

571—114.7(456A) Records and recordkeeping requirements. All permittees shall keep an up-to-date daily record of their nuisance wildlife control activities and keep it on file at the business location specified in the permit. Each record must contain the client's name, address, telephone number, date of service, service provider's name, species of animal, number of animals removed, control methods used, and disposition of the animals. Permittees holding an SCGCP must also document the locations of all Canada goose nests destroyed, the numbers of Canada goose eggs destroyed, and the numbers of Canada geese killed at each project site. The permittee shall provide these records for inspection by a department representative at any reasonable time.
