Southwestern life insurance companies ever organized. It cannot be other wise from the remarkably perfected plan upon which it does business. This association can not, or at least ought not to be classed with the wildcat and many assessment companies that are created for the sole purpose of defrauding the people during the few months of their existence. The Southwestern has demonstrated its soundness long ago. The association is not only out of debt, but every bill against it is paid promptly, and several thousand dollars are in the reserve fund and drawing interest for the benefit of the policy holders. Its advancement in membership and in the confidence of the people has been steady but sure ever since its organization. When over 250 citizens of Marshalltown are members of this association in good standing, the company needs no stronger home endorsement, and where letters are received daily from all over the State from people who desire to secure cheap, safe, and permanent life insurance, it shows the Southwestern's reputation is not confined alone to its own home.
