Travelogue On 'Orient' Wednesday

World Travelogues on "Taiwan, Hong Kong and Singapore" will be presented Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Castle theater in Manchester.

The film will be narrated by Eddie Chu and will cover his sentimental journey seeking out the places frequented by his ancestors who had been traders in The South China Sea for centuries.

The exciting color motion picture of the romantic orient will show the Hong Kong rice harvest, Chinese opera, planting, and a Dragon dance.

Chu was born in China in 1935. His father was a farmer and Eddie's family lived on the delta of the Yangtze and Yellow rivers about 500 miles from Pelding. Because of the Communistic activity in the area, Eddie's family was forced to flee to Shanghai in 1946.

His memory about the trip is somewhat vague, but he does remember that his father converted into gold everything of value that the family owned. The gold was then sewn into the lining of the children's clothes. Whenever possible the family traveled by train. However, much of the journey was made on foot and at times food was scarce. Eddie, his sister and two brothers lost a lot of weight - so much weight that little Eddie had great difficulty in keeping
