THE GOVERNMENT OF IOWA

THE government of the state of Iowa is based upon a constitution adopted by the people and upon statute laws enacted from time to time by the general assembly. Iowa has had two state constitutions, the first approved in 1846, the second one in 1857. The present constitution has been amended a number of times.

The Electorate

All men and women who have lived in Iowa for six months and in the county in which they claim a residence for sixty days are entitled to vote if they are citizens of the United States and are twenty-one years of age or over. Persons convicted of infamous crimes and those declared idiotic or insane, are, however, disfranchised. The right of women to vote in Iowa is based upon the nineteenth amendment to the United States Constitution.

The regular elections for national, state, district, and county officers are held on the Tuesday following the first Monday of November of the even-numbered years. Candidates, with a few exceptions, are nominated at the primary election held on the first Monday in June preceding the general election. Provision is also made for nominations by petition or convention. Political parties must use the primary for nominating candidates, but in case no candidate receives the necessary thirty-five per cent at the primary, a convention may nominate.

The Legislative Department

The legislative authority of the state of Iowa is vested by the constitution in a general assembly which consists of a senate and a house of representatives. The terms of both senators and representatives begin on the first day of January following their election. Regular sessions are held biennially, commencing on the second Monday of January of the odd-numbered years. Special sessions of the general assembly may be called by the proclamation of the governor.

The house of representatives consists of one hundred and eight members, elected for two years. Each of the ninety-nine counties is entitled to one representative and each of the nine counties having the largest population elects one additional representative. Any person who has resided in the State one year and has the qualifications of a voter is eligible for election as a representative. Women were admitted to the general assembly by an amendment to the state constitution adopted in 1926. The house of representatives elects a speaker and other officers.

The senate consists of fifty members, elected by districts for a term of four years. A senatorial district contains from one to five counties, according to population, and elects one senator. According to the constitution approximately one-half the senators are to be elected at each alternate biennial election, but due to changes in the districts, the terms of twenty-one senators now expire at the end of each alternate legislative biennium and those of twenty-nine in the intervening years. Senators must be twenty-five years of age and have the other qualifications required of representatives.

The Executive Department

The constitution of Iowa makes provision for a governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor of state, and treasurer of state, who are elected for terms of two years at the regular biennial elections in the even-numbered years. In addition, the general assembly has made provision for a secretary of agriculture, elected for two years, and a board of railroad commissioners of three members and a superintendent of public instruction, chosen for four years.

The supreme executive power of the State is vested in the governor. It is his duty to see that the laws are enforced, to supervise the official business of the state, to make recommendations to the general assembly, and to appoint various officers and boards. He has the power to call special sessions of the legislature and to veto acts passed by the general assembly, but a majority of two-thirds of each house may pass a bill over his veto. To qualify as governor, a person must have been a citizen of the United States and a resident of the state for at least two years and must be thirty years of age or over at the date of election.

The lieutenant governor succeeds the governor in case of his death, resignation, or disability. His chief function is to act as president of the senate.

In addition to the executive officers mentioned, all of whom are elected, there are a number of appointive officers, including the comptroller, the superintendent of banking, the insurance commissioner, the labor commissioner, the adjutant general, the commissioner of public health, and the fire marshal, all appointed by the governor, usually with the approval of the senate. The governor also appoints, with the approval of the senate, the members of a number of administrative boards, including the state board of education, the board of control of state institutions, the state board of assessment and review, the board of parole, the state board of conservation, and the state highway commission.

The executive council is an ex-officio board made up of the governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, and secretary of agriculture. The state printing board has three ex-officio members—the secretary of state, auditor, and attorney general—and two members appointed by the governor. This board appoints the superintendent of printing.

The Judicial Department

The judicial department of the state of Iowa is vested by the constitution in a supreme court, district courts, and such other inferior courts as the general assembly shall provide.

The supreme court at present consists of nine justices, elected for terms of six years, approximately one-third being elected at each regular biennial election. The senior in time of service is chief justice for six months until each judge has served in that capacity. The supreme court appoints a reporter of the supreme court who is also the code editor, and a clerk. Both appointments are for four years.

The constitution also provides for an attorney general who is elected at the regular biennial election for a term of two years. He represents the state in legal matters, gives advice to state officers, and has, in addition, some administrative functions.

The state of Iowa is divided by law into twenty-one judicial districts, composed of from one to nine counties. Each district elects from two to six judges, there being at present seventy district judges in the state. One of the district judges presides over the district court sessions in each county. A county attorney and a clerk of the court are elected by the voters in each county.

The general assembly has provided also for other inferior courts. Each township is authorized to elect two justices of the peace who hear cases involving minor offenses and hold preliminary hearings on more serious charges. Municipal courts, superior courts, police courts, and mayors' courts are authorized in cities and towns under various restrictions. Municipal courts are optional in cities having a population of five thousand or more and superior courts in cities with four thousand or over. Both municipal and superior court judges are elected for four year terms.

If a city of the first class has neither a municipal nor a superior court, the council shall appoint a police judge in commissioned governed and city manager cities and may provide for the election of a police judge in such cities under the general law. In all municipalities having none of these special courts, the mayor acts as the police judge.

Jury trials are the rule for trials of serious cases, but under certain conditions may be waived or denied. Petit juries consist of twelve persons who must be "electors," except in some courts of restricted jurisdiction where the number of jurors may be six persons.

Local Government in Iowa

The state of Iowa is divided into ninety-nine counties, the boundaries of which may not be changed unless the change is approved by the voters of each county concerned. A board of supervisors consisting of three, five, or seven members is the chief administrative agency in the county. They appoint a county engineer. In addition, an auditor, who is the clerk of the board of supervisors, a sheriff, county attorney, recorder, treasurer, coroner, and clerk of the district court are elected biennially by the voters. A county superintendent of schools is chosen every three years by a convention composed of representatives of the school districts.

The Iowa county is a quasi-political corporation which collects municipal, school, county, and state taxes, enforces state laws, has charge of poor relief and certain other welfare activities, and shares with the state highway commission the management of the roads and bridges in the county. Townships, which in earlier days were effective units of local government within the counties, have lost almost all their functions, except for the assessment of property for taxation by the township assessor, and the election of justices of the peace in which many townships default.

The laws of Iowa also authorize the incorporation of cities and towns. These municipalities derive their authority from the general assembly and have only the powers specifically granted to them. Four cities and towns are governed by special charters granted before the adoption of the present constitution which forbids such acts of incorporation. Seven cities have the commission form of government; three have adopted the commission-manager form, usually known as the city manager form; and a few others have a city manager by ordinance. Members of the commission are elected by the voters. The city manager is appointed by the commission.

All other municipalities are under the general law. They are classified according to population into cities of the first class, having over 15,000 population; cities of the second class, having from 2,000 to 15,000 population; and towns having less than 2,000 population. All these municipalities have the mayor-council form of government, both the mayor and the members of the council being elected by the voters for two-year terms. A treasurer, assessor, and park commissioners, and in some cities a police, superior, or municipal court judge, are also elected.

The council is the law-making body in municipal government and it is also the chief administrative agency. The mayor presides over the council, although he is not a member, and has the power to veto acts of the council subject to a two-thirds majority vote over his veto. He supervises municipal activities and in cities and towns which have neither a municipal, superior, or police court, he serves as police judge. He also appoints certain officers, including the marshal or chief of police, the city health officer, and members of the police and fire board. The city solicitor and clerk, and in some cases the engineer and members of the zoning board of adjustment are chosen by the council.

Taxation

Taxation is probably the most important governmental power. The present tax system in Iowa is based largely on property, sales, income and corporation taxes, although there are taxes on inheritances, poll taxes, and sales or license taxes on gasoline, cigarettes, and beer.

Property is assessed by township assessors elected by the people, subject to revision by local boards of review and by the state board of assessment and review. The various mill levies for state, county, school, and municipal purposes are computed by the county auditor on the assessed valuation and the tax money is paid to the county treasurer who distributes it to the proper fund. Levies for county, school, and municipal purposes are, in most cases, limited by state law.

THE STATE CAPITOL

THE Capitol building was dedicated in January, 1884. On the main floor are located the Supreme Court rooms, the offices of the Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor of State, Treasurer of State, Secretary of Agriculture, Attorney General, and Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The offices on the first floor or basement floor of the State House are: Adjutant General, Custodian, G. A. R., Board of Conservation, Motor Vehicle Department, Real Estate, Post Office, Comptroller, Federal Farm Loan, Banking Department, Cigarette Tax Department, Board of Assessment and Review, Mine Inspectors, Secretary of the Executive Council, State Veterinarian, State Fair Board, and the Cafeteria.

The House and Senate chambers are on the second floor, as well as two departments of the State Library, the Printing Board, Pharmacy Commission, Board of Public Works, Code Editor, and State Relief Commission.

On the balcony or third floor are located the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Vocational Education, Department of Health Engineer, Barber Examiners, Cosmetology Examiners, Chiropractor Examiners, Nurses' Examining Board, and the telephone exchange.

Other Buildings

Departments of the state government are located in other buildings outside the main capitol building. In the old Amos Hiatt high school building southeast of the main building are located the Board of Control, Railroad Commission, State Architect, Bonus Board, Commerce Counsel, Commission for the Blind, and the Graves Registration Bureau.

In the State Historical Building on the north side of Grand Avenue are located the offices of the Library Commission and the State Librarian, the Historical Department and the Curator, the Travelers' Library, Newspaper Archives, Historical Library, General Library, Medical Library, and the Archives Department.

Just north of the State House, across Grand Avenue, is the document storage building, where official reports and documents are stored. The shipping and mailing department of the Printing Board is also located in this building.

At the rear is the heating plant and the carpenter shop, and just to the north of these is the Printing Board warehouse, the paint shop, and garages.

Just east of the warehouse and facing on Des Moines Street is the old governors' mansion, containing the offices of the Board of Health.

Just west of the garage and facing on Des Moines Street is a building known as "The Flats," where the offices of the Board of Education and the Industrial Commission are located.

In the old Bryant school building west of the State House on Grand Avenue are located the Fish and Game Department, Board of Parole, Bureau of Labor, Bureau of Re-Employment, Fire Marshal, State Chemist, and Horticultural Society.

Historical Building

The Historical, Memorial and Art Building is 260 by 110 feet in size and was commenced in 1896, at first as a home for the Aldrich collection of historical matter. It is occupied by the Historical Department, two departments of the State Library, and the Library Commission.

The Historical Department has a large library of history and genealogy, a famous collection of autographs and photographs, many valuable historical relics, and antiques, a vast natural history museum, a gallery of portraits of distinguished Iowa persons, a Civil War collection, portraits and information regarding Iowa boys who died in the World War, and the public archives.

Decorations in Capitol Building

Over the main stairway at the east end is the large painting entitled "Westward," the work of Edwin H. Blashfield of New York, and this was placed at a cost of $10,000. It is regarded as one of the notable American decorative pictures. It shows a pioneer group traveling from the eastern fields of plenty to the far away lands of the west to make new homes.

Above the large picture are six mosaics, designed by Frederick Dielman of New York, and were made in Venice. The colors are worked out in colored stone pieces and are indestructible. The subjects represented are Defence, Charities, the Executive, the Legislative, the Judiciary, and Education. These cost the State $10,000. They are among the finest and largest in America.

The largest reproduced or enlarged photograph in the world hangs in the south corridor of the main floor. This picture of the 168th Infantry assembled on the Capitol grounds upon its return from the World War, is twenty-six feet long and six feet high.

The twelve statues high within the rotunda represent History, Science, Law, Fame, Art, Industry, Peace, Commerce, Agriculture, Victory, Truth, Justice.

The eight lunettes, or half-moon shaped paintings surrounding the rotunda, are the work of Kenyon Cox, famous American artist, who was paid $8,000 for the same. They are entitled by the artist: Hunting, Herding, Agriculture, The Forge, Commerce, Education, Science, Art. They are allegorical and indicate the progress of civilization.

Monuments and Memorials

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument erected in 1889-90 is 145 feet high and cost $150,000. It was designed by Harriet A. Ketcham, of Mt. Pleasant.

The Allison Memorial, near by, was constructed in honor of the late Senator W. B. Allison, of Dubuque, and is a fine work of art.

The battle flags of Iowa regiments in the Civil War and in the Spanish-American war are preserved in niches in the rotunda of the Capitol.

The monument west of the Capitol on Ninth Street represents "The Pioneers." It is cast in bronze.

The old guns located on the grounds were taken in the Spanish-American War. The bronze gun in front of the Historical Building was taken from a Spanish gun ship.

Just east of the State House is a monument honoring the Iowa citizens who served in the army, navy or marine corps during the China Relief Expedition, the War with Spain or the Philippine Insurrection.

At the southeast corner of the grounds, near the flag pole, is a tablet which marks the grave of Wilson Alexander Scott, who gave to the State the land upon which the capitol now stands. The tablet bears the following inscription:

WILSON ALEXANDER SCOTT,
BORN IN CRAWFORD COUNTY, INDIANA, NOVEMBER 20, 1818,
HE ACQUIRED SOME FIVE HUNDRED ACRES OF LAND HEREBOUTS
AND SETTLED ON THIS SITE IN 1846.
OVERWHELMED IN THE FINANCIAL CRASH OF 1857
HE DIED NEAR FORT KEARNEY, NEBRASKA TERRITORY
ENROUTE TO PIKES PEAK JUNE 23, 1859.

GOVERNOR

(Office located on main floor of capitol building)

Term of incumbent ends January, 1935

CLYDE L. HERRING, Des Moines.

Secretary to the Governor, Edith M. Johnson, Des Moines.

The supreme executive power of the state is vested in the governor, whose term of office is two years.

No person is eligible who has not been a citizen of the United States and a resident of this state two years next preceding the election, and attained the age of thirty years at the time of said election.

He is commander-in-chief of the military forces of the state.

He transacts all executive business with the officers of government, civil and military, and may require information in writing from the officers of the executive department upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices.

The governor approves or disapproves any and all appropriations for administration, operation and maintenance.

When any office, from any cause, becomes vacant, and no mode is provided by the constitution and laws for filling such vacancy, the governor has power to fill such vacancy, by granting a commission, which expires at the end of the next session of the general assembly, or at the next election by the people.

He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene the general assembly by proclamation and shall state to both houses when assembled, the purpose for which they shall have convened.

He is required to communicate, by message, to the general assembly, at every regular session, the condition of the state, and may make such recommendations to the body as he shall judge expedient.

In case of disagreement between the two houses with respect to the time of adjournment, the governor has power to adjourn the general assembly to such time as he may think proper; but no such adjournment shall be beyond the time fixed for the regular meeting of the next general assembly.

All bills must be submitted to him for approval, and a two-thirds vote of both branches of the legislature is required to pass a bill over his veto.

The governor has power to grant reprieves, commutations and pardons, after conviction, for all offenses except treason and cases of impeachment, subject to such regulations as may be provided by law. Upon conviction for treason, he has power to suspend the execution of the sentence until the case shall be reported to the general assembly at its next meeting. He has power to remit fines and forfeitures, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law; and shall report to the general assembly, at its next meeting, each case of reprieve, commutation or pardon granted, and the reason therefor.

He appoints all principal officers of the state not elected by the people, and certain officers connected with the state government, by and with the consent of the senate.

He signs patents for state lands, and appoints and commissions notaries public and commissioners in other states to take acknowledgments of deeds for this state.

He may demand fugitives from justice from the executives of other states, and may issue warrants, upon the requests of other governors, for fugitives found in this state.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

Term ends January, 1935

The public revenues of the state are received and disbursed by the treasury department; a record being maintained showing the sources of all income, the funds to which such income applies, the date received and the amount received. Disbursements are made only upon warrants issued as certified by the state comptroller. A record is kept of each warrant paid, showing date of issuance, date of payment, to whom paid and against which fund such warrant is drawn.

When remittance of state revenue is made by bank draft, check or money order, such items are deposited for collection in a bank or banks in the state which have previously been duly designated and approved as depositories for state funds.

The treasurer of state, with the consent and approval of the executive council, may designate banks in the state of Iowa as depositories of state funds in amounts not exceeding the limits fixed by said council. The forty-second general assembly authorized an additional license fee of one cent per gallon; the proceeds of which are to be added to the primary road fund.

The state stamp tax, on all cigarettes, cigarette papers, wrappers and tubes sold within the state; also under the supervision of the state treasurer, is a source of revenue of no small importance; said revenue all being applied to the general fund of the state.

An important department in the office of the treasurer of state is the inheritance tax department, the administration of which pertains to the collection of inheritance taxes on estates and the revenues from which source aggregates a considerable amount.

An act of the forty-fifth general assembly provides for the issuance of permits for the manufacture and sale of and taxation of certain non-intoxicating liquor, with the provision that such fees and taxes be collected by the treasurer of state. STATE BOARD FOR VOCATIONAL EDUCATION
(Office located on third floor of capitol building)

Members of Board (ex officio)

AGNES SAMUELSON, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Chairman, Des Moines.

GEORGE T. BAKER, President State Board of Education, Davenport.

FRANK E. WENIG, Labor Commissioner, Des Moines.

Director, Forest E. Moore, Des Moines.

Supervisor, agricultural education, George F. Ekstrom, Des Moines.

Supervisor, homemaking education, Mary Farris, Des Moines.

Supervisor, trade and industrial education, Harry W. Carmichael, Des Moines.

Supervisor, vocational rehabilitation, Willis W. Grant, Des Moines.

The state board for vocational education was established by the thirty-seventh general assembly in an act accepting the terms of the national vocational education act commonly known as the Smith-Hughes Law.

Vocational education, as organized under the provisions of the national and state vocational education acts, includes education and training of less than college grade, the specific purpose of which is to equip boys, girls, men and women for the effective pursuit of occupations. Such training prepares those of regular school age for employment which they propose to follow. It helps those who are already employed to acquire the new skill and knowledge which progress demands of their occupations and consequently to do better work and to take advantage of opportunities for promotion. Vocational education is offered in three major fields, namely: agricultural, trade and industrial and homemaking education. Instruction in each of these three occupational fields may be offered to three age groups of individuals: the regular high school student, the student who attends school part of the time and works part of the time, and the adult worker.

In general, vocational schools and classes are organized in accordance with the needs of the persons to be trained. Usually the classes are held in local public school buildings. Under certain conditions, and when better facilities for vocational training exist elsewhere, instruction may be offered in places other than regular school buildings. However, under all circumstances the vocational work is under public supervision and control and is maintained as a definite part of the educational program of the state. The state board for vocational education reimburses local school districts from federal funds for salaries paid to the teachers of vocational classes.

The state board for vocational education also coöperates with the proper authorities at Iowa State College at Ames in preparing teachers of the above subjects.

The state board for vocational education also coöperates with the federal government in maintaining vocational rehabilitation programs for physically disabled persons. The thirty-ninth general assembly passed an act accepting the provisions of the national rehabilitation act and designated the state board for vocational education, which had been previously created in the state's acceptance of the Smith-Hughes Act, as the state's administrative and cooperative agency. Under certain rules and regulations the rehabilitation service provides for the vocational training and placement of physically handicapped persons 16 years of age or over with the exception of those coming directly under the training program maintained by the federal government for persons disabled as a result of enlisted service in the army or navy.

Assistant Commerce Counsel, Stephen Robinson, Des Moines.

The powers and duties of the board of railroad commissioners are: To generally supervise all railroads in the state, both steam and electric, except street railroads; to inquire into any neglect or violation of the laws of the state by any railroad corporation doing business therein; to make examinations and inspections of the physical condition, conduct and management of such railroads and report their condition to said companies; to stop and prevent railroad companies, under certain circumstances, from running or passing their trains over unsafe bridges; to adjudge changes in station houses, rolling stock and rates of fare; to pass on necessity for spur tracks to be constructed and maintained not exceeding three miles in length to an existing industry under terms and conditions approved by the commission as set out by law; to make reasonable rules for the crossing of steam and interurban railways and to require, when necessary, interlocking switches at railroad crossings; to make report on first Monday in December in each year to the governor of its doings for the preceding year, accompanied with appropriate suggestions and recommendations; to receive, tabulate and report upon the annual reports filed with it by railroad companies; to examine any of the books, papers or documents of any such corporation; to examine under oath employees of such corporation; to issue subpoenas, administer oaths and compel the attendance of witnesses; to make and fix maximum schedules of freight rates for such corporations, such schedules to be deemed reasonable until disproved; to examine into rates in force, upon complaint that the rate charged by a railroad company, or that the maximum rates fixed by the commission are unreasonably high or discriminating, and to fix the rate again, which must not be higher than any rate established by law, such decision of the commission is prima facie evidence that the rate so made is a reasonable minimum rate; to bring suits to enforce its orders; to inquire into the management of the business of such carriers and to obtain from them full and complete information necessary to enable the commissioners to carry out the objects of the law; to hear, investigate and determine all complaints alleging unreasonable rates; unjust discrimination, undue preference, violation of the long and short haul clause, or other infractions of the commission law, and make proper orders thereupon; to establish joint through rates, upon application, over two or more connecting lines; and to have the same authority over express companies as the act confers concerning railroads.

Before a railroad company may appropriate coal, coke or oil received for shipment, it must first secure the written consent of the railroad commission.

Before any railway company may condemn lands for additional depot grounds, or for straightening or relocating track, the permission of the board must be obtained. Interlocking switches may be placed at grade railroad crossings or draw bridges, thus obviating the necessity of stopping trains before passing over such grade crossings or draw bridges, but before the interlocking switch may be used consent of the board must be obtained.

The thirty-fifth general assembly gave to the commission the power to grant to individuals or corporations "engaged in the manufacture, sale, or distribution for sale of electric current for light, power, or heating purposes, the right within the state, except in cities and towns, to erect and maintain poles, wires, towers, fixtures and other necessary construction for the purpose of conducting electricity for lighting, power and heating purposes over, along and across any public land, highways or streams or the lands of any person or persons, and to acquire the necessary interests in real estate therefor." It also provided that transmission lines proceeding under the provisions of the law should be subject to "such reasonable regulations as the commission may from time to time prescribe."

The board is directed by an act of the thirty-ninth general assembly to "undertake and carry forward such investigation and preparation as shall be necessary to properly represent the interests of the state in connection with the valuation of the property of common carriers now being conducted by the interstate commerce commission."

The thirty-ninth general assembly authorized the railroad commission upon application to them to issue to any warehouseman a license for the conduct of a bonded warehouse under the provisions of chapter 119, laws of the thirty-ninth general assembly, and such rules and regulations as might be made thereunder.

The fortieth general assembly conferred on the commission the power to issue certificates authorizing motor carriers to operate over the public highways of the state, upon a showing that the proposed service would promote "the public convenience" and authorized the board to prescribe rules and regulations for the operation of motor vehicles used by such carriers "for the protection and safety of the public." The forty-first general assembly revised the laws on this subject, but left their administration with the railroad commission.

The forty-third general assembly provided for the supervision or regulation by the commission of persons operating motor trucks principally used for the public transportation of freight for compensation, not operating over regular routes nor between fixed termini. It also provided that the cost of regulating truck operators and motor carriers and the maintenance of the motor carrier department be paid from fees and taxes collected from such carriers.

Under the act of the forty-third general assembly before an airport is acquired by any city or town plans and specifications must be approved by the board.

The forty-fourth general assembly provided that pipe lines shall be subject to regulation by the board under a permit issued by the board.

COMMERCE COUNSEL

The thirty-fourth general assembly created the office of commerce counsel, to be appointed by the board of railroad commissioners for a term of four years, subject to confirmation by senate. The law provides that the counsel may appoint assistants, subject to the approval of the board of railroad commissioners.

The duties of the office briefly are as follows: legal advisor of board of railroad commissioners; investigate and present matters with reference to interstate rates to board, prosecute same before said board, or before any court to which same may be taken; investigate on his own motion, or at request of board, all matters involving interstate rates in which the people of Iowa are interested, and present same to interstate commerce commission and prosecute same to final determination; act as attorney for and represent board in all courts of this state or of the United States, in which the validity of any order of said board is in issue; to institute and prosecute in any of the courts any and all suits necessary to proper enforcement of any rule or order of said railroad commissioners or make defense therein wherever said rule or order may be called in question.

STATE BOARD OF ASSESSMENT AND REVIEW

Appointed by the Governor. Term, six years.

DR. J. W. REYNOLDS, Democrat, Creston, Chairman, term expires July, 1937.
JOHN W. FOSTER, Republican, Guthrie Center Vice Chairman, term expires July, 1935.

LOUIS E. RODDEWIG, Democrat, Davenport, term expires July, 1939.

Secretary, Elsie L. Dachroth, Des Moines.

Chief Assessor, Ben H. Hall, Cherokee.

Chief Field Assessor, George L. Tinley, Council Bluffs.

The State Board of Assessment and Review was created by act of the forty-third general assembly in 1929 for the purpose of bringing about a more equitable assessment of property in the state of Iowa, and with the idea in mind that gross unfairness existed in the apportionment of the tax burden to the taxpayers.

It was given very broad general powers, its duties as fixed by law not only including a supervision of the assessment of all property in the state, but also that of studying and investigating all matters pertaining to the improvement of the state's revenue system. It administers income, corporation and sales tax law, including the collection of approximately two million dollars monthly from these sources.

The board was organized on July 15th, of 1929, and has been functioning since that time.

The entire powers of the board may best be learned through reading the act under which it was established. Briefly, the board in the first place assumed all the duties previously vested in the executive council and in the auditor of state with reference to the assessment and taxation of property. The legislature also endowed it with an entirely new jurisdiction, including general supervision of the administration of all assessment and tax laws of the state and supervision of boards of supervisors and all other taxing boards or officers of whatever rank or kind in the performance of their official duties. The board is required to confer with and advise and direct boards of supervisors and all other taxing boards as to their duties, and to cause proceedings to be instituted for enforcement of the laws relating to penalties, liability and punishment of public officers for neglect to comply with the statutes covering assessment and taxation, and to make complaint against boards of supervisors and against assessing and other taxing officers for official misconduct or neglect of duty; and to examine into cases where evasion or violation of law for assessment or taxation of property is discovered, and particularly to correct errors and irregularities in assessments of individual taxpayers by adding to the tax list any omitted property or by raising, lowering or abating an assessment found to be erroneous or excessive. It also has power to order a reassessment of any or all of the property in any taxing district. In general, the board is expected to require all assessments of property and taxes levied thereon to be relatively just and uniform.

Assessment of Utilities

In addition to this array of supervisory and corrective duties, the commission makes original assessment of all manner of public utilities, including the assessment of:

Water Works	Electric Transmission Lines
Gas Works	Telegraph and Telephone Lines
Pipe Lines	Railway Companies
Electric Light or Power	Sleeping and Dining Cars
Cable or Electric Railways	Freight and Equipment Companies
Elevated Street Railways	Express Companies
Horse Cars, etc.

IOWA SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND—VINTON

Superintendent, Francis Eber Palmer; physician, Lyle W. Koontz, M.D.; and visiting ophthalmic surgeon, head of department, State University.

The aim and purpose of the Iowa School for the Blind is purely educational. The course of study includes not only the subjects leading up to and required for admission to the colleges and the university of the state, but also subjects that aim to prepare the students for some of the occupations in which it has been demonstrated that the blind are usually successful. After a pupil of this school reaches the high school department, he is given some latitude in the choice of courses of study. Both literary and industrial work is required of all students, besides some music.

IOWA SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF—COUNCIL BLUFFS

O. L. McINTIRE, M. A., Superintendent

The Iowa School for the Deaf was founded in 1855, and was first located at Iowa City and then moved to Council Bluffs in 1870. In 1902 a fire completely destroyed the main building which housed the executive quarters and dormitories for pupils. A substantial fireproof structure now stands in its place where sufficient room is provided for 325 pupils. A separate building to accommodate seventy-five pupils is also provided, wherein only oral instruction is employed. Approximately ninety per cent of all pupils are taught by the oral method which employs for the purpose, speech, lip-reading and writing. The course of study is extensive and provides not only an elementary education for the deaf children of the state but also a secondary, the high school department, covering a full four years course, being on the accredited list of the North Central Association, the only school for the deaf in the country so accredited.

A well equipped vocational department is maintained for the purpose of teaching trades. Students become skilled workmen and graduates, with remarkably few exceptions, are self-supporting, useful citizens of the state.

The deputy commissioner assists the commissioner and supervises and directs the statewide program for the control and prevention of syphilis and gonorrhoea and for the prevention of diphtheria. He also directs the administration of the county health units.

Communicable Diseases—Epidemiology

Communicable diseases are by their very nature of vital concern to the community and the state. Reports of various communicable diseases are received daily from physicians and health officers throughout the State. These reports are studied and tabulated so as to make possible a study by weeks and months of the current prevalence of disease as compared with the preceding year or period of years. Field investigations are made upon request by local health officers or other officials to determine the nature and extent of illness and to assist in control measures. The department through articles, reports, literature, talks, correspondence and graphic presentations aims to inform the public about disease prevention.

Child Health and Health Education

One of the most important activities of a health department is to present information on health subjects to the public and to stimulate the community to meet the needs of the whole child in such a manner that the greatest good will come to the greatest number. An advisory service is offered to lay organizations. This service includes guidance, direction and even supervision in planning and outlining health programs and the preparation of study course outlines. Statistical studies and analyses covering maternal, infant, tuberculosis and cancer mortality are made.

Sanitary Engineering

Nursing Education

The department inspects accredited schools of nursing. It offers an advisory service to hospitals, student nurses, etc., on matters pertaining to the schools for nursing; it acts with the board of nurse examiners in formulating requirements, curricula, etc., for schools of nursing and it assists with the conduct of examinations and the administration of the nurses' practice act.

Law Enforcement

The department has charge of law enforcement affecting all professions as stated under title VIII of the code. Necessarily, the chief concern of the department pertains to violations of the practice acts or the illegal practice of the professions affecting the public health. The professions listed under title VIII of the code include medicine and surgery, podiatry, osteopathy, chiropractic, nursing, dentistry, optometry, embalming, barbering and cosmetology.

Vital Statistics

The department is charged with the collecting, recording and filing reports of births, deaths, marriages and divorces. Statistical studies and analyses of these records are made and the results of these studies are released for the information of the public. The department supervises the work of the local registrars of vital statistics and cooperates closely with the bureau of census, department of commerce, Washington, D. C.

Licensure and Examinations

The department, through the commissioner and the director of licensure and examinations, assists the various boards of examiners with the administration of the laws regulating the professions affecting the public health and serves as the clearing house on all matters pertaining to licensure and examination when the several boards of examiners are not in session.

H. A. MAINE, Waterloo, Democrat, term expires July 1, 1937.

The highway commission's duties are three-fold:

First: Construction and maintenance of primary roads.

Second: General supervision of secondary roads.

Third: Engineering assistance to other departments.

The commission has entire charge of and responsibility for all construction and maintenance work on the primary road system. It prepares the necessary surveys, plans and specifications for primary road improvements, lets the necessary contracts and supervises the construction work. It has charge, for the state of Iowa, of the expenditure of all federal aid road funds allotted to this state.

All maintenance work on the primary roads is under the supervision of the commission.

The annual report of the commission shows in detail expenditures for primary road construction and maintenance.

The secondary roads (county and township roads) are under the supervision of the county boards of supervisors in their respective counties. However, the law places on the highway commission certain duties and responsibilities in connection with such secondary road work. Changes in or modifications of the county trunk road system must be approved by the commission. Secondary road construction programs proposed by the county boards must receive the commission's approval. Plans prepared by the county engineers for secondary road improvements, must be submitted to the state highway commission for approval. Contracts awarded by the boards of supervisors, for secondary road work involving a cost of $2,000 or more per mile, or more than $5,000 in the aggregate, or more than $2,000 for any one bridge or culvert, must be approved by the state highway commission, before becoming effective. In case two adjacent counties are unable to agree on any county line road or bridge construction or maintenance matter, either board may appeal to the highway commission to determine said controversy.

The commission, on request, renders engineering assistance to various other state departments. This includes the making of surveys and preparation of plans and general supervision of construction and maintenance of public highways upon or adjacent to lands belonging to the state at the various educational, charitable, and penal institutions and at the state parks, engineering assistance to the executive council on street improvements upon and adjacent to the capitol grounds, assistance to the national guard on projects in connection with the national guard camp, and various other technical matters which may come before such other state departments.

The Iowa State Fair as an institution has existed since the first fair was held at Fairfield October 25-26 and 27, 1854, but it remained for the fortieth general assembly in 1923 and the extra session thereof to set out the Iowa State Fair Board as a separate and distinct department.

Previous to 1923 the fair was operated under the state department of agriculture. The fortieth general assembly, however, created a new department of agriculture, consolidating therewith a number of other departments and at the extra session the law was passed creating the state fair board, effective October 28, 1924.

The law provides for a state agricultural convention to be held at the state capitol in Des Moines on the second Wednesday in December of each year. The delegates to this convention are the officers and members of the state fair board; the president, secretary or accredited delegate of each of the county and district fairs; the president or accredited representative of the following organizations; each farmers' institute organized according to law and receiving aid; the State Horticultural Society; the Iowa State Dairy Association; the Iowa Beef Producers' Association, and the Iowa Corn and Small Grain Growers' Association. In counties where no fair is held the board of supervisors may appoint a delegate.

The convention elects a president and a vice president for a term of one year, and a director from each congressional district, whose term expires the day following the convention, for a term of two years. The terms of the directors representing the first, fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth congressional districts expire December 13, 1934, and the terms of the directors from the second, third, sixth and ninth congressional districts expire December 12, 1935. The secretary and treasurer are elected annually by the state fair board. The law fixes the compensation of the president, vice president and directors at ten dollars ($10) per day and expenses while in attendance at board and committee meetings. The law also fixes the maximum amount to be paid the treasurer at $250 and the secretary at $3,250 annually.

By statute the state fair board is made the custodian of the state fair grounds and the board of managers of the annual state fair. The state makes no regular appropriations for the operating expenses of the state fair. The law specifically provides that all operating expense, maintenance, etc., shall be paid out of the receipts of the state fair unless there is a special appropriation providing for same. The law also provides that the state will not be liable for any debts incurred by the board. The state has appropriated since 1902, $938,000 for buildings, $93,013 for additional land, $14,000 for sanitary sewer system, and $28,280 for paving assessments against the grounds. In the same period $308,700 has been appropriated for insurance premiums and maintenance of grounds and buildings.

During this same thirty-two year period there has been expended from the fair receipts, $954,732 for buildings and other improvements, $241,453 for insurance premiums and maintenance of the grounds and buildings, and the entire operating expense of the fair amounting to $6,226,416.

The inventory taken November 30, 1932, shows the present value of the grounds and buildings to be worth $2,084,715. This inventory takes into consideration the original cost of all permanent buildings and other improvements with the usual annual depreciation. It is safe to say that the replacement value of buildings and other improvements would be more than double the amount carried in the inventory.

The title to the state fair grounds and all property is held in the name of the state of Iowa and all deeds and abstracts are on file in the auditor of state's office.

The department, founded July 1, 1892, has for its chief purpose the collection of historical data relating to Iowa and the territory of the middle west, the care-taking of the public archives and the stimulation of private and public enterprise in noting and commemorating through artistic means notable achievements of Iowa citizens. The department publishes the Annals of Iowa, an illustrated quarterly historical magazine of eighty pages. Portraits of distinguished Iowans are secured and hung in the art gallery.

Since January, 1918, the department has engaged in assembling original materials relating to the contribution of Iowa in the world war.

In the library division of the historical department special efforts are made to collect works of state and general western history, biography and genealogy, war histories, works relating to the North American Indians, county histories, maps, Iowa pamphlets, biographies, documents relating to early settlers and settlements and every species of data which can throw light upon local, state, or western history.

The museum display includes many remarkable specimens of mammals and birds, including moose, buffalo, elk, deer, wolves, foxes and other animals. Eagles, owls, wild turkeys, Indian relics and handiwork, weapons used in the nation's wars, historic medals, pottery and many other items are preserved.

Special efforts are made to collect Iowa newspapers from the earliest dates to the present time. About two hundred and fifty weeklies and thirty dailies are currently received and the department endeavors to acquire all official Iowa newspapers.

The public archives material is derived from the state departments, boards, bureaus, etc., and dates from 1838 down to a ten-year period prior to the date of removal.

IOWA STATE LIBRARY

(Office located in Historical building)

The Governor, Secretary of State, Superintendent of Public Instruction and Judges of the Supreme Court comprise the Board of Trustees.

The State Librarian is elected by the board of trustees for a term of six years.

State Librarian, JOHNSON BRIGHAM, Des Moines. Term expires 1938.

Law Librarian, A. J. Small, Des Moines.

Assistant Law Librarian, Bertha L. Hess, Des Moines.

Medical Librarian, Dr. Jeannette Dean-Throckmorton, Des Moines.

Economics and Sociology Librarian, Mary M. Rosemond, Des Moines.

The Iowa state library's legal existence began in 1848.

Fifty years later, in 1898, when the present librarian entered upon his duties, the library had grown from a few thousand volumes, chiefly documents, to 57,501. At the close of the biennial period, June 30, 1932, the total number of volumes of record in the four departments of the library was 226,340, an increase of 168,839 volumes in thirty-four years.

The total number of additions to the several departments during the biennial period ending June 30, 1932, was 10,987.

These additions were apportioned to the four departments as follows:

To the General Department.....	3,665
To the Law and Legislative Department.....	2,533
To the Medical Department.....	2,812
To the Economics and Sociology Department..	1,977

These figures show the remarkable growth and present relative strength of the library. However, they do not show its growth and present strength as an informative and educational institution. While the state library was originally little more than a place of storage for documents, it now, through its four departments: General, Law, Medical, Economics and Sociology, covers the whole state with its various activities.

Much reference help is given to study clubs in preparing their programs. Books for the blind, picture collections, and stereoscopic views are also loaned from the traveling library.

In 1931, 88,354 books were loaned from the traveling library and in 1932, 98,217 were loaned. Most of these books are loaned for three months and the use of the traveling books is therefore much larger than the figures indicated.

It is the duty of the geological survey to furnish information to the public on such subjects as the mineral resources of Iowa, the geological formations present in the state and what uses may be made of them, the possibilities of investment in enterprises that involve geological materials, and any other questions that have to do with geology. In order to be able to give useful and intelligent answers to such questions as these the survey has made careful examinations of the coal beds of the state and of the strata associated with them. Similar studies have been made of the rock resources of Iowa, the gypsum, the clays and shales and the sands and gravels, both of the bedrock and of the overlying loose materials. The possibilities of cement manufacture have been examined, also the deposit of iron ore at Waukon. The ground water resources of the state have been constantly studied since the organization of the survey over forty years ago. The possibility of finding oil and gas in the Iowa strata has always been kept in mind, but so far the survey has found no reason to believe that these materials exist in valuable amounts in the Iowa strata.

The survey employs the available geologists of the state without regard to their location or other employment, and since these men usually do this work during their summer vacations the survey has had much excellent work done at small expense to the state.

The survey has published as the result of its geological work 35 large volumes, most of which are called annual reports. In addition, seven bulletins have been issued on the botany and biology of the state. Several smaller pamphlets and many maps have been prepared at irregular intervals.

THE LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

The legislative department of the state of Iowa is vested in a general assembly, which consists of a senate and house of representatives.

The senate consists of fifty members. Senators are elected for terms of four years; twenty-one senators being elected at one general election and twenty-nine at the next.

The house of representatives consists at present of one hundred and eight members, who are elected for a term of two years.

Sessions of the general assembly are held biennially in the odd-numbered years, and they commence on the second Monday of January.

The compensation of the members of the general assembly is $1,000 for the session. This is in accordance with an act of the thirty-fourth general assembly which went into effect July 4, 1911. They were also allowed five cents a mile from their homes to the capital and return for traveling expenses. Members are permitted to draw such stationery as they need during the session, the cost to the state for the supplies varying from $1.50 to $14.00 per member. No allowance is permitted for postage.

The lieutenant governor is the presiding officer of the senate. His pay is twice that of a member, being $2,000 for the session of the general assembly.

The speaker of the house is chosen by the members from among their own membership. His pay is twice that of a member, being $2,000 for the session.

The lieutenant governor appoints all committees in the senate and the speaker of the house all committees in the house.

In the regular proceedings of the general assembly motions made by members are not seconded but are put directly by the presiding officer, the formality of a second being waived.

Sessions in both branches of the general assembly are opened by prayer. No regular chaplains are employed, but ministers from Des Moines and elsewhere over the state are assigned dates for these services and are allowed $5 for each opening prayer.

Bills passed are copied (enrolled) by the enrolling clerk of the branch of the general assembly where the bill originates; they are then signed by the president of the senate and speaker of the house in presence of these respective bodies, in open session; then by the governor, if meeting with his approval, and then are filed with the secretary of state. ORGANIZATION

The supreme court consists of nine judges, elected by the people, five of whom constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but one alone may adjourn from day to day, or to a particular day, or until the next term.

Through a provision passed by the forty-fourth general assembly, the senior in time of service is chief justice for six months instead of a year as formerly and so on in rotation until all judges shall have been chief justice.

JURISDICTION

The supreme court has appellate jurisdiction over all judgments and decisions of all courts of record, except as otherwise provided by law.

APPEALS FROM ORDERS.—An appeal may also be taken to the supreme court from :

1. An order made affecting a substantial right in an action, when such order, in effect, determines the action and prevents a judgment from which an appeal might be taken.
2. A final order made in special actions affecting a substantial right therein, or made on a summary application in an action after judgment.
3. An order which grants or refuses, continues or modifies, a provisional remedy; grants or refuses, dissolves or refuses to dissolve, an injunction or attachment; grants or refuses a new trial; sustains or overrules a demurrer in a law action; or sustains or overrules a motion to dismiss in an equitable action.
4. An intermediate order involving the merits or materially affecting the final decision.
5. An order or judgment on habeas corpus.

If any of the above orders or judgments are made or rendered by a judge, the same are reviewable, the same as if made by a court.

The supreme court has power to issue all writs and processes necessary to secure justice to parties, and to enforce its appellate jurisdiction, and it may exercise supervisory control over all inferior judicial tribunals.

It may enforce its mandates upon inferior courts and officers by fine and imprisonment, which imprisonment may continue until mandates are obeyed.

THE DISTRICT COURT OF IOWA

There are at the present time seventy judges of the district court of the state of Iowa. The state is divided into twenty-one judicial districts and each district is entitled to from one to six judges, the number being fixed by statute. The judges are elected for terms of four years. Each judge appoints a shorthand reporter.

The district court shall have general original and exclusive jurisdiction of all actions, proceedings and remedies, both civil and criminal, except in cases where exclusive or concurrent jurisdiction is or may hereafter be conferred upon some other court or tribunal by the constitution and laws of the state, and shall have and exercise all the powers usually possessed and exercised by courts of record. It shall also possess and exercise jurisdiction in all appeals and writs of error taken in civil and criminal actions and special proceedings authorized to be taken from all inferior courts, tribunals, boards or officers, under any provisions of the laws of this state, and shall have a general supervision thereof, in all matters, to prevent and correct abuses, where no other remedy is provided.

The district court of each county shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction to probate the wills of, and to grant administration upon the estates of, all persons who at the time of their death were residents of the county, and non-residents of the state who die leaving property within the county subject to administration, or whose property is afterwards brought into the county.

To appoint guardians of the persons and property of all persons resident in the county subject to guardianship.

To appoint guardians of the property of all such persons non-residents of the state who have property within the county subject to guardianship or whose property is afterwards brought into the county.

It shall have jurisdiction in all matters in relation to the appointment of executors and trustees, and the management and disposition of the property of and settlement of such estates; provided, that where jurisdiction has heretofore been acquired, the same shall be retained until such estate is closed.

The district court shall succeed to and exercise full authority and jurisdiction over the records of the circuit court, and may enforce all judgments, decrees and orders thereof in the same manner and to the same extent as it may exercise like jurisdiction and authority over its own records, and for the purpose of the issuance of process, and of any and all other acts necessary to the due and efficient enforcement of the orders, judgments and decrees of the circuit court, the records thereof shall be deemed records of the district court.

Transcripts and process from the judgments, decrees and records of the circuit court shall be issued by the clerk of the district court and under the seal of his office.

MUNICIPAL COURTS

Any city, whether organized under a special charter, commission form of government or the general law for the incorporation of cities or towns, now or hereafter having a population of five thousand or more, as shown by the last preceding state or United States census, may establish a municipal court. All civil townships in which said city or any part thereof is located shall constitute the municipal court district.

The salary of municipal court judges is $3,000 in cities with population less than 30,000, $3,400 with population between 30,000 and less than 75,000, $3,600 with population 75,000 or over. Compensation of court reporter is fixed by the judge at not to exceed $8.00 per day. Salary of clerk is $1,800, $2,200 and $2,600 according to population of city as above indicated.

JURISDICTION.—Municipal courts have concurrent jurisdiction with the district court in all civil matters, where the amount in controversy does not exceed one thousand dollars, except in probate matters, actions for divorce, alimony, separate maintenance, those directly affecting the title to real estate, and juvenile proceedings unless otherwise authorized.

In all criminal matters the court shall exercise the jurisdiction conferred on justice of the peace courts, mayor's courts, and police courts, except that the mayor's court of any incorporated city or town within such municipal court district other than the city in which said court is established shall have exclusive jurisdiction of prosecutions for violations of city ordinances.

In all matters of which the municipal court has jurisdiction, it has the same powers in reference to injunctions, writs, orders and other proceedings in and out of court as are possessed by the district court and the judges thereof.

There are at present five such courts, located as follows: Cedar Rapids, Grinnell, Iowa Falls, Keokuk and Oelwein. The judges are elected for terms of four years and receive an annual salary, which is paid quarterly, the first two quarters being paid from the city treasury and the last two quarters from the county treasury of the county in which court is located. Salary of judge, $2,000 per annum in cities up to 25,000 population; $3,000 in cities of 25,000 up to 40,000, and $3,750 in cities of 40,000 or more.

The judges appoint a shorthand reporter, whose compensation is fixed by order of the court not exceeding $8.00 per day for the time actually employed.

The following is a copy of sections 10704 and 10705 of the code, governing the jurisdiction of the superior court:

Said court shall have jurisdiction concurrent with the district court in all civil matters except in probate matters and actions for divorce, alimony, and separate maintenance.

It shall have exclusive original jurisdiction to try and determine all actions, civil and criminal, for the violation of city ordinances and all jurisdiction conferred on police courts as now or as may hereafter be provided by law and concurrent jurisdiction with justices of the peace.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION

The regular democratic state convention was held in Des Moines July 22, 1932. Clyde L. Herring of Des Moines was chairman. Following is the platform adopted by the convention :

This is a period of intense social and economic distress. The correction by political action of ills due to causes national in their origin and scope, lies mainly with the national congress and executives.

In so far, however, as the people suffer by reason of ills, the correction of which lie within the power of the state, the democratic party declares its conviction that in large measure such ills are due to an excessive tax burden caused by inefficiency and waste, to a complicated and expensive governmental machinery—both state and local—and to an unwise and ill-managed conduct and operation of our state banking department.

It is the obligation of this convention to propose the means for correction of these ills, and of our candidates to supply the leadership to translate such means into action.

PROGRAM FOR RELIEF.—Therefore, believing that the people of Iowa are hopefully looking for a program that will bring relief to them, sensible of our own obligation and responsibility to that end, confident that relief is possible only by a just administration of state government by able, competent officials primarily devoted to the people's interests, and pledging our candidates to the fulfillment of this program as a covenant with the people, we, the democratic party in Iowa, in convention assembled, do declare this to be our program :

The ruinous burden of taxation that has weighed so heavily on Iowa farms and other real estate has been due in large part to the fact that intangible personal property has either entirely escaped taxation or proper assessment.

To equalize and relieve real estate from its unjust burden, we favor the enactment of laws that will place the duty and responsibility on the taxpayer to make written return under oath of his personal property, including moneys and credits, to the county auditor each year for taxation purposes, and if necessary, to further relieve real estate we favor an income tax with sound exemptions. We advocate a complete revision of the entire system for the assessment, levy and collection of taxes, including mandatory levies.

We favor an immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures. The administrative machinery of our state and local government must be completely reorganized. Our state government now consists of 50 odd departments, boards, bureaus and commissions with duplication, overlapping and divided responsibility.

We again advocate, as we did in 1920, and since, a complete businesslike reorganization of the machinery of government along the lines then advocated, on a departmental basis designed and adapted to our present problems. It should be so framed as to impose, so far as possible, direct responsibility upon the chief executive.

AGRICULTURE.—Agriculture is a basic industry. There can be no permanent prosperity in state and nation until it is restored. To aid in its restoration we especially :

Indorse the statement of the democratic national platform adopted at Chicago :

"For the restoration of agriculture, the nation's basic industry, better financing of farm mortgages through reorganized farm bank agencies at low rates of interest, on an amortization plan, giving preference to credits for the redemption of farms and homes sold under foreclosure; extension and development of the farm cooperative movement and effective control of crop surpluses so that our farmers may have the full benefit of the domestic market.

"Enactment of every constitutional measure that will aid the farmer to receive for basic farm commodities prices in excess of cost of production."

We urge our candidates for congress to stand committed to the policy of bringing about legislation that will hereafter prevent the drastic withdrawal of currency from circulation so that the dollar will as nearly as possible have a uniform purchasing power.

We advocate the cessation of reclamation projects which bring more land into production.

We advocate laws encouraging the full development of farmer owned and controlled marketing agencies, giving them equal rights on all exchanges.

We advocate equality for agriculture in world-wide market information and service.

We advocate the adoption of banking laws and a credit system adapted also to the business of farming. Such laws should take into account the necessity for longer time loans to farmers.

Land tenantry is rapidly increasing in Iowa and so far as it may be done by appropriate legislation, long term leasing of farm lands should be encouraged. There should be carefully worked out and adopted a state policy which will encourage reforestation and other utilization of the marginal lands of this state.

BANKING.—We condemn the policy invoked by the banking department, directing our banks to withdraw and withhold loans from Iowa farm lands and invest their funds in bonds prohibited and unauthorized under our banking laws. This policy of the banking department has deprived the Iowa farmers of all reasonable credit, and has precipitated many of our banks into insolvency and our farmers into bankruptcy.

We believe that any sound banking policy should have as its first purpose the creation of a reasonable assurance of the safe and full return of the depositors' money.

We believe that a strict enforcement of the Iowa banking laws, pertaining to the investment of the bank's funds and all moneys deposited therein, with frequent and rigid examinations by competent examiners, is the first and most essential step in placing our banking institutions on a sound basis.

LABOR.—We reaffirm the traditional friendship of the democratic party for labor. We urge such legislation as will continue to conserve the American standard of wages and to this end we pledge the democratic party:

To legislation legalizing the right of labor to organize and bargain collectively.

To the restriction of foreign immigration.

To the use by state institutions of coal and goods produced in Iowa.

To the adoption of an old age pension.

To vocational training to meet the demands of technical progress.

To a substantial reduction of the hours of labor.

To opposition to the present system of contracting of prison labor and we favor the state use plan.

WAR VETERANS.—We condemn the republican party for violating the spirit, if not the very letter, of the soldiers' preference law. We pledge our party to the rigid enforcement of such law.

ENDORSEMENTS.—We unqualifiedly approve the platform adopted by the democratic party in the national convention at Chicago. We whole-heartedly endorse the candidacies of Governor Roosevelt and Speaker Garner.

We ask the attention of the voters of Iowa to the outstanding qualifications of Louis Murphy, our nominee for United States senate, of Clyde L. Herring, our nominee for governor, and of the nominees for congress and state offices.

CHANGE NECESSARY.—It has been demonstrated that reduction of taxes, reorganization of our taxing system and governmental machinery, and strict enforcement of our banking laws may not be expected from those now in authority.

We ask the support of our nominees and pledge them to carry into effect by appropriate legislation the remedies herein set forth.

We believe that only by the complete overthrow of the group now in control of our state government and the substitution of competent leadership, can there be adopted and put into effective administration the changes and remedies necessary to bring our people the needed relief.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION

The regular republican state convention was held in Des Moines July 19, 1932. George W. Prichard of Onawa was chairman. Following is the platform adopted by the convention:

We republicans of the state of Iowa in convention assembled hereby renew our faith in the principles of the republican party. We pledge ourselves to continue to strive for those measures and policies that are needed to restore economic independence for the rank and file of the people and guarantee fair remuneration for toil to the farm, to labor, to business, and, in fact, all the citizens of our land.

COMMEND HOOVER.—We strongly commend the courage and resourcefulness of President Hoover. In the face of great opposition he has consistently stood for a constructive program for rehabilitation of the economic and financial structure of the nation.

With infinite patience and unquestioned courage President Hoover has furnished constructive leadership. His opposition to pork barrel legislation and his program of constructive measures to meet emergency conditions merits the approval of all.

"WHEN VICTORY COMES."—We wish to commend at this time the following reference to our president as set forth in the words of our national platform:

"When victory comes, as it will, this generation will hand on to the next a great heritage unimpaired. This will be due in large measure to the quality of the leadership that this country has had during this crisis. We have had in the White House a leader, wise, courageous, patient, understanding, resourceful, ever-present at his post of duty, tireless in his efforts and unswervingly faithful to American ideals and principles."

INDORSE PLATFORM.—We hereby indorse the platform of the republican party as adopted by the national convention in Chicago in June, 1932, in its entirety and pledge to that platform and to President Herbert Hoover and Vice President Charles Curtis our support.

In the long line of distinguished men who have been honored with the executive leadership of Iowa, none has stood higher in the confidence and esteem of the people of this great state than Gov. Dan W. Turner, our candidate for reelection to the highest post of honor within the gift of the people.

"DETERMINED FIGHT."—His determined fight to reduce the cost of government, lighten the burden of taxation and to equalize that burden has aroused the hope of the people that at last definite relief is within their reach. Under his able, courageous leadership Iowa will go forward along safe, conservative lines, mindful always of the best interests of its citizens.

In our candidate for United States senator, Henry Field, we have a man of the people who knows their needs, their aspirations and their desires. We commend his outspoken frankness and his statement: "I am for Iowa." Qualified by a long and successful business career and possessing the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens we confidently predict his election in November and a career of usefulness and achievement at Washington.

CONGRESSMEN.—We strongly endorse the record of the congressmen of our party renominated in the late primary in the fight they have made for agriculture and in their strenuous efforts in behalf of their constituents. We recommend them for their position in demanding that the reconstruction measures be made to apply directly to the farm.

FARM MEASURES.—It is our earnest belief that the agricultural states of the middle west should stand as a unit in defense of those measures that are needed to place agriculture on an equality with other industry and we pledge our support to our representatives in congress in the coming election.

The state government has been carried on with efficiency and economy and we heartily indorse the republican nominees for state and district offices.

TAX REVISION.—The coming legislature will be one of the most important assemblies ever held in the state of Iowa and we sincerely advocate the election of our nominees to that assembly, pledging them to drastic measures of economy and equitable revision of the tax system. We commend the forty-fourth general assembly for the passage of tax reduction laws, and recommend to the forty-fifth general assembly a continuation of the policy of tax reduction thus inaugurated.

"IOWA."—In the economic crisis faced by the nation at this period everyone concedes that farm prosperity is the only hope of renewed business and industrial activity. Farmers at subsistence levels have ceased to be customers for anything but sheer necessities.

Ten years of debate on the farm problem have established the fact that there can be no substantial recovery until the price structure for grains and animal products going into domestic consumption shall be isolated from the price structure of the same commodities when exported, thus permitting the addition of the protective tariff duties to the world price on domestic consumption.

EQUALIZATION FEE.—So therefore we urge upon those in authority to enact either the Equalization Fee, Export Debenture Plan or Domestic Allotment Plan.

The republican party of Iowa further declares its profound conviction that the welfare of the nation demands the adoption of a wise, far-reaching land policy which shall insure the ownership and occupation of the soil by the small farmer as an independent producer. Such a program must include provision for proper financing the land at low interest rates, a withdrawal of marginal land from production, fair taxation and the effective application of the protective tariff to this great basic industry.

SURPLUS CROPS.—Realizing as we do that the re-establishment of better times must start from the farm we advocate:

First—The enactment of federal legislation that will prevent the surplus of crops from dictating the price of the whole crop, thereby guaranteeing us for farm products the American price, and also assuring us that the tariff on farm products will become operative.

Second—We believe that there should be federal legislation making it mandatory on the Federal Reserve system to control the volume of money and credit so as to stabilize the price of farm products on a basis consistent with the cost of production.

TARIFF.—Third—We believe in the principles of the protective tariff and do insist that it should be made operative as to agricultural products as well as the products of other industry

Fourth—We demand that some method be taken to prevent vegetable oils and other commodities coming from our island possessions from entering our country free of tax and competing with American agricultural products.

Fifth—We are strongly in favor of reduction in governmental expenditures and insist that taxes should be reduced to the point where they will be in harmony with present economic conditions.

TAX BURDEN.—Sixth—We are unreservedly in favor of tax revision so as to spread out the tax burden more equitably among the people. We again urge upon the legislature the necessity of a thorough revision of our revenue laws to the end that the unjust burden of taxation now resting upon real estate may be lightened, inequalities in assessments removed and the burden of taxation adjusted so that all classes of property may bear their just and equal share of the load.

We therefore favor the adoption of a net income tax with reasonable exemptions which shall replace property levies.

IOWA PRODUCTS.—We urge a state policy of developing Iowa industries and the consumption of Iowa products and especially do we believe that all tax supported institutions should give preference to the products of Iowa labor and Iowa enterprise.

We commend the education campaign of the Iowa Coal institute to further the use of Iowa coal in Iowa institutions and industries, thereby increasing the employment of Iowa labor and encouraging the development of a great Iowa industry.

AMENDMENTS.—We recognize the inalienable right of the people of the United States, by appropriate action of the forty-eight states, to change their constitution in the manner provided by the constitution itself, and that this right should be in no manner abridged. Thus understood we approve the provision of the platform of the last national republican convention with respect to the eighteenth amendment, which makes provision for an amendment to be proposed and submitted to the people in a constitutional manner.

STRICT ENFORCEMENT.—In the event no changes are made by constitutional provision, and by our own state laws, we pledge the republican party of Iowa and its nominees to a strict enforcement of the prohibition laws of our state and nation.

REPUBLICAN STATE JUDICIAL COMMITTEE

The republican state judicial convention was held at Clinton July 26, 1932, with George Claussen of Clinton as chairman. Justice Lawrence DeGraff, Des Moines; Justice F. F. Faville, Fort Dodge; and Justice Henry F. Wagner, Sigourney, were nominated for judges of the supreme court.

EXPLANATION OF ELECTION STATISTICS

Election statistics in this book are more in detail than are the official returns to the Secretary of State. The official returns do not include the vote by precincts. The vote by precincts is furnished for this book by the County Auditors direct to the Superintendent of Printing. These precinct returns appear as submitted by the County Auditors, and all compilations of state and county returns in this volume are based thereon. This produces harmony within this volume, but there may be differences between the total of the vote shown in this volume and the vote recorded in the office of the Secretary of State for the reason that there may be occasional errors in making these two separate and different reports.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that, whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world:

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained, and, when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature—a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the state remaining in the meantime exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these states; for that purpose obstructing the laws of naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone for the tenure of their offices and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislature.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitutions and unacknowledged by our laws, giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation—

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us ;

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states ;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world ;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent ;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury ;

For transporting us beyond seas, to be tried for pretended offenses ;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province ; establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies ;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments ;

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms ; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts, by their legislature, to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity ; and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in general congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, that these united colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states ; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connections between them and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved ; and that, as free and independent states, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and do all other acts and things which independent states may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

Recommended by the convention of the states to congress Sept. 17, 1787, and by it submitted to the states for ratification, which by the concurrence of nine states, was consummated and proclaimed and on March 4, 1789, the government commenced operations under the new constitution.

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I

SECTION 1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and house of representatives.

SEC. 2. (1)* The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states; and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.

(2) No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

* The figures in parentheses are inserted for convenience of reference; they are not in the original.

(3) [Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this union according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding, to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons.] The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each state shall have at least one representative, and, until such enumeration shall be made, the state of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five and Georgia three.

(4) When vacancies happen in the representation from any state, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

(5) The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SEC. 3. (1) The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, chosen by the legislature thereof for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.

(2) Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any state the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

(3) No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

(4) The vice-president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

(5) The senate shall choose their other officers and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice-president or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.

(6) The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

(7) Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law.

SEC. 4. (1) The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof, but the congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

(2) The congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

SEC. 5. (1) Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

(2) Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behaviour, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

(3) Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

(4) Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

SEC. 6. (1) The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the attendance at the sessions of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

(2) No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

SEC. 7. (1) All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives, but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

(2) Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the president of the United States; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and, if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it unless the congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

(3) Every order, resolution or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the president of the United States, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SEC. 8. The congress shall have power:—

(1) To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for common defense and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.

(2) To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

(3) To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and with the Indian tribes;

(4) To establish a uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States.

(5) To coin money, regulate the value thereof and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures;

(6) To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;

- (7) To establish post-offices and post-roads;
 - (8) To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;
 - (9) To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court;
 - (10) To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses against the law of nations;
 - (11) To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;
 - (12) To raise and support armies; but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;
 - (13) To provide and maintain a navy;
 - (14) To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;
 - (15) To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions;
 - (16) To provide for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States; reserving to the states, respectively, the appointment of the officers and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by congress;
 - (17) To exercise exclusive legislation, in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular states and the acceptance of congress, become the seat of the government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock yards and other needful buildings; and—
 - (18) To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.
- SEC. 9. (1) The migration or importation of such person as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.
- (2) The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.
 - (3) No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.
 - (4) No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.
 - (5) No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.
 - (6) No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one state be obliged to enter, clear or pay duties in another.
 - (7) No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law, and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.
 - (8) No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States; and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them shall, without the consent of the congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince or foreign state.
- SEC. 10. (1) No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.
- (2) No state shall, without the consent of the congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any state on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subjected to the revision and control of the congress.

(3) No state shall, without the consent of congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION 1. (1) The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice-president chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

(2) Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the congress; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

The electors shall meet in their respective states and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose, by ballot, one of them for president; and if no person have a majority then from the five highest on the list, the said house shall, in like manner, choose the president. But in choosing the president the votes shall be taken by states, the representation for each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice-president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the vice-president.

[The foregoing clause has been superseded and annulled by the twelfth amendment.]

(3) The congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

(4) No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

(5) In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice-president, and the congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the president and vice-president, declaring what officer shall then act as president, and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed or a president shall be elected.

(6) The president shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States or any of them.

(7) Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

SEC. 2. (1) The president shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion in writing of the principal officer in each of the executive departments upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices; and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

(2) He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the senate shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States, whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for and which shall be established by law. But the congress may, by law, vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the president alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

(3) The president shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

SEC. 3. He shall from time to time give to the congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them and, in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper. He shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers. He shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

SEC. 4. The president, vice-president and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

SECTION 1. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the congress may, from time to time, ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior; and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

SEC. 2. (1) The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity arising under this constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more states, between a state and citizens of another state, between citizens of different states, between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different states, and between a state, or the citizens thereof, and foreign states, citizens or subjects.

(2) In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be a party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases, before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the congress shall make.

(3) The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the congress may by law have directed.

SEC. 3. (1) Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort.

No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

(2) The congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION 1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other state. And the congress may, by general laws, prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SEC. 2. (1) The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states.

(2) A person charged in any state with treason, felony or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another state, shall on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

(3) No person held to service or labor in one state, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

SEC. 3. (1) New states may be admitted by the congress into this Union; but no new state shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state, nor any state be formed by the junction of two or more states, or parts of states, without the consent of the legislatures of the states concerned as well as of the congress.

(2) The congress shall have power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States or of any particular state.

SEC. 4. The United States shall guarantee to every state in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and, on application of the legislature, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

The congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution, or, on application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress; provided that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

ARTICLE VI.

(1) All debts contracted and engagements entered into before the adoption of this constitution shall be as valid against the United States under this constitution as under the confederation.

(2) This constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby, anything in the constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding.

(3) The senators and representatives before mentioned and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The ratification of the convention of nine states shall be sufficient for the establishment of this constitution between the states so ratifying the same. Done in convention, by the unanimous consent of the states present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the independence of the United States of America the twelfth. CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF IOWA

INTRODUCTION

Iowa was organized as a separate Territory by an act of Congress approved on June 12, 1838, but it was not until 1844 that steps were taken to secure admission into the Union. A constitutional convention met at Iowa City in October, 1844. The Constitution drafted by this convention was twice submitted to the voters of the Territory of Iowa and twice rejected by them, largely because of dissatisfaction with the boundaries of the proposed State.

A second constitutional convention met at Iowa City in May, 1846. The Constitution drafted by this convention was ratified by a majority of 456 votes at an election held on August 3, 1846, and Iowa was admitted as a State on December 28, 1846.

The Constitution of 1846, however, contained a number of provisions which were found to be unsatisfactory in practice. One of these was the prohibition of banking institutions. As a result of this dissatisfaction, the legislature in 1855 provided for an election on the question of calling a convention to revise or amend the Constitution of 1846. The vote was 32,390 for a convention and 14,162 against a convention. Delegates were elected on November 4, 1856, and the convention met at Iowa City on January 19, 1857.

The delegates drafted a new Constitution which was submitted to the people at an election held on August 3, 1857, and ratified by a vote of 40,311 to 38,681. This Constitution went into effect by proclamation of the Governor on September 3, 1857.

The Constitution of 1857 has, since its adoption seventy-four years ago, remained the fundamental law of the State of Iowa; but it has been amended a number of times.

THE CONSTITUTION¹

WE, THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF IOWA, grateful to the Supreme Being for the blessings hitherto enjoyed, and feeling our dependence on Him for a continuation of those blessings, do ordain and establish a free and independent government, by the name of the STATE OF IOWA, the boundaries whereof shall be as follows:

Beginning in the middle of the main channel of the Mississippi River, at a point due East of the middle of the mouth of the main channel of the Des Moines River, thence up the middle of the main channel of the said Des Moines River, to a point on said river where the Northern boundary line of the State of Missouri—as established by the constitution of that State—adopted June 12th, 1820—crosses the said middle of the main channel of the said Des Moines River; thence Westwardly along the said Northern boundary line of the State of Missouri, as established at the time aforesaid, until an extension of said line intersects the middle of main channel of the Missouri River; thence up the middle of the main channel of the said Missouri River to a point opposite the middle of the main channel of the Big Sioux River, according to Nicollett's Map; thence up the main channel of the said Big Sioux River, according to the said map, until it is intersected by the parallel of forty-three degrees and thirty minutes North latitude; thence East along said parallel of forty-three degrees and thirty minutes until said parallel intersects the middle of the main channel of the Mississippi River; thence down the middle of the main channel of said Mississippi River to the place of beginning.
