A PIONEER GONE.

Dr. Butler Stricken During His Southern Voyage, and Dies Before Reaching Home.

Twice within a fortnight has our community been shocked by the sudden news of the death of a prominent and respected citizen, casting a pall of gloom and sorrow over the entire city. The news of Dr. Butler's death reached friends of the family Saturday forenoon, and was received everywhere with sincere sorrow. From a member of the excursion party we learn that the doctor was attacked severely with catarrh of the stomach at New Orleans, Monday, Feb. 25th. By Thursday his condition became so alarming that it was deemed best to start north to escape the moisture of the atmosphere, which was having an unfavorable effect upon him. Mr. Butler himself coincided with the views of his physician and the start was made the same day. But it was of no avail, he gradually weakened and Saturday morning at seven o'clock, as the train reached Effingham, Ill., the grim destroyer over whom he had so often gained the victory, triumphed at last. The body in charge of the balance of the Cherokee party, arrived here Sunday morning.

At eleven o'clock Tuesday morning a Templar's guard escorted the body to the Baptist Church where it remained in state until the afternoon. The scholars of the public schools marched in a body to the church and viewed the remains. At 1:30 p. m. the Knight Templars in command of J. S. Green, E. C., the lodge with W. B. Chick as Marshal, the ladies of the Eastern Star with C. K. Dixon as Marshal, and the Cherokee County Medical Association proceeded to the church. The services were conducted by Rev. Cole, assisted by Revs. Coffman and Kearns. Rev. Cole paid an eloquent and glowing tribute to the virtues of our departed citizen. The remains were laid at rest in Oak Hill cemetery, a masonic burial service being read at the grave. The pall bearers were: F. Homan, G. P. Lester, Sam Chapman, L. Liffing, D. Hull and Will Jimison.

Delegations of masons from Newell, Marcus, Aurelia, Meriden, Pringhar, Larrabee and other surrounding towns attended the funeral, many of them being personal friends.

Drs. Avery and Bundy, of Aurelia, Quinn, of Meriden, Loomis and Fry of Marcus, Schoffts, of Remsen, and Martin, of Pomeroy, attended the services.

Dr. Marian S. Butler was born at Elyria, Ohio, September 4, 1830. During his early life he was engaged in a business which he abandoned when he was united from the Western Reserve College of Ohio, and afterwards studied medicine in both Ohio and Iowa, ob-

Dr. Butler's memory will be ever cherished by the people of Cherokee county. Through storms of winter and summer, over roads all but impassable from rain and snow, at all hours of night and day, he has gone to the bedside of pain and suffering, often when he knew that his only reward would be the gratitude of his patients and the consciousness of a cheerfully performed duty to humanity. From many a heart in this county will go up a fervid prayer for the soul of this good samaritan; many a scene of sickness and sorrow will be recalled, to which his welcome visits brought hope and cheer to the mind and ease to the tortured body.

His philanthropy was of the broadest character, undefined by rule or dogma. In addition to the numerous acts of benevolence that characterized his life, he adopted, educated, and gave a start in life to a number of young men who, unaided would have been unable to have attained these results. Of a genial, sunny nature, he was welcomed everywhere for the cheerfulness he brought, while the sterling qualities of his heart won esteem from all with whom he came in contact.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Senator Gorman was compelled to withdraw his amendment to the Sunday Civil Appropriation bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to issue certificates of indebtedness to meet the deficit in the revenue, because of an agreement among opposing senators to talk away the rest of the session, if he didn't; but before doing so he made a speech in which were some remarkable charges against a democratic secretary of the treasury, to be made by a democratic senator. He said that the responses of the secretary of the treasury to inquiries of the senate, as to whether this legislation was needed, were on their face misleading; that there would be a deficit for the fiscal year of $60,000,000 and for the calendar year of $80,000,000; that the treasury officials had acknowledged to him (Gorman) personally that there was a mistake of $30,000,000 in Secretary Carlisle's figures of the amount of money now available to meet government indebtedness; that the expenditures had been underestimated by Secretary Carlisle to the extent of $40,000,000, and he added: "The truth is, that they (treasury officials) made a mistake about a year ago in making up their balances of $80,000,000, and they have been trying to adhere to it ever since." Mr. Gorman did not speak with any excitement, but with the calm deliberation of a man who of which he spoke, as he said he had; also, that he was somewhat of a book-keeper himself.

his showing from the official records, that all the claims for damages which have been filed by Canadian sealers aggregated only a little more than one-third of the amount asked for by Grosham, that was the light.

It has been a long time since the senate was in as excited a condition as it has been all this week, and the nearer the day of final adjournment gets the stronger grows the excitement. Whether all the appropriation bills will be disposed of even by extending Saturday's session right through Sunday and Sunday night is still a matter of doubt, although most of the senators believe they will be. But they all admit that in the present temper of the Senate some incident comparatively insignificant, may upset all plans and end the session in a wrangle leaving some of appropriation bills unacted upon. However, the general belief seems to be that the greatest danger lies in the possible veto of some appropriation bill during the closing hours, because of some amendment objectionable to Mr. Cleveland.

There is no excitement in the House, which is killing time by debating and passing bills which will never be heard of in the senate, while waiting for the senate to return the amended appropriation bills, the leaders have decided not to allow action on anything else.

The retirement of Mr. Bissell from the cabinet did not create a ripple, as it had been known for some time that he would go out.

Weather Bulletin.

St. JOSEPH, Mo., Mar. 2.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from March 1 to 5 and the next will reach the Pacific coast about the 6th, cross the western mountain country by close of 7th, great central valleys, 8th to 10th and eastern states about 11th.

This disturbance will be of more force than usual but precipitation will be light except in a few limited localities. The most important feature of this storm will be the cold wave immediately following its warm wave, causing great extremes of temperature and frosts further south than usual.

Just here it is pertinent to repeat that 1895 crop season weather will be uncommon and remarkable and every part of the United States may prepare for the unusual.

The next storm wave of March will reach the Pacific coast about the 12th, cross the western mountain country by close of the 13th, the great central valleys 14th to 16th and the eastern states about the 17th.

The feature of this disturbance will be precipitation as common as first year.
