Some weeks ago an offer was made to this paper from certain parties that they would furnish us free of cost an alleged comic cover or section if we would use it, they to have the right to occupy such part of the space of two pages for advertising purposes as they saw fit, as their compensation. The Western Publisher warned country editors against the scheme saying that the advertising, over which they have no control, would prove of a very undesirable nature for country publishers to circulate, and we declined the offer. We notice that a few papers have gone into the deal and the first issue of the pastor of the church, Rev. Robert Moore, as listed by Rev. A. E. Slothower of the M. E. church. The interment was made at Oakdale cemetery under the auspices of the Masons, led by Thos. Hoyt, of Linden. Mr. Noel was a charter member of Lodge No. 80 of this place.

Such is a brief history of one who has gone from us after a long residence here and at the end of a life measuring more years than fall to many men. He came to Adel when this county was little else than a wilderness and lived to see it become one of the most prosperous counties in the state. As a citizen of Adel he had probably lived here longer than any other person. Mr. Noel was for many years active in political matters, an ardent Republican and a leader of that party, in the earlier years of its history having much to do with shaping its policy. He was a man of strong character and always a man of influence, both in political and business affairs. Always social and jovial, he made and held a large circle of friends and men from all sections of the county always made it a point to visit him when in town. He and Hon. John A. Kasson, formerly a Congressman from this district and also our Minister to Austria, have been almost life long friends and Mr. Kasson has for years made it a point if at Des Moines to come up and spend at least a few hours with Mr. Noel. As one of the pioneer settlers of this county the deceased had an extensive knowledge of pioneer days, with their struggles and privations, and could give most entertaining accounts of the experiences of those early times.

The writer of this sketch, the editor of this paper, formed Mr. Noel's acquaintance and friendship in 1865 and has enjoyed the benefits of it from that time until now, a period of more than forty years. To that friendship to a large degree we were indebted for those influences that enabled us to become one of his successors to the office of Clerk of this county, which we have always considered a turning point in our own life. For all the years since then we have received other friendly favors that leave us feeling that to Mr. Noel more than to almost any other man we are deeply indebted, and while we live we shall remember those acts of kindness with a feeling of sincere gratitude.

In all his dealings Mr. Noel was a man of honor and honesty, a friend whose friendship was worth having. In his family relations he was kind and affectionate, and those of his family who are left behind him will always cherish his memory. He was a man of remarkable vigor and activity, both mental and physical, for one of his years, and finally went to his rest in peace and honor, and those who mourn his departure will also always remember his kindly regard, his integrity of character and his unswerving friendship. His commanding form, for so many years familiar to all, will no more be seen on our streets and we know that one more of the builders of a state has passed into the great beyond.

Cole Noel died at his home in Adel on Thursday, July 26, 1906, after a comparatively short illness, although his decline had been marked for several weeks. He was aged 87 years 9 months and 27 days.

Mr. Noel was born in Monroe county, Indiana, Oct. 4, 1818. When six years old he moved with his parents to Rockville, Ind., where he lived until May 1852, when he came to Des Moines, and from there he came to Adel in December 1853, and had continued to live here from that time until his death. In 1856 he was elected Clerk of the Courts of this county, which position he held for over ten years.
In 1863 he was appointed assessor of internal revenue by President Lincoln, serving until 1869. He was elected a member of the Thirteenth General Assembly, which body made the appropriation for building the present state capitol building.
Under the administration of President Harrison he was state statistician. He was elected Justice of the Peace in 1872 and held that office almost continuously from that time until his death. He united with the Baptist church in 1844, and after the disbandment of the society at this place he became a member of the Christian church, being identified with that body until the time of his death.

Mr. Noel leaves surviving him a wife and four daughters, Mrs. J. C. Smart, Mrs. Lucy Dack, Mrs. C. F. McCoy, of this place, and Mrs. W. T. Buck of New Rockford, N. D., and two sons, Mat Noel who lives in Colorado, but who has been here for several months, and Walter Noel, of Beatrice, Neb., all of whom were at his bedside when he died. The funeral services were held at the Christian church Friday afternoon and were attended by a large concourse of neighbors and friends.
The business houses and public offices were closed during the funeral services out of respect for the deceased. The services at the church were conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. Robert Moore, assisted by Rev. A. E. Slothower of the M. E. church. The interment was made at Oakdale cemetery under the auspices of the Masons, led by Thos. Hoyt, of Lincoln. Mr. Noel was a charter member of Lodge No. 80 of this place.

Cole Noel, a pioneer resident of Adel and well known throughout Iowa by reason of the many offices he has held, is dead. In 1863 Mr. Noel was appointed assessor of internal revenue by Abraham Lincoln for the seventh congressional district, then composed of Polk and 23 other counties of Iowa, and held that office until 1869. In early politics he was a whig, and later helped organize the republican party, and has been an active worker ever since.

county and settled upon a quarter section of land in Colfax township, of which not an acre had been placed under the plow. There were many trials and hardships to be borne in developing the farm and Mr. Dawson says, "there were many blue days," but he persevered, although in the early years he would gladly have sold out and returned to Illinois if he could have found a purchaser. By hard work, honesty and good business ability, he has transformed that wild land into a beautiful Iowa farm and as his financial resources have increased, he has added to the property until he now owns two hundred and forty acres on which he lives and three hundred and twenty acres in Oklahoma. He certainly deserves much credit for his success as he started out in life empty-handed. Earnest toil has been his lot but this has been guided by sound business judgment and supplemented by keen sagacity until he is now numbered among the substantial agriculturists of the community, and his life record proves what may be accomplished when one has the will to do and dare.

Mr. Dawson has served as a school director for a number of years and the cause of education finds in him a warm friend. In politics he is a republican and although he has never sought nor desired office he has always been true and loyal in matters of citizenship. Of genial manner and social disposition, it is a pleasure to meet and know him, and his life record should serve as a source of encouragement and inspiration to others for it proves that success is ambition's answer.

HON. COLE NOEL.

Hon. Cole Noel was for many years one of the most prominent and valued residents of Dallas county. He lived within her borders for more than a half century and his life record reflected honor and credit upon those who honored him. He passed away at the very venerable age of eighty-seven years, nine months and twenty-two days, leaving behind an untarnished name. His life was as the day, with its morning of hope and promise, its noontide of activity, its evening of successful and completed effort ending in the grateful rest and quiet of the night. No history of the county would be complete without his record, so closely was he associated with its business interests and its political annals.

Mr. Noel was a native of Indiana, born in Monroe county on the 4th of October, 1818. His parents were Louis and Sallie (McCammon) Noel, the former a native of Virginia and the latter of North Carolina. Mrs. Noel's father served under General Francis Marion in the Revolutionary war. The marriage of Louis Noel and Sallie McCammon was celebrated in Monroe county, Indiana, where they lived in pioneer times, aiding in the work of early development and improvement there. Mr. Noel devoted his life to general agricultural pursuits and passed away in 1851 in the faith of the Baptist church, of which he was a devoted member. His political allegiance was given to the democracy. In the family were eleven children but all have now departed this life.

When a youth of six years Cole Noel accompanied his parents on their removal to Rockville, Indiana, where he lived until May, 1852, when he went to Des Moines, Iowa, and in December, 1853, he located in Adel, where he resided for more than a half century. The county was then largely an unbroken wilderness, but he lived to witness its wonderful development and improvement and took an active part in bringing about the transformation that has made it one of the leading and prosperous counties of this great commonwealth. He bore all the hardships, privations and trials of pioneer life and in his later years related many interesting incidents of the early days.

Mr. Noel had been a resident of the county for less than three years when, in 1856, he was elected clerk of the courts, acting in that capacity for more than ten years. In 1863 he was appointed assessor of internal revenue by President Lincoln, serving until 1869. He was elected a member of the thirteenth general assembly, which body made the appropriation for building the present state capitol. While in the house he gave careful consideration to each question which came up for settlement and was connected with considerable constructive legislation. Under the administration of President Harrison he was state statistician and at all times his patriotism and his fidelity to the general good were manifested. He was elected justice of the peace in 1872 and held that position almost continuously from that time until his death, his decisions being strictly fair and impartial, based upon the law and equity in the case. For many years he was very active and prominent in political circles, becoming an ardent republican upon the organization of the party and recognized in this section of Iowa as one of its leaders. In fact he did much toward shaping its policy in the earlier years of its history and he numbered among his warmest friends many of the distinguished statesmen and political leaders of Iowa. He was a warm personal friend of Hon. John A. Kasson, formerly a congressman of this district and also minister to Austria, and Mr. Kasson always made it a point on visiting Des Moines to come to Adel and spend a few hours with Mr. Noel.

On the 30th of May, 1858, in Adel, was celebrated the marriage of Cole Noel and Miss Elizabeth Cole, who was born in Decatur, Illinois, August 14, 1829, her parents being John and Susan (Duke) Cole. Her father was born in North Carolina, August 1, 1796, and died July 26, 1831. His wife was born April 12, 1799, in South Carolina, and died in Des Moines, December 30, 1866. They were married in Green county, Kentucky, August 1, 1816. Mr. Cole engaged in the manufacture of pewterware and was also a minister of the Baptist church while living in Kentucky. He remained a resident of that state until 1824, when he removed to Indiana and later he took up his abode in Illinois, where he died. He served as a drummer boy in the war of 1812 and he gave his political allegiance to the democracy. Unto him and his wife were born six children but Mrs. Noel is the only one now living. Four daughters also survive the death of Mr. Noel: Mrs. J. C. Smart; Mrs. Lucy Dack; Mrs. C. F. McCoy, of Adel; and Mrs. W. T. Buck, of New Rockford, North Dakota. There are also two sons: Mat Noel, who lives in Colorado; and Walter, of Beatrice, Nebraska.

Mr. Noel was made a Mason in Rockville, Indiana in 1850, and in 1852 joined Pioneer lodge, No. 8, A. F. & A. M., at Des Moines, Iowa. He was a charter member and the first secretary of Adel lodge, No. 80, and afterward served as its worthy master. He received the chapter degrees in Des Moines in 1858 and became a charter member of Tyrian chapter, No. 37, R. A. M., at Adel, serving as the chief officer of the organization for eight years. He was also for one year grand scribe of the grand chapter of Iowa. He was made a Sir Knight in Des Moines in 1865 and he became a charter member of Lady Washington chapter, No. 57, O. E. S., of Adel, in which he served for three years as worthy patron.

Mr. Noel united with the Baptist church in 1844 and after the disbandment of the society at this place he became a member of the Christian church, with which he was identified until his death. He passed away July 26, 1906, at the venerable age of eighty-seven years, nine months and twenty-two days. The funeral services were held at the Christian church and were attended by a large concourse of neighbors and friends, while the business houses and public offices of this city were closed out of respect for the deceased, who perhaps was the oldest resident of Adel. His mind bore the impress of the early historic annals of the county and was a connecting link between the primitive past and the progressive present. He stood for all that was honorable in citizenship, in business and in private life. He possessed the genial nature and kindly spirit which has the faculty not only of winning but of retaining friends. He was a man of deep sincerity, firm in support of his convictions, was genial, companionable and entertaining. In all his dealings Mr. Noel was a man of honor and honesty, a friend whose friendship was worth having. In his family relations he was kind and affectionate, and those of his family who are left behind him will always cherish his memory. He was a man of remarkable vigor and activity, both mental and physical, for one of his years, and finally went to his rest in peace and honor, and those who mourn his departure will also always remember his kindly regard, his integrity of character and his unswerving friendship.

WILLIAM F. DAVENPORT.

William F. Davenport has a beautiful and attractive home standing in the midst of a fine farm on section 23, Walnut township. The property is valuable and productive and comprises two hundred acres. The dwelling is supplied with all city conveniences, including hot and cold water and furnace heat. It is lighted by acetylene gas and is tasteful in its furnishings. In the rear stand good barns and out-buildings for the shelter of grain and stock, and these in turn are surrounded by well tilled fields, the green of early spring promising golden harvests for the autumn.

Mr. Davenport is a native of Providence, Rhode Island, born on the 8th of March, 1860. He was brought to Dallas county when a lad of ten years by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Davenport. The father was also a native of Providence, where he was reared, and after attaining his majority he there wedded Sarah Douglass, who was also born in that city. By trade he was a carpenter and was identified with building interests in Providence until 1865, when he brought his family westward to Chicago. There he was connected with building operations for five years, on the expiration of which period he came to Dallas county, Iowa. Here he bought one hundred and twenty acres of land where his son now resides and on which he made his home, giving his time and energies to the further development and improvement of the property, which he brought under a high state of cultivation. In the family were two sons, William and Frank.

William Davenport was reared under the parental roof and has never left the old homestead since the family came to Dallas county in 1870. He was at that time a lad of ten years and he was trained to the work of the farm, which has been under his immediate care since 1890. The father spent his last years here and died in 1902, at the age of sixty-five years, while the mother passed away in 1890, at the age of fifty-three years.

William Davenport had been married on the 5th of July, 1888, to Miss Maud Coons, a native of Adel and a daughter of Kane Coons. Following his marriage Mr. Davenport purchased his brother's interest in the old homestead and has since added eighty acres to the original tract, so that he now has an excellent farm of two hundred acres. The entire place is well fenced and drained. He has laid over eighteen hundred rods of tile and has brought the farm under the highest state of cultivation, so that the fields, now rich and arable, annually bring forth large crops. He has remodeled the house until he has a most comfortable and pleasant home and everything about the farm is indicative of the spirit of the progressive owner. He raises and feeds cattle and hogs, shipping several carloads each year. In all of his business affairs he is alert and enterprising, meeting with the measure of success which always rewards earnest, persistent and well directed labor.

Mr. and Mrs. Davenport had one child whom they lost in infancy. They are members of the Christian church of Grimes and are greatly esteemed by a large circle of warm friends. In politics Mr. Davenport is a republican and is serving as township trustee, and is also a member of the school board, of which he is now serving as treasurer. Educational and moral, as well as material interests, receive his endorsement and co-operation, and his labors in

Description:

This database is an index to individuals enumerated in the 1900 United States Federal Census, the Twelfth Census of the United States. Census takers recorded many details including each person's name, address, relationship to the head of household, color or race, sex, month and year of birth, age at last birthday, marital status, number of years married, the total number of children born of the mother, the number of those children living, birthplace, birthplace of father and mother, if the individual was foreign born, the year of immigration and the number of years in the United States, the citizenship status of foreign-born individuals over age twenty-one, occupation, and more. Additionally, the names of those listed on the population schedule are linked to actual images of the 1900 Federal Census. Learn more...
