

905.2 District departments established.

There is established in each judicial district in this state a public agency to be known as the "..... judicial district department of correctional services." Each district department shall furnish or contract for those services necessary to provide a community-based correctional program which meets the needs of that judicial district. The district department is under the direction of a board of directors, selected as provided in section 905.3, and shall be administered by a director employed by the board. A district department is a state agency for purposes of chapter 669.

[C79, 81, § 905.2]

86 Acts, ch 1172, § 3

Footnotes

Probation, see § 907.1