Service Finds Jobs Here; Now Need Workers

Jobs are available in Greenfield this summer!

Roger Walston, Adair County Extension director, reports that response of employers to the second year of the Extension's Mini-Employment Service has been good.

A number of jobs are available, he said. Now what is needed is people to fill them. That's a reverse from last year, when there was a shortage of employers.

Interested job hunters, and other employers too, who would like to make use of the Adair County Extension Service's free help in matching up job and worker are asked to contact the Extension office, 743-8412, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office will be closed next Monday, however, due to the holiday.

year terms on the low rent housing agency, by Mayor Weinheimer.

Cigarette permits were applied for by Buckner U-Save and Rico's Steak House, both were approved by the council.

Final business for the evening was to take steps on updating the master plan of the airport and to install key operation gas pumps. The council will be taking bids for this.

Fay L. Harris Died Thursday

After a prolonged illness Fay L. Harris, well-known, life-long resident of Adair County passed away at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, May 19 at the Greenfield Manor, where he was admitted two days earlier after being released from the Greater Community Hospital in Creston.

A former Richland township farmer he had also been engaged in heavy earth moving construction. His wife Remie preceded him in death in 1946 and the following year he came to Greenfield. He served two terms in the Iowa State legislature as representative from Adair county from 1949-1952.

Surviving him are a son Bill of Creston; four grandchildren, two great grandchildren, a sister Mrs. India Spry of Wiota, and two brothers Merritt Harris of Earlham and Van Harris of Anita.

Visitation was held Friday evening at the Bickford-Murray Funeral Home, and family and friends paid parting respects to Mr. Harris at graveside rites in the Greenfield Cemetery held at two o'clock Saturday afternoon, May 21. The Rev. Alfred Clark conducted the service.

The pallbearers were Freeman Brown, Don Harris, Jack Harris, Raymond Harris, Roy Harris, and Ted Harris.

Professional arrangements were by Bickford-Murray Funeral Home.

ing in Richland and Washington Townships, and will be let in Ames in the near future.

Resurfacing of 73 miles with crushed rock at various locations throughout the county should be completed by the end of the month.

Office work is progressing on plans for two large bridges: one in Harrison Township and the other in Washington Township.

A county crew is now in the process of placing emergency concrete patches to the Cherry Street pavement north of the Union County line. Due to construction work on Highway 25, this section of highway is carrying additional traffic.

Fly The Flag

In honor of Memorial day, persons are reminded to 'Fly your Flag'. If you do not have a flag, the American Legion has them for sale. Contact Larry Icenbice or Max Bittner.
