrats, Tom Higgins, Mary O'Halloran, and myself, had originally been assigned to the full appropriations committee. But somebody in the leadership of the Republican majority feared that we would use our positions to push radical ideas, and we were reassigned to the county government committee. This for me turned out to be a blessing in disguise—but at the time, it was very well-disguised.

Being on county government involved early morning meetings with our older rural colleagues, many of whom had already been up for hours. But there was no shortage of bills—stacks of them, most from the associations of counties and county officeholders. Soon I was working on the bills in subcommittee, trying to make constructive changes.

Not that I gave up on radical ideas. I made it my cause to push for the adoption of the three-factor formula for the corporate income tax—a bill that I was to discover had probably less chance of passage than the repeal of the right-to-work law.

But on county government I continued to work, and by March, I had a chance as a minority member to manage a bill on the floor, House File 175, to raise the $ .70 meal allowance paid to sheriffs for the feeding of prisoners in small county jails. But my Republican colleagues knew what they were doing. It was not a "non-con." Indeed, when it reached the floor, we heard that it would enrich sheriff's wives, while starving the prisoners. I discovered that I had been sent into the battle between the rural and the urban, between "mom and pop" and the bureaucrats, and I was not on the expected side. In the end, we worked out a compromise that was signed into law in May. It ended the possibility of profit, kept the sheriffs happy, and assured the prisoners their three squares a day.

Toward the end of that long session, I made the mistake of playing touch football, after doing nothing more strenuous for five months than lifting the Iowa Code. The result was announced in the House chamber by David Stanley as a "three-factor fracture." After the ankle was pinned and I was wheeled out of the recovery room, I was pleased that my first visitors were my colleagues from the other party on the county government committee.

I do not want to give you the impression that I got along with all of my Republican colleagues. That first year, I do not remember ever exchanging a greeting with Grumpy Fisher. However in the second year, we teamed together to support no-fault automobile insurance. I recall the day when we defeated a killer amendment on a cliff-hanging vote that ended with a count of 49 to 48. Grumpy and I literally danced a jig in the back of the chamber. Of course, then as now, it took more than 49 votes to pass a bill, and even together, we could not get there.

I discovered as well, that it was possible to have good relations not just with sometime allies on the other side, but also with dedicated adversaries. In 1974, Chuck Grassley and I ran for the same Congressional seat, both in crowded primary fields. I remember sitting together on that back bench discussing how we could manage to win on shoestring budgets against better-financed opponents. I recall one evening when we decided to save money by riding together to a joint event up by the Minnesota line. In the interests of cost-saving, we even let Jim Flansburg of the Des Moines Register come along on the ride.

As you know, for the last four years I have been working in a very different arena. There I confront persons who were leaders of a state—the Republic of Rwanda. It is a state in which 800,000 men, women, and children were butchered in 14 weeks from April to July of 1994. An average 8000 were killed each day—the equivalent of three World Trade Centers a day in a place one-fifth the size of Iowa. The murders were committed at a rate greater than that of the Nazi death machine at its most efficient.

We have 69 of these former leaders in custody. They were arrested in 26 countries and brought to Arusha, Tanzania, to stand trial, before a court constituted by the United Nations Security Council and financed by 191 nations, on indictments charging genocide and crimes against humanity.

There is a tendency in the West to see the Rwanda genocide as an episode of spontaneous violence in a primitive society. That is not true. Rwanda is certainly poor, but it is one of the most comprehensively administered societies in the world. The leaders who sit in the United Nations Detention Facility in Arusha are persons of education, who studied in Europe or in North America, and who held key positions in government, in politics, in business, in the media, in the academia, in the military, and in the church, both Catholic and Protestant.

There is also a tendency to see the Rwanda genocide as something that could only happen in Africa. That is not true. We have only to remember the contemporaneous mass murders in the former Yugoslavia and the genocide of the Jews and the extermination and enslavement of other national groups—crimes committed in living memory by persons with whom many of us share a common heritage.

In the trial of the media leaders, I looked across each day and eventually cross-examined Professor Ferdinand Nahimana, a man who for a while had pursued an academic career in African history that one of his lawyers had compared to that of my wife Dolly. Now I often spend weeks dealing one-on-one with individuals who have confessed to their part in the genocide, and who we hope, after submitting to the justice system themselves, will be witnesses against their former colleagues. Some were successful businessmen, persons devoted to their families, but who took the leadership in creating and financing the national youth group that became the killing corps of the genocide.

What motivated such individuals to become the organizers of mass murder?

There was first the sense that they were the victims. For decades, some say centuries, the minority Tutsis had dominated, and the majority Hutus had been oppressed. When the Hutus gained dominance at the time of independence in the early 1960s, forcing hundreds of thousands of Tutsis to flee, there was a fear that if the Tutsis were allowed even a share of power they would soon dominate again and reduce the Hutus to slavery. This fear was greatest among those who had the most to lose. But they used it with great effect to rekindle the enmity between ordinary Hutus and Tutsis, who in many cases had intermarried and built business and personal relations across the ethnic divide.

There was no hope that disputes would be decided fairly, only power mattered. A small group of Hutus from the north held the political power, and their associates had been allowed to gain economic advantages and amass great wealth. When that was criticized, they sent their supporters to violently attack their opponents, with no expectation that they would be punished for their conduct.

Those whose positions were threatened built support by demonizing the Tutsi minority group. In this, they were aided by the fact that the country was at war with a rebel force that was dominated by the children of the Tutsis refugees that had fled in the 1960s. They diverted attention from the fact that one small group of Hutus had all the power and wealth, by calling on all Hutus to unite against the eternal enemy, the Tutsis. Those Hutus who would ally themselves with the Tutsis were the worst, and were in the genocide the first victims because they were traitors to their own kind.

There was a willingness to use any means. The unemployed youth were recruited, armed, trained, and eventually unleashed. They were the most avid killers, but they were only part of the killing force. There was the military, the national police, the local administration, and also hundreds of thousands of ordinary civilians who took their place on barriers that each few yards crossed every street and highway, and enlisted in night patrols, identifying and flushing out their Tutsis neighbors and sometimes joining in their slaughter. As they did, they listened to the propaganda. It praised them for working, as killing was known during the genocide. It told them that the work was necessary because the Tutsis had dug a grave for the Hutus; they must fill it with the Tutsis or the Hutus themselves would be the victims. It mocked and dehumanized the Tutsis, as cockroaches and snakes, and in an overwhelming Christian country it was even said that the Virgin Mary had appeared to say that the Tutsis deserved their fate. It put people in fear that if they opposed the killing, even if they did not at least appear to participate, they themselves would be targeted and the names of themselves and their families would be read out on the radio to the hearing of thousands of machete-wielding killers who would be awaiting their arrival at the roadblocks.

It is a long way from Iowa to Rwanda. But both the killers and the victims were humans like we are. Close up, one can see that even the killers were motivated by similar desires for security for themselves and their families and were intensely fearful of anything that could take it away. They made choices. As humans we all make choices—whether to seek common ground or sow division, whether to build or to tear down, whether to settle disputes by peaceful means or by violence, whether to do good or to do evil.

Thinking of these choices, I am reminded of the lessons taught and the lessons learned here in the halls of this Iowa Legislature. One learned that the winner who takes all will likely lose all on another day, that the best solutions often involve compromise, that an adversary today can be an ally tomorrow. One learned, as well, that differences are often superficial, that persons of widely different backgrounds can find common elements in their experiences, and that even adversaries can be just as well-motivated as oneself and can sometimes even have it right. Of course, one also came to know that even as one writes the law, there are rules that cannot be changed, and lines that cannot be crossed, the violation of which will earn the disapproval of friend and foe alike.

Of course we were not in civil war in 1973, or in 2005. But in our history we have had groups victimized, we have had regional conflict that took generations to heal, we have had social tensions that erupted into violence. We have learned that the best answer lies in institutions like this one, where conflicts are fought with words, where interests are balanced, where resolutions are reached that we may not like but that we can accept.

Seeing what can happen in the world, underlines not just the necessity of this process, but also its fragility. Preserving it requires us to each day make the choice not to cross the line, not to make adversaries into enemies, not to demonize the opposition, and while pushing hard for what one knows is right, to remember that each has his or her own view of what is right that is entitled to our understanding and respect.

Thank you very much.

Representative Gipp moved that the joint convention be dissolved.

The motion prevailed by a voice vote.

The Senate returned to the Senate chamber.

"Sec. ___. EDUCATIONAL DATA DEFINITIONS WORKING GROUP.

1. FINDINGS. The general assembly finds that individuals whose educational endeavors end without the receipt of a high school diploma have a much higher rate of unemployment and are much more likely to need welfare or other forms of government assistance. The economic implications of students' failure to earn at a minimum a high school diploma are staggering, and increasingly so as our economy becomes more dependent on the service and information industries. To understand the current state of educational achievement and future likelihood of success for Iowa's students, it is vital that state and local school district data on graduation rates be collectively understood and accurate.

2. The department of education shall coordinate a working group to develop clear, accurate, meaningful, and unambiguous definitions for the key data areas relating to, but not limited to, attrition, completion, and attendance rates, which school districts shall use in compiling state and local report cards. The working group shall determine the baseline data necessary to report on these terms and shall develop a strategy to contact school districts to ensure that the school districts are applying the definitions and consistently submitting data in accordance with the definitions. The working group shall consist of the following members:

a. Two senators appointed by the president of the senate after consultation with the majority leader and the minority leader of the senate.

b. Two representatives appointed by the speaker of the house after consultation with the minority leader of the house.

c. Members representing minority populations.

d. A member representing the largest school district in Iowa.

e. A member representing a school district with an enrollment of more than one thousand one hundred ninety-nine students but not more than four thousand seven hundred fifty students.

f. A member representing a school district with an enrollment of one thousand one hundred ninety-nine students or less.

g. Other members representing the education community as needed.

NEW SUBSECTION. 11A. a. "Five-year average covered wage" means, for a member who retires prior to July 1, 2008, a member's covered wages averaged for the highest five years of the member's service, except as otherwise provided in this subsection. The highest five years of a member's covered wages shall be determined using calendar years. However, if a member's final quarter of a year of employment does not occur at the end of a calendar year, the system may determine the wages for the fifth year by computing the average quarter of all quarters from the member's highest calendar year of covered wages not being used in the selection of the four highest years and using the computed average quarter for each quarter in the fifth year in which no wages have been reported in combination with the final quarter or quarters of the member's service to create a full year. However, the system shall not use the member's final quarter of wages if using that quarter would reduce the member's five-year average covered wage. Notwithstanding any other provision of this paragraph to the contrary, a member's wages for the fifth year as computed by this paragraph shall not exceed, by more than three percent, the member's highest actual calendar year of covered wages.

b. "Five-year average covered wage" means, for a member who retires on or after July 1, 2008, the greater of the member's covered wages averaged for a member's highest twenty consecutive quarters of service or the member's covered wages averaged for a member's highest five calendar years of service. The system shall adopt rules to implement this paragraph in accordance with the requirements of this chapter and the federal Internal Revenue Code."
