CAPTAIN HENRY MUHS.

Captain Henry Muhs, an honored veteran of the Civil war, who is now living a retired life after an active, honorable and successful business career covering many years, was born in Holstein, Germany, July 31, 1838, his parents being James and Margaret (Wise) Muhs, both of whom were natives of the fatherland. On coming to America in 1849 they located at Davenport, Iowa. The father was a tailor by trade and followed that pursuit in order to provide for his family. His death occurred in 1899, at the age of eighty-five years, but his widow still survives and is now living in Camanche, at the age of eighty-two.

The captain is the eldest of their twelve children, of whom four are yet living. He was a lad of eleven summers when he came with his parents to the new world, and in the schools of Davenport he continued his education, which had been begun in Germany. In 1853 the family removed to Camanche township, Clinton county, where Captain Muhs has since made his home. In 1861, at the country's need, he offered his services to the government, enlisting in the Eighth Iowa Volunteer Infantry. He was elected lieutenant of Company A, and with his regiment was in much active service, including the battle of Shiloh on the 6th of April, 1862. He was there captured, and about six months later was paroled. In the spring of 1863 he participated in the Vicksburg campaign, and was also in the Jackson campaign, and took part in a number of important battles in the Mississippi valley. His brother Peter was wounded in the battle at Mobile, one of the last engagements of the war. Captain Muhs was mustered out April 20, 1866, but the regiment did not disband until May 6, 1866.

Captain Muhs at once returned to Clinton county, and on the 20th of February, 1868, was united in marriage to Miss Georgiana Mary McClosky, a daughter of Robert and Margarett (Smith) McClosky, who were natives of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Muhs was born in Davenport in 1848, and is the only child of her father's second marriage. Her parents are now both deceased.

After his marriage Captain Muhs became interested in farming and purchased eighty acres of land in Eden township. To this he added from time to time until he now owns a valuable tract of two hundred acres, which he placed under a high state of cultivation and which he continued to improve until 1880, when he came to Camanche. Here he engaged in the grocery business for five years, and on the expiration of that period he retired from business life and has since enjoyed a well-earned rest from the cares and responsibilities connected with the conduct of any enterprise.

Unto Captain and Mrs. Muhs have been born eight children: Margareth, who is now teaching school and was principal of the school of Camanche for some time, but is now located in Fairfield, Illinois; Mary Louisa, who for the past three years has engaged in teaching at Nevada, Iowa; Frederick Ross, who is vice-president of the Croton Iron Works in St. Louis, Missouri, and is a civil engineer by profession; Henry Clare; Louis R., who is studying civil engineering in the State College at Ames, Iowa; Dora W. E. and Edith Loretta, at home. The fourth member of the family was Agnes Josephine, who died in infancy. Captain Muhs is a valued resident of the community and of the county in which he has so long made his home. From 1869 until 1871 he served as township supervisor and for seven years was county supervisor. He was also elected on the Democratic ticket to the fifteenth general assembly in 1873, and served on the judiciary, military and railroad committees. He belongs to the Masonic fraternity, to the Iowa Workmen and to the Baker Post, G. A. R., at Clinton, while his wife is a member of the Catholic church. His record is that of one who is true to duty in every relation of life. As a public official he was as true and loyal as when he followed the starry banner on the battlefields of the south, and in business he sustained an irreproachable reputation.

DANIEL CONRAD.

Daniel Conrad, deceased, was the well-known proprietor of the Keystone Farm on section 35, Deep Creek township. A native of Pennsylvania, he was born in Ferguson township, Centre county, May 8, 1820, and was a son of John and Mary (Stevens) Conrad. His paternal grandfather was Peter Conrad, who was born, reared and married in Germany. On coming to America he lived for some years in Pennsylvania, and then removed to New York, his death occurring near Auburn, that state. By occupation he was both a miller and a farmer. Our subject's maternal grandfather was Leon Stevens.

John Conrad, the father of our subject, was a native of Bucks county, Pennsylvania, and was first married in Adams county, that state, to a German lady, by whom he had four children. Being divorced from that wife, he went to Centre county, Pennsylvania, where he enlisted as a private in the infantry under General Scott during the war of 1812, but being severely wounded at Lundy's Lane, he was transferred to the artillery when he had sufficiently recovered to resume active duty. At two other times he was slightly wounded. He enlisted for five years, and on the expiration of that term he was honorably discharged from the service. Returning to Centre county, he wedded Mary Stevens, and unto them were born four children, of whom our subject was the oldest. All are now deceased.

The subject of this sketch was quite young when the family removed to Clearfield county, Pennsylvania, and on leaving the parental roof, at the age of twelve years, he lived with a neighboring farmer in that county for some time. Subsequently he returned to Centre county, where he was married, November 12, 1840, to Miss Nancy Harpster, who was also born in Ferguson township, on the 1st of April, 1822, and is a daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (Beal) Harpster. Her ancestors were of German and Pennsylvania Dutch extraction, her maternal grandfather, Abraham Beal, having been born on the Atlantic steamer while his parents were emigrating from Germany to America. Her father, who was a farmer by occupation, was born near Philadelphia, and died in Centre county, where he spent almost his entire life. His first wife died when Mrs. Conrad was a child, and he subsequently married Sarah Harper, by whom he had two children. Mrs. Conrad is the fifth in order of birth in the family of ten children born to the first union, and she still has one brother living in Pennsylvania.

was a man of no little note, as he fought courageously in the battle of Bunker Hill and was known as a true soldier and an honest man. He was present at the surrender of Burgoyne. A few days before this occurrence, he, with a few others, constituting a scouting party, were lost and wandered for days in the wilderness, living on roots until they came to some friendly Indians, who assisted them in finding the way and gave them food.

Ezra Kendall, the grandfather of Abner Beard on his mother's side, was a native of Tewksbury, Mass., and was born Jan. 1, 1721. He was married May 28, 1748, to Ruth Frost, whom he lost by death, and his second wife, grandmother of our subject, was Abigail Chandler, married May 24, 1751. So far as known, they spent their entire lives in Tewksbury, but were honorable and esteemed citizens.

CAPT. HENRY MUHS. Among the prominent and well-to-do citizens of this county is Capt. Muhs. He is one of the present County Board of Supervisors, and resides at Camanche. Capt. Muhs was born in Holstein, Germany, July 31, 1838. His father, James Muhs, was also born in Holstein, and early in life learned the tailor's trade and was occupied at that business in his native country until 1819. In the month of April of that year, he, accompanied by his wife and four children, set sail from Hamburg for the United States, and after a tedious voyage of eight weeks and two days they landed at New Orleans. From the Crescent City they came directly to Davenport, Iowa, where he worked at his trade until 1853. He then came to Camanche, where he has continued to reside until the present time and where he has been actively engaged in the carrying on of his business until within the last few years, when he has been retired from active labor. The maiden name of his wife was Margaret Wiese. The children of this union are Henry, our subject; Peter, who lives at Camanche; William, deceased; Charles, a resident of Camanche; George, living in Dakota; Flora, wife of John Wood, residing at Mitchell, Dak. Of the number the three youngest were born in America. John, the third child in order of birth, died while the family were en route from New Orleans to Davenport.

Capt. Henry Muhs was 10 years of age when his parents emigrated to this country, and 14 years old when they came to Camanche. He attended school three years in his native land, and while in Davenport attended the English schools during the winter seasons and worked on a farm in summer. After the family moved to Camanche, our subject worked upon a farm and in a sawmill for three or four years, then entered a printing-office in Camanche, where he learned to set type. In the spring of 1859 he went to Missouri, thence to Fort Leavenworth, and in 1860 started for Pike's Peak. He drove an ox-team from Fort Leavenworth to Denver, and after visiting Pike's Peak he went to Saint Louis. In the fall of 1860 he enlisted at Saint Louis in a company of State militia and was sent to the Kansas border, and he was among the command that was captured at Camp Jackson, but was discharged and soon thereafter joined Capt. Jackson's battery. In April, 1861, our subject was captured with the rest of the battery, by Gen. Lyon, and after his release he returned to Camanche. Aug. 12, 1861, he enlisted in Co. A, 8th Iowa Vol. Inf., and was elected Lieutenant of the company. Later he was promoted to Captain, and participated in the battle of Shiloh, under Gen. Prentiss, and was captured in the first day's fight, and confined in the Montgomery, Ala., prison, then transferred to the prison at Macon, and later to the one at Madison, Ga. After six months he was paroled and went to parole camp at Saint Louis. He was exchanged the following winter, and afterward participated in the siege and capture of Vicksburg, the battles of Jackson and Brandon, Miss., and was at Memphis when Forrest made his raid. It was he who led the charge in command of sixty-four men that captured Spanish Fort, April 8, 1865. He was breveted Major for meritorious conduct during that engagement. After his discharge from the service he returned to Camanche, in the neighborhood of which, in Eden Township, he purchased a farm and was occupied in agricultural pursuits until 1880. He then went to Camanche and opened a grocery and hardware store, which he managed until 1885, when he sold out. In the fall of 1882 Capt. Muhs was elected Supervisor to fill a vacancy, and in the fall of 1883 was re-elected for a full term. He also held the office of Supervisor in Eden Township.

Capt. Muhs was married Feb. 20, 1868, to Georgianna McCloskey. She was born at Davenport and is the daughter of Robert and Margaret McCloskey, and has borne him six children—Margaret Roberta, Mary Louise, Fred R., Clara H., Louis R. and an infant daughter.

In politics Mr. Muhs voted with the Republican party until 1873, since which time he has been a Democrat. In the fall of 1873 he was elected a member of the Legislature, as the Anti-Monopoly candidate for this district, and was an active participant in the important legislation of that session. He is a member of Camanche Lodge, No. 60, A., F. & A. M., and also Mount Moriah Chapter, No. 15, R. A. M., and Hope Lodge, No. 13, A. O. U. W.

Lyman Pryor Haradon. The subject of this biographical notice was born in Hornby, Steuben County, N. Y., Nov. 10, 1831. He is the son of Albert and Sophronia (Blandin) Haradon. They were married in Steuben County, the father a native of Massachusetts, coming from a long line of ancestral stock of that State dating as far back as 1632. His mother's mother was a Benson and claimed a similar line of ancestry to the Haradons. Sophronia was a daughter of John Blandin, a native of New York, and possessed those noble requisites which constituted so largely the women of earlier days. She was a true helpmeet to her husband and a noble wife and mother.

L. P. Haradon spent the happy days of boyhood on the farm, and obtained a good education in the interval between that period and manhood. At the age of 16 he was apprenticed to a carpenter and showed much ability in that line, and when he attained the age of 20 he came West and located at Racine, Wis. Taking jobs and contracts, he continued building through that county, establishing a lumber-yard, until in 1861 he moved to Independence, Iowa, and from there to Clinton in 1866. He built one hotel in Racine County and many private residences, stores, etc., as he had already proved himself one of the best of his class. In 1861 he removed to Buchanan County, Iowa, where he had become interested in realty. There he spent about five years in building and in superintending a lumber-yard. This suffered by fire, and, desiring to re-establish his partially fallen fortunes, he, in 1866, came to Clinton and built a sash, door and blind factory. This has been prosperous and highly satisfactory to its owner, the business flourishing and growing for the past twelve years. On retiring from this industry he engaged in building and establishing himself in the house-furnishing business and also in buying and selling lots after building upon them. This proved an important branch of commercial enterprise, and has shown itself a credit to the inventive genius of its proprietor.

Mr. Haradon is surrounded by a pleasant home circle, including two sons and two daughters—Ida, wife of J. T. Pierson; Edwin W., M. D., a graduate of the Iowa State University and a young man of excellent attainments; Hattie E., single, a graduate of the High School, who is engaged in teaching; Nathaniel L., an engineer, and a young man of strong mechanical ability, keen intelligence and quick and ready mind.

Mr. Haradon and his late wife were members in full and regular standing in the First Presbyterian Church, which they liberally supported personally and financially. In politics he is a liberal Republican, and would never be prevailed upon to accept public office; however, he fills a wide field of usefulness, and has in days past done much to benefit and advance the interests of the community. He is a member of the White Caps here, and one of the Board of Directors of the Fourth Street Building Association. He works a feedmill in his old factory, and notwithstanding advancing years and accumulating duties, besides the many avenues into which his business leads, he retains his original trade and annually erects about seven buildings.

Mrs. Haradon, deceased, was a Miss Hannah M. Pierce, a native of Steuben County, N. Y., and
