Obituary.

The deceased—DANIEL WILLIAM SCOVILLE— was born September 5th, 1825, in St. Lawrence county, New York, and died December 21st, 1867, in Santa Cruz, California—being 41 years,
 3 months and 16 days old.

He was admitted to the bar—as an Attorney
 at Law—at Grand Rapids, Michigan, in 1851.
 He had gained respectable standing in his profession, and was rapidly securing a profitable
 practice.

He removed from Michigan to Clark county,
 Iowa, in 1853, and was elected a Representative,
 in the fall of 1856, from that county to the State Legislature for two years.

He was married to her who now mourns his loss, at Granville, Kent county Michigan, October 18th, 1856.

He crossed the plains to California with his family, in 1863, stopping a few months in the valley of Santa Clara and then settling in Santa Cruz, in that portion of the town known as Branciforte. His life here—among us—is known to all. It has been such as to make his death a general calamity.

While you, who are left a widow by this sad
 bereavement, and you who are left fatherless,
 the second time, by this stroke of death, mourn
 as no others can at this afflictive Providence—
 assured that you are not the only ones who feel
 a great loss is sustained by his removal.

Many, who were strangers to him and you
 but a few short years ago, are sincere mourners
 here to day.

While you mourn the loss of a husband, in whom the hearts of affections centered, and a provider, and protector; and these children mourn the loss of a father and counselor. We, too, feel that a brother indeed has been stricken
 down by our side—one whom we can ill spare;
 one, in whose presence, every good principle
 of our hearts grew stronger; one whom we personally believe was incapable of being any man's enemy; one who would wrong himself to favor another; one who was true in all the relations of life; he walked within his own house with a perfect heart. Any, whoever met him there, could plainly see the sun-beams of his life cetered in his own family circle.

He was true as a neighbor—as his nearest neighbors fully attested; when the news of his sudden death reached them, flocking to his heuse without distinction—American, Spaniard and Portuguese mingling their tears with the family's as they looked upon his lifeless form,
 as though he had been a brother.

neighbors fully attested; when the news of his sudden death reached them, flocking to his heuse without distinction—American, Spaniard and Portugese—mingling their tears with the family's as they looked upon his lifeless form, as though he had been a brother.

He was true as a Mason—as the responsible position he held in the Lodge, up to the day of his death, would testify, and the 'Grand Honors' paid him this day.

He was true as a Christian—holding high and responsible official position in the Church of which he was a member.

When such a man dies—the loss is not felt alone by the family of which he was the head—

but the whole community sustain a loss. All who shall estimate the value of a good man's influence in community? Of one whose word was truth—whose example was pure. I assure you when death takes such a man from among us every other good man is a mourner. We have none to loose.

My own personal relations with the deceased have been most intimate ever since the first days of his settling among us, and I confess to you, no man had my confidence more than he. I had learned to love him for his many virtues, and, if my feelings were gratified, I would be in the pew a mourner to-day rather than the officiating minister. But I must close, to you who are left widowed and lonely, and to you who are left orphans, I would say whatever the deceased may have left you of this world's goods, whether little or much, he has certainly left you what is infinitely more valuable, the legacy of a spotless reputation and bright test assurances of full preparation to depart and of a blissful immortality. I know the darkness which closes around by this bereavement, casts a gloom on every earthly prospect and the heart will ache, and ache, and ache, and tears must relieve the anguish you feel; but this must ever be a light streaming through the rifted cloud, that he was ready to die. O! blissful memory, to cherish in the wounded breast, that those whom we loved and have gone on before, are asleep in Him, who is the Resurrection and the Life.

Then hail brother! and farewell until we meet thee on the other shore. We loved thy companionship here, and hope to meet thee again when the Supreme Grand Master shall call us each in our turn from life's labors to everlasting "refreshments" in the Grand Temple on high.

Resolutions.

Passed by Santa Cruz Lodge, No. 38, F. and A. M.

WHEREAS—It has pleased the Supreme Grand Master of the Universe in his all wise Providence to take from us, in the midst of a life of usefulness, our worthy and well-beloved Brother, D. W. SCOVILLE.

Resolved: That in the death of Brother Scoville, this Lodge has lost one of its most worthy and best beloved Members; the Fraternity, an exemplary and worthy Brother, and society a conscientious and useful citizen, one who, in the various relations of life, endeared himself to a large circle of friends by his unimpaired kindness and courtesy, by his strict integrity, and by the large charity which he always manifested toward the faults of others.

Resolved: That we tender to the family of our deceased Brother the heartfelt sympathy of his Brethren in their great bereavement, and the assurance of our fraternal regard for those who were nearest and dearest to him in life, and may He, who tempereth the wind to the shorn lamb, guide and console them in their heavy affliction.

Resolved: That in memory of our deceased Brother this Hall be draped in mourning and the Members wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved: That these Resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Lodge, and published in the papers of the county, and that a copy thereof be presented to the family of our deceased Brother.

Resolved: That the thanks of the Lodge be tendered to the choir for their services at the funeral ceremonies of our departed Brother.

B. F. BAILLY, Secretary.

THE BAR

THE law is a profession which ever attracts a certain percentage of our brightest minds into its ranks. It is now rather more crowded than the other avocations, but this is in itself a proof of the advantages it offers. Of late years it has become curiously common for people to disparage lawyers, applying every sort of epithet, and making them the excuses for hundreds of jokes and stories; yet these same citizens who profess to have a contempt for lawyers will, when in any kind of difficulty, run promptly to one of the profession, place themselves and their property entirely in his guidance, and eagerly follow his suggestions in the weightiest affairs.

Clarke, having always been a small county, has never possessed a large body of attorneys, and those who have practiced here have furnished from their number few who would be considered brilliant in a large city; yet they have been as a rule able, well-read, conscientious and painstaking men, and at the present time, as well as in the past, the county may be truthfully considered surprisingly free from "shysters." One testimony to their ability is the fact that attorneys are seldom imported from other counties to attend to important cases. During the early years of the county's history, lawyers frequently came from Indianola, Afton and Leon, but now the twelve attorneys residing at Osceola have no competition from outside.

The first lawyer to fix his residence at Osceola was P. J. Goss, who came in 1852, directly from Ottumwa, but originally from east central Illinois. He practiced continuously at Osceola until 1885, when he went to Oberlin, Kansas. His residence here lasted a third of a century, and of course, was longer than any others who have located here. He was a good lawyer, by long experience and close reading, and enjoyed a good practice. He is now about sixty-seven years old, and has a wife and several children. He is a democrat, and during his residence in Clarke County was interested somewhat in local politics.

During the year 1855 three lawyers located at Osceola. D. W. Scoville, the first, was a native of New York, and removed from here to California during the war. He commenced practice in the Golden State, and continued for three or four years, when he died. He stood well in his profession, and also entered politics to some extent. He was a Democrat, and while here served a term in the House of Representatives, of the General Assembly. He was a middle-aged man, and had a wife but no children.

R. B. Parrott was a native of Ohio. He practiced in Clarke County about ten years, and was then taken with the Western fever. He was gone to the mountains three or four years, and then returned to Osceola, where he remained till 1876. Since that date he has resided and practiced law at Indianola, Warren County. He is spoken well of here, and was undoubtedly an able member of the Clarke County Bar. He held the office of district attorney one term, when the judicial district extended as far as the Missouri River west. Politically he is a Democrat. He has a wife and four children.

A. L. Sprague, the third of those who came in 1855, located here in the last part of that year. He was originally from Ohio. He remained in Clarke County but three years, and then removed to Plattsmouth, Nebraska, to live. He is still practicing law in Saunders County, Nebraska. He made a good reputation during his brief residence at Osceola. He was a Republican, but held no political aspirations here.

James Rice, commonly known as "Judge Rice," came to this county in 1857, and has practiced law continuously since. He held the position of county judge from 1861 to 1868, when the office was abolished, but his official duties did not prevent his performing the regular legal business that came to him. He has become as thoroughly acquainted with Clarke County during his twenty-nine years of residence, and especially during his incumbency as county judge, as any man that has ever resided in it. He has an excellent memory of men and things, and is a representative "old citizen." He is a Republican, and has served a term in the General Assembly of the State.

John Clark studied with Mr. Scoville, and in 1858 commenced the practice of law. He was married while residing here, and removed with Mr. Scoville to California.

J. J. Hider came here from Sigourney, Iowa, in 1859 or '60. He was a German by nationality. After about two years' residence here he removed to Burlington, where he now resides.

Charles C. Millard located here in 1860, removing from Indianola, and after some four years' residence made another change of home, to Glenwood, Mills County, in the western part of the State. He was a Republican in politics, and stood well in his profession. From here he went to Texas, returned to Osceola, then made another trip to Texas, and finally returned once more to this place, where he died. He was paralytic to a disabling extent for some time before his death, which was the only one that has occurred at Osceola of an attorney in practice.

M. B. Reese studied law in 1864, with Judge Rice, and in 1865 was admitted to the bar. He was a partner of the judge for the next two years. This relation was then discontinued, and he remained three or four years more, before removing to Nebraska, of which State he is now a supreme judge. He is a Republican, and has a family. In so far as the world can estimate success and failure, Judge Reese has achieved perhaps a higher position than any other member of the Clarke County bar.

E. F. Riley came to Osceola in the latter part of 1864, and has practiced more or less since. He has, however, been principally engaged in the land business, and for some years has also been a banker. In both these lines he has been very successful.

R. A. Dague came with Mr. Riley, and
