JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

FIRST CALENDAR DAY
FIRST SESSION DAY

Senate Chamber
Des Moines, Iowa, Monday, January 8, 2024

The Senate met in regular session at 10:00 a.m., President Sinclair presiding.

Prayer was offered by the honorable Amy Sinclair, member of the Senate from Wayne County.

ADOPTION OF TEMPORARY RULES AND TEMPORARY COMPENSATION

Senator Whitver moved that the rules of the Senate adopted by the Eighty-ninth General Assembly and provisions for compensation adopted by the Eighty-ninth General Assembly be adopted as the temporary rules and temporary compensation provisions for the 2024 Session of the Ninetieth General Assembly.

The motion prevailed by a voice vote.

OPENING REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE

President Sinclair addressed the Senate with the following remarks:

Good morning, Senators, staff, guests, and Iowans everywhere. As I welcome you to the 2024 Session of the 90th General Assembly, my heart, like the hearts of all Iowans, is heavy. My thoughts and prayers remain with the victims, families, and Perry community, and my heartfelt thanks goes to all of the first responders who helped save lives. Despite this selfish act of violence in our state, I sincerely hope each of you had a chance to enjoy the interim. Each year I'm here, there is never a shortage of new faces, and I appreciate the annual opportunity to meet new friends and rekindle old friendships.

It remains the greatest honor of my life to serve over 60,000 Iowans in District 12 and Iowans all over the state as your Senate President. The work we do can sometimes be difficult, but it is always rewarding. The hard work we complete in this grand building is shaping the trajectory of the state, impacting the lives of over 3,000,000 Iowans, and setting an example for other states to follow.

Since taking the majority in 2017, Senate Republicans have worked tirelessly to lower taxes, empower families, and restore individual liberties.

These efforts are working. In this time, our tax climate has improved 13 positions in national rankings. We are ranked in the top ten for fiscal stability, top ten for best overall state, and top three for opportunity. At the same time, our state's budget has never been in a stronger position. Responsible budgeting has resulted in spending only 88% of our ongoing revenues, filling our reserves to their statutory maximums, and still maintaining a $2 billion budget surplus. Senate Republicans are leading the state the same way responsible Iowans run their businesses, families, and personal finances. Lower taxes and less spending have fueled a robust economy in the state, giving Iowans more opportunities to flourish.

Creating opportunities isn't just limited to taxes and the economy. Creating educational opportunities is equally important to ensuring our students get the most out of their formative years. I remember 2013, my first year in the Senate, when I was first assigned to the Education Committee. Senator Jerry Behn, who was recently assigned to the committee for his second stint, came to me, and he asked me to be a co-sponsor to Senate File 323. This was the first time the concept of education savings accounts had been introduced in Iowa. Senator Behn continued to serve on the Senate Education Committee until his retirement, where he worked tirelessly advocating for his bill. He had a vision for Iowa students and their families. A vision of revolutionary change in our education system to empower parents to make educational decisions for their children, not government officials. Finally last year, 10 years after Senator Behn first filed Senate File 323, I had the privilege of floor managing the Students First Act and watching it be signed into law by Governor Reynolds. The decade of work was long and difficult, but certainly rewarding with over 29,000 Iowa students applying for an ESA this year.

Senate Republicans have long stood for freedom, and not just educational freedom. We have protected consumer choice in the marketplace. We have protected the personal information of Iowans from needless government intrusion. We have protected parental rights and increased transparency in Iowa classrooms. We have even given small dairy producers the freedom to sell fresh milk in the state. These are rights that never should have been questioned in the first place, and I'm proud of the work we have done to restore these personal freedoms to Iowans.

The work we have done is being noticed. Iowa is leading the way, not just among other states, but across the world. I have spent much of the interim hosting visitors from across the country and the world and traveling to other states and countries. Everywhere I go, everyone who visits, they all ask me how we did it. Leaders from other states and countries are looking to Iowa as a leader in good governance. These leaders are seeking to replicate what we have accomplished. These other places want to be like Iowa.

Regardless of where we fall on the ideological spectrum, we can all be proud of our accomplishments and the worldwide recognition we are receiving. I sincerely believe everyone in this room wants what is best for the state, and while we may sometimes disagree about how to accomplish this, I think we can all agree that prosperity is good. We are prosperous, and others want to be like us.

I look forward to this session and the work we will accomplish. It is an honor to serve in this body, as your president, and for the people of Iowa. Thank you, God bless you, and may God continue to bless the State of Iowa.

REMARKS BY THE MINORITY LEADER

Senator Jochum addressed the Senate with the following remarks:

Thank you, Madam President.

Good morning, Madam President, good morning senators, staff, members of the press, and, of course, fellow Iowans: Welcome back to our Iowa Capitol and welcome to the 2024 Legislative Session.

Before I begin, I too also want to offer my deepest condolences to the community of Perry, the family of Ahmir Jolliff, and all the families whose lives will never be the same after the tragedy at Perry High School. There is no pain like the pain of losing a child.

In our grief, though, we must also ask tough questions and acknowledge hard truths. How do we tame violence in our country – violence that touched East High School here in Des Moines less than two years ago and now Perry? The truth is, we must address gun safety. We must find a solution to gun violence.

No child – no child – should go to school fearing for their lives, but today, millions do. Gun safety should not be a partisan issue. Protecting kids should not be a partisan issue. It's time for us, senators, to come together with real solutions, including increased support for our public schools and a meaningful investment in youth brain health services.

We're convening here from every corner of Iowa, and bringing with us the priorities and perspectives of the Iowans and the communities we represent.

Our duty over the next few months is to shape those perspectives into law that improve Iowans' lives and make our state an even better place to live. To do it right, we must lead with our shared values and always remember who we're working for.

I know who I'm working for: I see them up and down Jackson Street in Dubuque when I'm out gardening or getting the mail. I see them catching the bus for work in the morning, and coming at night home bone-tired. My neighbors on Jackson Street often stop and tell me how they're doing – and how $13 bucks an hour just doesn't go far enough anymore. They talk about how hard it is to find childcare in their community and, of course, they're also concerned about Iowa schools and access to healthcare.

That's what I hear about in my neighborhood, and it's what I hear all across the state, too. As the Senate Democratic leader, I've put 16,000 miles on my little Chevy over the last few months. I've been from Villisca to La Motte to Fort Madison and beyond, meeting with Iowans and listening – listening – to their needs and concerns.

Whether it's been on the sidewalks in Dubuque or in the union hall in Keokuk or the library in Osage, Iowans are all saying the same thing: they're fed up with culture wars and special interest giveaways. They're tired of small and mean politics that divide us and deny us our rights. They're worried about the future – for themselves and for their children.

Iowans want a better deal from their state government, and that's exactly what Senate Democrats are fighting for in 2024.

Today, on the opening day of the '24 legislative session, Senate Democrats pledge to the people of Iowa to lead with our shared values. We pledge to advance an agenda that lifts all of us up together.

And we're challenging the governor and our colleagues across the aisle to join us in that effort.

For every item that comes across our desks this session, we're going to ask three questions:

- Does it create more opportunity for Iowans?
- Does it ensure freedom for Iowans?
- Does it provide more accountability for Iowans?

If the answer is yes, Senate Democrats are ready to work with Republican colleagues to get it done. If the answer is no, we're gonna fight like heck against it, and let the people of Iowa know why.

In 2024, Senate Democrats are committed to expanding and ensuring opportunity for every family, every child, and every worker in our state.

Every family in every community deserves a fair shot at success, comfort, and opportunity to get ahead. That's the Iowa we're fighting for, and that's what you'll see reflected in the legislation that we support this year.

Every child should have access to a high-quality public education that prepares them for the life they want. That means adequate funding for our public schools, defending our Area Education Agencies against cuts to essential services for our children with special needs, and resisting the voucher law that favors the few over the many.

Every worker deserves a chance to earn a paycheck that supports their family and respects their work. Costs are simply too high – especially for essentials like housing and childcare – and Iowans are looking to us for solutions.

We have an opportunity to make life more affordable for Iowa families; to strengthen our public education while supporting students, teachers, parents and to protect and increase workers' rights. We just need the will of a majority of senators in this chamber.

In 2024, Senate Democrats will fight for the freedom of all Iowans to make their own choices and live their own lives without undue interference from their government. Our liberties we prize and our rights we will maintain. Iowans believe in our state motto, and Senate Democrats do, too.

We know that a strong majority of Iowans support safe, legal access to reproductive health, including abortion. Extreme bans like the one the Republican majority forced into law last year attack fundamental freedoms and endanger the health of Iowans. Senate Democrats have a plan to write reproductive freedom into our state constitution and expand access to birth control. We hope Republicans will listen to the majority of Iowans and join us in that effort.

In 2024, Senate Democrats are going to stand up for the people of Iowa and make sure that politicians, government, and big business are held accountable to their needs.

Our state government belongs to the people. Our ancestors created this beautiful building as a monument to democracy. This capitol is not built for those of us on the inside of it – it was built for those on the outside of it. This government should work for middle-class and working Iowans – not self-serving politicians, influential interest groups, and out-of-state corporations. Senate Democrats will hold politicians accountable when they put donors and special interests ahead of regular folks. We will enforce checks and balances and resist efforts to silence the voices of Iowans in the operation of their government. We will fight back against corporate power and greed that comes at the expense of working Iowans.

We've heard a lot of talk about changes to the tax code – including potentially even eliminating the income tax altogether. Well, we've seen a lot of changes in the tax code already, and unfortunately, almost all of them have been giveaways to big corporations and the very wealthy.

Our bottom line: we need middle-class tax relief that reaches Iowa families in Iowa communities – not more handouts and free passes for the wealthy and the powerful. And any tax cuts must be smart and sustainable and maintain our essential investments in the people of Iowa.

Opportunity, freedom and accountability. That's what Senate Democrats stand for, and that's what we expect to see on our agenda in 2024.

To my Republican colleagues, I sincerely look forward to working with you on that agenda. I'm proud of the relationships I've built across the aisle, and the compromises and progress that we have been able to make over the years. Together, we can govern in the best interest of every single Iowan.

But let me end with this: if the majority chooses instead to go down the path of endless culture war, political grandstanding, and narrow special interest – we will hold you accountable – and so will the people of Iowa. The people of Iowa want a better deal.

Thank you, Madam President.

COMMITTEE FROM THE HOUSE

A committee from the House appeared and notified the Senate that the House was duly organized and ready to receive any communication the Senate might be ready to transmit.

REMARKS BY THE MAJORITY LEADER

Senator Whitver addressed the Senate with the following remarks:

Good morning Madame President and colleagues of the Senate,

I'd like to take a moment now to mention the tragedy in Perry last week. It is impossible to find words to appropriately convey the sorrow and the sympathy we have to the victims of the shooting, but the people of Perry should know we share in their grief and support them at this time.

Good men and women in Perry and surrounding communities did many good things to prevent this tragedy from being worse.

Law enforcement response time was 7 minutes. When they arrived, they immediately contained the threat, protected students, and quickly determined no additional threats existed. Emergency health care professionals also responded quickly, cared for those injured in the attack, and took them to the hospital.

According to news reports, the principal of Perry High School approached the shooter and put himself in extraordinary danger to protect the lives of students in his school. It is a remarkable demonstration of courage and self-sacrifice. Being a servant leader is easy to talk about, but in moments like these it is hard to do. It shows how leaders act in times of crisis. It shows how Iowans act to protect and defend each other.

Thank you to law enforcement, health care providers, and school leaders for all their work to defend Perry students. They are in our prayers as they move forward from the evil perpetrated in their community last week.

While we cannot legislate away evil and get rid of all the bad things in the world, we will keep our thoughts and prayers with Perry as we move forward to put in place policies to help make our state better and stronger.

Life is full of competition. It's basketball and wrestling season and teams from elementary school to college are competing against each other, winning, losing, and improving. Businesses across Iowa are competing with each other for customers and market share, making their products better and their prices more economical. Competition spurs innovation, benefits consumers, and has been a key driver of the American economy, which has improved the lives of its people more than any country in history.

Just like sports teams and small businesses, states are increasingly competing for jobs, investments, and people with other states. For a few moments, I'd like to compare the Iowa plan with the agendas of our neighbors to the north and east.

Last month the REC evaluated Iowa's economic status and the condition of the state budget and determined our state was experiencing organic economic growth. This growth is leading to revenues higher than expected, even with the largest income tax cut in Iowa history, the elimination of the tax on retirement income, the phasing out of the inheritance tax and a reduction in the income tax on Iowa businesses.

The Senate has consistently demonstrated fiscal responsibility to ensure these tax cuts are sustainable. As a dad with three kids at home, I know how hard it is to be consistent. So, I applaud the members in this chamber who, year after year, do the hard work it takes to support conservative budgets. We provided reasonable increases to public safety, education, and health care, while at the same time preserving the interest of the taxpayer and improving our state's competitiveness.

One of our focuses as Senate Republicans is competitiveness. We want to improve Iowa's competitiveness with the states around us, and make our state the best to live, work, and raise a family. We want Iowa to be at the top of the list for people looking for careers, the top of the list for families looking to settle down and build a home, the top of the list for employers looking to grow and expand, and the top of the list for an educated and skilled workforce.

While Iowa has passed measured increases in state spending, our neighbors to the north have struggled quite a bit with that concept. Minnesota Democrats have their own trifecta and they used it to grow their budget by 38 percent. But a 38 percent budget increase wasn't enough for Minnesota liberals. They passed a billion-dollar bonding package. Then, they signed into law $2.2 billion in additional tax increases, even with historic surpluses in the state.

The contrast between the positive news from the Iowa revenue projections and Minnesota's is clear. Iowa is projected to have a surplus of roughly $2.8 billion in fiscal year 2025, while Minnesota's revenue estimating panel projected a $2.3 billion deficit in 2025.

So much rhetoric has been spilled in this building accusing Republicans of turning Iowa into the next Kansas. I think the much bigger and much more real danger for states is becoming the next Minnesota. A state where, in the span of two years, big spending legislators and governor turned a record surplus into a projected deficit. Overspending leads to higher taxes, broken promises, and fewer opportunities.

Last year they provided taxpayer-subsidized health care to illegal immigrants, and they gave them free college tuition. Instead of putting more resources towards police officers, they funded something called "violence interrupters." Yeah, I don't know what it means either.

The list of bad policies from Minnesota doesn't stop there, but for the moment we will turn our attention to our neighbors to the east.

Many stories have been published about how Illinois struggles to keep its people safe. They are the first state to eliminate cash bail. They have a large sanctuary city and are enduring the incentives it creates for trafficking, the flow of fentanyl, and organized crime. It should come as no surprise when major companies from Illinois make high profile departures to other states, they often cite the significant rise in crime. They tolerated high taxes and a dysfunctional state government for years but when their employees were no longer safe, it was the final straw for them.

In Iowa we chose a different path. We have very clearly declared support for law enforcement, providing them legal protections and steady increases in funding. The state has cracked down on the serious problem of illegal immigration because we know it is a fundamental task of government to keep its people safe.

Last year was a historic year for parents and students in Iowa. We passed a parents bill of rights, putting into law the long-standing concept that parents have the final say in the education of their children and gave all parents a choice in the education of their children.

In Illinois, they killed a scholarship program for lower income students, guaranteeing school choice only for the wealthy, despite more than 20,000 Illinois kids on the waiting list for those scholarships.

After passing school choice for Iowans, we saw thousands of parents sign up for education savings accounts to help put their child in a school that will help them be successful. While we had estimated how many would apply for this program, thousands more did. That response tells me, Iowans want choice, they want freedom, and they want to do what is best for their children.

The point of these comparisons is to show the example we are setting with our pro-growth, pro-jobs, and pro-family policies. The policies we are enacting give families, job creators, and small businesses across the country a place to grow and succeed. The message to them is, "Iowa is the place for you."

We've seen results from many of the policies we've enacted. Iowa is the number one state to retire. We moved up from being 46th in the country for our tax climate in 2017 to 33rd due to our work on lowering rates and simplifying the tax code, and our flat tax hasn't even gone into effect yet. Our state has been rated as the number one state for lowest housing costs and the state with the second lowest health care costs in the nation.

The positive news isn't just limited to headlines and rankings by national outlets. For decades Iowa's population has been stagnant at about 3 million people. For decades, Iowa has had high tax rates and largely done business the same way. Seven years ago we started down a different path. We promised to control spending, reduce needless regulations, and open the door to new career opportunities. And we are seeing it happening. Americans are fleeing high tax, high crime, big spending states and relocating to states with low taxes and more opportunity. Iowa has been adding population, while migration out of states like California and Illinois is high.

This legislative session, we are going to stay on this path forward, making Iowa a model for other states. We will expedite the tax cuts so Iowans keep more of their money sooner. We will condense the number of income tax brackets making taxes simpler and fairer. And we will responsibly manage our budget to focus on the necessities and maintain the principle of putting the taxpayer first, not the government. We will continue to pursue reforms by reviewing the hundreds of boards and commissions populating state government. The goal is to make government more efficient and help Iowans get to work faster.

In one sentence, here's the plan: cut taxes, control spending, reform government, and let Iowans be great.

Let's get to work.
