1865 to Miss Katie McIntyre, of Clay County, Iowa, a daughter of Thomas and Catherine McIntyre, who came to this State from Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. Powers have had four children, but two of whom are living—Mary Ellen and Katie Ilene. Stephen and Walter W. both died in 1887, the former aged seven and the latter aged five years.

JOHAN Q. MACK is one of the well-known pioneers of Elkhorn Township, where he settled in 1864. He is a native of Vermont, born in Addison County, April 30, 1824, a son of James and Hannah (Burnap) Mack, his father a native of New Hampshire and his mother of Fitchburg, Massachusetts. His grandfather, Robert Mack, was a minuteman in the war of the Revolution with the rank of Captain. He was by trade a gunsmith. The Mack family is of Scotch origin, the ancestor of our subject is supposed to have gone with Cromwell to Ireland, and later the first of the name in this country came with the colony that founded the town of Londonderry, New Hampshire. The maternal grandfather of our subject, Jacob Burnap, served seven years in the war of the Revolution and was an aid of General Lee. The parents of our subject spent the last years of their lives in Vermont. They reared a family of three children, J. Q. being the youngest. He was reared a farmer and educated in the public schools. He lived in Vermont until 1863, when he exchanged his farm in that State for 320 acres in Webster County, Iowa, which is his present farm. He came to Iowa in the spring of 1863 and lived in Hardin County one year and then moved to Webster County and rented land three years, and then settled on his own land. He has made many valuable improvements and now has one of the pleasantest homes in the township. Mr. Mack was married June 13, 1851, to Sarah Morton, a native of Salisbury, Addison County, Vermont, daughter of Cyrus and Lois Morton, natives of Middleboro, Massachusetts, but residents for many years of Vermont. Mr. and Mrs. Mack have five children—Herbert J., of Roland Township, where he owns a good farm; Eugene C., a resident of Elkhorn Township, but owns a good farm of 160 acres in Clay County; George W. lives on the west part of the old homestead, and owns 208 acres of land in Elkhorn Township; Louesa and Edwin J. are at home. Mr. Mack is the oldest resident of the township with one exception. He is a Republican in politics. He has served in most of the township offices, including trustee, justice of the peace and as secretary and treasurer of the school board. He is a public-spirited, influential citizen of the township, and has assisted materially in its development.

ISAAC L. WOODS, of Deer Creek Township, is one of the largest and most successful farmers of Webster County. He is a native of Henderson County, Illinois, born October 21, 1851, his father, James H. Woods, being an early settler of that county. He was given good educational advantages, attending the public schools and the high school at Monmouth. He lived in Illinois until 1873, when he came to Iowa and engaged in stock-raising in Madison County. For two years, from 1884 till 1886, he was engaged in the agricultural implement business at Humboldt. He bought his present farm in 1882, and as the care of his extensive farm and his stock required so much of his time he gave up his business at Humboldt and located on his farm, which he has continued to improve and he now has a beautiful home. Although his personal interests require his whole attention and though he has avoided, as far as possible, inducements to enter public life, yet he was prevailed upon to accept the nomination as a candidate to the State Legislature, and in the fall of 1887 was elected to the Twenty-second General Assembly of Iowa. Although his opponent carried the county by 600 votes in 1885, yet Mr. Woods was elected by about 200 majority and in his own precinct had but three opposing votes. With one exception he is the only Democrat elected from his district since 1876. His popularity has been fairly won. He is a thorough gentleman and treats all men with a genial and unaffected courtesy, and this added to his ability and honorableness has gained for him the esteem of all who know him. He was married January 22, 1873, to Miss E. C. Brown, of Warren County, Illinois, daughter of J. C. Brown.

STEPHEN POWERS, deceased, was one of the well-known and prominent citizens of Douglas Township. He was a native of Maine, born in 1805, a son of Walter Powers. He was reared in his native State, and was there married to Mary Colwell, a daughter of Charles and Ann (Kendall) Colwell. In the spring of 1855 he with his family moved to Iowa and settled in Douglas Township, Webster County, buying 320 acres of Government land on section 32. Fourteen acres had been broke and a log-cabin built on the land. He afterward bought 200 acres on section 33, and this was made one of the best farms in the county. In 1868 the log-cabin gave place to a good brick house, and other building improvements have been made until it is now a model homestead. Mr. Powers died January 20, 1880. Mrs. Powers still lives on the homestead. They had a family of five children — Ann Elizabeth, wife of Charles Woodbury; Walter, Stephen, Mary, wife of George W. Hyatt, and Thomas. In politics Mr. Powers was a Democrat. He was a liberal supporter of the Catholic church.

THOMAS CHANTLAND is prominent among the pioneers of Badger Township, where he has lived since July, 1867. He is a native of Norway, born June 21, 1843, a son of Thomas and Stena Chantland, who are now making their home with our subject, the father aged eighty-five years and the mother about seventy. They came to America in the summer of 1853, on the sailing ship Amelia, and after a tedious voyage of three months landed safely in Quebec, and from there made their way to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, by boat, rail and stage, the journey occupying a month. From Milwaukee they proceeded by rail to Palmyra, and from there to Dane County, a distance of sixty miles, by ox teams, and there entered Government land and engaged in farming. Thomas remained with his parents until August 14, 1862, when he enlisted in the defense of his adopted country and was assigned to Company K, Twenty-eighth Wisconsin Infantry, and served until September 25, 1865, when he was discharged at Madison, Wisconsin. While in the service he participated in a number of important engagements. He was in the Yazoo Pass expedition, in the rear of Vicksburg, in the spring of 1863; at Helena July 4, 1863; and the summer of the same year was in the Little Rock expedition and in a number of skirmishes, the most important being at Little Rock. At that place he filled
