LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

The Office of the Lieutenant Governor is provided for in Article IV, Section 3 of the Iowa Constitution and the rules of the Iowa Senate.

The lieutenant governor is a member of the executive branch of Iowa government and stands ready to succeed the governor in case of the latter's death, impeachment or resignation.

The lieutenant governor is also directed by the constitution to be president of the Senate, presiding over that body whenever it is in session. The lieutenant governor may cast a vote when the Senate is divided equally but only when final passage of legislation is not at issue. The lieutenant governor also works closely with the legislative branch of state government and is often able to help resolve differences that arise between the executive and legislative branches.*

The lieutenant governor serves full-time during the sessions of the General Assembly and part-time between sessions. A full-time office is maintained for the lieutenant governor behind the Senate chamber in the Statehouse.

During her term of office, Lieutenant Governor Zimmerman has sponsored several conferences ranging from rural health to the changing work force. Her priorities while she is in office are health care, education, and agriculture/rural development. Iowa will be the host of the National Conference of Lieutenant Governors Annual Meeting in the summer of 1990.

* A constitutional amendment was voted on and approved by Iowa voters in 1988. Passage of this amendment significantly changes the duties and responsibilities of the lieutenant governor for the term beginning in 1991.
