DEATHS

Richard M. Radl

Richard M. Radl, 65, a former state representative, and a Lisbon resident since 1950, died in a Cedar Rapids hospital Thursday.

Born Aug. 27, 1911, in Chicago, he was married to the former Helen Bartlett.

He first became active in Democratic politics in 1964 when he successfully ran for the office of representative of Linn county. He served eight years in the house of representatives, 1965 to 1973, when he lost the Democratic primary to John Patchett.

In his terms he established himself as an independent thinker and a frequent critic of professional educators and what he described as waste and mismanagement in Iowa's educational system.

He served on the house judiciary, Iowa development, appropriations and environmental control committees. He also was a member of the important budget and financial control committee.

He was owner and operator of the Illini Molded Plastics Co., in Lisbon, and had been active in Cedar Rapids chapter of the American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers, YMCA Toastmasters club in Cedar Rapids, Waubeek Council of Boy Scouts of America and the Cedar Rapids Symphony Orchestra.

Surviving besides his wife are four sons, a daughter and eight grandchildren.

His body has been willed to the University of Iowa medical school as a contribution to the living. There will be no funeral services. The family suggests that friends may, if they wish, contribute to the Cancer Society or the Lisbon library memorial fund.
