

shall present all instructions to counsel on either side, each of whom shall have a reasonable time in which to examine the same. All objections or exceptions thereto must be made before the instructions are read to the jury and must point out the grounds thereof specifically and with reasonable exactness; but upon a showing in a motion for a new trial that an error in such instructions was not discovered by the party claiming the error at the time of trial, such objections or exceptions may be made in the same manner in such motion for a new trial and no other objection or exception to the instructions shall be considered by the supreme court on appeal, except those made as above provided. The objections or exceptions must point out specifically the exact grounds thereof, and no other objections or exceptions shall be considered by the trial court upon motion for a new trial or otherwise, or by the supreme court upon appeal.

SEC. 4. Not retroactive. This act shall not apply to any proceedings had or be given a retroactive effect, save as to actions pending which have not yet been submitted to a jury.

SEC. 5. Acts in conflict repealed. All acts or parts of acts in conflict with the provisions hereof are hereby repealed.

Approved April 17 A. D. 1913.
