

Iowa's Notable Dead ...

ISSN 0003-4827

No known copyright restrictions.

---

Recommended Citation

"Iowa's Notable Dead ..." The Annals of Iowa 33 (1957), 545-552.

Available at: <http://ir.uiowa.edu/annals-of-iowa/vol33/iss7/8>

Hosted by Iowa Research Online

sor Plum, being the late George T. W. Patrick, who was credited with originating the graduate seminar method of instruction and who served on the philosophy and psychology staffs from 1877 to 1949; was married to the former Margaret Budington 51 years ago, who survives, their daughter, Alice, having preceded him in death in 1926; the author or co-author of four books and monographs, the most recent being "Restoration Puritanism, a study of the Growth of English Liberty," published in 1943; was active throughout his life in the Iowa City Presbyterian church; was a member of the American Historical Association, Mississippi Valley Association and State Historical Society of Iowa, serving as president of the Iowa group in 1935-36; also held membership in the Economic Society of England. Burial of the remains took place at Kingston, New York.

---

CHARLES EMORY STEWART, farmer, cattle man and state senator, died in an automobile accident north of Wayland in Henry county, Iowa, September 20, 1956; returning to his home near Rose Hill, his car leaving the road on a curve, hurtling down a steep embankment and striking a large power line pole; born in Adams township in Mahaska county, Iowa. October 3, 1897, son of Albert W. and Ellen Evisa Stewart; engaged in farming all his life; married Alice Marie Clayworth of Oskaloosa, June 8, 1918; with his son Albert, and a son-in-law, Omer Seitsinger, operated a 785-acre farm, specializing in purebred Shorthorns; had served three terms as a county supervisor before he went to the state senate winning over the veteran Democrat, A. E. Augustine; served in the Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth General Assemblies of Iowa, and was a candidate for re-election, a member of the Methodist church, the Farm bureau, Kiwanis club, chamber of commerce and a Republican; had a record as an aggressive builder of roads and in the senate a strong advocate of economy in state expenditures, as well as outspoken in opposition of increase in real estate taxes; survivors include his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Anita Seitsinger and Mrs. Virginia Moore, both of Rose Hill, and his son, Albert W., also a brother, Tracy S. Stewart of Oskaloosa, and six grandchildren.

---

OLIVER PECK NEWMAN, journalist, former commissioner of the District of Columbia and counselor in finance, died in Miami Heart Institute, Miami, Florida, September 25, 1956; born in 1876 in Nebraska, and came to Des Moines with parents in 1884; son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Newman, who first resided at 716 20th street and later at 3302 University avenue, Des Moines; first was a reporter on Des Moines news-

Copyright of Annals of Iowa is the property of State of Iowa, by & through the State Historical Society of Iowa and its content may not be copied or emailed to multiple sites or posted to a listserv without the copyright holder's express written permission. However, users may print, download, or email articles for individual use.