WM. ANDERSON

The funeral of the late Wm. Anderson, whose death occurred early Thursday morning of last week, was held at the Federated church in Jewell at three o'clock last Sunday afternoon. The body lay in state in the church from one-thirty until three o'clock, the casket being surrounded by a profusion of beautiful floral tributes from friends in this community and throughout the county and state.

Rev. M. B. Phillips, pastor of the Federated church, was in charge of the service. After the singing of a vocal solo by Mr. Irving H. Knudson and the reading of scriptural passages by Rev. Phillips, the funeral address was delivered by Rev. H. K. Hawley, pastor of the Congregational church at Ames, Iowa. Rev. Hawley delivered a beautiful eulogy to the deceased, recounting briefly the story of a half century of splendid public service that Mr. Anderson gave to the community, the county, and the state in which he lived. A quartet composed of Mr. A. H. Olson, Mr. E. W. Knudson, Mr. Merlin E. Williams, and Mr. Irving H. Knudson sang, with Mrs. Irving H. Knudson accompanying at the piano. Six of the lifelong friends and business associates of the deceased acted as pall bearers, Mr. Gilbert Knudson, Mr. M. J. Severson, Mr. J. S. Smith, Mr. T. F. Baldus, Mr. N. C. Bonner, and Mr. John Groves. The body was laid at rest in Evergreen cemetery at Jewell.

The passing of Mr. Wm. Anderson takes from this community one of the community's most faithful servants. Almost continuously for over a half century Mr. Anderson lived in or near Jewell. He came here as a young man in the early pioneer days of this community. By his own efforts, by hard work, thrift and industry, by the exercise of good business judgement, and through the possession of unfaltering faith in his community, Mr. Anderson won for himself an abundant measure of success. Financial fortune and public honors both came to him and were well deserved. But the story of his life is not alone a story of personal accomplishment. The story is uncompleted without mention of the splendid public service that he gave to the community and the aid that he gave to literally scores of individuals of the community.

Never throughout the over fifty years of his life here did Wm. Anderson refuse to give help to any public project intended to further the welfare of this community, to make Jewell and vicinity more prosperous and a better community in which to live. Although not personally affiliated as a member of the church, he aided in the building of the Congregational church in the early days of the town, was a faithful attendant and contributed of his means for the maintenance of the church.

Better schools were one of the things in which he most earnestly believed as a strong factor in the up-building of the community. In the pioneer days he taught in the country schools, was the first teacher in the town school at Jewell, aided in developing the school system, and was active by tutoring classes of young people activities won him many strong enemies, as long continued political activity invariably does. But the leaders among men who fought Mr. Anderson in political battles credited him with being a fair and square fighter in politics, and an honorable and respected opponent. He held numerous political offices. He served in early days two terms as county superintendent of schools and two terms as county auditor. He served two terms, 1907 and 1909, as Hamilton county's representative in the Iowa state legislature, with credit to himself and his county. He served several terms as mayor of Jewell, and for more than two score years was a prominent and influential figure in county, district, state and national republican political affairs.

William Anderson, a son of Duncan and Katherine Anderson, of Scotch parentage, was born in London, Canada, April 8, 1852, and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Keo A. Minert, at Ames, Iowa, March 4, 1926, lacking but 38 days of being 74 years of age. He was educated in the public schools and at Middlesex Seminary at London, Canada, and taught school there for two years. He came to the United States in 1873, buying the Anderson home farm just east of Jewell, Iowa, ownership of which he retained until his death. In 1876 he married Morisini Everett, the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding date having been celebrated last November first, when scores of their friends from all parts of the county met at their home. To Mr. and Mrs. Anderson seven children were born, three of whom preceded the father in death. The wife, two sons and two daughters survive him. The children are: Dr. C. W. Anderson of Jewell, Dr. C. E. Anderson of Madrid, Iowa, Miss Hattie Anderson of Grand Island, Neb., and Mrs. Keo A. Minert of Ames, Iowa. He is also survived by a sister, Mrs. Louisa Bonner of Jewell, a sister, Jessie Anderson of London, Canada, and twelve half brothers and sisters.

Mr. Anderson lived continuously on his farm east of Jewell from 1873 until the year 1910, except for two periods aggregating about ten years. He lived in Webster City from 1884 until 1892 during which years he held the offices of superintendent of schools and county auditor. From 1892 until 1897 he served as cashier of the State Bank of Jewell, then returned to Webster City to accept a position in a bank there. In 1900 he returned to the farm at Jewell and resumed his position in the State Bank of Jewell. In 1910 he moved to Jewell where Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have since made their home. Mr. Anderson continued as a large stockholder, director and officer of the State Bank until his death, but in recent years had not been actively engaged in the work of the institution, save as his counsel and advice were sought in the direction of its affairs. In all of these years he gave able service in building up in Jewell one of its two strong banks that have successfully weathered every financial gale and that have enjoyed the fullest confidence of the community. For the past twelve years Mr. Anderson and his wife have spent his declining years Mr. Anderson en-

FOR COUNTY AUDITOR

Mr. L. L. Doolittle, who now is serving his first term in the office of County Auditor of Hamilton county, makes announcement in the Record this week that he is a candidate for the republican nomination for a second term subject to the will of the voters as expressed at the June 7th primary.

Mr. Doolittle is very well qualified for the office for which he is an aspirant, and it is probable that he will be accorded the usual second term without opposition. His experience in the office and his fitness for the position is such that he is fairly deserving of a second term. He served as a deputy prior to his election to the office as auditor, and in his service both as deputy and as auditor he has given complete satisfaction.

Mr. Doolittle is thoroughly competent and trustworthy, he is courteous and obliging, and his administration of the important office of county auditor has won general approval from people in all parts of the county. If nominated and elected for a second term he can be relied upon to continue to give efficient and capable service.

tenance of the church. Better schools were one of the things in which he most earnestly believed as a strong factor in the up-building of the community. In the pioneer days he taught in the country schools, was the first teacher in the town school at Jewell, aided in developing the early schools of the county by tutoring classes of young people to fit them as teachers, and in all possible ways aided and encouraged the promotion of the public schools in the difficult days of forty and fifty years ago. He gave liberal financial aid when the Lutheran church established its academy and college in Jewell and at various times later gave liberal financial help to that institution. He always urged and advocated better schools in Jewell as from time to time conditions permitted school improvement. In addition to sending six of his own children through college, Mr. Anderson was a strong factor in persuading many other young men and women of this community to continue in school work. There are a few to whom he gave needed financial aid; there are many who were influenced by his advice and encouragement to remain in school, who today feel very grateful to him for the counsel that he gave them.

Good roads were another of the factors that Mr. Anderson always believed in as contributing to the community's welfare. He was one of those who in early days labored for the opening up of public highways. As the years went by and better improved roads became possible, he was always among those willing to give generously of both time and money in furthering road improvement. For seven years he was one of a committee of faithful men who worked to secure the opening up of the public highway along the west side of Little Wall lake, with ultimate success. Whenever graveling or improvement of roads was sought, in the days not so many years ago when such improvement was largely a matter of private work and private contributions, Mr. Anderson was always one of those who gave both his time and his money generously to the cause. At various times in the course of the years, he gave aid to movements to bring to Jewell water works, sewer and drainage facilities, gas lights, telephones, and electric lights.

In his later years, Mr. Anderson and his wife were two of those most devoted to the project of a Ladies Rest Room as another means of serving the welfare of their community. More credit is due them than to any other two persons for the success of that community project.

Not alone by aiding community projects of various sorts did Mr. Anderson give service to his community. He did much to establish Jewell and vicinity on a strong foundation in a business and financial way. Shrewd and successful in his own business affairs, the same good business judgement was at the service of the community. For years his counsel and advice were relied upon by business men and farmers of the community, and there are scores yet living in this community who owe him much for the sound advice and for the financial aid that he gave them in launching and in carrying on their business affairs.

In public affairs, Mr. Anderson was always active and intelligently interested. He enjoyed politics from town to national affairs. He had strong convictions, was fearless, and he fought with all his power to accomplish in political matters the success of those things and those candidates in which he believed. His political advice were sought in the direction of its affairs. In all of these years he gave able service in building up in Jewell one of its two strong banks that have successfully weathered every financial gale and that have enjoyed the fullest confidence of the community. For the past twelve years Mr. Anderson and his wife have spent his declining years Mr. Anderson enjoyed a well deserved rest, comparatively speaking, after more than two score years of strenuous and successful activity. Mr. Anderson will be sadly missed in Jewell and vicinity. The friends of a lifetime will miss his genial personality. The business associates of years will miss his helpful counsel. The community will miss his optimistic spirit and unstinted efforts in behalf of the community's welfare. He gave a lifetime of worthwhile service; he merits an eternity of reward.

Card of Thanks
