HE SLEW LANE

Chas. H. Ferrell Committed Pennsylvania Express Crime.

HAS CONFESSED TO DEED

Ex-Adams Express Employee, a Friend of Dead Messenger, Confesses the Killing, Saying He Needed the Money with Which to Wed.

Columbus, O., Aug. 13.—Charles R. H. Ferrell, a former employe of the Adams Express Company, was arrested yesterday afternoon in this city and has confessed to the killing of Messenger Charles Lane and the robbery of the way safe of the Adams Express company on the Pennsylvania east bound train which arrived in this city at midnight Friday. One thousand dollars of the money which he had stolen was recovered. Ferrell was to have been married Thursday next to the young daughter of Patrick Costlow, an engineer on the Pennsylvania lines. He had been discharged from the employ of the Adams Express company about three months ago and had not since been able to secure employment. He confessed that the motive of the robbery was to secure money, of which he felt in great need on account of his approaching marriage. The money recovered he had given to Miss Costlow to keep for him, saying that it was money he had saved from his earnings.

The confession of Ferrell disclosed a premeditated and blood-curdling crime that seemed almost impossible of belief to those who looked upon the man of gentlemanly and refined appearance who reluctantly told the story of the murder and robbery. He said

LAID TO FINAL REST.

Funeral of Judge H. B. Hendershott, Sunday Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Judge H. B. Hendershott whose death occurred in this city last Friday morning, at 10:30 o'clock, was held from the residence of his son, L. C. Hendershott, 921 North Elm street, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Hollister Lynch and were attended by a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends. Several prominent attorneys form out of the city were present. The deceased was an ex-mayor of the city, and the present council attended the services yesterday in a body, as did also the members of the Wapello County Bar.

Many beautiful floral offerings attested the high esteem in which the deceased was held by his friends. Besides numerous bouquets and smaller pieces, the members of the Wapello County Bar sent a large pillow of white flowers.

After the services at the house the remains were laid to their final resting place in the Ottumwa cemetery, the pall-bearers consisting of the following named persons who were selected from the membership of the Wapello County Bar: William McNett, J. J. Smith, J. C. Mitchell, Judge N. A. Roberts, W. W. Cory and Capt. W. H. C. Jaques.

Those who were in attendance at the funeral from out of the city were: Judge Charles D. Leggett, and J. S. McKemney, of Fairfield; Hon. Nate E. Kendall, Hon. T. B. Perry, Hon. Fred. Townsend, L. T. Richmond, T. B. Perry and W. A. Nichol, of Albion, and Judge Robert Sloan, of Keosauqua.

SAM CLARK IS DEAD

Famous Iowa Editor Passes Away at Keokuk Saturday Evening.

HIS END WAS PEACEFUL

Was an Ex-Congressman and an Official of High Trust—Strong Editorial Writer—Had Been in Ill-Health for Many Months.

Keokuk, Aug. 13.—Hon. Samuel M. Clark died at his home here at 10:15 Saturday night. His end was peaceful and painless. At his bedside besides the physicians were his son, Arthur F. Clark and his daughter-in-law with his nephew, John W. Clark and niece, Sophia Clark, who lived with him. In the house were Hon. John Irwin, Hon. James C. Davis and Mrs. J. M. Bisbee, a life-time neighbor.

Mr. Clark's death was caused by uraemia, resulting from inflammation of the bladder and kidneys. His disease had troubled him for several years and finally became chronic. About three weeks ago his condition became serious and Wednesday became critical. From that time he became weaker and weaker until his life ebbed away.

Death Was Painless.

This afternoon he told one of his family that he knew that death was impending and was hoping that it

JUDGE HENDERSHOTT.

The death of Judge H. B. Hendershott, of this city, removes one of the last of the early pioneers of Wapello county and southern Iowa. The life of Judge Hendershott was a long and busy one. It was full of loving labor for his family, his friends and his community. What he, in common with the other pioneer men and women of the early days in Iowa, did for the upbuilding of the commonwealth is not easily overestimated. They braved many hardships and expended countless hours of labor and thought that we, their children and grandchildren, might enjoy the fruits of their self-denial.

As a pioneer judge Mr. Hendershott did much toward establishing and interpreting the laws of the state, and it is a tribute to his great ability that the supreme court found occasion to reverse so few of his decisions. To Judge Hendershott and the other early occupants of the district benches in Iowa is due much of the credit for the justice and stability of the laws we now enjoy.

OUR OWN GOOD FORTUNE.

We who live in America sometimes forget to be properly thankful for that fact. We become so accustomed to the blessings of all kinds that surround us that we do not realize that these blessings are at all unusual, that they do not abound elsewhere on the earth as they do with us. These things are brought before me by a reading of the two following items from the Mexican Herald, published in the City of Mexico, for a copy of which the Courier is indebted to Mr. W. H. Fetzer, of Ottumwa, who is now in Mexico on a business trip. The items below give an inkling of the envy with which those who are outside the gate regard us who are inside this world's paradise:

"Notwithstanding the fact that the United States river guards have been materially increased during the past week, the immigrants at Juarez still continue to give trouble. The fourteen industries, encourage manufacturing, and thus create a constant demand for labor. This, however, is only half of the problem.

The nation or the individual that increases production, without enlarging the demand and increasing consumption will come to grief. Goods stacked up in warehouses represent dead capital paid out both for material and labor. McKinley, not content with opening the factory, opened the markets to absorb the output of loom, spindle, pick and plow.

The result is almost beyond belief. The exports of the United States for the fiscal year 1900 amounted to the enormous sum of $1,394,472,214. This is divided among all classes of industries, and the increase over the fiscal year of 1899, the best the country had ever before known under any administration was as follows:

Fisheries	$ 1,000,000
Mining	10,000,000
Forestry	10,000,000
Agriculture	50,000,000
Manufacture	100,000,000

Now to keep up this record and provide for a normal growth is the purpose of the republican party. It has recently perfected a reciprocity treaty with Germany, and another with Italy in order to increase the sales of American products in those lands, a policy inaugurated by that matchless American statesman, James G. Blaine.

The administration secured "an open door policy" in the Orient so that when the Chinese troubles are over, without the necessity of taking a foot of land or keeping a single soldier in China, our products shall have every advantage enjoyed by those of the most favored nations interested in the East. The importance of this diplomatic triumph may be to some extent realized when it is remembered that one-third of the products of all the looms of the southern states finds a market in the Orient.

It is the renounced policy of the republican party to stimulate trade the world over. It advocates a ship subsidy bill, so that vessels may float the American flag, transport American goods, carry American mails, and open new markets for American products. American banking institutions are established in both the East and West Indies in order that exchange of money may be effected without our business having to pass

American troops in Manila that would have helped who had help insurrection to the device: cruelty did not his own gene
