DR. SCHADT DIES TUESDAY MORNING IN IOWA CITY

He started Practicing Medicine In Williamsburg Thirty Two Years Ago

Dr. Frederick Conrad Schadt died Tuesday morning in the home of the late William Schadt in Williamsburg, who died in 1918 and taking the office of Dr. Shug who had passed away a short time before.

Dr. Schadt was a graduate of the college of the liberal arts of the University of Iowa, a graduate of the college of pharmacy there and the graduate of the college of medicine.

He was always interested in political economy and statecraft. He was the author of treatises on economics and sociology.

From 1936 to 1940 he represented Iowa and Johnson counties in the state senate. He was for years a member of the local school board.

He maintained a deep interest in the life of the Masonic fraternity being a member of the Williamsburg lodge, a member of the Consistory in Cedar Rapids and a member of the Council at Iowa City. He was the 32nd degree mason.

He was born at Amana, Iowa, March 27, 1885, the son of Conrad and Rosalie Schadt. His preparation for the university was in the Amana schools.

His marriage with Louise Setzer of Amana took place August 22, 1916. They came to Williamsburg that year where they made their home.

They had one son, Conrad, who with his mother, survives the deceased. Dr. Schadt leaves one sister, Louise Schadt, whose home is in Williamsburg.

His funeral will be Thursday afternoon, Dec. 14, at the McSwiggin and Uhlman home. The Rev. O. B. Preston pastor of the Congregation church will officiate. Betty Rusbult will be the soloist accompanied by Eleanor Sears at the piano.

His Masonic brethren of Stella's lodge will attend in a body and at the graveside in the Amana cemetery will conduct the Masonic burial.
