Nation Mourns Hoover

NEW YORK (AP)—Plain citizens and public figures joined today in paying last respects to former President Herbert Hoover.

Among early arrivals at St. Bartholomew's church were United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, New York Sen. Jacob K. Javits, former Postmaster General James A. Farley and State Department protocol officer Jay Rutherford.

Many who passed by the flag-draped coffin were workers from office buildings in the vicinity of the church in mid-Manhattan.

At 9 a.m. EDT, the huge bronze doors of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church on Park Avenue swung open and public homage to Hoover began.

His body will lie in state for 48 hours amid the Byzantine-Romesque grandeur of the nearly half-century-old edifice, guarded by an honor detail from all the armed services.

A steady stream of mourners filed into the church and past the closed casket.

The tribute will be repeated on Friday and Saturday in Washington in the Capitol rotunda where assassinated President John F. Kennedy was honored last November, and where in April tribute was paid to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the great warrior who once served as Hoover's Army chief of staff.

On Sunday, Hoover will be buried in his native Iowa, in quiet and simple dignity.

Hoover died at 11:35 a.m. Tuesday at the age of 90. His gallant old heart gave out beneath the burden of a final illness that began Saturday with a massive internal hemorrhage. He passed away peacefully and painlessly in a deep coma.

Voters in the Perry City School District stacked an almost 71 per cent in favor of a $298,000 bond issue Tuesday to support a new room and vocational addition to the high school here.

Unofficial returns show 1,057 people went to the polls in the election with 1,057 supporting the bond issue and 436 opposing it for a 70.8 per cent majority. State law requires only a 60 per cent vote in favor of the measure to pass.

The measure failed to pass in the Dawson precinct where 70 voted "yes" and 62 voted "no."

Born in obscurity, the first American president from west of the Mississippi was a mining engineer and a self-made millionaire when he turned to public service. It fell his lot to be in the White House at the onset of the Great Depression and the electorate turned him out in 1932 after only one term, politically discredited.

Talks On Threat Of Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's fourth major threat of a railroad strike in six months hung in the balance today while negotiators considered a three-year pay raise of .27 cents an hour recommended by a presidential emergency board.

Preliminary reaction to the recommendations indicated that negotiators representing 90 per cent of the U.S. railroad industry and 11 nonoperating unions seemed inclined to accept them. More than 400,000 workers are affected.

There was no immediate formal comment from either side. They have 30 days to accept the recommendations, or launch munity having covered a period of over thirty-six years. Doctor Quire in 1901 took special work in the Chicago Post Graduate School of Medicine and again attended that school in 1914. He is a member of the Jasper County, Iowa State and American Medical Associations, a member of the Masonic fraternity, and a Democrat. He owns some valuable farming interests in Idaho and around Lynnville. Doctor Quire was honored with election to the office of mayor of Lynnville in 1924-25, and has also done his part for the advancement of the schools by serving on the school board.

He married, December 23, 1896, Katherine E. Ratcliff, of Le Grand, Iowa. They have three children: Charles F., of Lynnville; Reba K., of Lynnville; and Ivo Irene, a graduate of Penn College at Oskaloosa.

C. BENJAMIN CONDON. No one man or concern can make or mar a community; it is the stability and concerted action of many which results in the rise and continued prosperity of a city or country. However, each one must do his part, live up to his responsibilities, and render assistance to all in order that the best results be obtained. Therefore in reviewing the business houses of Des Moines it is interesting to note how many of them have as their executive heads or managing officials men of astuteness, sound judgment and high personal standing. Among them is C. Benjamin Condon, general manager of the Hawkeye Portland Cement Company, one of the important factors in the building industry of the state.

C. Benjamin Condon was born in the City of Chicago, Illinois, September 20, 1885, a son of Thomas D. and Katherine M. (Carberry) Condon, natives of Ireland and Illinois, respectively. Thomas D. Condon was western representative for Chicago and Minneapolis, Minnesota, of a large eastern house, but both he and his wife are deceased, having died many years ago. Of the seven children born to them five survive, and of them all C. Benjamin Condon was the sixth in order of birth. The father was a devout member of the Roman Catholic Church. In political belief and practice he was a Democrat, but, while he always took a deep interest in public affairs he did not aspire to office. Only a boy when brought to the United States, he was reared here, and was well educated and kept abreast of current events through constant reading. A splendid speaker himself, he had a special fondness for nicety of expression in others, and would go to almost unlimited inconvenience to listen to the great speakers of his time. The maternal grandfather of C. Benjamin Condon was Patrick Delapore Carberry, a native of Ireland, who came to the United States, and for years was engaged in the practice of law. He was an intimate friend of William H. Seward, member of the cabinet of President Lincoln.

C. Benjamin Condon attended both the grade, technical and high schools of Minneapolis, Minnesota, and secured an excellent education. His contact with the world began as office boy in the general freight office of the Minneapolis & Saint Louis Railroad at Minneapolis, and he continued in the employ of this road until 1909, when he went to San Francisco, California, as general western agent for the Chicago & Alton Railroad, the Toledo, Saint Louis & Western Railroad, and the Minneapolis & Saint Louis and Saint Louis & Iowa Central Railroads, but after a short period located at Des Moines, Iowa, in March, 1911, and became connected with the Iowa Portland Cement Company. That concern was succeeded by the Hawkeye Portland Cement Company in 1916. In 1913 he was made secretary and manager of the original company, and when the new merger was made he became general manager, which position he still holds.

On December 1, 1917, Mr. Condon married Miss Lucile Crawford, who was born in Nebraska, and educated in the public schools of Des Moines and graduated from North High School of this city. She is a daughter of Alva C. Crawford, deceased, formerly manager of the Dempster Manufacturing Company. Mr. and Mrs. Condon have three children: Katherine M., Patricia G. and Charles Benjamin Carberry, Junior. The family belong to Saint Augustine's Catholic Church, and Mr. Condon is a member of the Union League Club of Chicago, of the Des Moines Club, the Wakonda Club and the Catholic Club of New York City. The exacting demands of his business absorb all of his time, so that he has no other commercial connections, preferring to devote himself solely to the enterprise his energy and foresight has built to such gratifying proportions.

GLENN E. WHITEHEAD is one of the progressive and influential representatives of newspaper enterprise in his native state, and in the City of Perry, Dallas County, he is loyally and effectively functioning as editor and publisher of the Perry Daily Chief, one of the well ordered and influential papers in this section of the state.

Mr. Whitehead was born in Marshall County, Iowa, August 11, 1892, and is a son of Charles E. and Mary Jane (Clark) Whitehead, who now maintain their home at Marshalltown, judicial center of that county, where the father is living virtually retired, after long years of productive alliance with farm industry.

After completing his studies in the high school at Marshalltown Glenn E. Whitehead was for two years a student in an eastern college. He initiated his association with newspaper work by taking a position with the Pittsburgh Press, a leading daily in the City of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and other eastern and middle western newspapers. In 1914 he returned to Iowa, and here he has continued his active alliance with journalism, he having been for a time in the service of the Iowa Homestead, at Des Moines, and with the Capital, a daily paper in the City of Des Moines, and then having become identified with the Newton Daily News, at Newton, county seat of Jasper County, with which last mentioned paper he is still connected as a stockholder and officer. In June, 1926, he became editor and resident publisher of the Perry Daily Chief, which he maintains at high standard in all departments and the plant of which is thoroughly metropolitan in equipment and service—one of the best to be found in any city of the same relative population in the entire State of Iowa and one that would be a credit to a city of much greater population.

Mr. Whitehead was one of the loyal sons of Iowa who represented the state in service in the World war period, he having served two years in the United States navy and having gained therein the rank of lieutenant.

Mr. Whitehead is one of the loyal and progressive citizens and business men of Perry, is a valued member of the local Chamber of Commerce, is affiliated with the Masonic fraternity and the American Legion, besides having membership in various clubs and civic organizations, and he has membership in the Iowa Press Association and other journalistic organizations. His political allegiance is given to the Republican party, and he makes his paper a staunch exponent of the principles of that party as well as of communal interests in general, the Perry Daily Chief being on record as having a larger circulation than any other newspaper in Dallas County and having much of leadership in popular sentiment and action in its circulation area. The name of Mr. Whitehead still remains on the roster of popular young bachelors in his native state.

WILLIAM CLAPPER is identified among the successful business men of the great State of Iowa as president of the Grimes Canning Company, with main offices at Des Moines, Iowa. This is one of the largest corporations of its kind operating in the state.

Mr. Clapper is a native of Iowa, and has had a wide and diversified business experience. He was born on a farm in Polk County, July 7, 1876, son of Moses and Susan (Johnson) Clapper, and grandson of Jacob Clapper, a native of Pennsylvania, who came out to Iowa in early times and became a farmer and land owner. The maternal grandfather, William Johnson, was born in Maryland, and settled in Polk County, Iowa, in April, 1866, after having previously lived in Henry County of this state. He was also a farmer and land owner. Moses Clapper was well educated, became a farmer in Iowa and later went to the Northwest and was superintendent of a smelter at Butte, Montana, when he died in 1882. The widowed mother is now living with her son at Des Moines. Both were active members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Of their four children three are living: Glendora, of Chicago; William; and John M., sales manager for the John Deere Plow Company at Omaha.

William Clapper was educated in the grade and high schools of Des Moines, and his first regular employment was in the local weather bureau. For a time he was employed in the office of the county clerk, after which he had some further schooling. He clerked in the Des Moines office of the Bankers Life Insurance Company, and for twenty-two years was in railway service, being for a time division freight and passenger agent for the State of Iowa for the Wabash Railway System and for a number of years was connected with the interurban railway business.

In 1920 he connected with the Grimes Canning Corporation as sales manager, and since 1924 has been its president. This corporation now operates five modern canning plants, located at Rockwell City, Perry, Grimes, Altoona and Pella. The vegetables canned by the corporation are shipped and sold all over the United States. Mr. Clapper has also been prominent in organizations of canners, serving during 1927-28 as president of the Iowa and Nebraska Canners Association, and he handles the traffic for this association and also for the Western Canneries Association.

He married, in 1915, Miss Mabelle Moore, who was born in New York State and finished her education in the University of Wisconsin. Her father, J. J. Moore, after coming west located at Mason City, Iowa, where he was in the wholesale shoe business. Mrs. Clapper is a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, while Mr. Clapper attends the Methodist Church. He is a member of the Hyperion Field and Motor Club, the Lions Club and the Round Table Club.

LUCIUS A. COBB, JR., was born in the City of Waterloo, where his father was a pioneer settler, and owns and conducts one of the leading jewelry establishments of that city.

Mr. Cobb was born at the family home, 410 West Park Street, a property he still owns and occupies, on February 4, 1871. His great-grandfather was John Cobb. His grandfather, David Cobb, was born at Menham, New Hampshire, moved to Saratoga Springs, New York, and then to Cattaraugus County in the same state, and late in life came out to Waterloo, Iowa, where he died at the age of ninety-two.

Lucius A. Cobb, Sr., was born at Menham, New Hampshire, acquired a good education and as a young man taught school. He came out to Iowa in 1854 and two years later located in the Village of Waterloo, which was then all on the west side of the river, and there was no bridge over the stream. The surrounding country was still sparsely settled. He built the house at 410 West Park Street, where his son was born. He was one of the early lumber dealers, and acquired considerable property. He traded some of his real estate for a boot and shoe store and the electric light plant, and operated both for several years. He married Harriet Amanda Ellsworth, who was born at Greensboro, Vermont daughter of Oliver and Amanda (Cook) Ellsworth. She died at Waterloo June 12, 1929, at the age of eighty-nine years. They reared three children, Charles Ellsworth, Lucius Allen and

Mr. Mercer was associated with Economy Advertising, and its sales subsidiary, Bankers Advertising, Iowa City's oldest major firm for more than a half-century. The firm had been founded by his father, S. W. Mercer in 1895 and incorporated in 1904, six years before Leroy Mercer joined it. He became a vice president in 1920, president in 1956 and chairman in 1962.

GLEN E. WHITEHEAD

MR. PRESIDENT: Your committee, appointed to prepare a suitable resolution commemorating the life, character and public service of the late Glen E. Whitehead, begs leave to submit the following:

Glen E. Whitehead was born on a farm in Marshall County, Iowa, on August 11, 1892. He passed away on October 21, 1964, at the age of 72.

His early education was received in rural schools in Marshall County and Marshalltown High School. After a two year commerce course, he entered the newspaper field in 1914. He was associated with the Nevada Evening Journal, the Des Moines Capital, Iowa Homestead and the Newton Daily News. In 1926 he became publisher of the Perry Daily Chief, a position he held until his death.

He was married on December 28, 1932, to the former Shirley Hildahl of Greenbush, Minnesota, who survives along with a son, Stephen.

His legislative experience came with his election to the Iowa House of Representatives from Dallas County in 1942. He served in that capacity in the Fiftieth and Fifty-first regular sessions and the Fifty-first Extraordinary session. On November 3, 1948, he was elected to a four-year term in the State Senate and was re-elected to the Senate in 1952 representing Dallas, Guthrie and Audubon Counties.

Mr. Whitehead was a delegate to the National Republican convention in 1932 and served as publicity director for the Iowa Republican Central Committee in 1934. He was a lifelong worker in the Republican party.

He served as a commissioned officer in the Navy during World War I.

In his capacity as president of the Iowa Press Association in 1944-1945 he was invited by the British government to visit that country and liberated European territory in the closing stages of World War II. In 1951 he was appointed to the 11-member Iowa Development Commission by Governor William S. Beardsley and was re-named by Governor Leo A. Hoegh. In 1947 he was elected a director of the Iowa-Nebraska Press Association and in 1952 was awarded the Iowa Press Association's coveted "Master Editor-Publisher" award for service and achievement in the newspaper field.

Glen E. Whitehead was a man of strong personal conviction and opinion. Many honors came to him because he worked hard and followed a predictable path of integrity. The impression made upon his community and state by his years of constructive public service provides a true tribute and fitting memorial to his life, character, and personality.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the Senate of the Sixty-first General Assembly of Iowa: That in the passing of Glen E. Whitehead, the state has lost a valuable, loyal and honored citizen, and by this resolution tenders its sincere sympathy to the members of the family.
