Georgia Court Rules Out Anti Segregation Move

ATLANTA, Jan. 10—(UPI)— Segregated practices at a Georgia college were ruled unconstitutional today by a federal judge who granted three Negro applicants an injunction making it easier for them to apply at the all-white institution.

The historic decision by District Judge Boyd Sloan came almost simultaneously with another highly significant federal decision. In that case, a federal judge in Arkansas instructed the Little Rock School Board to take "affirmative steps" on its own initiative in integrating Central High School, now closed over the race crisis.

The Arkansas judge did not order Central opened immediately but ordered the school board to report within 30 days on what steps it had taken or planned to take to integrate the school.

Little Rock School Board Chairman Ed I. McKinley said he had no idea what steps the board might take.

The Georgia case, involving efforts by three Negroes to enter the school, will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

L. H. Doran, 65, Boone Attorney Dies Saturday

Lant H. Doran, 65, prominent Boone attorney, died about 5 o'clock this Saturday morning, Jan. 10, following brain surgery at the Iowa Methodist hospital in Des Moines on Dec. 29.

Mr. Doran suffered a stroke in mid-October and failed to recover from its effects which necessitated the surgery.

Born in Beaver area Mr. Doran graduated from the Drake University law school and opened practice in Boone in 1920. He was the senior member of the law firm of Doran, Doran, Doran, Erbe and Doran.

He served in the Iowa Senate from 1929 to 1931 and from 1937 to 1939. During that time he chaired the appropriations committee and the interim committee. He authored the Iowa drivers license law and the school bus stop law which requires a school bus to stop at a meeting or approaching a school bus which has stopped.

To Convert Guard to P

DES MOINES, Jan. 10—(UPI) Maj. Gen. Fred C. Tandy said today he has been instructed to convert the Iowa-Nebraska National Guard's 34th Infantry to an atomic-age Pentomic division by this summer.

Tandy, Iowa's adjutant general, disclosed the timetable for the switchover in announcing the dates and sites for the Iowa National Guard's 1959 summer field training.

He said that the conversion will involve "a tremendous change of equipment" and may be difficult to accomplish by the time summer field training begins.

Tandy said the exact date for the switchover is not known as yet other than the tentative timetable calling for conversion by summer field training. He said he will announce details as soon as he receives orders from Washington.

The Pentomic division is the Army's new organization concept for fighting atomic wars.
Such a division contains five battle groups instead of the current three regiments as its main fighting units. It is aimed at providing more mobility and more firepower than the existing "three-sided" division.

Tandy also said that for the first time since the Guard was reorganized in 1948 the 34th Division's artillery will take its training at a different camp at a different time from the main group.

Administrative problems, but should provide more superior

over the race crisis

The Arkansas judge did not order Central opened immediately but ordered the school board to report within 30 days on what steps it had taken or planned to take to integrate the school.

Little Rock School Board Chairman Ed I. McKinley said he had no idea what steps the board might take.

The Georgia case, involving efforts by three Negroes to enroll at Georgia State College in Atlanta, will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

Judge John E. Miller ordered the Little Rock School Board not to do anything "capable of impeding or frustrating integration, either independently or with any other persons" at Central High.

The Miller order included an injunction to prevent the Little Rock School Board from transferring any school property without approval of the court.

Four Little Rock schools have been closed since last September following Federal Court orders to proceed with integration of Central High. Private schools are now being operated in Little Rock by a corporation backed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Leathercraft To Open On Monday

The Boone County Farm Bureau Woman's Organization is organizing a class in leathercraft, it was announced Saturday.

Lessons in leather working will be conducted by Whitey Myers of Des Moines on three days of next week. The all-day lessons will be given Jan. 12, 19, and 26 in the Farm Bureau Lounge. The public is invited to take part.

University law school and opened practice in Boone in 1920. He was the senior member of the law firm of Doran, Doran, Doran, Erbe and Doran.

He served in the Iowa Senate from 1929 to 1931 and from 1937 to 1939. During that time he chaired the appropriations committee and the interim committee. He authored the Iowa drivers license law and the school bus stop law which requires vehicles to stop when meeting or approaching a school bus which has stopped.

Mr. Doran was a veteran of World War I and had served Arthur D. Lantz Post of the American Legion as its commander. He was a long time member of the Boone Lions club and a past president, belonged to several of the Masonic bodies, the Boone Elks lodge, Episcopal church and was a member of the Boone county, Iowa State and American Bar associations. He always took an active interest in Republican politics through the years.

Survivors include his wife DeElda of the family home at 509 South Story street; one daughter Mrs. Norman A. Erbe of Boone; two sons, Dr. John Doran, Ames and William K. Doran, Boone, associated with his father in the law firm; three brothers Alex. Boone, Lucien, mayor of Perry and O. E. (Bob) Doran, Beaver; three sisters Mrs. Perry Rinker, Ogden and Mrs. Glenn Campbell and Miss Charlotte Doran, both of Boone and eight grandchildren.

The Welin Chapel has charge of the services.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday, Jan. 13 at 2 o'clock from the First Methodist church with burial in Linwood Park cemetery. Fr. Thomas Hulme will be in charge. For visiting hours, friends are asked to call the Welin Chapel.

rent three regiments as its main fighting units. It is aimed providing more mobility at more firepower than the existing "three-sided" division.

Tandy also said that for the first time since the Guard was reorganized in 1948 the 34th Division's artillery will take training at a different camp a different time from the main group.

He said this would pose administrative problems. It should provide more superior training than could be provided at other installations.

He noted that the 1959 training will be on a platoon and battery level. He said this made it unnecessary for the artillery training to be integrated with that of the main units.

The bulk of the division again will train at Camp Ripley. This is the division's training site for the last five years, Aug. 9-19.

The artillery will train at Camp Guernsey, Wyo., July 19.

Tandy said Camp Guernsey was selected because it provided larger and newer ranges for artillery's 105 and 155 mm howitzers than do camps in the west and is one of the best artillery camps in the country.

The remaining Iowa and Nebraska guardsmen will do their summer field training at four separate military posts on the following schedule:

113th AAA Battalion Air Corps, Warning, with units in southeast Iowa, at Camp Haven, Va. May 31-June 14.

194th Field Artillery Battalion, an all-Iowa battalion with units in north and northwest Iowa, at Camp Guernsey, Wyo. June 21-July 5.

224th Engineer Battalion, an all-Iowa Battalion with units in east and southeast Iowa, at Camp Dodge, Iowa, Aug. 9-19. 195th Tank Battalion of Nebraska, 34th Reconnaissance
