EDWARD J. SAUER.

"Captain" Edward J. Sauer, 72, veteran river man and long prominent in Dubuque political circles, died Tuesday evening at 6:15 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Winifred Oldridge, 2411 Jackson street. He had been ill for a long time.

The body is at the Oldridge home where it will remain until Friday afternoon when it will be taken to the Egelhof mortuary where funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be made in Linwood cemetery.

"Captain" Sauer was one of the few surviving veterans of the old river days. He began his connection with the old river traffic while a youth in Dubuque and rose to the position of chief engineer with the old Diamond-Jo Line. For many years he was chief engineer of the Steamer Quincy. When he severed his connection with the Diamond-Jo Line many years ago he moved to Everts, S. D., where, for 20 years, he was superintendent and part owner of Everts Transportation company, operators of a steamboat line on the Missouri river. When he returned to Dubuque he became secretary and treasurer of the Dubuque Sand company. Some years ago he retired from active business.

Mr. Sauer was always active in political circles in the city and county and served two terms as Dubuque county representative in the state legislature, and one term as an alderman-at-large.

Born Feb. 15, 1858, "Captain" Sauer came to Dubuque when a child with his parents, the late Daniel and Catherine Sauer. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and Consistory at Aberdeen, S. D., and of the Dubuque Camp of the Modern Woodmen of America.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Winifred Oldridge, Dubuque; one son, Herbert, Dubuque; one grand-daughter, Miss Helen Oldridge, Dubuque; and one sister, Miss Catherine Sauer, also of Dubuque. His wife, Emma Tuegel Sauer, died in May, 1926.

America with his parents in 1854, settling in Indiana, and after their deaths worked with his brothers Jacob and Wendolin on the construction of the Illinois Central Railroad between Dubuque and Independence, Iowa. Succeeding this he went to Lattnerville, Iowa, named for him, and there engaged in merchandising. He became prominent in the civic affairs of that town, serving as postmaster a number of years, and also was the first to introduce bees in that portion of the country, owning at one time some 200 hives and dealing extensively in honey. He was of the Roman Catholic faith, and in 1891, after a three days' illness, passed away of pneumonia. His son, Samuel B., the immediate subject of this review, received his early education in the public schools of his native town, and later took a banking course in Bayless Business College, Dubuque. Subsequently, deciding to take up the study and practice of law he entered and in 1897 was graduated from the Iowa State University with the degree of Bachelor of Laws. He then came to Dubuque and has here been actively and successfully engaged in the general practice of his profession.

He is also president of the Worthington Savings Bank, general counsel of same, and for ten years has been secretary of the Dubuque Bar Association. As a member of the Knights of Pythias order he has been prominent and has served as delegate to the Grand Lodge of that organization. Originally he was a Democrat in politics, but since 1896 has been an inactive Republican. Mr. Lattner takes great interest in church work, and for ten years has been a teacher of an adult class in the Sunday school of the Methodist Episcopal church. To his marriage with Miss Mary Gerhardt, daughter of David and Rebecca Gerhardt, solemnized in 1885, the following named children have been born: Emma, November 2, 1887; Laura, April 22, 1890; Rebecca, November 2, 1893, and Frederick, June 28, 1898. The entire family are prominent in church work, Mrs. Lattner being a member of the Ladies' Aid Society, and bear the respect and good will of all with whom they come in contact.

DANIEL SAUER, who died in Dubuque, February 2, 1911, was a man deserving of more than passing notice in the annals of this county. He was born April 11, 1829, in Unter Franken und Aschaffenburg, Kingdom of Bavaria, Germany, and was there reared and educated. When a young man he served in the Bavarian army, but at the age of twenty-four immigrated to America, located first in Bristol, N. J., and obtained a knowledge of ship carpentry and ship handling. He met and on June 14, 1855, married Catherine McGowan, who came to America about the year 1835. Shortly after his marriage he moved west to Rock Island, Illinois, and secured employment as ship carpenter, an officer, on boats plying between St. Louis and St. Paul. In the early sixties he moved to Dubuque, bought a home at 2149 Washington street in 1864, and there resided until his demise. He continued in active employment on the Mississippi for more than fifty years, numbering among his friends the prominent men of many cities, as well as the great river men of his day. He will long be remembered by river men as a trustworthy, kindly, and courteous gentleman, faithful to the duties he owed to God and his adopted country. His wife died February 15, 1899. They became the parents of the following named six children: Helen M. T., a graduate of the high school of Dubuque, taught in the graded schools of the city, and for the past twenty-three years as instructor of mathematics in the Dubuque high school, and is a trustee of the Carnegie-Stout Free Library; Edmund J., married Emma Tuegel, is the father of three children, resides at 473 Windsor avenue, Dubuque, learned the carpenter's trade, served as head engineer of the Diamond Jo lines several years, was elected and served two terms in the State Legislature from Dubuque county, went to Everts, South Dakota, as superintendent and quarter owner of a transportation company shipping cattle, produce, and other commodities across the Missouri river at that point, subsequently returned to Dubuque, and is now secretary and treasurer of the Dubuque Sand Company and an Alderman-at-large of the city; Joseph, who died at the age of seven years; Frank, married in Chicago and went from there to Everett, Washington, where he died at forty years of age and was buried in Dubuque; George A., a ship carpenter, unmarried and residing at the old home in Dubuque, and Catherine, a graduate of the Dubuque high school, trained as a teacher in the State Normal school at Cedar Rapids, and is a teacher in the public schools.

JOHN B. WALTER, residing in Farley, is a native of this county, his birth occurring January 9, 1868, and the youngest of two children, his elder sister, Ann Maria, being the wife of James Redding, of Farley, and the mother of four children. Joseph and Hannah (Toomer) Walter, the parents, were of English nativity and each came to the United States when they were young and were here married. Joseph Walter was a farmer by occupation, an Episcopalian in religion, and a Republican in politics. He died October 6, 1899, at sixty-seven years of age, preceded by his wife at the age of forty-four years. John B. Walter received his education in the common schools, and while his parents were living resided under the parental roof. Conjointly with his sister he inherited 310 acres of valuable land acquired by his father which comprised the homestead, and here he resided until 1903. Having purchased 141 $\frac{1}{4}$ acres a short distance southwest of Farley, he farmed this property for five years, but in 1909 rented the place, moved into Farley and has since devoted his time to looking after his various interests. December 10, 1891, he married Miss Carrie Chubb, and Bio: EDMUND J. SAUER The junior member from Dubuque county this winter will be the Hon. Edmund J. Sauer of Dubuque. He was born in Rock Island, Ill., February 15, 1858, and has lived in Iowa thirty-three years. He received his education in the Fifth ward of the Dubuque schools, and after finishing school went south to New Orleans, then west to Fort Benton, Mont. Finding no place so good as Dubuque, he returned there and learned the ship carpenter's trade at the Eagle Point boat yards, and was appointed carpenter on the steamer Pittsburg of the Diamond Jo line. His natural inclination and studious temperament prompted him to turn his attention to engineering, in which avocation he perfected himself, and secured an engineer's license and the position of head engineer. He is now chief engineer of the Diamond Jo line, a position of trust and responsibility. Two years ago he successfully passed the examination for a captain's license. Captain Sauer helped to organize and became president of the Steamboatmen's Home association, an organization whose purpose it is to get the United States government to build a home for aged and decrepit steamboatmen at Dubuque with the money paid to the government by all licensed officers of Mississippi boats. During his business career Mr. Sauer has found time to study into politics, and he was one of the organizers of the Fifth Ward Democratic club, and its president, also president of the Bryan club. He has never sought nor desired public office, and at the time of his nomination for the position he will occupy this winter he was urging the candidacy of another man. He was nominated in the county convention by a unanimous vote. Mr. Sauer was married to Miss Emma Tuegel, September 29, 1881, and there are three children as a result of this union, two boys and a girl. He is identified socially with the Modern Woodmen lodge. He is a member of the Catholic church.
