Calls for Care in Handling Anyway

Ordered Out. Fearful that the packed lobbies might bring disaster, the fire marshal ordered the interior cleared. Many, however, remained on sidewalks hopeful despite ushers' declarations "that every seat in the house is full."

The last seat of the 4,200 seats went to a woman missionary from Africa.

The quiet-faced woman, from Fort Dodge, was among dozens who pressed forward as a perspiring usher pushed open a door to announce one single seat had been found empty.

First in 5 Years.

In an excited aside, the missionary explained to a theater policeman the performance was to have been her first attendance in five years. On leave from her mission post she would return soon for another five years service, she said. The officer relayed the information to the usher. The crowd voluntarily fell back and several persons urged her forward. Embarrassed, but her face alight with happiness, the missionary slipped inside.

FATHER AGAIN AT AGE OF 88

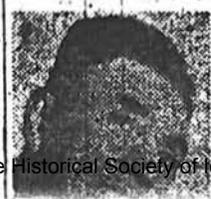

Eighty-eight-year-old Luis Carrizales became a father again Sunday and his 23-year-old wife, Mary, got her wish—it was a girl.

The baby, weighing seven pounds, 15 ounces, was born at Mercy hospital where authorities said the mother and child were "doing fine."

The baby, as yet unnamed, was the couple's third child in three years. Carrizales, who lives at 819 Fifteenth st., has seven other children by two former marriages.

The couple's first two children, Sandra Kay and Frederick Luis (who is called Junior), both closely resemble their father, with black hair and olive skin. Sandra Kay was born in 1945 and Frederick in 1946.

Iowa was at least a step nearer to receiving federal aid for the hospital program this week as federal and state officials in conference to iron out differences in the views of the two agencies, indicated they had agreed on state practices which have held up federal approval to date.

Big issue in the squabble has been the fact Governor Robert Blue was not in favor of the State Health department living up to the federal merit system requirements in hiring personnel. Apparently that issue has been resolved.

Former County Legislator Dies

Henry L. Adams, 72, widely known Des Moines attorney and former state legislator, died in a Des Moines hospital Sunday, following a long illness.

Burial was in Dunham's Grove cemetery, north of Randallia.

Mr. Adams, a former resident of West Union, represented Fayette county in the Iowa Senate in 1909 and 1911. He was formerly an attorney for the North Western railway in Iowa, and also specialized in insurance, law and represented insurance companies in the state legislature.

A native of Maynard, he studied at the University of Iowa and University of Chicago, Ill. He was admitted to bar in 1906, and began practice in West Union.

CLERMONT — Funeral service for Charles Anderson, 97, who died Thursday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ruth Starkey, was conducted from the Methodist church at 2 p. m. Sunday by Rev. Bruce Jones.

Music was furnished by Mrs. M. H. Moore and Mrs. Leonard Olson. Pallbearers were Harold Light, Donald Scott, Frank Sieleman, Lloyd Larson, John Bush and Albert Lubke.

Charles Anderson, son of James and Marinda Anderson, was born in Rock County, Wisconsin, Feb. 18, 1850, and was the last survivor of a family of eight children.

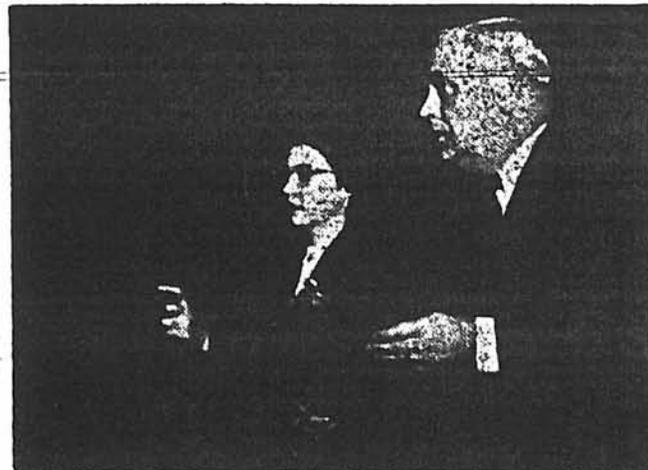

In September, 1851, he came with his parents to West Union, where the family resided for a time, then moved to Eldorado, where his father operated the mill. His mother died when he was eight years old and his father, when he was 11, so at an early age he was left to shift for himself.

On July 28, 1871, he was married to Gertrude Learn, and to this union were born seven children, the eldest son, Elmer, dying in July, 1917. Their early married life was spent on a farm three and a half miles west of Clermont. In 1899, they moved to Clermont, where for several years, they operated a restaurant.

For several years, Mr. Anderson served as a member of the school board, street commissioner and city marshal, assessor, and janitor of the school house and opera house.

On Jan. 1931, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson went to live in the
