Hon. C. Sanborn.

Cummings Sanborn was born in St.
Lawrence county, New York, Jan. 7, 1824. He lived with his parents on their farm until his twenty-fifth year, when he went to Saratoga Springs to obtain medical treatment at the Water Cure Sanitarium located there. He remained at the Springs until 1861 and was for a time manager of the Sanitarium.

In February 1860 he was married to Miss Martha A. French, of Rutland county, Vermont, and the following year they came to this county, locating at Earl-ville where for the next two years he was engaged in keeping a hotel. In 1864 he was appointed postmaster at Earlville and filled that and the offices of township supervisor and justice of the peace until 1868. In the fall of 1867 he was elected as a representative from this county to the state legislature, and was re-elected in 1869. In 1870 he embarked in the field of journalism, purchasing the Earlville Sun, which the year following he moved to Delhi, then the seat of this county. His wife died March 28, 1872, and a few months there after he sold his business and came to this city. In July 1873 he purchased the Manchester Press which he conducted until July, 1875. On Nov. 4, 1875 he was married to Mrs. Ann M. Dunham, widow of Francis W. Dunham, who survives him. He was elected justice of the peace for this township in 1876 and served continuously in that capacity until a few months before his decease, when he resigned owing to ill health. He was also twice elected mayor of this city.

His public and private life were stainless. He was honorable and just in all business affairs, affable and kind, of excellent habits and unblemished character, a lover and promoter of temperance, order and peace, and faithful to his duty as he understood it, at all times and under all circumstances.

"His life was gentle, and the elements so mixed in him, that nature might stand up and say to all the world, this was a man."

The funeral services were held at his late residence in this city last Saturday afternoon, Rev. H. W. Tuttle, pastor of the Congregational church officiating.

locate the Soldiers' Home at Marshalltown, Iowa.

Dr. Bradley married September 4, 1867, taking to share his life's fortunes a young lady whom he had known from childhood, being an old school-mate, Miss Cornelia L. Merritt, daughter of Sydney and Nancy Merritt, of Cuba, N. Y. Coming West with him immediately, she settled in her new home in Manchester and shared with her husband his early toils, entering actively into his plans and purposes with that subtle sympathy and natural insight characteristic of her sex, bearing him the companionship he sought with her hand for nearly twenty-two years. She died June 15, 1889. She left surviving her, besides her husband, a son and daughter, both now grown. Her loss was a sad one to the community of Manchester and to her husband, whose best hopes and ambitions he had seen blossom into the richest fruitage under her warm and sympathetic smiles; it seemed like the cruelty of fate. He has found his only relief from the blow in an increased devotion to his profession and in a closer companionship with his son and daughter. Around these his interests, sympathies, hopes and purposes cluster nearer and nearer. He is fitting his children for usefulness, giving them the benefit of the best training that the schools afford, the son having only recently graduated at the Upper Iowa University, Fayette, Iowa.

In personal appearance, Dr. Bradley is the impersonation of human energy, possessing a strong physical temperament and a well-developed nervous organization. He is above the average height and weighs about two hundred pounds. He is compactly built and closely knit. He is plain in address, hearty in manner, pointed in conversation and short and direct in his methods. To strangers he sometimes seems blunt in speech and the least bit gruff in disposition, but this immediately disappears on a nearer approach. No man could be more genial or companionable and none could have a warmer or tenderer nature. A man of large mould, his mind offers a generous hospitality to the thoughts of others and his heart beats in unison with the best impulses of the age.

CUMMINGS SANBORN is a New Yorker by birth, but a descendant of New England ancestry. His people have been New Englanders for generations, being originally of English extraction. The line upon his father's side, at least, has been preserved unbroken for nearly three hundred years, running back to the first one of the name who ever set foot upon American soil. The line is as follows—Cummings Sanborn, the subject of this notice, born in the town of Norfolk, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., January 7, 1824, a son of Ebenezer S., born in North Haverhill, N. H., July 28, 1789, and died at Louisville, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., July 14, 1848, being a son of John, who was born at Hampton Falls, N. H., November 23, 1747, who was a son of Ebenezer, born at Hampton Falls, N. H., July 25, 1712, who was a son of Enoch, born at Hampton Falls, N. H., in 1685, who was a son of John, born at Hampton Falls, N. H., in 1647, who was a son of Lieutenant John, born at Hampton Falls, N. H., in 1620, who was a son of John Sanborne, born in Derbyshire, England, in 1600. Mr. Sanborn's mother's maiden name was Hannah Morey, a daughter of Israel Morey, a native of New Jersey. She, however, was born at Orford, N. H., April 25, 1792, and died in Brasher Falls, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., November 4, 1854.

Ebenezer S. and Hannab (Morey) Sanborn were the parents of eight children, of whom the subject of this notice is the fifth, the others being—John, born at Percy, N. H., October 16, 1813; Susan, born at Percy, N. H., March 22, 1815; Israel M., born at Norfolk, N. Y., December 2, 1818, and died April 25, 1846; Ebenezer, Jr., born at Norfolk, N. Y., October 24, 1821; Elizabeth H., born in Norfolk, N. Y., May 28, 1826; Moody M., born at Norfolk, N. Y., April 28, 1829, and died at Ludington, Mich., November 13, 1879, and one that died in infancy. Only two of these are now living, John, the eldest, and Cummings, whose name heads this sketch. Most of them, however, reached maturity, married and died leaving families. It is worthy of note that the eldest sister, who was married to Samuel Shoen, became the mother of eighteen children and furnished to the Union army during the late war seven sons, three of whom gave up their lives on the battle field.

Cummings Sanborn was reared on his father's farm in St. Lawrence county, N. Y., and received the rudiments of an ordinary English education from the neighboring district schools, spending the greater part of his time, however, in the arduous labors of the farm, attending school only about one or two months out of the year. He followed farming till he was twenty-five years of age, quitting it in 1852 on account of a failure of health and going at that time to Saratoga Springs, N. Y., where some time afterwards he was appointed manager of the Saratoga Water Cure, and remained there till 1861. Having married in the meantime, and being desirous of settling in a new country, he resigned his position at the "Springs" and came that year to Iowa, locating in Earlville, Delaware county. He has been a resident of this county since, residing first at Earlville and afterwards at Manchester. He has been variously engaged, and has been the incumbent of a number of public offices. For the first two years after settling in Earlville he was engaged in the hotel business. In the meantime he was elected justice of the peace of his township, then township supervisor, and in 1864 received the appointment of postmaster. In 1867 he was elected to the State legislature from Delaware county, and re-elected in 1869, serving two terms. In 1870 he bought the Sun office at Earlville, and the following year moved it to Delhi, then the county seat, and changing the name to that of the Delaware County Recorder operated it there for two years. Selling out the Recorder office in 1872, he moved to Manchester, and in July, 1873, bought the Manchester Press, which he conducted for two years, selling it in July, 1875. In 1876 he was elected justice of the peace for Delaware township, an office he has held now for more than fourteen years, having been re-elected regularly every two years. He was mayor of Manchester for four years. For some years past he has been engaged in the real estate, collection and insurance business. Mr. Sanborn has been fairly successful in his business pursuits, the chief drawback to his complete prosperity having been his disposition to give to the public service the benefit of a larger share of his time and efforts than is consistent with the full measure of success in a worldly way. While connected with the press he labored long and earnestly in the interest of his adopted county, displaying its advantages to the outside world, inducing immigration, encouraging the influx of capital and the starting of new industries, not to mention the chronicling of the daily and weekly doings, local, state and national, and performing the thousand and one other labors that fall to the lot of the country editor. He has been no less active and no less conscientious in the discharge of the duties of the several offices which he has filled, displaying in these the same superior sense of duty and the same thoughtful solicitude in meeting the obligations imposed on him as a citizen and as a public official. His retention in some sort of public office almost continuously since locating in the county is the best evidence of the indorsement his public career has met with at the hands of his fellow-citizens. In politics he is a republican, having cast his fortunes with the great war party on its organization, and having steadily adhered to its teachings since.

Mr. Sanborn has been twice married, marrying first, February 28, 1860, while a resident of New York, taking as a companion Miss Martha A. French, who was born in Clarendon, Rutland county, Vt., October 25, 1822. This lady graduated in the first class of ladies that ever graduated from the Eclectic Medical College, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and practiced her profession for fifteen years prior to her death. After the death of his first wife, he married again November 4, 1875, his second wife being Mrs. Ann M. Dunham, widow of Francis W. Dunham, she being a native of Bakersfield, Vt., born December 17, 1835. To the latter has been born one child, a son, who died in infancy. No children were born to the former union.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanborn are zealous members of the Congregational church, and active in all church work, and generous contributors to all charitable purposes.

GEORGE ACERS. The early records of Delaware county make frequent mention of the name of Acers. In talking with old settlers concerning events of an early day in the county the time or place of a given transaction is often fixed by referring it to the starting of the Acers' settlement or the building of the Acers' mill or the founding of the old town Acersville, and so on. One of the handsomest shafts in Manchester's city of the dead bears in large letters the name of Acers. The stranger is naturally led to suppose from these things that among the men who sought homes in this locality at an early date and who were actively identified in some way with the upbuilding of this community there must have been some strong-armed and strong-hearted pioneers by the name of Acers. And this, on investigation, proved to be true. There were three brothers of that name—John, Henry and George, who cast their Death of a Prominent Iowan, Given Up Many Years Ago.

Manchester, Iowa, Dec. 22.—The Hon. Cummings Sanborn of this place died this morning early. He had been confined to his house for two or three months. Mr. Sanborn was born in Norfolk, St. Lawrence county, New York, Jan. 7, 1824. He received simply an ordinary common school education. At twenty years of age physicians informed him that he was afflicted with consumption and could live but a few months. But by care of himself and of his diet, by temperance in every particular, he has demonstrated that there were false prophets in those days. For a time he lived in Saratoga Springs, N. Y. In 1861 he removed to Earlville in this county and has been identified with our county ever since. He was postmaster at Earlville from 1864 to 1868. Was a member of the Iowa legislature, in the house, during the sessions of 1868 and 1870. In 1871 he owned and published the Sun in Earlville and Delhi. In 1873 he purchased the Manchester Press and removed to this place. In 1875 he sold the Press to its original owner, the late H. L. Mann, and from that time until his death, was one of our justices of the peace and a business man. For several terms he was mayor of our city. Mr. Sanborn was married twice, his last wife surviving him. He leaves no children. He was a member of the Congregational church, and one of the wisest advisers in that body. Modest in all his efforts; conscientious in all his undertakings; wise in his advice, and always honest and courageous, our city loses in his death one of its most exemplary and honorable citizens.

C. SANBORN, of Manchester, died early Thursday morning aged 75 years.
The deceased had been identified with Delaware county interests since 1861, having held various positions, including representative in the legislature. He also was once publisher of a paper at Earlville, and had the ownership of the Manchester Press two years. He was a good citizen in the broadest sense of the term.

SEVERAL meetings have been held in Iowa towns within two or three weeks, and calls are out for others, to urge the necessity of an extra session of congress to revise our monetary laws. If there was a real demand for an extra session it would not be necessary to work up sentiment in this way. People generally know what they want, and are not slow in making their wants known, but this extra session sentiment so far as Iowa is concerned, is all worked up, pushed into prominence by persistent drumming and urging. There is nothing spontaneous about it.

INDEPENDENCE has a surplus of postoffice aspirants, and they have mutually agreed to submit their claims to a vote by the republican patrons of the office.
At a meeting the other day, it was

Description:
 This database is an index to individuals enumerated in the 1860 United States Federal Census, the Eighth Census of the United States. Census takers recorded many details including each person's name, age as of the census day, sex, color, birthplace, occupation of males over age fifteen, and more. No relationships were shown between members of a household. Additionally, the names of those listed on the population schedule are linked to actual images of the 1860 Federal Census.
