William Hale (R)Term In Office

Tuesday, August 22, 1882 - Tuesday, January 13, 1885

Mini Biography

William Hale was born in London, Henry County, Iowa, on November 18, 1837. His education started in the public schools and continued through his admission to the bar at 21 years of age when Hale immediately began to practice law. Hale joined the Republican Party and became a Presidential elector for Iowa in 1868. President Arthur appointed him Governor of Wyoming Territory July 18, 1882. Governor Hale took the oath of office August 3, 1882 and served until his death at Cheyenne, Wyoming, January 13, 1885.

The Hale Collection

The correspondence of Governor William Hale reflects the concerns and issues faced by his predecessors. Topics deal with appointments, pardons, Indians, arms and ammunition, legislative apportionment, taxes, Yellowstone Park, and Crook County elections. A small amount of appointment records, and records concerning extradition requests and rewards for fugitives are available. Also of note is a petition by Johnson County residents for approval of a bill authorizing the construction of a courthouse and the issuance of bonds for payment.

The records from Governor Hoyt's term in office include:

- General Records
- Insanity Records
- Insanity committals
- Correspondence
- Administrative Records
- Correspondence
- General Correspondence
- Penitentiary Correspondence
- Financial Records
- Appointment Records

The Ft. Wayne Strike.

FORT WAYNE, IND. Jan. 14.—The situation of the striking brakemen against the "double-headed" system remains unchanged. Only one freight, a local, left the city to-day. This eluded the strikers by running through the city at a high rate of speed without stopping. The yards are blocked with a freight train which the officials are unable to move. At noon Supt. Law unspiked and turned the switch to allow the freight train to pull out. The strikers immediately replaced the switch and would not allow the train to leave. No mail, express, or passenger trains have yet been molested. Supt. Lowe holds conference with a committee from the strikers this afternoon.

Death of Gov. Hale.

CHEYENE, WY., Jan. 13.—Governor William Hale died to-day after a protracted illness.

Governor Hale was born in Mahaska county, Iowa, and was about fifty-two years of age. He studied law in the office of Judge Crookham at Oskaloosa, and was admitted to the bar in 1857, at Knoxville, in the district court presided over by Gov. Stone. He engaged in practice in Mills county and at the close of the war he formed a partnership with Hon. John Y. Stone, which continued until he was appointed Governor of Wyoming Territory, two years ago. He twice represented his district in the Iowa house of representatives. He was a man of ability and integrity, and his death will produce a profound feeling of sorrow among his numerous friends in Iowa.

A Cattle Trail.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 14.—The bill which is to be introduced in congress for the establishment of a cattle trail from Texas to the British Possessions provides that the secretary of the Interior shall appoint three commissioners to lay out and mark by meter and bound a quarantoned the national trail and grazing grounds. The trail not to be more than six miles wide and to be narrowed in places to a more roadway that is to be established at intervals along the trail, not to exceed twelve miles square.

Lively Times in the Illinois Legislature—Haines Still in the Chair.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—The Springfield correspondent of The Journal telegraphs as follows:

Temporary Speaker E. M. Haines took time by the forelock, and before the house met Tuesday, went to the secretary of state's office and was sworn in as speaker of the house by a notary public, who is a clerk in the office.

When the house met at 2 p. m. a motion by Varnell (Democrat) to adopt the rules of the last house was beaten, 118 to 14.

Linegar (Democrat) moved to proceed to a permanent organization. Haines ruled the motion out of order. Linegar appealed from the decision of the chair. Haines asked his authority for the appeal. Linegar referred to Cushing. Haines said there could be no appeal. He went on to prove he was permanent speaker of the house. It was a constitutional office, which could only be vacated by his voluntary resignation or by impeachment, as provided by the constitution.

Linegar attempted to speak, but was stopped by Haines, who said he could only speak by unanimous consent. There was no objection, and Linegar made a long argument against the position assumed by Haines, and as the chair would not put the motion, he put the question that the house proceed to a permanent organization, and declared the motion carried, only a few Democrats voting against the motion.

Then Linegar moved that the clerk record the motion, which was carried.

Then Linegar moved that the house adjourn until noon Wednesday, and there was a movement of a few toward the door, but the movement was not general, and Haines pounded the gavel and called the house to order.

Chaos was threatened, but Haines brought order out of it, and Fuller, of Boone, addressed him as speaker and moved to adjourn until 10 o'clock in the morning.

After another long talk by Haines, he put Fuller's motion, which prevailed, and the house adjourned accordingly, with Haines still in the chair.

The question next will be on the motion to proceed to a permanent organization, which was carried by the house when put by Linegar.

The Cronkite Democrats are very mad, and may possibly vote for Fuller or some other Republican against the usurper.

Advisory Boards for British Colonies.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Marquis of Lorne has written a letter, in which he states that he strongly approves of the appointment of imperial advisory boards by the governments of the colonies. In all questions of imperial legislation affecting colonial interests these boards could be called upon by the home government for such information as was necessary to the promotion of the best interests of the colonists, who would thus practically have a voice in imperial affairs.

Sud an Uprising in Cambodia.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—The latest advices from Cambodia state that the insurgents are now in complete possession. The commander of the French forces there has been killed, and the garrisons of most of the French posts throughout the kingdom have either been massacred or put to flight. The uprising was general, and so sudden and unexpected that the French were completely taken by surprise.

DEATH OF GOVERNOR HALE.

Governor Hale is dead. This is the sad announcement THE NONPAREIL is called upon this morning to make to its readers. It performs the duty in profound sorrow, for, in common with all Iowa, it mourns the death of one who, for years, was one of its most loyal citizens. He was born in Iowa, and was always proud of his nativity. He lived within her borders a lifetime, as it were, and his career as a citizen, both in private and public life, is distinguished for its excellence. There was no service too great for him to render the state, nor no burden too heavy for him to bear, if the public weal demanded it. He was a man of strong convictions, of powerful will, of inflexible purpose, with an intellectual vision which enabled him to see beyond the ordinary limits of mental activity. These qualifications gave him prominence among his fellows and gave to him an aggressiveness that carried with it success in the difficult undertakings of life. With all of this he was as tender as a child and no man in Iowa had purer friendships, stronger attachments or more loyal friends. As a member of society he was conspicuous for his genial bearing towards all, as a private citizen he was distinguished for the honorable relationship he bore to each and every one, and as a public servant he was noticeable for the zeal and faithfulness with which discharged every trust. This is the man as the world saw him, but there were nobler traits than these, but they were private property owned exclusively by and only fully known in the family circle. Here the greatness of the man shone out for the wife and children with a tenderness they alone could understand and they alone could appreciate. Such was the man whose life-work is now ended and whose reward is the tribute of grief which the people of Iowa place upon his bier.

Governor Hale returned to the city Sunday accompanied by Mrs. Hale.
Governor Hale was yesterday called upon by a representative of the Sun, who found him wonderfully improved since his departure from the territory. Although practically recovered from his late illness, Governor Hale is not strong and yesterday he felt the effects of his journey. He was in dressing gown and easy chair encompassed, while a basketful of unanswered letters demanded his immediate attention, and any efforts to interview him in behalf of the press were therefore unavailing. Callers were constantly arriving and departing, and the executive office was the scene of attention to duties so numerous that the governor could not well neglect the demands of the present in order to attend to the wants of the absent. It is hoped, however, that Governor Hale will soon be able to talk to the people of Wyoming through the medium of type. His long illness will give an added interest to anything he may be able or may deem wise to say.—Cheyenne Sun.

EDWARD H. STILES

For many years a member of the Iowa Bar; member of its House of Representatives, 1863-1864; member of its Senate, 1865-1866; Reporter of its Supreme Court, 1867-1875; author of Complete Digest of its Decisions from the earliest Territorial period to the 56th Iowa Reports.

"In old age alone we are masters of a treasure of which we cannot be deprived, the only treasure we can call our own. The pleasures of memory and the retrospect of the varied images which in an active life have floated before the mind, compensate, and more than compensate, for the alternate pleasures and cares of active life."—SIR ARCHIBALD ALLISON.

Of William Hale, I have no particular data in regard to his nativity and boyhood. My recollection is that he was born in my own County of Wapello, where he occasionally came to visit an aunt and other relatives. He studied law in Oskaloosa, and I think, with Judge Crookham, for of that eccentric gentleman he told me a number of anecdotes. He must have gone to Glenwood soon after his admission to the bar. I first met him on the convening of the House of the Tenth General Assembly, of which we were fellow members fifty-two years ago from this writing, he being elected from Mills County, and I from Wapello. Two years after, in the fall of 1865, he was re-elected to the House, and I to the Senate, which gave us a mutual opportunity to continue our acquaintance. In the House we co-operated closely in regard to the swamp land title controversy which greatly affected his part of the State. He was devoted to the interests of his constituents, and was a leader in every measure designed to relieve or benefit them. He worked with an ardor that made him conspicuous. He became influential in politics, was most favorably mentioned for Congress, and in 1868 he was one of the Republican presidential electors and cast his vote for General Grant. During President Grant's administration Mr. Hale was, by him, appointed Governor of Wyoming, and died while occupying that position.

He was a good thinker and a good lawyer, and one of the best fellows in the world; bright, witty, good natured and companionable in the highest degree. To me his presence was always a charm. The last time I saw him was shortly before his death. While trying a case at Glenwood I was informed by my associate, John Y. Stone, that Governor Hale was a guest at a hotel at Omaha, and we went together to see him. He was the same frank and charming man. He had not outgrown the personal fascination which attracted everybody who knew him when he was young. I had learned that he was not in good health, but during the interview I remarked that I thought he looked as if he were. He shook his head and replied that he feared he was suffering from an incurable malady. He was a victim of Bright's disease. His untimely death is mourned to this day by those who knew him.

John Y. Stone was a native of Sangamon County, Illinois, born in 1843, of Virginian extraction. His father, with the family, settled on a farm in Mills County, Iowa, in 1856. On this farm John was reared and thoroughly learned the art of agriculture, for which he always continued to have a decided inclination, and with the farming class, the true yeomanry of every country, he was always a favorite. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted as a soldier in Company F, of the Fifteenth Iowa Infantry. Gen. W. W. Belknap and John M. Hedrick were successively Colonels of that regiment. General Hedrick and myself were fellow townsmen, and on different occasions he extolled in the highest terms, as did also General Belknap, the bravery of John Y. Stone as a soldier. The year following has sold the Wm. Allen farm of 148 acres, situated in Des Moines Township, to Matthew Holmes, for $4,000.

THE CONTEST.—We understand that Messrs. Nelson and McFall will represent Mr. Weaver in the contest examination for this county, which will commence about January 20th.

OFFICERS.—At the annual meeting of the U. P. Congregation, the following officers were elected: trustees, Mr. George Gilchrist, James Loughridge, and W. H. Gilchrist; treasurer, Willard Cowan; and Chairman Nathaniel Caven

GOLD PRIZES.—Wm. Fagan, the East Main Street Grocer, tells you in another column of the ten grand prizes he will distribute among his customers Monday, June 1, 1885. Four of these prizes are in gold and amount to $37.50. Read what Wm. says and see if it is not to your interest to buy groceries of him.

FOUR SPOTTED.—Judge Johnson sent the Olivet burglars—Gleeson, Rivers and Martin—to the penitentiary for a term of four years each, less than they expected. Lee, the New Sharon cutlery speculator, got two years. All were taken down yesterday—the sheriff not desiring to have them about any longer than was absolutely necessary.

DR. HUNTSMAN.—Notice to my friends is hereby given of the removal of my office to its old location, No. 205 E. High St., in my new building, opposite the Court House, up stairs, where I shall be glad to see you at any time. Office hours from 11 to 2 o'clock, and from 3 to 4 P. M. Sundays excepted, at home.

Most respectfully,
DR. H. C. HUNTSMAN.

LIBRARY OPEN.—The Masonic Library will open its doors to the public next Saturday afternoon from 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock. Membership tickets at one dollar per annum can be had of the following parties: Beechler Bros., A. T. Drinkle, C. H. Phelps, W. R. Lacey, D. A. Hoffman, D. H. Le Suer, F. H. Loring, F. D. Boyer, E. Baker, and C. Leighton. The Library now contains several hundred volumes, of choice character, and it has such friends that it cannot fail to grow and become one of the institutions of the city. Help it along.

MEETINGS.—The United Presbyterians commence a series of meetings every evening during the week, with the assistance of the Ladies' Society.

rates for the class instruction to those not students a liberal reduction will be made in the price of tickets to the lecture on "The Raven" and to the "Readings" to those who take the course of lessons given during the day. The instruction is to begin Monday January 26. The lecture Monday evening, January 26, on Scripture and Hymn Reading, will be free to all. The lecture on Poe's Raven will be given Friday evening, January 30, of the same week. The "Readings" will be given during the first and second weeks of February.

GOVERNOR HALE DEAD.—The sad news reached here on Tuesday that Governor William Hale, of Wyoming Territory, was lying at the point of death, which was followed by a dispatch yesterday morning announcing his death. For many months Mr. Hale has suffered very severely from a derangement of the stomach, for which every remedy was sought. During all his long illness he received the loving and faithful attention of his wife and family. Governor Hale was born here in Mahaska, about 1833, and his boyhood was passed among us. At the age of twenty he entered the law office of Judge Crookham, and in 1857 he was admitted to the bar at Knoxville, by Hon. William M. Stone, then Judge of the District Court. In 1864 he was married to Miss Josie Rounds, then a resident of this city, with whom he happily continued to the day of his death. Soon after his admission to the bar he removed to Mills county, and assumed fine rank as a lawyer. In 1866 he formed a co-partnership with Hon. John Y. Stone, of Glenwood, which continued until Mr. Hale was appointed as Governor of Wyoming. He also served three terms in the Legislature,—being the House member for Mills. Gov. Hale was a man who made friends with all classes; he was genial, great-hearted; a man who had made many friends—who will sincerely mourn for his demise. To Mrs. Hale many warm friends here extend their condolence and sympathy. With her they mourn a great loss, but none can feel with her the bitterness that comes from separation by death from him who walked by her side these many years.

THE DECLINE IN PRICES.—The editor of the American Grocer published a valuable list showing the decline in prices on the leading staples between 1870 and 1885. In sugar the decline has

A. J. Parkhurst drops us a card from Biloxi, Miss., containing the news that all are well, and have located there until May next.
Dr. and Mrs. Barringer invited a houseful of old folks Tuesday evening, where and when a 'possum or something of that sort was dissected.

Miss Nina Swalm bundled her Mamma up yesterday and took her to Des Moines to see her aunt Kitty wedded. They will be gone about ten days.

Hoyt Sherman, jr., one of the traveling passenger agents of the Union Pacific Railway, was in the city Friday, looking up matters of interest to that road.

Mrs. A. J. Baughman has returned from Indianapolis, where she has been with her daughter, Miss Carrie, for treatment, and who remains there for the present.

The friends of Mrs. W. H. Wray will regret to learn that she is quite poorly, with her old trouble, that of the lungs, and has been confined to her bed for two weeks.

Major McMullin and H. H. Prineas went to Des Moines Tuesday to attend the annual meeting of the State Agricultural Society, which met yesterday morning.

Mr. Davidson, of Indianola, gave us a call the other day, and a pleasant hour in going over the days of yore, and present condition of a great number of excellent people who find their homes in Indianola and Warren county.

Wm. Allen, of Jefferson township, has sold his farm and bought again in Jewell county, Kansas, five miles from Mankato. The Kansas farm was purchased of M. D. Grimes who will again take up his residence in Mahaska county. Mr. Allen is a good citizen, whom we regret to lose.

G. N. Spencer returned this week from a three weeks' stay in St. Louis, where he has been in consultation with eminent physicians regarding his hearing, which has been failing him for the past year. Mr. Spencer does not feel encouraged; this his friends here and elsewhere will regret to learn.

Hardin Tice, of Union township, who has suffered so severely for the last six weeks, first with a felon on his thumb and afterward with blood poison in his hand, which has nearly destroyed three fingers, is not yet able to leave his room. He is slowly gaining in strength and the fingers are so far healed that it is hoped to save them entire, though it must take months before he can be well.

New Year's day was a very pleasant day at the Simpson M. E. parsonage. A large number of friends, by a private agreement, met about noon, bringing with them a most bountiful supply for a sumptuous dinner. The afternoon part of the day was spent in a most pleasant and profitable manner to all present. Before leaving a beautiful plush rocker was presented to the pastor and wife, and a handsome dressing case presented to the daughter Kate. For all of which the good people have a cordial thanks of the pastor and family.

Miss Grace Jenkins, who, for months past, has been unable to see her friends, has, by means of the telephone lines of this city, resigned the position of removal to Des Moines, Iowa.
