DEATH OF JUDGE LOVE.

The Distinguished Federal Jurist
Passes to the Tribunal Above.

His Life Goes Out With the Dying Day—Brief Review of a Long and Honored Career—An Irreparable Loss.

Once more the dark angel of death has visited Keokuk and stilled a mighty heart. In the home of one of her most distinguished citizens are the emblems of mourning and the inanimate form of one who has made the world better for his having lived in it and who has stamped the impress of his character upon the community, the state and the nation. At his residence, No. 721 North Fifth street, at 7:30 o'clock last evening, the noble spirit of Judge James M. Love was freed from the air-racked form and returned to the God who gave it being. For more than a year Judge Love had been in failing health and on more than one occasion relatives and friends occurred in 1861. Of this union were born four children, all of whom survive him. They are: William, of Lexington, Ky., George, of Chicago; Miss Mary, of La Grange, Ky.; and Henry, of Cartersville, Va. Miss Mary and George are here and the other two children have been summoned by telegraph. His second wife was Miss Mary Millburn, who survives him together with a daughter, Miss Elizabeth, and sons Sidney and James. There also survive him his sister, Mrs. A. Hosmer, of this city, and brother H. K. Love, of Des Moines, clerk of the federal court.

The funeral arrangements have not been perfected but the interment will probably occur from the residence Sunday afternoon.

of long be delayed. But tender ministrations of loving ones and the physician's skill caused the relentless fever to turn aside and he was cured. But for several months he had been rapidly failing and all were fully conscious that the end would not be long delayed. About ten days ago he was compelled to get to his bed and the subsequent decline was rapid. For days it seemed but a question of but a few hours most when Judge Love would be gone. And when the end did come he sank peacefully to that blessed sleep, conscious almost to the last. Death resulted from a complication of liver and stomach ailments, he dating back to his service in the Mexican war.

James M. Love was born in Virginia March 4, 1820, his father, John I. Love, being a native Virginian and a mill contractor. Until he was eighteen years of age the deceased remained home and attended school. When he was thirteen years old he removed with his mother and family to Ohio, his father having died. After leaving school he engaged in civil engineering and followed that pursuit for about four years. Then he removed to Zanesville, Ohio, and entered the law office of Judge Richard Stillwell, under whose instruction he continued his studies until admitted to the bar in 1840. Then the young barrister went to Coshocton county, and there entered upon the practice of the profession which he continued with ordinary success until 1846. The Mexican war having broken out, that year Mr. Love raised a company and joined the Third Ohio regiment under command of Col. Samuel Curtis. Mr. Love was commissioned captain and served in that capacity two years. During the service he contracted ailments from which he never fully recovered.

On returning from the field of conflict Mr. Love assumed the practice of his profession and continued a resident of Ohio until 1850. During that year he decided to seek a field where his talents would find greater opportunity for development and where greater financial success would reward his efforts. Then he became a resident of Keokuk and immediately entered upon the practice of law. By virtue of his natural ability and his constant studious application to the acquirement of knowledge, Mr. Love soon became a leader of the Iowa bar.

In 1853 he was elected to the Iowa senate. Three years later President Pierce, recognizing his eminent fitness for the responsible office Regular meetings shall be held on the first Wednesday after the first Saturday in January and July, and special meetings may be ordered whenever the president shall deem it necessary. Five years with privilege of renewal at the expiration of the term, is fixed as the life of the company. F. G. Thomas, E. W. Simons, Henry Hill, Robert Hassett, Robert Bell and James O. Sims are the incorporators.

on Grand avenue. The town is certain—if any human being can cope with the evil spirit Mr. Hubinger. A successful fortunate occurrences have which would have long benefited the average man characteristic energy, Mr. Hubinger has met each reverse with determination to overcome obstacles.

Some months ago a bluff of the bluff wall which place the embankment bluff and the artesian lake. This has been rebuilt stronger than ever. A national safeguard the wall anchored by means of rods to the beautiful little in the middle of the upper lake. All debris occasioned landslide and subsequent been cleaned away and has been resodded and the face of the grounds at the materially beautified. The bordered lawn are numerous island is a monster bed of Work is being carried on the big artesian wells, which down over 1,250 feet and 700 feet deeper. It will be the best in the world.

But down under the bluff the greatest amount of work has been spent. When Mr. Hubinger secured the power for illuminating the plant proceeded to the materialment of his plant, putting power in addition to the water power with which plant was operated. Almost unnumbered have and obstacles almost insurmountable have been thrown in the way costing thousands of dollars in expense, but Mr. Hubinger coming all difficulties and have the best equipped lighting station in the building is 50x82 feet in size and is practically three stories high. On the ground floor is the engine room. Two Leffler water wheels of 125 and 150 horse power, driving the incandescent and the arc generators as the engine is not in operation for a few weeks, a 200 horse power engine will be put in. The light Thompson-Houston and two Westinghouse of 1,000 and 1,500 lights supply the incandescent and arc lights. Each there is a small dynamo to take the load of the incandescent lamps.
