Charles F. Coverdale

Rites Tuesday For Coverdale

Charles F. Coverdale, 79, Route 2, former state representative and well-known Clinton County farmer, died early Sunday in Mercy hospital.

A charter member and founder of the Clinton County Farm Bureau, Mr. Coverdale was one of two living 50-year members. He was a director of the Iowa Farm Bureau and a general agent for the Iowa Farm Insurance Agency for Clinton County, retiring in 1952.

Mr. Coverdale served from 1954 to 1958 as an Iowa state representative. He was director of the membership board of the Clinton County American Red Cross and on the board of Clinton County Blue Cross-Blue Shield. He was a member of Monitor Lodge 330, A F & AM, of Delmar, DeMolay Consistory and 32nd degree Masons.

Mr. Coverdale was born March 15, 1886, in Brookfield Township, the son of Elijah A. and Sarah Jepsen Coverdale. He was educated in Delmar schools and Iowa State University, where he received national honors in livestock judging. He married Belle Riegel of Maquoketa March 4, 1908. The couple farmed near Elwood until 1941 when they moved to their present farm on Ridge Road.

Surviving are his wife; one son, Riegel J. of Spencer; one daughter, Mrs. B. E. (Lena) DE ing the Clinton to Chicago run. While no decision has yet Western, it appears likely the railroad will file an application with the Interstate Commerce Commission to drop the train. H. A. Lenske, director of passenger service for the North Western, told The Herald this morning he expects some decision by Nov. 1.

"There has been no improvement in the usage of the train," replied Lenske. This would mean the number of Clinton boarders remains an average of 12 per day.

Lenske could give no indication on what the North Western might do. "This will strictly be up to the management." Last spring, the North Western said the Kate Shelley was losing about $200,000 annually.

"Unless losses on the operation of the train are substantially reduced," the North Western said then, "the railroad will find it necessary to take steps to discontinue the operation." Lenske said last spring that ridership would have to double before the train could be retained.

Lenske said there has been consideration of suggestions that the diner car be dropped from the train. Whether there will be any modifications in the Kate Shelley's operation, Lenske said, will "of course depend on management's decision."

For the last six months, the Kate Shelley has been operating on a probational basis. If Richard Carr, 25, of 2349 N. 8th St., pleaded not guilty to an information charging him with breaking and entering in the night time with intent to commit larceny at the Camanche store.

Carr, who is not yet represented by counsel, asked for a preliminary hearing which was set down for 10:30 a.m. Wednesday. Unable to post $3,000 bond Carr was returned to his solitary cell in county jail where he has been kept since his arrest shortly after 3 a.m. Sunday.

Fred Bengston, 21, of 518 16th Ave. N., also entered a not guilty plea to a similar charge but waived a preliminary hearing. Bengston was held to the grand jury and remanded to county jail in lieu of $3,000 bond.

Camanche Fire Chief Bev Tyler, doubling as police officer Saturday night, went to the V Store about 3 a.m. Sunday to check a report of breaking glass. Deputy Sheriff Jack Evers was alerted and
