OBITUARY.

HON. HENRY WHITE.

Henry White was born in South Hero, Vermont, November 6, 1818, and died at Volga City, Ia., July 14, 1898.

Mr. White was raised upon a farm and educated in the common schools of his native town, afterwards attend- ing an academy at St. Albans, Vt. At the age of 25 he married Rhoda Mott. To them were born three children, John, Abbie and Lewis, of whom John only survives, now resid- ing in southern Iowa. In 1850 his wife died and in 1852 he married Clara P. Drake. To them were born three children Willis P., H. Warner and Frank B., who reside at Volga City.

For thirty-eight years he was en- gaged in milling, farming and dealing in general merchandise in Volga City. He was one of the leaders of the Republican party for many years and represented this county in the legis- lature during the stormy period of 1863-4. In the early eighties he be- came an advocate of state and nation- al prohibition and the retrogression of this movement caused him pro- found grief.

For thirty years his life was that that of an earnest Christian. He was a faithful student of the Bible and reverently bowed to every "thus saith the Lord."

His influence went far toward mold- ing the high moral sentiment of Volga City. He was a loving, unself- ish sympathetic husband and father.

His funeral which occurred at his late residence on Saturday last was largely attended.

MATILDA B. GOETZ.

Last Monday morning at 4 o'clock the grim messenger of death claimed as its own, Matilda B. Goetz of this place. She had for some time been a sufferer from tuberculosis of the bow- els, and her condition has long been deemed critical, yet her death was nevertheless a shock to her many friends. Tillie, as she was familiarly called, was a graduate of the class of 1890, of the Guttenberg High School. As a pupil she was bright, ambitious and ever solicitous of the welfare of her schoolmates. In the fall of 1890 she became a teacher in the public schools of the county, and soon dis- tinguished herself as one of our most energetic teachers. In September, 1895, she became a teacher in the Guttenberg schools and continued in

RUBBER MATS and HO AT PRICES THAT SUIT

A GOOD GAME.

Elkader 3, Clermont 1.

Last Sunday's game was one of the best exhibitions of base ball ever seen here. It was one of those games in which every player seems to call forth all his energy and where the suspense sometimes becomes almost painful to the genuine crank.

It was a pitcher's battle all the way through, Schoch and Bigler threw elegant ball and with good support kept the scores down.

For six innings not a man crossed the rubber, although Elkader lost several chances to score through stupid base running. Clermont also came dangerously near home, but when Schoch got down to work they failed to connect safely. In the 4th they had a man on second with no one out, but he kindly stayed there while three men fanned.

But in the 7th, Schoch met the ball square and while it went sailing off toward town, presumably looking for refreshments, he made the circuit and came down the home stretch with time to spare. In the 9th Clough duplicated it by a hit onto the track and made another homer. It was a fairly quiet crowd that watched the game, but a great cheer went up when those runs were made. We got another when Ihm hit safely and came home on Roggman's single.

Clermont made its score in the 9th when With two out Pringle received a present; stole second and scored on Bigler's hit. The next man up got another present, Bigler thought the boys were napping and made a nery attempt to steal home, but Ihm ran him down and the game was over.

One of the features of the game was Ihm's catching. He gave Schoch almost perfect support.

VOLGA CITY.

Hon. H. White died at his residence
 Thursday night after a lingering illness. He was in his 81st year. In the latter part of the sixties he was a member of the legislature and was also in those days a supervisor in our county. A wife and 3 sons survive him here. Another son by a former marriage is John M. White, Esq. of Knowlton. He fully realized the incurable nature of his last illness and longed for death with peace.
 He was buried in the church and the remains were placed in the cemetery

Geo. Drake and wife, of Hopkinton, Ia., were called here by Mr. White's death and were present at the funeral.
 They will remain in this place a short time. Mr. Drake, who is Mrs. White's brother, is very poor in health.

Dr. J. W. McLean and wife, of Fayette, attended church here Sunday evening and remained in town over night. They are always welcome visitors in our community where the doctor practiced for thirteen years.

Miss Mianie Phillips is in poor health and has been on that account prompted to resign her place in our school to which she was again elected

3, 1862, and adjourned Sept. 11, 1862. D. Hammer was Senator. The Representative districts were changed, and Clayton County was now the Forty-seventh, with George L. Bass and D. W. Chase as Representatives.

Dwight W. Chase, M. D., is a native of New York, and came to Iowa in 1855, locating in the Yankee Settlement, now Edgewood, Clayton County, and resumed the practice of medicine, in which he had engaged for some years in his native State. In Edgewood and vicinity he soon secured an extensive and remunerative practice, but the educational privileges in that district not being good, in 1866 he removed to Elkader, the county seat. He was President of the Board of Supervisors in 1859 and 1860, and was then elected a member of the Ninth General Assembly. As a member of the Legislature he was very active on two committees, Charitable Institutions and Schools. He was offered the chairmanship of either of these committees, but being a new and inexperienced member he declined. During the second year of the Rebellion he was offered the position of Surgeon of some Iowa regiment, Governor Kirkwood giving him a choice of four regiments, but being then a member of the Legislature, he deferred the matter until December, 1864, when he was appointed to the Twenty-first Infantry. He served until June, 1865.

Tenth General Assembly.—Convened at Des Moines, Jan. 11, 1864, and adjourned March 29, 1864. Clayton County was changed to the Thirty-seventh Senatorial District, with Benjamin T. Hunt, as Senator, and to the Forty-sixth Representative District with William J. Gilchrist and Henry White as Representatives.

Eleventh General Assembly.—Convened at Des Moines, Jan. 8, 1866, and adjourned April 3, 1866. Benjamin T. Hunt was still in the Senate, and John Garber, P. P. Olmstead and Douglas Leffingwell in the House. Douglas Leffingwell, a former resident of McGregor, was born on a farm near the village of Ellsworth, Mahoning County, O. At the age of eighteen, with a fair academic education, he went South with the intention of applying for a situation as tutor in some wealthy family, taking with him letters of introduction to the Hon. Henry Clay, of Lexington, Ky., and Hon. John Bell, of Nashville, Tenn. Through the instrumentality of the former gentleman, he secured the Mt. Vernon school in Rock Castle County, which he had charge of two terms, then traveled over the States of Kentucky and Tennessee. In the latter State Mr. Bell interested himself in Mr. Leffingwell's behalf, and ferred touchingly to the death of his son James, in the army. The war had at that time commenced, and a number of young men from this township had already enlisted. Some had also fallen before the enemy. The money received by the ladies of the sanitary society for dinner, ice-cream, etc., which they provided, was given for the benefit of the sick and disabled soldiers. The people tried to be cheerful, but the general feeling seemed to be that sorrow was treading on the heels of joy. One of the toasts on that occasion was "The ladies of Volga City Sanitary Society. God bless them for the great interest they manifest in the cause of the sick and wounded soldiers." This toast was responded to by three cheers from the assembled multitude, with an earnestness rarely equaled.

The greater part of two companies for support of the Union cause were enlisted in Sperry Township.

The first Justices of Peace in the township were Moses Hewett and F. G. Cummings. The present incumbents are S. Hawthorne, W. H. Horton and S. R. Graham.

Some of the early and permanent settlers deserve particular mention. Among the men who have labored to build up Volga City, Henry White is conspicuous. Coming in 1860, he has been prominent in nearly every enterprise of magnitude since. He is the proprietor of an addition to Volga City and of the Merchant Mill, and was Postmaster from 1861 to 1875. He served several terms as Supervisor, and one in the State Legislature.

Captain Alvah Bevins, who came in 1854, was prominently identified with the township. He settled on the farm now owned by Daniel Green. He bought Mr. Gould's saw-mill, and built the grist-mill as stated above. He also built the first bridge across the Volga in Sperry Township. He was chosen Captain of Company E, Ninth Infantry, and was killed in the brave discharge of his duties at Pea Ridge.

Lieutenant D. C. Baker was a son-in-law of Captain Bevins, and enlisted at the same time. He was promoted Captain and served two years. Soon after the war he removed to Ottawa, Ill., and he is now at Grinnell, Iowa.

S. Pardee, one of the few surviving old settlers, came to this place in June, 1851. He has been a prominent worker and a public-spirited man. He has held the office of Township Trustee oftener than any other man in the township.

Jas. F. Campbell was another early settler and prominent man. He held various township offices, and served the citizens most acceptably. He died on the farm on which he first settled, March 20, 1882.

F. G. Cummings and Jason Butler, old settlers, died a number of years since. John Nagle, one of the first settlers, sold his farm, and removed to Hardin County, Iowa.

VOLGA CITY.

This thriving village was laid off in the southern half of section 3, township 92 north, range 6 west, in November, 1851. The survey was made by Ezra Hurd, and the proprietors were William H. Gould, Mary Jane Gould and A. L. Gould. An addition was made in 1857 by A. C. Woodward and Mary Jane Woodward, and one was made at the same time by M. M. Johnson, one in 1867 by Stephen Bush, and one in 1877 by Henry White and others. Wm. H. Gould, the principal proprietor, came here in 1851, and established his claim on parts of sections 3 and 10. He was a man of some talent, and built a saw-mill in the summer of 1851 that was different in kind from any other in existence, for which he subsequently obtained a patent from the Government. He moved west in 1864, after selling most of his property to Henry White.

The first frame house in Volga City was built by Solomon Gould in 1851.

In a very early day S. Harvey and W. H. Gould began trade with a small stock of dry-goods, groceries and other general merchandise. The first hardware store was started by Geo. L. Tremain, who left after a few months. The "old brick store," as it was called, was put up in 1855 on the corner of Cass and Washington streets by Messrs. Woodward & Lowe. It was afterward owned by various parties. It was the principal corner in the village until White & Lowe's stone block was completed on White's addition. In the winter of 1881-'2 the building was moved to its present site, and is now used by M. L. Blake & Co. as a general dry-goods store. Meuth Bros. occupy the stone block built by Nelson Clark as a general store. William A. Penfield started his furniture store in 1874. He does an undertaking business also. J. M. White sells general merchandise in the stone block, where also W. P. White keeps a drug store. Hawthorne Bros. sell dry goods and groceries. Ed. Copeland deals in hardware. C. F.

Bevins, the Postmaster, also keeps a general grocery store and a boarding house.

The first blacksmithy in Volga City was erected in the spring of 1854 by James Ambrose. He died in 1857, and the business was carried on by Jonas Beach for a time, until he removed to Illinois. Then Alfred Crosby and N. S. Nash started a shop, and they were succeeded by E. C. Hill and J. Mitchell. Mitchell afterward sold out. W. A. Westcott had a shop for a time. Myron Lamphear has presided at his forge since 1865. W. F. Munger is also at the same trade. S. Pardee was the first wagon-maker. Witt & Achsner and Marion Dye are doing a good business in that line. George Wright is a machinist, and does repairing. J. N. Whipple is a harness-maker. H. White & Co. have started a boot and shoe factory, employing some half dozen hands.

Alvah Bevins bought the saw-mill of W. H. Gould, and erected a grist-mill in 1857, the first in Volga City, as well as the first in the township. Previous to that time the settlers had their wheat ground at Prairie du Chien, Cascade or Quasqueta, until the Elkader Mill was built, when they went to Eikader. Henry White is now the proprietor of this mill. J. E. Smith's steam feed-mill was erected in 1880.

The first regular physician came to Volga City about 1853. His name was J. L. Dunn. He remained here about three years, and then went West. Dr. C. L. Cuthbert was here for a year or two, and then enlisted in the army as a surgeon. Dr. P. R. Slingsby was here from 1861 to 1867, and then moved to Wisconsin. Dr. J. W. McLean, a graduate of Rush Medical College at Chicago, came in 1868, and in 1881 removed to Fayette, Iowa. The profession is at present represented by Dr. W. H. Horton, who came in 1877, and Dr. J. H. Craig, of Rush Medical College, who came in 1881.

The first persons interred in the Volga City Cemetery were two children of Henry Gifford, in 1846.

The first school was taught by Nancy Finch, of Fayette County, in 1855.

The first graded school was opened in the summer of 1874, with Miss Parma Olmsted as principal, and Miss Cynthia Hawthorne as primary teacher. Volga City independent district was organized in 1879, and the first teachers in this independent district were Miss Mattie M. Stacy and Miss Ida M. Benson. A. O. Clark and Miss Stacy teach at present.

The first hotel was kept by S. Harvey, in 1855. He died in 1856. Mrs. Harvey then conducted it alone till her marriage with E. C. Hill, in 1858, and they together have run it ever since. Their house is called the City House. The Davidson Hotel was built in 1855, by John W. Lowe and John Reed. B. A. E. Davidson bought the place in 1869, and in the spring of 1882 sold to E. W. Marble. J. S. Palmer kept a hotel from 1877 to 1881, when he moved to Fayette.

The first livery stable was started in 1869, by J. F. Jersey, who died in 1874. Sherman & Lowe started a livery and feed stable in 1875, moving to Delaware County after two years. In the fall of 1877 George E. Horton started a stable, and in 1881 he sold out to A. Wandell.

James Hawthorne built the first creamery, operating it until 1879, when the building was enlarged and converted into a store. The Volga City Creamery, established in 1879, is now managed by White, Parsons & Company.

The first Postmaster was W. H. Gould, appointed in 1851. Resigning in 1855, he was succeeded by Thos. J. Piper, who held the office until 1857, when Alvah Bevins was appointed. Four years later Henry White was appointed, and he in turn was succeeded in 1875, by C. F. Bevins.
