'Squire' Sullivan, Retired Business Man, Legislator, Dies; Aged 84

T. J. Sullivan, former legislator and retired McGregor business man, died last Friday, at the age of 84 years.
Funeral services were held from St.
Mary's church Sunday morning.

The "Squire's" death was attributed in part to the terrific heat which had Iowa in its grip last week. He was last down town the Fourth of July, with his son, and he told friends he felt the best he had in years.

For many years in the clothing bu-ness in McGregor, Mr. Sullivan in cent years managed his properties in McGregor, owning and operating the Opera House and dance hall building, as well as several small houses.

The "Squire" was interested in public affairs for many years before his death, having served on the council, on the school board, as an official of the commercial club. He played an important part in the development of the Heights as a resort and while in the legislature, he introduced the kindergarten bill which passed and became a law.

He had many friends, who respected his honesty and fair dealings.

Several years ago, at the request of his wife, he wrote his memoirs, which he asked to be printed on his death.
They follow:

"My parents, John and Mary Fitzgerald Sullivan, informed me that I was born on the 29th day of August, 1851, at Norwich, Connecticut. At about 4 years of age, I remember a punishment I got for the wearing of the green—not the green that they were hanging men and women for wearing in good old Ireland but a regular American grass green that I got on a nice white suit in rolling on the green.

"The next event of my life was in 1856, when I came West with my parents to Iowa, residing in Keokuk for a short time and then moving to St.
Louis, Mo., where we resided until the breaking out of the Civil War in the Spring of 1861.

"In the fall of 1860 Father being out of work he went to what was known as McGregor landing in Iowa. During my stay in St. Louis, I sold papers, a dollar for my dear mother. Well, in the Spring or rather Summer of 1861, my mother, two sisters and a brother moved to McGregor and have resided here since.

"On our arrival Father met us at the boat landing and I shall never forget the ride on a dray up Main street around what was known as Grant's corner to West Main street about 300 feet from McCall's bridge, where we were housed. Father was taken sick

"During the session of the legislature I introduced what is known as the Kindergarten bill which I succeeded in having it become a law and endorsed and passed in the extra session of the 26th G. A.

Since retiring from business, I have served the city as Mayor, also member of board of education and as councilman; for years served as J. P. until I refused to serve any longer.

"Now, looking back to the days of my boyhood, I remember the many Sundays I spent serving the Mass under our parish priest, Father G. Nagle, during 1862 to 1865 in McGregor, Monona, Heights were located and placed under the management of the Decorah Outing Association through the work and ef-

In closing will say I have been fav-

Father was taken sick shortly after our arrival and nearly lost his eye sight—my dear mother was compelled to go out washing to earn sufficient to feed her little ones. After father recovered it was not necessary for mother to go out as she had during his sickness as father was a hustler, never without employment from that day on.

"At the time I left home to make a home of my own our family consisted of eight children living in a home of their own through the energy and hard labor of father and dear mother.

"During my boyhood days I clerked during vacation and assisted father in many of his jobs, piling wood, etc., until he and I disagreed as to how wood should be piled—I quit him; told mother I would never work with him again; so next day I applied for work of Mr. Thos. Arnold, dry goods merchant. He employed me at $10 per month. In March, 1869, at the end of three years I was receiving a salary of $50.00 per month and struck for $60.00 which he refused to pay me. I resigned and entered the employ of L. Rowe & Co., (known also as Strouse & Rowe) Wholesale and retail dry goods, at a salary of $60.00 per month.

"During my stay with Mr. Arnold I worked up a good trade with the Irish people for 20 miles around our town—they followed me to my new position where I was appreciated by my Irish friends with whom I remained until they sold out and retired from business and moved to Philadelphia. On their retirement from business in 1876 they recommended me to L. J. Strouse, clothier, who employed me at $75 per month and on his retirement from business in McGregor I bought his stock with the aid of my father-in-law, John G. Korte, to whose daughter I was married on the 23rd day of November, 1879.

"My business was a success from the beginning, owing to a new departure in selling merchandise—viz every garment and article were marked in plain figures—one price to all—also the advice given me how to conduct my business by a Jewish friend (Ed. Hanauer) in the clothing business in Philadelphia. And now in the Spring of 1895, my health being poor, I retired from business by orders of Dr. Clark and my wife.

"In the fall of 1895 I was nominated to represent Clayton County in the General Assembly and was elected in November to serve in the 26th G. A., and being opposed to the free silver craze I was defeated for re-election.

Let Contract for New Lynxville Dam

Prairie du Chien, Wis.—Construction of dam No. 9 in the Mississippi river ten miles north of here—a $2,187,000 project—will be under way before the end of July, it was learned at U. S. Engineering headquarters near Lynxville, Tuesday. Materials and machinery are coming in this week, and the construction camp, deserted since the locks were completed, is being put in shape to accommodate the large force of men to be employed.

The job was let in two contracts, with 660 calendar days allowed for completion. Construction of the dam went to the United Construction company of Winona, Minn., on a bid of $1,868,000, and building the earth dike to the Kennedy and Mulgrew company of Dubuque, Iowa, on a bid of $319,000. Work on both contracts is to be carried on simultaneously.

The Mississippi at this lock and dam site, is two miles wide, with the main channel next the Wisconsin shore—a series of islands and shallow sloughs in the middle—and Harper's Slough adjacent to the Iowa shore.

The two locks completed in 1935 extend from the Wisconsin shore out some 500 feet into the channel. Plans for the dam call for eight tainter gates and five roller gates between the outer wall of the locks and the islands—a dirt dike 8,300 feet long across the islands, and intervening sloughs, and a dam 1300 feet long of sheet metal piling across Harper's Slough to Iowa hills. The length over all will be 10,000 feet. Dredges operating in the sloughs will pump in material for the big dike which in some places will be twenty feet high.

Work on the locks, was confined to the Wisconsin side of the river. In constructing the dam, activity will be divided between the Wisconsin and Iowa side of the river, and give employment for nearly two years to many in the nearby areas in both states. At the peak of construction around 600 men will be employed.
