Polk County Sheriff Blames Long Drawn Out Trials, Insanity Pleas

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Murder is encouraged by long drawn out trials and the uncertainty of conviction Park A. Findley, Sheriff of Polk county told the sheriffs of the state assembled here for a three day session today.

He said that the entire country was apt to let sentiment sweep away its better judgment and many criminals escaped punishment because of public opinion.

He quoted a well known magazine saying that the cost of crime to the country is $10,000,000,000 a year in addition to all the human suffering that is caused.

Mrs. Cook prepared the introduction of her address with these words: "The W. C. T. U. originally adopted this motto: 'For God and home and native land' but as the W. C. T. U. grew and expanded to lands across the seas it has changed to 'For God and home and every land'.

Inquest Resumed. "The inquest into Mrs. Cook's death was under way again today but there appeared little likelihood that evidence of great importance in identifying the assassin would be recovered.

Shortly before Mrs. Cook's death, it was learned, she had appealed to prohibition agents and told them of alleged laxity in law enforcement here.

FAITHFUL DOG STANDS GUARD OVER DEAD MAN

Officials Partially Identify Body of Man Found Near Athletic Field

The faithfulness of a dog for his master remained even after the master's death, and the dead body of a man believed to be John Dally, when it was discovered in the weeds behind the municipal athletic field Wednesday afternoon, was guarded by the faithful animal.

Two men, Perry Jones of Ottumwa, and James Smith of Boscobel, Wis., came upon the dead body Wednesday afternoon while they were walking through the weeds behind the ball park.

Two clues presented themselves to officials. One was the dog which wore a Cerro Gordo county license, indicating that the man might be a resident of Mason City.

Police officers also made inquiry in East Dubuque and learned from Mrs. Fred Beeson of that place, that a man answering the general description of the body found in Dubuque, had taken rooms at her house, but had left about a week ago.

There were no evidences about the body that the man had met his death through means of violence. Officials hinted that their inquiry might indicate that his death was caused by alcoholic poisoning, although the cause had not been determined.

From its appearance it was evident that the man had been dead for several days before the discovery. And all of this time, the faithful animal which had been his companion in life, hovered about his masters' body, guarding it until the discovery was made.

STATE RIGHTS CHAMPIONED IN CLUB ADDRESS

Kiwanians Hear Charles McLean Outline Principles of Sentinels of Republic

The principles of The Sentinels of the Republic were outlined at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club Wednesday noon by Charles McLean, who is representing the organization in Iowa.

Non-political and non-religious in nature, the organization has as its objective the prevention of further transgression of federal authority on state rights and the preservation of local government, the speaker stated.

The Sentinels of the Republic, Mr. McLean said, favor the Wadsworth-Garrett constitutional amendment which proposes that any state may provide by statute that the legislature's ratification of an amendment must be subjected to a vote of the people.

Organization's Platform.

The organization is opposed to the child labor amendment, the maternity act, and the Sterling-Reed educational bill. In the first place, the speaker asserted, the child labor amendment is unnecessary because the various states have their own laws.

H. M. Havner of Des Moines, former attorney general of Iowa, was a guest at the meeting.

Kiwanian Charles Hoermann appealed to the club to assist in the drive for funds for the Dubuque Boys' club, which is scheduled to get under way Sept. 21.

Rev. Flockhart Back.

Rev. John Flockhart, a member of the club, was greeted upon his return from a long vacation trip. Dr. James A. Butin won the attendance prize and expressed his appreciation by entertaining the club with imitations of bird songs.

Kiwanian S. S. Hamilton and Mrs. Hamilton rendered several pleasing vocal selections, accompanied by Miss Juanita Hein. Their numbers were well received. Louis Egelhof was chairman in charge of the meeting.

Burr Combs told of plans being made by Chicago Kiwanians for the entertainment of the district convention next week. The Dubuque party at the convention will be made up of the following: Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Hoermann, Frank J. Long, L. C. Kelly, H. M. Pahlas, M. A. Nation, H. C. Vickers, Frank Gilloon, C. F. Cody, M. H. Seibel, D. F. Hodges, W. A. Norman, W. H. Cleaver, H. Gill, Joseph W. Rhomburg, J. R. Wallis, E. C. Carey, L. F. Egelhof, A. R. Reh, and H. G. During the progress of the fight, the mid-level clerks and secretaries were jostled through the grated doors and windows of the recent committee room as the two officials battled in their shirt sleeves.

The fight was attributed by Colonel Thayer to "a case of nerves," resulting from the exceedingly close finish of the count. Geneva, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The protection of minorities, a security pact among the Balkan nations and reorganization of the council of the league of nations are among the outstanding questions for the assembly of the league which today got down to serious discussion after two days of routine organization.

dig into the natural support of the "conservative" and the "radical" candidates.

Holds Old Leaders.

Young La Follette has succeeded in rallying the support of the leaders who were closest to his father, including the entire Wisconsin delegation in the house, and the state administration, Governor Blaine, a La Follette near, has named in the progressive fold and one of the leaders of the anti-Blaine faction is out for McGovern.

Wilcox will lose some support from his natural following among the regulars because of his ancient feud with the late Governor Phillip, whose support of war measures Wilcox challenged in the campaign of 1918. Phillip died a week before La Follette, still young that he would never permit Wilcox to be elected to any office in Wisconsin and closest friends are declining to support the Wilcox candidacy.

These are some of the cross-currents that complicate the Wisconsin situation, aside from the direct issue between Wilcox and La Follette on the question of supporting the Coolidge administration.

William G. Bruce will be nominated as the Democratic candidate without opposition. He is opposed to the League of Nations and even taps the World Court, but he will receive the backing of the national organization of the party, chairman William A. Oldfield of the democratic congressional campaign will visit Wisconsin this week to offer his assistance to Bruce.

JUDGE O'DONNELL DIES OF INJURIES

FORMER DISTRICT COURT JUDGE PASSES AWAY THIS MORNING.

FUNERAL SERVICES THURSDAY

Played Prominent Part in Professional Life of City Years Ago.

The Hon. Frederick O'Donnell, Civil war veteran and former district court judge, died at Finley hospital at 1:30 o'clock this morning from injuries received August 31 when he was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Catherine Kramer, 2172 Garfield avenue.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Walton Chapel on Main street. The Rev. J. E. Flockhart, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, will officiate at the religious services and services will be conducted by the Hyde Clark post of the G. A. R. Burial will be made in Linwood cemetery.

Over 80 Years Old.

The death of Judge O'Donnell removes from Dubuque one of the city's most prominent citizens and a man who, in the latter part of the last century and the early part of this century, played a prominent part in Dubuque political, legal, judicial and social circles. For some years Judge O'Donnell, more than 80 years old at his death, had been retired from the practice of his profession.

The accident in which Judge O'Donnell was fatally injured was unavoidable, according to information secured by the police department from a number of witnesses. Miss Kramer, driver of the automobile, was questioned but not held. County Judge Edwin F. Strueber, who informed this morning of the death of Judge O'Donnell, stated that he would confer with the police department before making any announcement regarding an inquest.

Accident on August 31.

The accident occurred early in the evening of Monday, Aug. 31. Judge O'Donnell was walking west on Twelfth street, across Central avenue, when he is said to have stepped directly into the path of the automobile which Miss Kramer was driving south on Central avenue. Witnesses informed police that the automobile was being driven slowly and that the accident seemed unavoidable. The girl driver said that she had not seen Judge O'Donnell until he was directly in front of her car.

Judge O'Donnell was taken to Finley hospital where a hurried examination revealed that he had received a fracture to his collar bone, several rib fractures and numerous bruises. It was feared that he had received internal injuries and an x-ray examination the following day showed that a lung had been punctured. Physicians were never hopeful of his recovery.

Prominent in Politics.

Coming to Dubuque shortly after the close of the Civil war, before 1870, in which he had served with the United States army, Judge O'Donnell at once became a member of the law firm of Wilson, Mulhern and O'Donnell. Affiliated with the democratic party and a public speaker with but few equals in his time, Judge O'Donnell began to play a prominent part in the political life of the community and was elected to the state legislature. In 1892 he was nominated for the office of district court judge, was elected and served on the bench for 15 years, retiring in 1906.

After the deaths of Judge Wilson and Mr. Mulhern, his partners, Judge O'Donnell, together with his brother Huber, formed a law partnership with Judge McCeney. Both these men preceded him in death many years.

Since his retirement from active life, Judge O'Donnell had made his home at 1130 Main street.

Even Tempered Jurist

Members of the legal fraternity declared today that geniality and good nature ever characterized Judge O'Donnell's daily life. Notwithstanding the frequent procees, no lawyer ever saw him display bad temper on the bench. His associates say of him that if he left an enemy in Dubuque (or elsewhere) nobody knows of it.

A meeting of the Dubuque County Bar association has been called for tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at which time resolutions appropriate to the death of the former judge will be adopted. The meeting is to be held in the south court room of the city.

As special investigator, Colonel George A. Nugent, was proceeding from Washington today for San Antonio. There he will attempt through routine procedure to determine the authenticity of Colonel Mitchell's statement by questioning the officer.

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 9.—(INS) for. Col. Mitchell declared today. "The results are more than I hoped when informed that Col. George A. Nugent, inspector general's department, was enroute to San Antonio to make an official investigation of his verbal broadcast concerning the air police of the war and navy departments."

Col. Mitchell said that he had nothing to correct and expressed the hope that the sending of the investigator here would bring a "showdown" on aviation affairs he has long been awaiting.

Col. Mitchell made no attempt to conceal the fact that he hopes to be called to Washington.

"In that event, I can meet them on my own ground," which is taken to mean that he would have access to records to substantiate his charges.

VETERAN BUREAU MAKES BIG SAVING

RETURNS BIG SUM TO TREASURY; DIRECTOR HINES PROMISES NEW ECONOMY.

Washington, Sept. 9.—(AP)—By cutting down expenses all along the line, the veterans bureau, which has required nearly half a billion dollars to operate in the last few days, returned to the treasury $69,701,000 of appropriation of $481,957,898 for the fiscal year ending June 30, last.

The saving a detailed report of which has just been made to Director Lord of the budget by Frank T. Hines, director of the bureau, was made despite an increase in compensation payments for disability and death benefits from $115,494,991 for the fiscal year 1924-25 to $123,597,487 last year.

Further economies are promised by Director Hines, whose department last June came close to being half of the total remitted by all government departments. The $405,741,559 appropriation for the current fiscal year is expected by bureau officials to be materially reduced in revising preliminary estimates for 1925-26.

The cost per day per patient in 52 hospitals was cut 62 cents from $4.57 to $3.95 during the ten months ending April 1, 1925.

The body of a man between the ages of 40 and 45 years, found badly decomposed in weeds back of the Athletic Park stadium at 2 o'clock this afternoon, was identified shortly afterward as that of John Daley, who had been living in and about East Dubuque for several months.

When the body was discovered by Perry Jones, of Ottumwa, and James Smith, of Roscoe, Wis., the pet dog was found guarding it. The presence was largely responsible for identifying the body. It is not known whether or not Daley has relatives living in this vicinity.

No marks of foul play were found on the body which had been lying in the weeds for some considerable period of time. The man's watch was found in his pocket. It had stopped running. The body was given to Coroner Edwin F. Strueber who is conducting an investigation aided by the police.

This murder took place at a time when relatives of Harrison Noel, demented 20-year old slayer of little Mary Daly, were making elaborate plans for his defense.

Krynovik fired three shots into Lukasiuk's body. When the police arrived Krynovik was sitting on the sidewalk revolver in hand, gazing at the victim.

continued together in the practice, later receiving into the firm Mr. Brown, as stated in the sketch of Mr. Powers. After the retirement of Judge Powers, he and Mr. Brown continued together, subsequently receiving into the firm Frank R. Lacy, a son of Judge Lacy. Judge Lacy became interested in banking and business, and gradually withdrew from active practice. He was for some years President of the Iowa Trust and Savings Bank. He died in 1912.

Edward McCeney was a native of Maryland. He came to Dubuque about 1855. On the resignation of Samuel M. Pollock as Judge of the City Court of Dubuque, he was elected to fill the vacancy. He also served as City Attorney for six years. Later he became a partner of Fred O'Donnell. This partnership continued until Judge McCeney's death. He was a lawyer of decided ability and a superior citizen in all respects. But few men have enjoyed the confidence of the people more generally, but the modest estimate he placed upon himself and upon the value of his services interfered greatly with his official advancement and accumulation of wealth. He died in middle age, greatly regretted by his brethren of the bar and the community at large.

Frederick O'Donnell was a native of Illinois. He was a soldier in the Civil War. At the close of his military service, he entered and graduated from the law department of the Michigan State University. He came to Dubuque along in the Sixties. I became acquainted with him soon after that, during my attendance on the sessions of the Supreme Court at Dubuque. He had just entered into partnership with Judge Thomas S. Wilson—a partnership which continued for many years. He was then a lithe dapper, and brilliant young fellow, felicitious of speech and a general favorite with the ladies. He soon became known as an active and skilful lawyer, and had a successful career as both lawyer and judge until his retirement.

After his long association with Judge Wilson, he formed a partnership with Judge Edward McCeney, above mentioned, which continued until the death of the latter, and afterward with his brother, Herbert O'Donnell. Added to his legal accomplishments were those of a natural orator. These latter gifts, seconded by inclination, led him into politics, in the course of which he was frequently honored. In 1870 he was elected to the House of the Thirteenth General Assembly; in 1872 to that of the Fourteenth General Assembly, and in 1878 to that of the Seventeenth General Assembly—in all of which he took a leading part, especially in that of the Fourteenth, in which the final contest for the new capitol building took place. Among his associates in that body were many strong men, with whom he took honorable rank. He also received the honor of being nominated by the Democratic party as its candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1873, and in 1878 he was its candidate for Congress in his District against his Republican opponent, Thomas Updegraff, who was elected. It appears from Fairall's Manual of Iowa Politics that there were three candidates in the field—Updegraff, Republican, receiving 12,823; O'Donnell, Democrat, 10,836; and Spangler, Greenbacker, 5,406. He was for some time a member and President of the Board of Trustees of the Asylum for Feeble-Minded Children. He was twice elected Mayor of the City of Dubuque. In 1891 he was appointed by the Governor, Judge of the District Court, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge David J. Lenehan, and was continued in this position by successive elections for fifteen years, until 1906, when he retired from the bench and the practice.

After a period of thirty years, we happened to meet at the annual gathering of Iowans, held at Los Angeles in 1912. He was recognized and called upon for a speech, and among all those that were made on that occasion, none surpassed it in point of merit and none equaled it in eloquence. It was evident that his gift of oratory had not declined in his advancing years. He was a highly useful man, and left his impress upon the laws and jurisprudence of the State.

Dubuque has been noted for the number of its highly gifted men, and few were more richly endowed than John H. O'Niell. He was a native of Ohio, and came to Dubuque in 1857. He had been a member of the Ohio Legislature and one of the most noted orators of that State in the presidential campaigns of 1848 and 1852. In like manner he became noted in Iowa. His command of language was remarkable. It is said that he could speak impromptu for hours without making a mistake in grammar or pronunciation, always using the right word in the right place. In the felicity of his speech and grace of delivery, he only lacked the vigor of personality to have made him a successful rival of Ben M. Samuels as an orator.

Personally, O'Niell was one of the most fascinating men I have ever known. He was charmingly companionable, witty and convivial. He remained in Dubuque some fifteen years, removing to St. Louis, thence to Chicago where he died. It is said that his convivial habits seriously interfered with his professional success and shortened his life.

Thomas M. Monroe, Henry T. McNulty, John Deery, Michael Mulhern, Henry T. Utley, John Doud, Jr., Alonzo Cragin.

Thomas M. Monroe was a Virginian by birth. He came from near Washington to Dubuque in 1855. He was an able and well-read lawyer, and soon took a high position at the bar. He was a man of note, a radical Democrat in politics, and the candidate of his party for Supreme Judge in 1864, but was defeated by the Republican candidate, Chester C. Cole. (Cole had been a Democrat, but came over to the Republicans on the outbreak of the Rebellion.) Mr. Monroe was also the candidate for Elector, on what was known as the Straight Democratic Ticket in the Presidential Campaign of 1872, in which the regular or Liberal Democratic ticket was headed by Horace Greeley for President, the Straight ticket being
