GOV. WARREN GARST DIES SUDDENLY

Expires at Home Soon After Returning From Auto Drive to Boone

STRICKEN WITH HEART FAILURE

Life of Unusual Activity in Business and Political Service Ended

Hon. Warren Garst died of heart failure at home Sunday evening about 9 o'clock. He and Mrs. Garst had driven by car to Boone Sunday when they visited relatives, returning in the evening. As Mr. Garst was preparing to retire, he complained of severe pain in his chest and before a physician could be secured, he expired. Thus passed away one of the most capable, respected and most distinguished citizens. With his brother, Edward, he was one of the town's first merchants, entering into partnership with his brother when resigning from the job of brakeman on the Northwestern. The two brothers prospered exceptionally well, though the first few months of their partnership afforded but modest returns. But the brothers prospered exceptionally well, though the first few months of their partnership afforded but modest returns. "The firm's prosperity grew with the growing wealth of the country, and the two brothers were distributed in lands and other properties, until they accumulated considerable wealth and had established a reputation as straightforward business men, which was greatly to their advantage.

In 1900 Mr. Warren Garst was elected to the state senate from the 48th district, which office he held for fourteen consecutive years, and was elected the following year as a senator of the state legislature. He served as a member of the House of Representatives and then as a member of the Senate, where he served with great distinction. He was a man of unusual ability and was always ready to meet and solve the problems that came before him. He was a man of great integrity and was always true to his word. He was a man of great personal magnetism and was always able to get his point across.

In 1900 Mr. Garst organized the Bank of Coon Rapids, with a number of his friends as stockholders, which in 1915 was made a state bank under the name of the Iowa Savings Bank. Mr. Garst retaining the office of president and which office he held until his resignation in 1921, when he was succeeded by F. C. Jones. Several years ago he moved to Des Moines and until his death, Mr. Garst's history is the history of his family and of the town and community affairs as well as politics, and he showed unusual activity of spirit, which was remarkable about him and which led to the number that he never felt better in his life. But he was far advanced in years, and his bodily machine was wearing out, and was nearing its dissolution. A sudden shock is a shock to the whole community as well as to themselves, and as probably no one could be, and deeply mourning.

Brookhart out of Party

Senator Brookhart took himself out of the republican party at Emmettsburg last Thursday when he demurred to the ticket as it is printed. He has been a strong supporter of him, but he now feels it is his duty to vote for LaFollette, thus deserting the republican party. Mr. Brookhart must have known before the primaries that he would not carry his republican ticket on which his name appeared as candidate for senator and intended to knife the party at the general election. He thus has played his party false. The State Central Committee has passed resolutions disavowing Brookhart as a member of the republican party, and disavowing any support of him, though it cannot take his name from the ballot. This puts it up to republican voters to withdraw support of him.

Theodore Roosevelt, who is not a republic, wishes to vote for a man who does not represent their party principles, or not vote at all, or else vote for Col. Stebbins, as he will use it. The state central committee has disavowed Col. Stebbins as a member of the republican party, and disavowed any support of him.

It is quite natural that the democratic party of the state should itself, as represented by the State Central Committee, that Brookhart's bolt will mean the selection of Mr. LaFollette for the position of senator from this congressional district.

JOHN MORGAN BURNS' SPEECH

The postoffice department has a large deficit every year. Mr. Wannaker, the merchant prince of Philadelphi, when postmaster general, was so bold that he would turn the postoffice department over to him as he would his own business, he could save the government more by personal service. Our government owned and operated merchant ships, is losing 60 million a year and the ships derelicts are delicious. We should think that the government is efficient. Wherever the government tries to operate a business it is foolishly managed. It is always over-managed and over-ruled. Too many men on the job.

Yet some people do not think seriously of the matter, and they want the government to own all the railways and other public utilities, as do LaFollette followers, shouldering the responsibility, and an enormous annual interest payment besides. Is not our present debt of near 25 billion with more than a billion dollar annual interest, heavy enough?

Every voter should avoid government railways, etc., as he would a nest of rattlesnakes.

Delegation Act

The last big noise the speaker made was against delegation. In this thing he told the truth as to delegation. Before the republic party came into power under Harding. President Wilson sent a message to congress in August, 1920, that the Republican Reserve Bank and Board of seven members, all democrats under his appointment, immediately afterwards began delegation, and they followed the policy thus set by President Wilson.

This is true. But there are some erroneous notions about the results of delegation. It is sometimes said that it was the sole cause of the drop in the price of farm products. But the truth is, as the markets of the world show, that other countries produce the same crops on land in all countries as they did in the United States—In Canada, Russia, and France. The McKinley protectionist tariff was a great burden on American farmers, and the McKinley protectionist tariff immediately returned to the United States. The Congress finally gave up, and the workman. And here is another thought that the Enterprise wants the farmer to make note of: The speaker led the audience to believe that the farmer was greatly burdened by the tariff—the awful tariff tax. But listen. There is scarcely anything the farmer pays a tariff tax. Farm machinery of all kinds is free of tariff, even harness, harness leather, boots and shoes, all clothing, all hardware. The farmer pays no tariff on his wage or his income, and the farmer pays no tariff on his wages. The farmer pays no tariff on the farm. But maybe you say he pays a freight tax on clothing. It does not cost him but a small dream and a seal skin, and he, himself, earns his living.
The regular republicans stand for this, which Brookhart does not, and therefore their natural alignment is with the Democrats.

Quite naturally the democratic party of the state leads itself to believe, as represented by the State Central Committee, that the recent presidential vote of 59,000 to Coolidge does not improve his position in the Republican party.

The Republican State Central Committee plans to cover the state thoroughly also with speakers and pamphlets making a school house campaign, using local as well as speakers of state and national reputation. In the meantime LaFollette will be busy.

Brookhart's Buncombe

Col. Brookhart continues to call deficit - the "crime of the ages" - which he says robbed the farmer of many bills. What does Mr. Brookhart offer to recoup the farmers? If it was inflation which sent prices soaring,

surely, the president should offer to re-elect it. Simple because he knows that inflation brought on an abnormal business condition and which could be reacted upon. He is crying out against a thing which he knows to have come. He is seeking to make a cent out of a 100 cent. He dare not argue for inflation to produce price for the farmer. He could not. To quote the old saying,

"the only thing that could be done

that would bring back the prices of 1928" - Mr. Brookhart is insensitive. He is deceiving the people.

He is using the "crime of the ages" - the farm tax as a device to exploit the people.
