Lisbon Business Firms To Close During Funeral

There will be a silent hour in the business circles of Lisbon Friday afternoon from 2:30 to 3:30, during the funeral services of Hon. W. C. Stuckslager.

Celebrate Birthday Of Robert Johnston Sunday

A number of important men beside Lincoln and Washington, have birthdays in February. Among them is Robert Johnston, whose 85th birthday occurred on February 21 and the celebration with all the children and grandchildren present was held at the home on Sunday. A picnic dinner at 1:30 with each family bringing a generous amount of good food and the beautiful birthday cake, made by Mrs. Guy Johnston. Mr. Johnston knows that the way to keep young is to have a hobby or two and his most interesting hobby is golf. Indoor golf in the winter and outdoor golf when the weather permits. He is a member of the Mt. Vernon and Lisbon Country Club and enjoys playing golf as often as the younger men. The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lytell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hutton and Mrs. Bessie Raymond of Cedar Rapids and Mrs. Robert Good-

As he sat talking to his son-in-law, Lanning Macfarland, at his home in Winnetka, Illinois about nine o'clock on Monday evening, Willard C. Stuckslager, life long resident of Lisbon, president of the Stuckslager & Auracher Bank and the Mount Vernon Bank, was stricken with angina pectoris and died instantly.

Mr. Stuckslager first consulted the late Doctor Karl K. Koessler and Doctor Siegfried Mauer, heart specialists, in 1925, at which time a suspicion of anginal pain was present. A recent mild attack of influenza no doubt precipitated acute anginal pain. He suffered an attack of acute indigestion on Monday of last week and a very severe heart attack occurred that night when he was home alone; Mrs. Stuckslager was in the East with their youngest daughter. The family physician was called and gave some relief from the pain and advised that he consult a heart specialist for treatment.

Consulted Specialist

He did not wish to be alone after this attack, and came to Chicago to consult with physicians and to be with his daughter, Mrs. Lanning Macfarland. It was with great difficulty that he was persuaded to remain there for further treatment and observation as he was most anxious to return to Iowa to be available during the investigation now being made by the State Legislature of the University of Iowa.

Monday afternoon he was in high spirits and apparent good health, so that his almost instant death at 9:00 p. m. Monday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Macfarland, came as a great shock to his family and many friends.

home of his daughter, Mrs. Macfarland, came as a great shock to his family and many friends.

Post mortem examination performed by the Department of Pathology, the University of Chicago, revealed the cause of death to be due to coronary arterial sclerosis, more marked in the left than in the right artery, and coronary thrombosis, which are typical findings in death from angina pectoris.

Mrs. Stuckslager was in Wellesley, Mass., with her daughter, Mrs. Bradford Faxon. Mrs. Harold Van Metre of Beverly Hills, California, had arrived in Chicago on Sunday. The other daughter, Mrs. Ray McConlogue of Los Angeles, with Mr. McConlogue, Dr. Harold Van Metre and Mrs. D. U. Van Metre, left California Tuesday and will arrive here on Friday in time for the funeral.

Mr. Stuckslager's death removes a man who has been a very important part of the community life of the two towns for many years. His straight thinking and sound financial advice will be very much missed. He was probably one of the most successful private bankers in the state.

Served In State Legislature

Mr. Stuckslager served Linn county as state representative in the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth General Assemblies and in the thirtieth, thirty-first, thirty-second, thirty-third and thirty-fourth Assemblies. Two years ago he was reappointed to the State Board of Education for a six year term by Governor John Hammill. He has served on this board since 1916.

Since 1893 the deceased has been a member of the Board of Trustees of Cornell College and since 1896 a member of the executive committee of the board, in which position he has furnished much sound counsel in the administration of Cornell. Since 1905 he has been the treasurer of Cornell.

The Iowa Railway and Light Corporation gas service crew which installed the gas services in Mount Vernon is now almost thru with the work of installing gas service lines to the homes in Lisbon. Within the next few days this work will be completed and the crew and equipment will be moved away.

Officials of the gas company urge all of the Mount Vernon and Lisbon people who have not applied to have the service run into their homes to do so at once as it will be an expensive piece of work when the regular crew and equipment has been transferred. This will mean a considerable increase in cost to the owners if they do not take advantage of the special price which has been available while the regular force has been on duty here. A call to the light company office in either town will receive prompt attention on this matter.

Willard C. Stuckslager was born in Lisbon on October 24, 1869, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Stuckslager. He was reared in Lisbon and was graduated from Lisbon high school in 1886, attended Cornell for five years and the University of Chicago for one year where he took a special course in Political Economy. He traveled for a year in California and other parts of the west before actively engaging in the banking business in Lisbon, as president of the Stuckslager & Aufacher Bank.

On November 9, 1889, Mr. Stuckslager was united in marriage to Miss Rowena Eloise Bronson, a daughter of James A. Brownson, who founded the town of Wyoming. Mr. and Mrs. Stuckslager were the parents of four daughters, who with their mother survive: Mrs. Harold Van Metre, Beverly Hills, California, Mrs. Ray McConlogue, Los Angeles, California, Mrs. Lanning Macfarland, Winnetka, Illinois, and Mrs. Bradford Faxon of Wellesley, Mass.

and are not disappointed. We catch thy message, "I am the resurrection and the life; whosoever liveth and believeth on me shall never die". Oh God, we turn our tear stained faces heavenward. We place our hands between the nail pierced hands of our crucified and risen Lord. Our weakness is turned into strength; our despair into hope and our bewilderment into the clearness of the Eternal day.

Our Father thru the years a prince has lived in our midst.

Our dear friend and brother,
Willard Stuckslager cast his anchor beside this island of a world for awhile, but his bearing was ever so magnetic, and his life so clean that we are impressed that he was ever conscious of the fact that he was bound for the continent of immortality.

He held a high place in our love
and esteem because of the apparent princely qualities of his life. We were impressed with the solidity of his character, with the massiveness of his manhood. He was kind. He was gentle. He was the soul of the spirit of fairness and honor. He was brave and strong.

He moved away from the praises of men. Thru the years of a busy life he builded an unseen house on a sure foundation. Christ was within. That house, thank God, has not fallen but has been moved under the care and guidance of the good God into the realm of eternal life, everlasting day.

Our Father, Willard Stuckslager
moved thruout his day in varied fields where he was much at home.
In the field of business. Here he was so fair, so unselfish and so safe that multitudes leaned on his judgment. People gladly confided in him. Their confidence was never betrayed. They trusted him in sincere and friendly devotion.

Here on holy ground in Thy presence, our Father, we rededicate our lives to Thee and the service of mankind that the things which he counted so worth while should live and not die. Accept our praise and thanksgiving, Our Heavenly Father and grant unto us Thy help in our efforts to live nobly and Christ-like until the eternal day shall break for us as it has for our dear friend and we shall go to dwell with Thee and the redeemed for ever and ever where there is no separation. Rev. Macaulay Reads Obituary

The obituary was read by Rev. W. J. Macaulay.

Willard Coldren Stuckslager was born in Lisbon, Iowa, October 24, 1869, and died at the home of his daughter, Elizabeth Macfarland in Winnetka, Illinois, February 23, 1931.

He was the only son of Harrison Stuckslager and Mary Coldren, who upon their marriage in 1866 came to Iowa from Pennsylvania as pioneers and settled in Lisbon.

Harrison Stuckslager had been in Iowa as early as 1851 and for a time in Kansas, later returning to Pennsylvania. For a time, after but outside interests did not deter him from rendering loyal and conscientious service to his community. He was deeply interested and active in all civic and community affairs, in which he has left a long record of personal service.

While he was distinguished as a public man and citizen, he was also lovable as a man, as a Christian, as a Church man.

A man of high social position, and who, though occupied with large interests, was deeply and genuinely Christian — a lover of the church and a firm believer in its mission to mankind.

In all my observance of him, he never allowed business of any kind to interfere with his constant attendance upon its services — a devout worshipper — an appreciative listener and an interested participant in the worship service; the much beloved and faithful teacher of the Men's Bible class, chairman of the Official Board, capacities which he filled for many years and to which he devoted time, energy and means. He was intensely loyal to his pastor.

In all my years of the ministry I have never seen such kindly interest taken in the pastor and his family as that which was manifested by the late Hon. W. C. Stuckslager. I bring this personal tribute today. It is the tribute of men in all walks of life. It is the tribute and uniform testimony of every pastor who has served this church. He was the personification of goodness to the members of the parsonage home. He bound himself to them with the ties of affection and brotherhood. He seemed to enter into the problems of the pastor and family and anticipated their needs.

In this bereavement my heart feels a deep personal loss. I shall remember him with boundless admiration and untold gratitude. I hope I will be a better preacher because of his friendship and benign influence and because of my knowledge of and contact with him.

as pioneers and served in Iowa as early as 1851 and for a time in Kansas, later returning to Pennsylvania. For a time, after coming to Lisbon, he engaged in farming and in the livestock business. In 1874 he founded the First National Bank of Lisbon. Later he and Gottlieb Auracher purchased the holdings of the other stockholders, liquidating the National Bank and established the private bank of Stuckslager and Auracher. In a few years the founders of this bank died and were succeeded by their sons, John Auracher and Willard Stuckslager. The bank of Stuckslager and Auracher has therefore been in existence for 57 years, an honor to its founders and their successors.

Willard Stuckslager was educated in the public schools, Cornell College and the University of Chicago, majoring in Economics and Finance.

November 9th, 1893 Mr. Stuckslager and Rowena Eloise Bronson, a daughter of James A. Bronson, the founder of the town of Wyoming, Jones County, Iowa, were united in marriage.

Four daughters were born to them: Mary (Mrs. Harold Van Metre) Los Angeles, California; Rowena (Mrs. R. B. McConlogue) Hollywood, California; Elizabeth (Mrs. Lanning Macfarland) Winnetka, Illinois; and Constance (Mrs. F. Bradford Faxon) Wellesley, Massachusetts.

Mr. Stuckslager while still a young man became a leader in the civic life of the community. He was interested in anything which pertained to the welfare of his home town. Soon the sphere of his influence extended. His college (Cornell) called him to membership on its Board of Trustees. The people of Linn County in 1899 elected him to the lower House of the Legislature in which he served two terms, after which he was elected to the State Senate in which he served until 1913, rendering to his state most distinguished service.

Something like thirty years ago he became associated with the Mt. Vernon Bank, and for many years has been its President. He was made a member of the Iowa State Board of Education, the governing body of the state's institutions of him.

He was a man of child-like faith—a lover of the Bible, a firm believer in the essentials of the Gospel. On the last Sunday after the morning service, he remarked to a friend that he believed in a positive Gospel and a religious experience. "That's what satisfies the world. That's what the world needs. Human hearts need God and cannot be satisfied without Him". His life was characterized with an awareness of God. He practiced the presence of God.

Let us note that he said this without any knowledge of the coming end or any premonition of death. When we catch a man un-awares and get to know his inmost thoughts and aspirations we have a revelation of the man. To me, these words are a revelation consistent with the whole tenor of his life. I am aware of the rock-like qualities of his character. What was predicted of the Master was true of him. He was "as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land".

He is not dead. His influence is immortal. A good man never dies. He lives eternally.

In summation, may I offer a passage of scripture which, I believe, is beautifully typical of the man:

"Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock. And the rain descended and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not, for it was founded upon a rock."

Rev. Macaulay's Tribute
 There can be a grief that is too deep for words. Oftimes we feel that silence is more eloquent than any words man can say. Today we feel the inadequacy and insufficiency of human speech to comfort broken hearts, to bring inspiration and encouragement to those who remain, and also to do full justice to the life so nobly and so splendidly lived.
 Because one, high-souled, generous, and one whom we looked upon with admiration and affection
 has gone home, with a deep personal grief, we seek today to recall his sacred form, gracious words and noble service, and our hearts cry out, "Oh for the touch of a vanished hand and for the sound of a voice that is stilled".
 Mr. Stuckslager was larger than the community in which he lived.
 His influence extended thruout and beyond the boundaries of the State,

Board of Education, a life long friend of Mr. Stuckslager.
 My Friends: On occasions more frequent than that which falls to most laymen, I have been called upon to speak what are among the last words of one beloved as a friend, and in two or three instances as a brother.
 It is so here today as I stand in the presence of the multitude of those who knew, honored, trusted and leaned upon Willard Stuck-slager—and who loved him; and in the presence of this family who were all the world to him; and among whom in all the years since Willard C. Stuckslager and Rowena Eloise Bronson were united in marriage, there has been no contention "except that noble contention—or rather emulation—as to who can best work and best agree".
 Once I heard one of the daughters say: "I can think of no situation in which I would not obey Father". That statement was challenged in a way which would give most daughters pause and make them wonder if there might not possibly be one exception. Instantly she answered: "Yes, if Father had come to me and told me that the step I contemplated was not wise, I would have known that his judgment was so well founded that, though it broke my heart to do it, I should have obeyed
 him".
 Another daughter speaking with me about the old, old question, "If a man die shall he live again?"
 said: "If I had no other urge to believe in immortality than the life I have seen my mother lead—she who has always given freely of herself, for us and for others—I could not be persuaded that life should not endless be".
 In such sweet faith was this household founded. In such faith and devotion it developed. As the embodiment of such ideals it has been known and honored and beloved by all who were privileged to share its unequalled and gracious hospitality. To me there is something peculiarly satisfying in continuity in life. It has been my rare privilege to have known the Stuckslager family for a generation—to have been admitted into

God's plan and the

 E. G. Carbee.

While he was distinguished as a public man and citizen, he was also lovable as a man, as a Christian, as a Church man.

A man of high social position, and who, though occupied with large interests, was deeply and genuinely Christian — a lover of the church and a firm believer in its mission to mankind.

In all my observance of him, he never allowed business of any kind to interfere with his constant attendance upon its services — a devout worshipper — an appreciative listener and an interested participant in the worship service; the much beloved and faithful teacher of the Men's Bible class, chairman of the Official Board, capacities which he filled for many years and to which he devoted time, energy and means. He was intensely loyal to his pastor.

In all my years of the ministry I have never seen such kindly interest taken in the pastor and his family as that which was manifested by the late Hon. W. C. Stuckslager. I bring this personal tribute today. It is the tribute of men in all walks of life. It is the tribute and uniform testimony of every pastor who has served this church. He was the personification of goodness to the members of the parsonage home. He bound himself to them with the ties of affection and brotherhood. He seemed to enter into the problems of the pastor and family and anticipated their needs.

In this bereavement my heart feels a deep personal loss. I shall remember him with boundless admiration and untold gratitude. I hope I will be a better preacher because of his friendship and benign influence and because of my knowledge of and contact with him.

He was a man of child-like faith — a lover of the Bible, a firm believer in the essentials of the Gospel. On the last Sunday after the morning service, he remarked to a friend that he believed in a pos-

the holy of holies of its friendship and confidence. Frequently have I contemplated the lives these dear friends led, the principles they stood for and exemplified in their daily walk and conversation. And it has seemed to me they were ideal; the son succeeding to and enlarging a business founded by his father, marrying a friend of his young manhood—uniting two pioneer families of the highest type; and then to remain in the place of his birth—assuming as maturity came to him, leadership in his community, his county and his state.

Willard Stuckslager lived in a small town all his life, yet "walked with kings" — without losing "the common touch". The church he attended was not large, but he and his wife were as faithful in their attendance on its services and as obedient to its ordinances, as though it had been a cathedral with vast aisles and whose organ gave forth "symphonies sweet and dim" when touched by some deft fingers gliding over a hundred keys. The college of his youth remained dear to his heart until its final beat. The Stuckslager home was the center of social activities, to which the humble and the great were alike welcomed and put at ease.

If I may sum up the qualities of him who so suddenly and in the full flush of his usefulness and his power was stricken, and who has gone away to be forever with the blest, I should say: He was noble. Smallness or meanness had no place in his make-up. He possessed that rarest of all traits in our strange world to marked degree—courage. No one ever had to wonder or guess where W. C. Stuckslager stood on any question. He neither dissembled nor deceived. He stood foursquare. Those who knew him, knew where he would stand on any question before he told them. And none need fear that he would ever desert his standard.

As a public man, he had the courage of his well-formed convictions. One of the greatest men this state ever knew once wrote to me: "Always you can trust Stuckslager; he is the same this morning that he was last night".

He was kindly. A desire and a willingness to help were constant-

pel. On the last Sunday after the morning service, he remarked to a friend that he believed in a positive Gospel and a religious experience. "That's what satisfies the world. That's what the world needs. Human hearts need God and cannot be satisfied without Him". His life was characterized with an awareness of God. He practiced the presence of God. Let us note that he said this without any knowledge of the coming end or any premonition of death. When we catch a man unawares and get to know his inmost thoughts and aspirations we have a revelation of the man. To me, these words are a revelation consistent with the whole tenor of his life. I am aware of the rock-like qualities of his character. What was predicted of the Master was true of him. He was "as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land". He is not dead. His influence is immortal. A good man never dies. He lives eternally. In summation, may I offer a passage of scripture which, I believe, is beautifully typical of the man: "Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock. And the rain descended and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not, for it was founded upon a rock." W. R. Boyd's Tribute The following tribute was read by W. R. Boyd, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the State Board of Education, a life long friend of Mr. Stuckslager. that he was last night. He was kindly. A desire and a willingness to help were constantly made manifest. He was generous. He gave freely, gladly—seldom permitting his right hand to know what his left hand did. He was a true democrat. No one was so humble as to be without his interest; or beneath his notice—none so great as to cause him to fear them or to cringe before them. He was diligent in business, yet loved and enjoyed all the finer things of life. As a husband he was perfection. His every action will "smell sweet and blossom in the dust", and be cherished as a precious bequest of husband to wife, father to children and grandfather to grandchildren, so long as one survives. In friendship he was pure gold, many times refined. Oh, how he made you know he loved you and trusted you and that he would come to you in need ere you had time to call upon him to come. He possessed all the qualities that were attractive, substantial and revered. He bore "the grand old name of gentleman" without affecting to. He would have filled worthily and graced the highest positions in life—and he did fill and grace many. In my opinion, he chose the better part and lived simply. To me the lives the Stuckslagers lived and the ideals they exemplified transcend all wealth and all station. They possessed both, yet needed neither to be truly noble and exquisitely great. W. R. Boyd's Tribute

The following tribute was read by W. R. Boyd, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the State Board of Education, a life long friend of Mr. Stuckslager.

My Friends: On occasions more frequent than that which falls to most laymen, I have been called upon to speak what are among the last words of one beloved as a friend, and in two or three instances as a brother.

It is so here today as I stand in the presence of the multitude of those who knew, honored, trusted and leaned upon Willard Stucks- lager—and who loved him; and in the presence of this family who were all the world to him; and among whom in all the years since Willard C. Stuckslager and Row- ena Eloise Bronson were united in marriage, there has been no conten- tion "except that noble conten- tion—or rather emulation—as to who can best work and best agree".

Once I heard one of the daugh- ters say: "I can think of no sit- uation in which I would not obey Father". That statement was challenged in a way which would give most daughters pause and make them wonder if there might not possibly be one exception. In- stantly she answered: "Yes, if Father had come to me and told me that the step I contemplated was not wise, I would have known that his judgment was so well founded that, though it broke my heart to do it, I should have obeyed him".

Another daughter speaking with me about the old, old question, "If a man die shall he live again?" said: "If I had no other urge to believe in immortality than the life I have seen my mother lead—she who has always given freely of herself, for us and for others—I could not be persuaded that life should not endless be".

In such sweet faith was this and devotion it developed. As the embodiment of such ideals it has positions in life—and he did fill and grace many. In my opinion, he chose the better part and lived simply. To me the lives the Stuckslagers lived and the ideals they exemplified transcend all wealth and all station. They possessed both, yet needed neither to be truly noble and exquisitely great.

Willard Stuckslager was so splendid in all that goes "to show God's plan and the measure of a stalwart man" that I can but "leave his praises unexpressed in words that bring myself relief" and "his greatness to be guessed".

Having spent their entire lives in Linn county, they are well and favorably known, the hospitality of their pleasant country home being extended to their numerous friends and acquaintances.

HON. WILLARD C. STUCKSLAGER

Hon. Willard C. Stuckslager, serving for the second term as senator from the twenty-sixth district, and well known as a leading banker of Linn county, makes his home in Lisbon, his native city. He was born October 24, 1869, a son of Harrison Stuckslager whose birth occurred in Fayette county, Pennsylvania, in February, 1825. In the year 1851 the father arrived in Marion, Iowa, and resided in this county for four years. He then went to Leavenworth, Kansas, where he remained for about two years, after which he returned to Pennsylvania, where he continued for a short time. He then again came to Linn county, Iowa, where he engaged in farming and in the stock business. During his previous residence in this county he had operated a sawmill. After his return he continued in general agricultural pursuits and in the live-stock business until 1874, when he became a factor in financial circles, founding the First National Bank of Lisbon, of which he became the president. A few years later he and Gotlieb Auracher, who was the cashier of the bank, purchased the interests of the other stockholders, surrendered the charter of the First National Bank and took over the business which they conducted as a private bank under the firm name of Stuckslager & Auracher. The business has since continued under this caption, John Auracher succeeding his father as cashier at the death of the latter, while Willard Stuckslager succeeded his father in the presidency. Harrison Stuckslager continued in active connection with the bank until his demise, June 8, 1888.

Tracing the ancestry of the family to a more remote period, it is learned that the great-grandfather was a Hessian soldier, who came from England to fight the American troops who were attempting to win national independence. Pleased with the country, he settled in Maryland at the close of the Revolutionary war. His son, Charles, a native of Maryland, removed to Lancaster, Pennsylvania, as a young man, and there married Miss Robinson, a lady of Scotch-Irish lineage. They afterward went to Fayette county, Pennsylvania, where they spent their remaining days as farming people. Their family numbered six daughters and eight sons, of whom Harrison Stuckslager was the tenth in order of birth. His wife bore the maiden name of Mary Coldren and was born in Fayette county, Pennsylvania, March 3, 1830. As previously stated, Harrison Stuckslager made his way westward in 1851 but in 1866 returned to the Keystone state, where he wedded Mary Coldren and brought her as his bride to Linn county where they established their home. Her death occurred May 24, 1909.

Willard C. Stuckslager, their only child, was reared in this county where he has always made his home, and in 1886 was graduated from the high school. He afterward attended Cornell College at Mount Vernon, where he pursued his studies for five years, and then entered the Chicago University, devoting a year to a special course in political economy. He afterward traveled for a year in California and other districts of the west, and upon his return to Lisbon entered into active connection with the bank which had been established by his father and has since been continuously engaged in the banking business. He is now well known as one of the partners of the private bank of Stuckslager & Auracher, and is also president of the Mount Vernon Bank located in the adjoining town of Mount Vernon. His name is a synonym for progression and reliability in the field of banking and the record of his success is written in the tangible terms of profit.

On the 9th of November, 1889, Mr. Stuckslager was united in marriage to Miss R. Eloise Bronson, a native of Wyoming, Jones county, and a daughter of James A. Bronson, who founded the town of Wyoming. Unto Mr. and Mrs. Stuckslager have been born four daughters, Mary, Rowena Eloise, Elizabeth and Constance. The family attend the Methodist Episcopal church of which the parents are members. They are prominent in the social circles of Lisbon and moreover have a wide acquaintance in the county. Mr. Stuckslager is a republican in politics and is perhaps best known by reason of the prominence to which he has attained in the political field. In the fall of 1899 he was elected to the lower house of the state legislature and served for two terms. He was then elected to the state senate in 1903, taking the oath of office in January, 1904, and serving during the thirtieth, thirty-first and thirty-second and the thirty-second extra general assemblies. In 1908 he was reelected and is now a member of the upper house. His reelection is proof of the confidence reposed in him by the party in Linn county and is an expression of public approval concerning his first term. He has served on a number of important committees and given careful consideration to each question which comes up for settlement. His course in the senate as in the house is one that entitles him to mention with the able and well known lawmakers of Iowa.

FENTON M. HANN

One of the most energetic and public-spirited citizens of Springville is Fenton M. Hann, who is interested in several different enterprises and is regarded as one of the leading business men of the place. He is a native of Linn county, born here on the 2d of November, 1871, his parents being Jerome D. and Harriet Adaline (Nailor) Hann, who were born, reared and married in the Buckeye state. Soon after their union they came to Iowa and located in Springville, where the father, who was a carpenter by trade, followed that occupation for a year or more. He then removed to a farm eight miles from Marion and turned his attention to agricultural pursuits, which he followed until some time in the '90s. He then located in Mount Vernon for the purpose of educating his younger children and continued to make his home there until the fall of 1909, when he removed to Cedar Rapids, where he is now living retired. On his removal to Mount Vernon he still owned two hundred acres of farm land, but has since disposed of one hundred and twenty acres of this, which he sold to his son Forest, retaining only eighty acres. Besides this property he also owns a residence in Mount Vernon. During the dark days of the Civil war he espoused the cause of the Union and is today an honored member of the Grand Army of the Republic, while both he and his wife are affiliated with the Methodist Episcopal church. The republican party finds in him a staunch supporter of its principles and he takes a commendable interest in public affairs.

Fenton M. Hann passed his early life on the home farm and acquired his elementary education in the public schools, later attending the high school at Marion. On reaching manhood he worked for his brother on the farm for a short time, but Church was erected. He was a member of the Masonic bodies, including the Lodge, Knights Templar Commandery, Shrine and Eastern Star, and the Knights of Pythias.

George H. Carlon died April 8, 1927, at the age of seventy-seven years. He married, March 17, 1874, Miss Sarah Margaret Sweger, daughter of Samuel Sweger. Her father was a contractor and builder at Kirkwood, Illinois, and died January 30, 1906, at the age of eighty-two years. George H. Carlon and wife had a family of six children: Charles H., who is married and lives at Saint Louis, where he is manager of the branch office of the Carlon Construction Company; Harry F.; Minnie, who died at the age of thirteen; Trixie, who died when four years old; Bessie F., the wife of Arthur E. Smith, of a pioneer family of Oskaloosa, and they reside in Canada; and Nina R., wife of Blair Haun, a druggist at Des Moines.

Harry F. Carlon was born at Oskaloosa January 2, 1880, and since early manhood has been regarded as one of the most progressive business men of his native city, exemplifying his father's worthy characteristics in his generous support of civic, educational and religious movements. He attended public schools at Oskaloosa, graduated from high school in 1897, and has given thirty years to the business founded by his father. When he entered the firm the name was changed from George H. Carlon & Son to the Carlon Construction Company. He is now manager of the home office at Oskaloosa, and gives a general supervision to the work of the firm in many cities and other localities throughout the Middle West.

Mr. Carlon is a veteran of the Spanish-American war. He enlisted in Company F of the Fifty-first Regiment of Iowa Infantry, which was mustered into the Federal service as the Fifty-first Iowa Volunteers. In October, 1898, he accompanied his regiment to the Philippines, and returned home in November, 1899. He spent ten months in the Philippines, and altogether was with the colors for twenty-two months.

Mr. Carlon at the present time is president of the Oskaloosa school board. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary Club, is affiliated with Tri-Luminar Lodge No. 18, A. F. and A. M., and other Masonic bodies, including the Shrine, and is a member of the Knights of Pythias. He is a member of the Iowa State Historical Society and is a trustee of the First Congregational Church, of which his family are members. He is also serving on the Board of Trustees of the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. Carlon shares with him his interest in church and educational affairs.

Mr. Carlon married Lulu May Evans, daughter of Benjamin and Delilah (Cox) Evans. Her people were early settlers of Oskaloosa, where her father was a coal operator. Mr. and Mrs. Carlon have two sons, George Benjamin, born in 1910, a graduate of the Oskaloosa High School, now attending Grinnell College; and Robert Franklin, born in 1912, attending high school.

WILLARD COLDREN STUCKSLAGER, of Lisbon, has had two major interests in life, one banking in his home town and the other education. Mr. Stuckslager is best known to the people of Iowa through his long and capable service as a member of the state board of education.

He was born at Lisbon, Iowa, October 24, 1869, son of Harrison and Mary (Coldren) Stuckslager. His great-grandfather was a Hessian soldier who after the close of the Revolutionary war settled in Maryland. The grandfather, Charles Stuckslager, moved from Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, to Fayette County, that state, where he spent his life as a farmer. Harrison Stuckslager was born in Fayette County, Pennsylvania, in February, 1825, and came out to Linn County, Iowa, in 1851. In this community, then distant from railroad facilities, he operated a saw mill and a farm near Marion. From 1855 to 1866 his home was at Leavenworth, Kansas. He then returned to Fayette County, Pennsylvania, to marry Mary Coldren, who was born in that county March 30, 1830. Soon after their marriage they established a permanent home in Linn County, Iowa, where Harrison Stuckslager engaged in farming and stock raising near Lisbon until September, 1874, when he became president of the First National Bank of Lisbon. Subsequently he and the bank cashier, G. Auracher, bought out the other stockholders and established the private bank of Stuckslager & Auracher. Harrison Stuckslager continued the active head of this institution from that time until his death, which occurred June 8, 1888. His wife survived him, passing away May 24, 1909.

Willard C. Stuckslager is the only child of his parents. Practically all his life has been spent in and around Lisbon. He attended schools there, was a student in Cornell College at Mount Vernon and had one year of special work in the University of Chicago. He has realized his ambitions in a business way by continuing the bank of which his father was one of the founders and since 1891 has been president of the Stuckslager & Auracher Bank of Lisbon. Since 1896 he has also been president of the Mount Vernon Bank.

Mr. Stuckslager was a member of the Iowa House of Representatives in the Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth General Assemblies and was state senator in the Thirtieth, Thirty-first and Thirty-second Regular and Thirty-second Special, Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Assemblies. In the House he was chairman of the banking and appropriation committees and in the Senate was for three sessions chairman of the banking committee and for one session chairman of the cities and towns committee. His business experience enabled him to render much service of value while in the Legislature in all matters affecting legislation for banks and financial organizations. He also proved a loyal friend of the educational interests before the General Assembly. Mr. Stuckslager became a member of the state board of education in 1916, and recently Governor Ham- mel appointed him for another term on the board. Mr. Stuckslager was actively identified with the local organizations handling the war program during 1917-18. He is a worker in the Methodist Episcopal Church and Sunday School and a Republican in politics.

He married R. Eloise Bronson, daughter of James Anson and Mary Camp Bronson. Her father was the founder of the town of Wyoming in Jones County, Iowa. Her brother, Rev. Dr. Dillon Bronson, is a distinguished minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, living at Los Angeles. Mrs. Stuckslager has done her part at Lisbon in church and Sunday School, club and social organizations. They have a family of four daughters. The oldest, Mary C., is the wife of Dr. Harold Van Metre, a surgeon at Los Angeles, and has two children, Rowena and Edward Van Metre. Rowena Stuckslager is now Mrs. Raymond B. McConlogue, wife of a Los Angeles attorney, and her two children are Ray and Ward. Elizabeth married Lanning Macfarland, vice president of the Northern Trust Company of Chicago and a resident of Winnetka, Illinois, and they have two children, Lanning and Willard. The youngest daughter, Constance, is now Mrs. F. Bradford Faxon, of Wellesley, Massachusetts.

WILLIAM NEWTON TREICHLER, senior member of the law firm Treichler & Treichler at Cedar Rapids, has rounded out a professional career of half a century since his graduation from the law department of the University of Iowa. Many solid and substantial factors have entered into his professional career, and at the same time he has enjoyed some of those intangible tributes to his character and attainments that are themselves a lasting source of satisfaction. When he retired from the bench members of the bar collaborated in testifying "to his uniform courtesy; to his patient and careful investigation of matters submitted to him; to his accurate knowledge of the law; to his executive ability in conducting the proceedings of the court." They also spoke of his citizenship, a man who gave "freely of his time and energy as well as more substantial aid in securing and promoting public improvements, which have been of greatest benefit to our cities, counties and state."

Judge Treichler earned his success by hard work. He came to Iowa when a boy of ten years. He was born in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, January 8, 1856, son of Abram and Margaret (Miller) Treichler. His parents were also natives of Pennsylvania and his father was a carriage builder and blacksmith. In 1866 the family arrived in Cedar County, Iowa, and his father became an Iowa farmer. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and a Republican in politics. The father lived to be ninety-two and the mother eighty-four years of age.

Judge Treichler made a hand on the farm after coming to Iowa, attended local schools and carried on his reading and study whenever the opportunity presented itself. He attended a business college in Davenport, and completed his literary and legal education at the University of Iowa, where he was graduated in 1879. Judge Treichler made his home and practiced law at Tipton until he left the bench and located at Cedar Rapids. In 1898 he was elected judge of the Eighteenth Iowa District, comprising the counties of Cedar, Jones and Linn. In 1906 he was again elected to the bench in the same district and reelected in 1910. He voluntarily retired as judge on January 1, 1915, and since that date has practiced law in Cedar Rapids, specializing in a general civil practice and the handling of corporation and banking matters.

Judge Treichler was formerly president of the Tipton Light & Lighting Company. In 1884 he was elected mayor of Tipton, and during his administration the city installed its water works system and its first municipal electric lighting plant. He became one of the original trustees of the Tipton Public Library Association, and it was his persistence and his skill in presenting the matter to Andrew Carnegie that brought to Tipton a donation of ten thousand dollars for a library building, this being the first small library to receive such a donation from Mr. Carnegie before he had organized his library giving on a broad and generous scale. Judge Treichler in the practice of law has been counsel in many noted cases, some of which have set important precedence, particularly in municipal law. He handled the matter of the boulevard paving case in Tipton, well known among Iowa attorneys. On the bench he rendered a decision in the Cedar Rapids water case.

Judge Treichler is a member of the State Historical Society of Iowa, was one of the founders and president of the Cedar County Chautauqua, is a member of the National Geographic Society. He is a Republican in politics.

Judge Treichler married in March, 1883, at Norristown, Pennsylvania, Miss Joanna Rhoads, daughter of Joseph and Ann (Crawford) Rhoads, and a direct descendant of Jacob De Hoven, a distinguished Pennsylvania figure in the Revolutionary war period. Judge and Mrs. Treichler have three children: Joseph Rhoads, of Cedar Rapids, Abram H., of Portland, Oregon, and William Edmund, the junior associate of his father in the law firm of Treichler & Treichler.

DAVID W. KIMBERLY, state senator from Scott County, has the distinction of having the longest continuous service of any present member of the State Legislature. Senator Kimberly, whose home is at 924 East Locust Street, Davenport, has been a substantial factor in the agricultural and civic affairs of Scott County for many years.

His birthplace was one of the most turbulent and romantic mining districts of the great West, Deadwood, South Dakota, where he was born August 6, 1878, while that was still one of the great mining centers. His parents, Amos E. and

CHAS. D. BOOTH,

J. N. LANGFITT,

Committee.

The resolution was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Senator Booth spoke as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE SENATE: James E. Bruce belonged to those hardy pioneers who developed this state. He was born in Poweshiek county but his active life was in the western part of the state. His boyhood days were during the times of the Indian, the covered wagon, the wild flowers in bloom, and of the ox team.

He stood for a fine type of manhood, sturdy and virile. His father having died early, it was his lot to make his own way, which he did very successfully.

I knew him but slightly because the time he was in the Senate was before there were very many automobiles but I remember of his being in Harlan a few times. I do know that he was an outstanding citizen.

The land he loved is the land of western slopes and the land which the Indians vacated last, but he, like the prairie schooner, has "gone west," below the horizon of the setting sun. His record is complete. His work is done. May he rest in peace.

Senator Bissell spoke as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT AND SENATORS: I wish to add a few words in regard to the life of Senator Bruce. He came as a young man to practice law in the county in which I was born, and I was one among the many young men who received benefit and help from him.

Words cannot express the worthiness of Senator Bruce's life.

WILLARD C. STUCKSLAGER

The Senate has learned with deep regret of the death of Honorable Willard C. Stuckslager which occurred suddenly and without warning February 23, 1931, while visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lanning MacFarland, in Winnetka, Cook county, Illinois. He was born at Lisbon, Iowa, October 24, 1869, the only son of Harrison Stuckslager and Mary Coldren Stuckslager, Iowa pioneers, his death occurring in the sixty-second year of his age.

Mr. Stuckslager at the time of his death was a member of the state board of education. He had served on this board since his first appointment by Governor Clarke in 1915 and was reappointed in 1929 for a six-year term. He was vice president of the board and chairman of its faculty committee.

Since young manhood Mr. Stuckslager had been a prominent figure in the political, business, civic, and educational life of the state. He was one of Iowa's best known and most successful bankers. For many years he was a trustee, executive officer, and treasurer of Cornell College, and to its upbuilding and success he contributed freely of his time and means as he did to many other worthy institutions and projects.

Mr. Stuckslager entered politics in 1899 and served with distinction in the House of Representatives in the Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth General Assemblies. In 1903 he was elected Senator and served in the Senate in the Thirtieth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second, Thirty-second extra, Thirty-third, and Thirty-fourth General Assemblies, his legislative service therefore lasting for thirteen years. During most of his service in the Senate he was chairman of the Senate committee on appropriations. He was a most useful member, and at all times won not only the respect of his colleagues but their affection as well.

Mr. Stuckslager lived an increasingly useful life from maturity until the date of his death. He was one of the most influential men in his community and county, always exercising that influence for the good of the public and the state. He was especially noticeable for his unselfishness in all good work and his firm and uncompromising stand for the right on all social, moral, and religious questions. At all times he had the courage of his convictions and stood by them steadfastly. He was always loyal to his friends, and was a cheerful, wise, and far-seeing counsellor and leader.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the Senate takes this occasion to present this tribute to the memory of a faithful public servant and to express appreciation of his character and public service, and at the same time to extend most sincere sympathy to his widow and relatives.

And the Secretary of the Senate is hereby directed to enter these resolutions upon the Journal of the Senate, and to forward an enrolled copy to the family of the deceased.

C. F. CLARK,
C. L. RIGBY,
B. M. STODDARD,

Committee.

The resolution was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Senator Rigby spoke as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT AND SENATORS: I have known Willard C. Stuckslager since boyhood. I went to school with him at Mt. Vernon. After his college days he entered his father's bank at Lisbon and I have known him in a business way ever since. He was a member of the board of Cornell College, located at Mt. Vernon, Iowa. He was always loyal to his friends. I never knew anyone who would go farther than Mr. Stuckslager, if anyone was only half-way fair with him.

He had a state-wide acquaintance, though he always lived in a small town, but he never lost touch with the common folk. He was an intensely religious man, being the chief supporter of the little church in the town in which he lived. He was generous with the use of his money and gave both his time and strength to every good cause. He was an outstanding and leading man in his community and in the eastern part of Iowa.

The state of Iowa has lost a great man in the death of Senator Stuckslager and I have lost one of my best friends.

Senator Clark of Linn spoke as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT AND SENATORS: I esteem it a privilege to add a few words in commemoration of the life of Willard Stuckslager.

He was my friend for thirty years. He was a personal friend, a business friend, and a political friend. I met him frequently in a business way, and had the privilege of knowing his happy and beautiful family life. In all things he lived a life such as the youth of the state might look up to and emulate.

He had large business connections and was always interested in public affairs. For more than three decades he was an officer of the state of Iowa; he was thirteen years a member of the General Assembly, and sixteen years a member of the board of education. At all times he was an untiring worker. He was a man of broad vision and generous sympathies; he was one of the most congenial of men and always considerate of the feelings and the rights of others. He was always willing to help, always willing to give advice, and that advice and counsel was always of the best.

His death is a distinct loss to the state of Iowa, and to the state board of education; and a personal loss to his friends, many of whom are members of this Senate and have known him for many years. The new members who had known him but a short time, join with us in this expression of grief and sorrow at his untimely death.
