DEATH OF ED. CAMPBELL.

An Early Legislator and a Former Democratic Leader.

Fairfield, March 11.—Hon. Ed Campbell, Jr., widely known among Iowans and a former democratic leader in the state, died at his home in this city at 3:40 Saturday morning. Death resulted from senile gangrene, brought about by a clot of blood forming in the main artery of the right leg. He was just past his eighty-first birthday, and since a surgical operation of heroic character performed on him four years ago, his health has been unusually good.

Two weeks ago Mr. Campbell went to Chicago for a visit with his children. Taken ill a few days after, he was removed to the hospital, where it was decided his condition was most serious. Amputation was considered unwise and impracticable, and the family, as well as Mr. Campbell, himself, were informed of his serious condition. He then determined to return to his home, and in spite of the protest of the hospital authorities, this was successfully accomplished, he arriving there Thursday morning. He was conscious until within a few hours of his death, and to the last was the same bright and ever-glorious Ed Campbell that his friends have always known. He leaves a wife and five children, John M. Campbell, Mrs. S. C. Farmer and Colin Campbell, of Chicago, and Mrs. W. E. Thompson and Mrs. Bell Bright of this place.

WOMEN USED THEIR HATCHETS.

Mother and Daughters Wreck a Saloon in Johnson County.

Cedar Rapids, March 9.—Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Barner and her daughter-in-law went into the only saloon in the little town of Oxford, Johnson county. They had hatchets concealed under their cloaks. Once inside, they began smashing glasses and bottles. The saloonkeeper disarmed them and put them out of the saloon. Later he was arrested for assault and battery. The younger woman's husband had been a frequenter of the saloon, and the keeper refused to stop selling him liquor. There is great excitement in the little town.

CUBAN CONSERVATIVES WIN.

Constitutional Convention Decides to Consider the Platt Amendment.

Havana, March 8.—The constitutional convention met in secret session yesterday for a formal discussion of the Platt amendment. The conservative element scored a victory. It was decided to continue the sessions of the convention and to refer the amendment to the special committee on relations, with instructions to bring in a report.

Twenty-nine delegates were present, Senor Llorente and General Rivera being the only absentees. General Sanguily favored dissolving the convention and returning the amendment without discussion. The other delegates were unanimously in favor of continuing the sessions and of sending some answer to the executive department in Washington.

It is generally believed that the crisis, if any existed, has passed, and that by the time the committee reports the present excitement will have died out. Much depends upon the attitude of the radical delegates. If an impassioned appeal to the people is issued, as it is rumored will be the case, this may cause demonstrations of protest against the United States. But nothing in the nature of an uprising is any longer feared.

TRIED TO KILL THE EMPEROR.

An Epileptic Throws a Piece of Iron and Hits German Emperor's Cheek.

Berlin, March 8.—While Emperor William was driving from the Rathskeller to the railway station at Bremen a workman named Ditrich Weiland threw a piece of iron into his majesty's carriage. Weiland was immediately arrested. In the attack the emperor was struck on the cheek just below the right eye. There was much bleeding, but the wound was not a serious one. The assailant of Emperor William in trying to escape fell under the horses of the escort riding behind the carriage. The members of the escort handed the man over to the police. During an examination at the town hall the assailant of the emperor suffered from several epileptic fits. During the intervals between these attacks he replied to several questions, but did not give out any important information. Weiland apparently pretends to know

Edward Campbell, Jr., Is Dead.

Edward Campbell, jr., one of Fairfield's best known citizens, died at an early hour Saturday morning. He was taken ill while visiting in Chicago a week or two ago, a blood clot forming in the artery of one of his legs. Physicians at St. Luke's hospital advised him that there was a possibility that his life might be prolonged would he submit to the amputation of the diseased member. This he refused to do. He expressed a desire to return home, notwithstanding his condition, and was brought here Thursday night. He survived the journey only a little more than twenty-four hours.

Mr. Campbell had been closely associated with the political, commercial and social life of Jefferson county since 1865, and was likewise prominent in state affairs for much of this time. He was born in Washington county, Penn., January 1st, 1820, obtained a common school education and grew to manhood there. He was married in March, 1841, to Elizabeth Moore, who survives him. They were the parents of eight children, five of whom are now living—Mrs. W. E. Thompson and Mrs. M. B. Bright of this city, Mrs. S. C. Farmer, John M. and Colin E. Campbell of Chicago.

In 1846 Mr. Campbell removed to Pittsburgh, Penn., and entered into political life. He was for several years clerk in the offices of prothonotary and sheriff and was subsequently elected to both offices; with a term of service of fifteen years. In 1865 he came to this county and purchased the Huyett farm in Cedar township, one of the largest tracts of land in the county, where he lived for fifteen years. He then removed to this city.

Soon after removing to Iowa Mr.
Campbell became interested in local politics. He was elected to the general assembly when Jefferson county had two members of the house and served in 1872 and 1873. For ten years or more about that time he was chairman of the democratic state central committee, was one of the active leaders of his party in the state and was rewarded with many places of honor within its gift. In 1885 he was appointed United States marshal for the southern district of Iowa by President Cleveland and served one term or until a change of administrations brought a republican into office. Mr. Campbell was more or less actively engaged in the democratic politics of the state until 1896, when he repudiated the doctrine of free silver and refused to support the party ticket. He was prominently identified with the gold democratic movement of that campaign and had never since been wholly in accord with his old party. Mr. Campbell was a man of much intellectual ability and had acquired a wide range of knowledge without an academic education. His friends found rare social qualities in him and genial companionship. He was a public spirited citizen, a man of means, and gave liberally to public enterprises. His death has excited much regret among the people who had known him for more than a third of a century in this community.

Funeral services were held at the
