Will Pro Rate New Asian Flu Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Asian flu vaccine will be allocated to the states according to population.

Announcing this Wednesday night, the Public Health Service said "a program giving each state and territory its fair share of the vaccine seems to be the most equitable way of distributing the vaccine geographically throughout the country."

The Health Service said the six licensed manufacturers had agreed to the plan which goes into effect at once.

J. C. Penny Chain To Try Out Field Credit Selling

NEW YORK (AP)—J. C. Penney Co., one of the country's largest retail merchandise firms, plans to experiment with credit selling next year.

Since its foundation in 1902 the company has been strictly a cash-and-carry business. It will try credit selling in only four or five of its 1,691 stores. Location of the stores was not named.

A. W. Hughes, president, said that the main factor in influencing the chain's decision was the change in attitude toward credit in the past generation.

Credit, Hughes said, is now regarded as a mark of character rather than a sign of inability to pay. He noted, also, that there now are greatly improved facilities for checking and handling credit.

Penney's sales last year totaled $1,291,867,000. This put Penney behind Sears, Roebuck's $3,555,684,000 but ahead of Montgomery Ward's $1,767,000.

The company was founded by James Cash Penney, a Missouri farm boy.

Deny Federal Plan For Fabus' Arrest

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Armed National Guardsmen called out to prevent integration at Central High School Thursday tried to break up a New York newspaperman's interview with persons in a shouting, turbulent segregationist crowd estimated at 500—the largest this week.

None of the nine Negroes who were turned away by the cold steel of guardsmen Wednesday showed up Thursday morning.

The Negro students were instructed not to try to enter Thursday. Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the state branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said.

It was the third morning that whites had appeared in front of the school in apparent support of Gov. Orval Fabus' conflict with a Federal Court order to integrate the 2,000-pupil white school—and they jeered Dr. Ben Fine, education editor of the New York Times.

Fine said that while he interviewed several persons an unidentified colonel approached and told him, referring to interviews:

"If you do that again, you'll have to leave."

"Doesn't Want Truth"

Demonstrators shouted, "He's from the North. He doesn't want the truth."

Fine continued his interviews—flanked by guardsmen—until the colonel personally escorted him across the street and onto the campus.

Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger later called a news conference behind the armed troops to warn newsmen:

"You'll be arrested and fined if you're anything but a peace officer."

"OOOOO WE NEED A HO... of the Keokuk Humane would be so very much be manager John Haas is ke... and night to pick up and... home that needs a pet?"

in the practice of law, in his duties as a magistrate and in providing him with what amounted to almost normal vision of the world about him.

Sightless Not Blind

With him it was a case of sightlessness, not blindness, because he was keenly aware of nature, people, things and events and often amazed those around him with vivid descriptions of things he had been forced to see through the eyes of others but had sensed with a rare delicacy of understanding for himself. As a result he enjoyed life immensely and lived it fully, cheerfully, and without a trace of rancor or self-pity.

The son of the late Frank and Emily Hesbacher Oertel, he was born in Keokuk December 9, 1887, and after attending school here was graduated from the Drake University law school in 1911.

Practiced in Oklahoma

He started his practice of law in Des Moines in 1911 and later practiced in Oklahoma from 1912 through 1914 before returning to Keokuk and establishing a practice February 8, 1915. After his terms in the legislature he was elected justice of the peace April 7, 1922 and was continuously re-elected to serve until May 1, 1950 when he became judge of the Superior court, the office he held at the time of his death.

He was a member of the St. Paul Evangelical and Reformed church and the Lee County Bar Association.

On March 1, 1941, in Keokuk he married Gertrude K. Jackson who survives.
