He went before the subcommittee declaring he is determined to talk although he had invoked the Fifth Amendment last month before a federal grand jury in Texas investigating the Estes case.

In preliminary testimony, Jacobs told the subcommittee, "I still feel the administrative procedure in the Department of Agriculture broke down at some point, and that therein lies the story of Estes' successes."

He said the breakdown point was in Texas, somewhere between the state and county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committees.

Jacobs did not at once blame any particular individual, but suggested that he was being blamed for some things which were the chief responsibility of a subordinate—Thomas H. Miller.

Miller had testified Wednesday that he had made a rigged report recommending validation of Estes' allotment juggling deals against his own better judgment, but under orders from Jacobs. Miller said he had understood the orders had the blessing of Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy, but later softened this statement.

Jacobs did not at once refer to this in his testimony. He said, he had never tried to be secretive about his opinions on the Estes case, and added that, if the same set of circumstances should arise again, his views would not have been changed.

"Never, at any time, was anyone to my knowledge in favor of or believed in the transfer of cotton allotments in the way it was done," Jacobs said.

"When I became aware of what was being done, it was almost out of control, as far as 1961 was concerned."

Clifford N. Nystrom, 124 Marion street, State Senator from Boone and Story Counties, died at 6:15 p. m. Wednesday, Aug. 22, at the Boone County hospital where he was admitted at 2 a. m. Tuesday, following a heart attack.

The late Senator Nystrom, was born in Boone, Iowa, Feb. 12, 1902, son of Jacob F. and Nancy Nystrom, and was educated in Boone public schools and business college. He served an apprenticeship on the C. & N. W. Railroad, and then entered the oil business in Boone in 1934. He later engaged in farm equipment retailing and had been in the automobile business in Boone for a number of years.

Sen. Nystrom served six terms as Boone County Republican chairman, had served as a Boone county fair board director, was a longtime member of the Boone Chamber of Commerce, was a member of the Boone Lions Club and Boone Elks Lodge, and was also affiliated with various Masonic bodies, including White Shrine. mandant for "the capital of the German Democratic Republic, Berlin."

Maj. Gen. Helmut Poppe will replace the Soviet city commandant, Maj. Gen. Adrei Solovyev, whose job was abolished Wednesday by Moscow.

The East German Defense Ministry announced that Poppe's headquarters will be in the suburb of Karlshorst, where the Soviet general had had his headquarters.

Witnesses said first three American military vehicles, then one, blocked the Soviet armored cars at Checkpoint Charlie.

A U.S. mission spokesman said he judged the Soviet cars were being held because of difficulty about weapons.

When the three cars arrived at the checkpoint, a Soviet officer with a tommygun was visible in the front of each. Two were senior lieutenants. A full colonel was reported also to be in one of the cars. While police held back 250 spectators a block away, the Soviet officers stood about, smoking, occasionally smiling.

Wednesday, a Soviet convoy was told it must accept American Army escort to the war memorial.

The Russians protested but went under escort to the memorial and back.

A U.S. Army spokesman would only confirm that the Soviet cars remained at the checkpoint for at least an hour.

Watson explained that armored vehicles, including American armor, always go under escort in West Berlin.

The Russians began using armored cars after West Berlin rioters stoned buses three nights in a row in protest against the death of an 18-year-old refugee shot off the wall by East German police a week ago.

Support For Iowa Truckers By Rep. Gross

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Rep. H. R. Gross, (R-Iowa), has given his support to two Iowa truckers who claim they cannot get a hearing in their dispute with their employer and their union.

Hubert Ulm of Des Moines and Jack Hobbs of Marshalltown are drivers for Western Transportation Co. of Chicago.

They contend Western has violated contracts and schedules, and that their union—Teamsters Local 710 in Chicago—and a statewide Teamsters grievance panel have refused to hear their case.

The drivers also claim regional officers of the National Labor Relations Board

Seek OAS Band Killers In Paris Attempt

PARIS, Aug. 23 (AP)—Police today sought a band of Secret Army Organization killers whose bullets missed President Charles de Gaulle by only inches in an ambush on the outskirts of Paris.

An investigation indicated that Wednesday night's assassination attempt was the second planned this month on the 71-year-old French leader. The other failed to come off.

De Gaulle, unruffled but admitting he had "a close shave," rested with his wife at their guarded country home at Colombey les Deux Eglises.

The police search centered on a dark-haired man, about 30, who rented one of the ambush cars from a suburban garage three days ago. The light panel truck was found booby-trapped and abandoned

LEWIS HISTORICAL PUBLISHING CO., INC.
NEW YORK

The Benjamins, attracted to Nevada and its journalistic possibilities by their brother-in-law, J. K. Laycock, founded the "Nevada Journal," as it was first called, on April 5, 1895. That was the date the first issue, "off the press," first "hit the street." Founders of a paper in Kansas, the two brothers were journeymen printers and they took over management of the mechanical and business side of the paper, while Mr. Laycock acted as first editor. The first "compositor," or typesetter, was Carrie Elliott, who later became Mrs. O. J. Benjamin. When George Benjamin later made a trip to Kansas and returned with his bride, Grace Johnson Benjamin, she, too, became a member of the "force." During the early years the publishers were ably assisted in getting out the Journal by the two wives, members of the composition and proof-reading staff for many years, according to a two-column editorial appearing in the semi-centennial edition of April 5, 1945. "It is to their assistance and economy the publishers credit much of their success and achievement," said the editorial. In September of that same year George Benjamin sold his interest to Mr. Hansen. Since its earliest days the "Nevada Evening Journal" has adhered to its first statement of policy, published with the "salutatory" in the April 5, 1895, issue: "The Journal will be strictly independent (non-partisan) in politics. It will, however, never cease to advocate good government and good measures or condemn bad measures, local, State or national, let them emanate from whatever source or party." In the April 5, 1945, issue, the sequel of this policy is stated: "The steady growth of the Nevada Journal, its wide subscription coverage, its rating as an advertising medium, its outstanding 'farm sale' reputation, its wide coverage of local, national and international news are concrete evidence that the publishers have made good their promise."

The first issue was a six-column "quarto," the general size of weekly newspapers of that day. All the composition was by hand. For about two years it was a weekly. Then, on June 6, 1897, it became the "Twice-a-week Journal," published Tuesday and Friday. On April 2, 1906, it became a tri-weekly, published on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and assumed its present name, "Nevada Evening Journal." The following year, on July 12, 1907, it changed from hand composition through the acquisition of its first linotype machine, the first of several that in the course of the years made their appearance in the composing room. On August 10, 1925, the paper contracted for the International News Service, which still supplies state, national and foreign news, and on June 1, 1929, Nevada became the smallest town in Iowa to claim the distinction of a daily.

In bringing the paper to the point where it could become a daily, Mr. Hansen played a large role. And it has been he who has done so much to develop the paper since that time, extending its influence and expanding its circulation and other operations. The heavy advertising and numerous innovations in forms and kinds of advertising are evidence of the paper's success.

Outside the paper, Mr. Hansen has been active in all community enterprises. He has held every office except that of president in the Nevada Community Club, an equivalent of the Chamber of Commerce, and in 1948 was president of the Rotary Club of Nevada. He is a former member of the official board of the Methodist Church and is active in the Iowa Daily Press Association, the Iowa Press Association, the Inland Daily Press Association, and the American Press Association. He is a Republican. For recreation he likes golf.

On May 5, 1920, at Boone, Iowa, Mr. Hansen married Helene Dorothy Fawcett, the daughter of Alfred J. and Huldah (Hanson) Fawcett. Mrs. Hansen is a member of the Methodist Ladies' Aid Society, the Nevada Mothers Club and the Amegos Club. Two sons, one of whom gave his life in battle in World War II, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Hansen. The older and surviving son, Max A. Hansen, was born in 1921, and was educated in the elementary and high schools of Nevada and the Fox Secretarial School in Chicago. In World War II he was a gunner on a B-29 with the United States Army Air Forces in India. He won the Air Medal with seven Oak Leaf Clusters, five Battle Stars and was one of a unit awarded a Presidential Citation. He is now associated with his father in the "Nevada Evening Journal." Max Hansen married Gertrude Fitzgerald in Chicago on May 5, 1940.

Mr. Hansen's younger son was Jean, born in 1922. He, too, was educated in Nevada's public schools. In 1942 he went to Southern California, where he entered the employ of the Vega Aircraft Corporation. In 1943, he became a cadet in the United States Army Air Forces and on completion of his training was commissioned a first lieutenant and assigned as a pilot on the Second Troop Carrier "Asiatic" and later served in the Pacific Theater of Operations. His headquarters were not far from his brother's, at Mitikina, Burma. On July 19, 1945, he was killed in action. He had won the Air Medal with Oak Leaf Clusters. Lieutenant Hansen married Virginia Halstead, of Ames, on November 18, 1944. A few months after his death, on November 2, 1945, a daughter, Jean Sharon Hansen, was born to the marriage.

CLIFFORD N. NYSTROM—Combining successful business enterprise with a public career, Clifford N. Nystrom has proved his abilities in a variety of fields. Operating a farming implement agency in Boone, Mr. Nystrom has been chosen by the electorate of his district as their representative in the Iowa legislature. For some years previous, Mr. Nystrom was an oil executive.

A native of Boone, Mr. Nystrom was born in 1903, a son of Jacob and Nancy Nystrom, his father being a carpenter. After completion of his grade and high school years at the Boone public schools, he completed his education at business college, after which Mr. Nystrom sought his place in industry as an oil company agent. He advanced rapidly in this field, becoming a district supervisor, and entered the oil business in his own right in 1934, so continuing until 1948. In that year, Mr. Nystrom sold out these interests, and purchased the John Deere implement agency in Boone. This remains his chief occupation apart from the claims of public life.

Mr. Nystrom has long been active in the councils of his political party, the Republican, and served for six years as Republican county chairman. Named candidate to represent his district in the Iowa House of Representatives, he was victorious in the 1948 elections, and has devoted himself wholeheartedly to the cause of public representation.

Fraternally, Mr. Nystrom is active in the lodges of both the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons and the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. He is also a member of the Lions Club of Boone. He and his family attend the Methodist Church.

In Des Moines, in 1923, Clifford N. Nystrom married Agnes L. Smiley, daughter of Robert G. and Janette Smiley. Mr. and Mrs. Nystrom have become the parents of two children: DeWayne C., born in 1924; Jack N., who was born in 1933. Mr. Nystrom's business address in Boone is at Sixth and Marshall streets.

EINER PETERSEN JUEL—As secretary of the Council Bluffs Savings and Loan Association, and a member of its board of directors, Einer Petersen Juel has assumed a conspicuous position among the banking fraternity of his city. Reared on a farm in Shelby County, he has advanced on his own merits to positions of leadership in the affairs of his community. In Chamber of Commerce activities, welfare work and fund drives, church and organizational programs, and in the groups of his business colleagues, his vital and constructive work has been highly valued by all who are acquainted with its significance.

Born November 11, 1905, Mr. Juel is a native of the vicinity of Elk Horn. He is a son of Marius N. and Marie (Larson) Juel. His father was a farmer, operating acreage in Shelby County for twenty-eight years. Einer Petersen Juel attended the public schools of his native locality, and on graduation from high school there entered Boyle's College of Business, at Omaha, Nebraska. While there, he became a member of the Omaha Chapter, American Institute of Banking.

Mr. Juel's business career began in 1924, when he became associated with the Council Bluffs Savings Bank. During ensuing years, he served that bank in the capacity of cashier, and his connection with it lasted for a total of twenty-two years. He resigned on October 1, 1946, to accept the position of secretary of the Council Bluffs Savings and Loan Association. Concurrently he held office for a time in the American Institute of Banking. His qualifications for the positions of secretary, and member of the board of directors, of the Council Bluffs Savings and Loan Association were excellent. He has held the dual offices since 1946.

The Council Bluffs Savings and Loan Association was organized on January 10, 1895. Its first officers were A. T. Flickinger, president; F. J. Day, vice president and treasurer; and C. H. Judson, secretary. The directors were the above officers plus P. C. DeVol and Dr. J. M. Barstow. Some of the historic "firsts" in this bank's early records are of interest as shedding light on the events and personalities of the growing city of Council Bluffs. The bank made its first loan to C. H. W. Brown in the sum of $250.00. Its first statement of assets showed $481.98, and a bank account overdrawn of $82.53. The first stockholders' meeting was held September 2, 1896, and it was attended by A. T. Flickinger, P. C. De Vol, F. J. Day, E. A. Morehouse, J. J. Hess, and J. M. Fenlon. The first annual shareholders' meeting was held in 1897. It revealed mortgage loans in the sum of $2450.00 with total assets of $2991.06. These assets continued to grow with the increasing services of the bank, and with the increasing importance of Council Bluffs. The association's assets reached the amount of $100,000.00 in 1913, and topped the million-dollar mark in 1924. Total assets as of June 30, 1949, were $2,758,849.21; and as of December 15, 1949, they stood at $3,007,267.82.

The association has never missed a dividend since it was organized in 1895, and these dividends have been paid semi-annually. The organization has successfully weathered every depression, and has distributed to its membership dividends in a sum totalling more than $1,800,000.00. It has helped hundreds of Council Bluffs families to purchase and build homes, having made loans in the total sum of more than ten million dollars. Its interest rate has always been in keeping with current financial trends. Every improvement in operations in the last fifty-five years has been adopted by the association. Today it operates on what is known as a "Direct Mortgage Reduction Plan" in its mortgage division. This plan gives to the borrowing members the benefit of monthly reduced interest charges. The most modern type of accounting and equipment known to the building and loan industry has been installed in this office.

The present officers of the Council Bluffs Savings and Loan Association are as follows: John J. Hess, president; W. C. Grote, vice president; E. P. Juel, secretary; and Alvin C. Anderson, treasurer; together with its directors, W. A. Williamson, Henry D. Petersen, and Marion L. Shugart. The present quarters, 503 West Broadway, were purchased by the association January 1, 1937, and represent its permanent home.

Mr. Juel is a prominent figure in Iowa banking circles. He is a member of the Iowa Savings and Loan League, member of the United States Savings and Loan League, past president of the Omaha Chapter of the American Institute of Banking, and past president of the Pottawattamie County Bankers Association. In Chamber of Commerce activities he has emerged as an able and conscientious leader. He is treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce, and past president and treasurer of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. He has, in addition, served as past president and treasurer of the Community Chest. Vitally concerned in the cause of youth groups, he is treasurer of the Southwest Iowa Council of the Boy Scouts of America; and during 1940 served the Girl Scouts organization in various capacities. He is a director of the Iowa Motor Club; past president and past district governor of the Lions Club; and a director of the Young Men's Christian Association of Council Bluffs. Fraternally affiliated with the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Mr. Juel has exerted his leadership in this order as well, having served as treasurer for the Christian Rural Overseas Program for western Iowa. He belongs also to the Loyal Order of Moose, and to the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons. He was King of the Council Bluffs Mardi Gras in 1949.

Mr. Juel's activities have also included writing. He is the author of an article appearing in 1949 in the "United States Savings and Loan News."

His church connection has also offered an outlet for his constructive energies. A member of St. John's English Lutheran Church, Mr. Juel was first president of the Lutheran Brotherhood of Iowa, United Lutheran Church of America, and lay member of the executive board of the Lutheran Church of Iowa. He was also first president of the United Protestant Brotherhood of Council Bluffs. He is a Republican in his political beliefs.

At Glenwood, November 10, 1924, Einer Petersen Juel married Beatrice H. Luxford, daughter of Frank W. and Alta J. Luxford. Mr. and Mrs. Juel have become the parents of two children: 1. Einer M., born May 10, 1926. During World War II, he served in the United States Navy in the Pacific Theater of Operations. He is now attending the Medical School of the State University of Iowa, where he is a member of the class of 1951. 2. Barbara J., who was
