ball. In cricket you make the best of what is sent down to you, and there is a field of phagocytes in wait to annihilate you at every point where you wish to place the ball, but in golf there is no one to make things unpleasant. You are everything to yourself; you are the game.

Explains Greater Consistency

This explains the greater consistency that is met with in the golfer, because though the element of chance must of course enter into the game to some degree, there is less of the accidental and unexpected—of fluking, in fact—than in most other games, and the golfer has not to make the best he can of what others choose to send him.

Just as in other forms of sport, there is the "natural" and the "made" performer; in the natural golfer there is an inborn proportion and combination between the various parts of the body which enables the player to get the most out of his strokes; in the "made" golfer some physical irregularity or even defect has to be overcome, a proceeding which of necessity interferes with the freedom and certainty of those better endowed, making for doubt and hesitation and consequent failure to achieve the best.

That the best combinations are is impossible to define within exact limits; they probably are not the same for all parts of the game.

Quickness of Stroke Important

The vis viva, the living force, of a ball is the velocity multiplied by the mass, so that other things being equal the quickness of the stroke is a very important feature, and it is not given to everybody to bring great velocity into his stroke. The phlegmatic is often the possessor of this faculty, and just as one notices an unexpected rapidity in the hitting of some boxers of calm and even temperament, so it is in golf, the quiet, steady, non-emotional player is found to be able when required to come down upon the ball with almost lightninglike quickness.

Not so the man of nervous temperament, whose very excitability tends to make him press unduly, to hesitate about his strokes, to fidget about with his clubs until his muscular combination is get discouraged, and he finishes with a disappointing fizzle. Like few other forms of sport, the golfer has everything in his favor, he has the ball lying still at his feet, he knows the distance to the hole and the position of the various

WELL KNOWN MAN DIES

Joshua Satterthwait for Fifty Years a
Prominent Figure in the City

WAS A FORMER STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Died at the Home of His Daughter
At Seattle on Saturday. Was Seventy-six Years of Age.
Prominent Citizen.

The many friends of Mr. Joshua W. Satterthwait were shocked on Saturday afternoon to receive the news of his death which occurred at the home of his daughter Mrs. Nettleton in Seattle, Washington. It is but a short time since that the deceased gentleman left for the far west to enjoy a summer with his daughter. No details are forthcoming but it is understood that he had been seriously sick with stomach trouble and that an operation had been performed. The deceased was seventy-six years of age. Born in Ohio he came to Mt. Pleasant in 1868; for years was in the drug business. He was a member of the Episcopal church and was a faithful attendant of St. Michael's church. For several years he was the leader of the choir. In 1861 he enlisted in the war of the rebellion in response to the first call of the president for troops and entered the service as a member of Company F 1st Regiment Iowa Volunteer Infantry. In 1869 he was elected by the Republican party to represent Henry County in the State Legislature and served

A MASONIC FUNERAL

Impressive Funeral Services Held This A. M. at Forest Home

MASONS IN CHARGE OF SERVICES

The Funeral of the Late Joshua W. Satterthwaite Was Held This Morning at Forest Home Cemetery—A Very Impressive Service

The remains of the late Joshua W. Satterthwaite arrived here from Seattle early this morning and were met by a number of Masons and conveyed to Bird and Cranes Undertaking parlors. At ten o'clock the funeral procession left the city and proceeded to Forest Home Cemetery where the funeral services were held. The Masons had charge of the exercises at the grave assisted by Rev. W. T. Jackson rector of the Episcopal Church.

The service was most impressive. A Quartet from St. Michaels Church Mrs. E. John Richards, Miss Christine Thorson, Prof. Eaton and Fred VanHon with Mr. Richards at the organ sweetly sang the Burial Chant and two hymns favorites of the deceased "Jerusalem the Golden" and "There is A Blessed Home." The pall bearers were John Myers, Edgar Lines, Fred Wright, John H. Jericho, James T. Whiting and C. A. Ott.

A large number of friends were present at the graveside. The relatives present were Mrs. J. W. Satterthwaite, (widow) Mrs. Harry Smith and Gladys Satterthwaite of Chicago (daughters) and Mr. Nettleton of Seattle (son-in-law.) The floral decorations were beautiful.

ity as we have had under the Dingley tariff. If the Payne tariff is better than the Dingley tariff, why should not our country be satisfied with it? Besides there is a limit to which the American voter will go. No reason is given to show that the Dingley tariff was the cause of it, but reasons are given to show that it existed in spite of its robbery of the consumers to the amount of billions of dollars. The demand for the products of the tariff and the volume of money more than anything else is what did it. The facts show the greatest prosperity we ever had was during the eleven years of the existence of the Walker tariff; not only a revenue tariff, and the Dingley tariff, the highest ever known. The same causes operated to produce prosperity during its existence that operated to produce it during the Walker tariff.

The result of the election of 1910 shows that in the House of Representatives the democratic party has a majority of 66 members, in the senate of 92 it has 42 members. The republican party, in the language of Theodore Roosevelt, was beaten to a pulp. This alarmed the president. The idea entered his prolific brain that something must be done to preserve the solidarity of the party, the measure that loomed up as the most essential to soothe the troubled waters was Canadian reciprocity; he caused all the power of his persuasive eloquence to convince his party to support this measure. It was submitted to a vote in the house, 78 republicans voting for and 87 against it, and 143 democrats for it. No vote could be had in the senate. He tells his party if you will only pass the Canadian reciprocity agreement I will not call an extra session of congress and thus save $1,000,000, but economy has no home in the republican party; an extra session was called, hoping almost without hope that the measure will be ratified. It is, credit alone must be given to the democratic party. It supports it because it honestly believes it is a step in the right direction, that it will open the way for freer trade with all the nations of the world.

the nomination of a united party in 1912, when the genuine progressives have such a man as LaFollette, who is the most consistent and conspicuous reformer in the party, and even ex-President Roosevelt, on his return trip from the west, stopped off at Madison, Wis., and made a speech in laudation of this honest and persistent advocate of the "square deal".

The democratic party is better united now than it has ever been since the close of the Civil war, and all that is necessary in order that the party may triumph in 1912 is that it adopts a platform that clearly and distinctly embodies its principles and selects a standard bearer who endorses it, such a man as Wilson, Clark or a Harmon, and for vice president the right kind of a man from the south, viz, Charles A. Culberson or John Sharp Williams.

Joshua W. Satterthwait.

Joshua W. Satterthwaite died at Seattle, Washington, Saturday, June 24th, from the effects of an operation. He had gone out there about a month ago to visit a daughter, Mrs. H. S. Nettleton.

He was born in Ohio and was 76 years old and served three months in the First Iowa Infantry. In 1869 he was elected to the state legislature and served one term. Before and after the war he was a druggist and for years ran a store at the Jericho stand. He and H. T. Bird of this town were partners for fifteen years.

He leaves a wife and three children, Mrs. Harry Smith of Chicago; Mrs. H. S. Nettleton, Seattle and Miss Gladys Satterthwaite, of Chicago.

H. S. Nettleton started with the body Sunday afternoon and it is thought he will arrive here Thursday.

Miss Lucy McClain, a sister of Prof. McClain, was here last week and went on the last of the week to New London to visit kin. She lives at Fairfield and recently graduated from the Chiropractic school of medicine, at Davenport, whatever that is.

two; one at San Diego, California, and the other at Nome, Alaska

Last Thursday morning, about the hottest day in the year, L. Antrim county superintendent, pitched two loads of hay before he started for the High School building where the sessions were held. Where he was able to find that much hay in our neighborhood, we don't know but we are told that it is true. Bill Litzenberg is using carpet sweepers to put up his hay, and we should think that it would take more than an hour to sweep together two loads of hay.

Emancipation Proclamation gave them all their liberty. For his manly character, his uprightness and straightforward manner, he is greatly esteemed by those who know him.

JARRETT NUGEN, a farmer residing on section 36, New London Township, is a pioneer of 1840. He has several well-improved farms, aggregating 595 acres, and his post-office is New London. Mr. Nugen is a native of Virginia, and was born in Kanawha County, now in West Virginia, in February, 1813. His parents were also natives of Virginia. His father, John Nugen, Sr., was born near Richmond, Va., in 1775, of Irish parents, and was a soldier of the War of 1812. He was married in Kanawha County, Va., to Miss Mary C. Lee. They were the parents of sixteen children, thirteen of whom grew to man and womanhood; and four sons—David, Jarrett, Charles and Silas—came to Iowa, and settled in New London Township, Henry County; Charles came in 1838, Jarrett and David in 1840, and Silas in 1855. Of these David and Jarrett are still residents of this county, are wealthy, and large land-owners. Silas resides in Dakota Territory, and Charles is now deceased. The family are remarkable for their longevity, there being now living eleven of the twelve children who reached maturity. The oldest was born in 1804, and is now eighty-three years of age; the youngest is fifty-seven years old.

John Nugen, Sr., emigrated from Virginia to Kentucky, and a few years later to Wayne County, Ind., in 1818. He continued to reside in that county, engaged in farming, until his death, which occurred in 1859. His wife was of an old Virginia family of Colonial times. Her father served through the Revolutionary War as a soldier of the Continental army, and was a warm patriot.

Jarrett Nugen, our subject, was reared on his father's farm, and was united in marriage in Wayne County, Ind., March 8, 1838, to Miss Melinda Butler, daughter of Samuel Butler. Mrs. Nugen was born in Wayne County, Ind., and her father was a native of Georgia, emigrating to the former State at an early day. Seven children were born of their union, five sons and two daughters, and five are now living: William H. was born in Des Moines County, Iowa, Jan. 6, 1841, and served in the late war as a member of Company K, 25th Iowa Volunteer Infantry; he was engaged in the mercantile business at New London for twelve years, four in company with Capt. Richard, and eight by himself, but is now engaged in farming. Mary, born April 6, 1843, is the wife of Gad Lyman, of New London; John Z., born April 25, 1845, married Miss Zora Belle Newell, and resides at New London (see his sketch); Lizzie was born May 28, 1847, and resides with her father; Josephus, born April 27, 1850, died at the age of four; Ellwood died in childhood; the other being an unnamed infant. Mr. Nugen first came to Iowa Oct. 18, 1839, purchasing a claim in Des Moines County, and after a brief stay returned to Indiana. The following year he returned with his family, arriving at their home in Pleasant Grove Township Oct. 8, 1840. On the 2d of March, 1841, he moved to Henry County, and on the 16th of November of that year he established his permanent home, where he has since resided. Mr. Nugen was a Whig in early life, and since the dissolution of that party has been a Democrat. He is a Master Mason, a member of New London Lodge No. 28, A. F. & A. M. He has been an active business man, and by industry and good management has accumulated a large property, and his character as a man and citizen is above reproach.

J. W. SATTERTHWAIT, druggist, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, was born in Guernsey County, Ohio, March 29, 1835, and is the son of Enoch and Nancy (Dilley) Satterthwait. His parents were natives of England, but came to America in early life. They settled in New Jersey, and subsequently moved to Guernsey County, Ohio, when that county was in a primitive condition, where his father owned a large tract of land, on which he carried on farming and stock-raising. J. W. lost his mother when he was but two years old, and his father died six years later, leaving the son an orphan at the tender age of seven years. His people were members of the Society of Friends, and he was reared among Quakers and educated at a Quaker school. He served several years as a druggist's clerk, and in the autumn of 1856 came to Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. The succeeding four years were spent in various undertakings, and in 1860 he purchased an interest in the drug business, but did not engage personally in it at that time. He enlisted in the war of the Rebellion in response to the first call of the President for troops in April, 1861, and entered the service as a member of Company F, 1st Regiment Iowa Volunteer Infantry (three-months men), and served through the term of his enlistment and a few days longer. He participated in the campaign under Gen. Lyon; the regiment remaining in the service a short time after the expiration of their term of enlistment before being mustered out, in order to take part in the battle of Wilson's Creek, then pending, and in which they were actively engaged.

On his return from the war, in August, 1861, he engaged actively in the drug business at Mt. Pleasant, in which he has continued ever since. In 1869 he was elected by the Republican party to represent Henry County in the Iowa Legislature, and served one term; he has also served as a member of the Common Council of Mt. Pleasant. He was one of the proprietors and organizers of the Henry County Agricultural Society, and has ever since been a member, and has held the positions of Secretary and Treasurer. Mr. Satterthwait has always taken a warm interest in educational matters, and has served about twenty years as a member of the Board of Education, which position he holds at this writing, and most of the time being President of the Board. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the State Normal School, and has filled that position four years, and has always wielded a large influence in educational matters, and has given eminent satisfaction to the people in every position to which he has been called.

Mr. Satterthwait was married at Mt. Pleasant, in April, 1862, to Miss Emma Randolph, a daughter of John H. Randolph. Mrs. Satterthwait was born in Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. Her father was a native of Virginia, and a member of the well-known family of that name. Her mother was born in Kentucky.

The family were among the early settlers of Henry County, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Satterthwait have four children, all girls—Myra, Lulu, Stella and Gladys; all born at Mt. Pleasant. Myra is the wife of W. W. Benedict, now of Pasadena, Cal. The rest are unmarried. Mr. Satterthwait is a 32d degree Mason, and prominently identified with the fraternity in Iowa. He has held official positions in all the local Masonic bodies of Mt. Pleasant, and in the grand bodies of Iowa. He was one of the charter members of Jerusalem Commandery No. 7, Mt. Pleasant, and is the present Eminent Commander of that body. He is also Worthy Patron of Bethlehem Chapter No. 38, of the order of the Eastern Star. As his Masonic record shows, Mr. Satterthwait possesses superior executive ability and the essential qualities of a leader among men.

Mr. Satterthwait, although not a communicant, is a friend and supporter of St. Michael's Episcopal Church, of which two of his daughters are members. He is also the leader of the church choir. His wife and daughter Lulu belong to the Presbyterian Church. Physically, he is tall, well-formed, and of commanding presence. As a business man, and socially, he is held in high esteem among those who know him best, and is justly regarded as one of Mt. Pleasant's foremost citizens.

ELIJAH RICHARD, deceased, was for many years a prominent merchant in New London, where he located on his first arrival in Iowa from Virginia, in which State he was born, near Pembroke, Frederick County, Nov. 14, 1798. The ancestry of Mr. Richard on both sides were of German extraction, his mother being a native of Germany, who came to this country with her parents, landing on her eighth birthday. His boyhood days were spent in Winchester, in his native county, in which place he was engaged in mercantile business for Samuel Brown, a member of the Society of Friends. When a young man he removed to Woodstock, Shenandoah Co., Va., where he began business for himself, and where a few years later he was married to Miss Eliza H. Thompson, a native of did, however, flourish in the 1850's, 1860's and early 1870's, as they do now. At one time Mt. Pleasant had two breweries and one distillery on the Skunk River southwest of town. Of these co-partners of debauchery, I have never been proud. In the early days, fight between the opposing factions waxed hot. Fists were used, lives were threatened. In dogged determination, the temperance forces held together and worked on until their hope for final victory in the 1890's came when Iowa became a prohibition state and carried on until 1919 when the United States adopted prohibition. Every attempt, even in those early days, to regulate liquor traffic, brought bootleggers. The liquor interests having become firmly entrenched in politics, attempted to defeat prohibition by all sorts of subterfuges, even though the people of Iowa adopted by a safe majority a prohibition law modeled after the Maine law which prohibited the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor except for mechanical and medicinal use.

In 1861, the Hospital for the Insane was formally opened here. Dr. Mark Ranney and his wife, Martha, came within a few years, not only to set a high standard of professional care for the unfortunate inmates, but to take part in all the worthwhile clubs and activities in town. Dr. Ranney made trips on horseback to Iowa City to give lectures on the care and treatment of the insane. He was called in many criminal trials, both in Iowa and Illinois, to testify as to the sanity of the person being tried.

Before 1865, a music academy was established. Rev. H. W. Thomas was the president and F. R. Walker was the principal. Rev. Thomas was the minister in the Methodist Church and later became a great, independent preacher in Chicago. (Associated with this Academy of Music were Rev. J. W. Pickett, vice-president, Edwin Van Cise, Henry Ambler, O. H. Snyder, and J. W. Satterthwaite, secretary.)

In 1863, the Female Seminary under Presbyterian influence was chartered, located in a large brick building in addition to Job's Hotel, just east of the hospital on what is now East Washington Street. Mr. Belder was the principal, assisted by his good wife. The Female Seminary was to Mt. Pleasant what Vassar and Wellesley were to the East. The young ladies of means and families attended. Music instruction was specialized.

Another man of institutional proportions in influence and contribution came to the Female Seminary in 1865. This was Arthur Rommel. He had been educated in Germany many both in music and science. For the sake of greater liberty and freedom, he was urged by his parents to return to the United States. He told me there was a question in his mind when he landed in New York whether he would go into the scientific or music field. He found no place for his scientific training. By several happy accidents in Mt. Pleasant people, he came here and gave them a course of instruction in music appreciation and performance. It was he who brought the Boston Philharmonic Club to Mt. Pleasant. With artists from Chicago as assistants he gave the following oratorios: "The Creation," "Messiah" (four times), "Judas Maccabaeus" (twice), "Saul," "Sampson," "The Woman of Samaria," "The City," "Elijah" (twice), and "Stabat Mater." There were weekly musical soirees and many concerts.

Addison wrote Cordelia, August, 1865: "The Flukes Hall is fitted up nicely and Profs. Walker and Rice have their Academy of Music there. They are doing with most flattering success. We have a complete college, lately established."

Description:

This database is an index to individuals enumerated in the 1860 United States Federal Census, the Eighth Census of the United States. Census takers recorded many details including each person's name, age as of the census day, sex, color, birthplace, occupation of males over age fifteen, and more. No relationships were shown between members of a household. Additionally, the names of those listed on the population schedule are linked to actual images of the 1860 Federal Census.
