

Iowa Partnership for Economic Progress

History and Purpose

House File 590 (The Iowa Partnership for Economic Progress Act) was signed by Governor Branstad on July 18, 2011. The Act replaced the Iowa Department of Economic Development (IDED) with the Iowa Economic Development Authority (IEDA) and required the IEDA to create the Iowa Innovation Corporation (IIC), a private 501(c)(3) organization that will act as Iowa's innovation intermediary. Additionally, Governor Branstad issued Executive Order Number Seventy-Five on October 24, 2011, that created the Iowa Partnership for Economic Progress (IPEP), an advisory board within state government. The boards are laid out in the following manner:

Iowa Economic Development Authority

Established in Iowa Code section 15.105, the IEDA is the public entity of the Partnership and is charged with undertaking the programs that implement the economic development policy of the state and certain finance programs. As the successor agency to the IDED, the IEDA assumed all duties and responsibilities previously assigned to the IDED as well as the Office of Energy Independence. In Attachment A, Chart 1 represents the organizational chart of the former IDED and Chart 2 represents the organizational chart of the current IEDA. The IEDA is required to create a Small Business Development Division. At this time, the IEDA is still discussing internally the structural changes necessary to comply with this requirement.

The Economic Development Authority Board is made up of eleven voting members that met for the first time on October 6, 2011, for an orientation, chair election, and committee appointments. The IEDA Board meets monthly. Board members must meet certain residence and professional requirements. Voting members serve staggered four-year terms. The Board also has seven ex-officio members (four legislative members representing each caucus and chamber of the General Assembly, a representative of the Board of Regents, a representative of a the Iowa Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, and a representative of the Iowa Association Community College Presidents).

Iowa Partnership for Economic Progress

The IEDA was created with new powers including the ability to delegate select services to the IIC and to sell conduit bonds. To delegate a service to the IIC, the IEDA and the IIC must execute a contract that is not an essential government function and the IIC must be compensated at fair market value for the service provided under the contract. Additionally, a contract between the IEDA and the IIC must be drafted and executed under the assistance and advice of the Attorney General. Services listed in Iowa Code section 15.106B(2)(d)(1) include: marketing and promotional activities, policy research, economic analysis, expansion of international markets for Iowa-produced or Iowa-based products, consulting services, and services related to statewide commercialization development. The IEDA may also issue private activity bonds to finance the cost of business enterprises and will be payable out of the revenues derived from the business enterprise financed by the bonds. As of December 31, 2011, no bonds have been issued by the IEDA and no services have been delegated to the IIC.

Other changes in HF 590 include renaming the Grow Iowa Values Fund, the Economic Development Fund, and the Iowa Commission on Volunteer Service was transferred from the Governor Office to the IEDA.

Iowa Innovation Corporation (IIC)

The ICC was created by the IEDA Board on October 20, 2011, and filed with the Secretary of State on October 26, 2011. The first meeting of the IIC Board was on December 9, 2011. The IIC is governed by a Board of Directors made up of seven members appointed by the Governor and two are subject to confirmation by the Senate, for concurrent four-year terms. Subsequent members will be selected in the following manner:

- Two members appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate for staggered four-year terms.
- Five members selected by the majority vote of the Board of Directors, for staggered four-year terms.

The IIC has appointed Jack Harris as the CEO of the corporation. Mr. Harris is the retired Director of Advanced Manufacturing for Rockwell Collins. The IIC's purpose is "receiving and disbursing funds from public or private sources to be used to further the overall development and economic well-being of the State of Iowa and to lessen the burdens of government in connection with the public purpose of economic development in the State of Iowa." The IIC is prohibited from receiving funds from the General Assembly. Funding for the IIC will come from either private donations or federal support.

The IIC's responsibilities include the following:

- Consulting with the Iowa Innovation Council on the creation of a comprehensive strategic plan to develop and implement public policies that will lead to innovation and entrepreneurship in the targeted industries.
- Acting as an innovation intermediary, and perform functions delegated by the IEDA.
- Soliciting the involvement of the private sector for support and funding for economic development initiatives in Iowa.
- Coordinating economic development efforts of other state and local entities in an effort to achieve policy consistency.

The IIC also plans to develop a seed fund to help companies seeking to expand.

Iowa Partnership for Economic Progress (IPEP)

The IPEP Board was created by Executive Order and met for the first time on January 5, 2012. The Board is made up of eleven voting members and four ex-officio members (the Governor or designee, the IEDA Board Chair, the IEDA Director, and the head of the IIC). Members are appointed to staggered two-year terms. The IPEP is an advisory board charged with the "study and recommendation of solutions and policy alternatives for issues arising in the area of economic development. The partnership shall focus on job creation, identifying emerging global markets, harnessing competitive economic forces, increasing the income of Iowa families and growing the Iowa economy." The IEDA is required to provide staff support to the IPEP as needed. The Board plans to meet quarterly. The goals of the IPEP board include:

- Developing a strategic vision for economic development and private-sector job creation in Iowa.
- Reaching other goals and objectives as request by the Governor.
