Pneumonia Is Fatal to W. Dye, 89

Pioneer Macedonia Merchant Succumbs After Long Illness

(Macedonia.)

Willoughby Dye, 89, prominent in business circles throughout Pottawattamie county for more than 65 years, president of Dye Merchandise company here, died at his home here Wednesday at 11 a. m.

Death was due to pneumonia and followed an illness of several months. He and Mrs. Dye observed their sixty-second wedding anniversary Oct. 1, but no formal celebration was held because of Mr. Dye's health.

Mr. Dye was born near Hillsboro in Van Buren county, April 14, 1852, the son of Henry and Jane Micklewiatt Dye. When he was three years old, he moved with his parents to a farm near Fort Madison where he attended public schools and was graduated from the Fort Madison academy in the spring of 1872.

Early School Teacher.

That winter he came to Pottawattamie county where he taught school in Crescent township. The next year he spent in Lee county, but in 1874 he again returned to this county where he taught one term of school in Macedonia township. He had remained here since.

In 1875 he accepted a position in the general store of D. L. Heinsheimer at Glenwood. The next year the two men formed a partnership and bought a general store in old Macedonia or Old Town, as present-day Macedonians refer to it. This firm conducted the business there for three years when Mr. Dye purchased his partner's interest and operated the store under his own name for about a year.

In 1880 the Burlington railroad built a branch line from Hastings to Carson. To take full advantage of this, most of the homes and business sites of Old Town were moved two miles east and became the present town of Macedonia. There Mr. Dye formed a partner-

Long Terms Given Labor Racketeers Browne and Bioff

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal Judge John C. Knox Wednesday sentenced William Bioff to 10 years in prison and a $20,000 fine and George E. Browne to eight years and $20,000 for violation of the federal anti-racketeering law.

Browne, former president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, AFL, and Bioff, his personal representative, were convicted of extorting about $550,000 from the motion picture industry on threat of strike.

They were convicted last week on an indictment of three counts, the first two of which charged violation of the federal anti-racketeering law and the third conspiracy.

Judge Knox sentenced Bioff to 10 years on each count, the sentence on the second to run concurrently with that of the first. He suspended sentence on the third, placing Bioff on parole for 10 years after he serves his time.

The court sentenced Browne to eight years on each of the first two counts, the sentences to run concurrently. As in the case of Bioff he suspended sentence on the third count and placed Browne on parole for eight years.

Stoic Sullivan Dropped to Death

Last Statement Castigates Warden

FORT MADISON, (AP) — Ivan Leon Sullivan, 30, paid with his life on the gallows here Wednesday for the slaying of an Iowa penitentiary guard.

The trap was sprung at 7:07 a. m., and Sullivan was officially pronounced dead by Warden Glenn C. Haynes at 7:20, thirteen minutes later.

Cool and calm, the man who killed Guard Robert Hart in an abortive prison delivery here a year and a half ago, showed no emotion except to close his eyes as he in prayer as guards strapped his legs and arms before placing the black cotton hood over his head. 13 Minutes to Die.

Nazis Reach Black Sea Below Kerch

Stand at Gateway to Caucasus, Rich in Oil Resources

(By The Associated Press.)

Adolf Hitler's Crimean armies were reported to have reached the Black Sea coast Wednesday just below Kerch, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, while on the central front the Russians declared they had battled the Germans to a standstill with more than 70,000 nazis killed and wounded in the 41-day-old drive on Moscow.

Russian infantry, artillery and tanks smashing into the flank of two German divisions on the outskirts of Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow, had put the invaders to rout and chased them for more than five miles, Red Star reporting, adding that the nazis abandoned arms and ammunition, leaving more than 500 slain, many wounded and 25 burned-out tanks.

Only the arrival of reinforcements rushed up in trucks enabled the Germans to restore "some kind of balance," the official Soviet newspaper said. Engulfed In Fire.

On the southern (Ukraine) front, Soviet correspondents said the Donets river basin was "engulfed in fire . . . conflagrations raging everywhere. . . . Pillars of flame and black smoke rising high to the skies . . ."

Growing Confidence.

Soviet dispatches admitted Germans had advanced to the vicinity of Narofominsk, 35 miles southwest of Moscow, but said the situation had been stabilized. The Germans said their advance forces were within 31 miles of Moscow at one point.

Narofominsk lies on the Kaluga-Moscow highway, about 30 miles east of Maloyaroslavets, the scene of heavy fighting.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters said German and Rumanian troops had planted their battleflags on the eastern shore of the Crimea after "sharp pursuit fighting," and nazi front-line dispatches reported that Kerch itself was jammed with fleeing red army troops.

Dive Bombers.

If true, the arrival of axis forces along the Kerch strait would mean a critical stage had been reached.

move the present town of Macedonia. Was County Representative.

There Mr. Dye formed a partnership with his broker, Sylvester, and they conducted business under the firm title of Willoughby Dye and Company.

In 1886 two more, E. E. Smith and Henry Kennedy, were added to the partnership and in 1901 the business was incorporated under the name of Dye Brothers company. This title was used until 1939 when, after reorganization, the firm name was changed to Dye Mercantile company.

Besides his connection with Dye Mercantile company, he was active in other business enterprises in Macedonia. With George Micklewait, he founded the Macedonia bank in 1882, and succeeded Micklewait as president, a position he held for nearly 25 years. Started Brick Firm.

He formerly held a controlling interest in the Macedonia Implement concern, disposing of his interest recently to Ralph Macready, the son of his partner in the firm.

He also held the controlling interest in the Independent Telephone company there.

His connection with the brick manufacturing plant at Macedonia came as the result of a fire which destroyed his store in the early days. As a result of the fire, the members of the firm decided to rebuild with brick, but because the nearest kilns were too far for the brick to be purchased, he established the lumber and material business in Macedonia, manufacturing the bricks for the town for many years.

His only political experience was his service as republican representative for his district in the Iowa legislature for two terms, from 1907 to 1911.

On Oct. 1, 1879, Mr. Dye married Miss Margaret Ann Reimand. They spent their entire married life in this town, and about 34 years of it in their present house.

They were the parents of six children, Charlet, Elmer, Willoughby, jr., Harvey L., of Council Bluffs, Mrs. Joan A. McKenzie of Omaha, and Mrs. C. S. Litton of Healdsburg, Calif. Only the last three are living. There are four grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Mr. Dye since he was 21 years old, has been a member of the I. O. O. F. and also of Ruby lodge No. 415, A. F. & A. M. of Macedonia and of the Elks club of Council Bluffs.

Father H. V. Bongers, Ft. Madison priest, who spent all night in death row with the condemned man, stood beside Sullivan's dangling body and intoned prayers while three doctors examined the slayer for 13 minutes before indicating the last spark of life had left the murderer, bank robber and kidnaper.

Approximately 170 persons, including 12 official witnesses, newspaper men, and a large number of peace officers, saw Sheriff Harry V. D. Mass of Lee county push the lever that sent Sullivan hurtling to death.

The crowd stood silent as Sulli-

If true, the arrival of axis forces along the Kerch strait would mean a critical stage had been reached. Less than four miles wide, the strait presumably would offer only a minor obstacle to nazl veterans of the conquest of Crete across 75 miles of open water.

Beyond the strait, on the Caucasian mainland, are situated the great wells providing much of Russia's oil supply.

The Germans said their dive-bombers were inflicting havoc both at Kerch and Sevastopol, destroying port facilities and causing great losses in men and material.

The German threat to Sevastopol was also apparently increasing, the Russians acknowledging they had withdrawn from the rail town of Bakhchisarai, 30 miles northeast of the big Black Sea naval base.

Moscow Offensive Falls.

On the central front, S. A. Lovozvsky, official Soviet spokesman, declared the position of the red armies before Moscow was "considerably better" and that Hitler's six-weeks-old offensive against the capital had failed.

Hit by terrific losses, the Germans were now reported bringing up masses of fresh reserves to meet fierce Soviet counter attacks.

Nazis acknowledged that a fantastic system of underground tank garages, rows of buried flame-throwers and huge mine fields around Moscow's 200-mile defense arc made the going slow and hazardous.

Soviet reports claimed the Germans had lost 1,000 killed in four day of bloody fighting around Tula, and admitted Tula's defenders "have had to retreat slightly."

The Germans followed up the capture of Tikhvin, 110 miles southeast of Leningrad, by a further sweep north toward lake Ladoga, aimed at completing the encirclement of the old Czarist capital.

Hitler's high command said renewed Soviet attempts to break out of Leningrad had been repulsed with "heavy bloody losses."
