Recently defeated a measure which would have legalized 3.2. The state does not even permit the manufacture of malt fluids to imitate or substitute for beer.

Neither Florida, Tennessee nor South Carolina has enacted the necessary legislation.

In the District of Columbia the sale will not be permitted to persons under 18 or to automobilists.

Case for Roosevelt

Planes were being groomed in Pittsburgh to rush case after case of the drink to the nation's capital. One brewery has prepared a special case for the President.

Hollywood won't have any beer after midnight. California will permit sale all night, and Los Angeles has an ordinance which permits sale, but it applies to only some sections of the city. Hollywood is within the city limits, but outside the area delineated by the ordinance.

The divorce colony at Reno expected to make purchases in the city's night clubs after 12:01 a. m. So far as Nevada was concerned, the prospect was the beverage would be tax free.

Colorado was expecting beer but H. F. Bedford, state treasurer, refused to issue beer licenses until attorney-general Paul P. Prosser has ruled upon numerous points in the beer bill signed yesterday by Gov. Edwin C. Johnson.

New Mexico cannot have 3.2 beer until September 19. On that date the state will vote on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the sale of beer will be prohibited until that time.

Montanans may buy the beverage if they can find any to buy, but breweries within the state have not completed arrangements for manufacture.

Dries Active in Maine

Utah itself may manufacture for sale outside the state, but the sale of a beverage of more than one-half of 1 per cent is prohibited within its own borders.

Maine can have beer after June 30, unless a referendum is initiated. Prohibition leaders have said such a move will be made.

Massachusetts can have the beverage tomorrow only if a bill which already has passed the House is enacted into law today.

Delaware is still struggling with the control situation, but Wilmington expects to make sales.

Three per cent beer is legal in Rhode Island under a state law, but the legislature still is debating the proposed 3.2 measure.

Some Ohio breweries announced

Company in every distributing center throughout their territory, Mr. Kinley said. This method allows complete local stocks of the product in each retail trading area.

"The National Grocery Company has already ordered 35 carloads of Budweiser Beer for shipment into this district and is planning the ordering of additional cars in the near future," Mr. Kinley said. "The new Federal beer laws plainly state that no beer may leave the premises of any brewery until April 7. No Eastern beer can arrive here, until several days following. Anheuser-Busch is prepared to make large shipments as soon as possible."

Mr. Kinley stated that a million-dollar appropriation had been made for the national advertising of Budweiser Beer in newspapers, magazines and other advertising expenditures.

MINUTE MYSTERIES

BY H. A. RIPLEY

Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clue necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

FORDNEY SEEKS THE TRUTH

The B. I. (bureau of identification) squad having completed their routine, Professor Fordney ordered the men to remove the body of June Manning from the divan on which it lay to the morgue.

The room was cluttered with knick-knacks of almost, Fordney thought, every description. It was overfurnished and its color scheme shocking to one of his esthetic tastes.

The only remaining evidences of the crime were a thin bladed knife, a dark bloodstain in the center of the divan previously hidden by the girl's body, a bloodstained man's handkerchief of common manufacture bearing no marks of identification and an open, blood spattered book on the floor.

"So," he said, turning to the young and attractive but excited maid servant who appeared to be the only eyewitness of the tragedy, "you say you happened to come into the room just as a man stabbed her while she lay reading on the divan?"

EVERY EDITOR'S IDEAL IS TRUE

On April 13, J. H. Zimmerman paid his subscription to the Seymour Herald for another year, thereby making the fifteenth straight year for him to receive the paper.

Many other subscribers can claim a longer record for taking the paper but few if any can claim a better record for prompt payment.

Mr. Zimmerman's subscription was out on the thirteenth day of April each of the 15 years and on that day he appeared at the Herald office each time to pay his subscription with one exception.

On the one time he missed, Mr. Zimmerman paid his subscription a day late, being kept from coming to the Herald office for unavoidable reasons.
