THE NEWSPAPER IOWA DEPENDS UPON

DES MOINES, IOWA, WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 9, 1953.—TWENTY-TWO PAGES

SENATOR WILSON DIES

Bear Is Rhee's Gift to Ike

Getting a warm welcome from three youngsters at National airport in Washington, D. C., Tuesday is one of the two South Korean baby bears which Korea's youngman Rhee sent by plane as a gift to President Eisenhower. As Steven Young, second Taylor and Buddy Taylor (left to right) got acquainted with this cub, the bear was being led from the plane. The friendly little animals weighed 50 pounds each. They will live at the Washington zoo.—WIREPHOTO (AP).

Warmer Choice Filling Vinson's Post

(Register's Washington Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The death of Chief Justice Vinson on Tuesday left President Eisenhower with a problem in naming a successor.

Several of Democratic left the federal court with the highest experience.

Several leading names have come to the Gov. Earl Warren's attention. They had judicial experience of Warren has

MERCURY RISES, SHOWERS FALL

Warmer air and partly cloudy skies came to Iowa Tuesday, ending for the time being the state's premature "Indian summer."

Widely scattered thunder-showers accompanied the warm-up but rainfall was so light it could not be measured. Most of the showers fell in the north-east.

Council Bluffs reported the warmest reading for the day—84 degrees. Des Moines and Lamoni recorded 83; Spencer, 82; Ottumwa, 80; Dubuque and Mason City, 77; and Cedar Rapids and Burlington, 74.

Warmer too, than the night before, with Davenport reporting the coldest—48.

SOME 3-CENT LETTERS WILL GO BY PLANE

3 Cities Involved in Experiment.

Leased Wires to The Register.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The post office department proposed Tuesday to send some 3-cent letters by plane instead of train between New York, N. Y., and Chicago, Ill., and between Washington and Chicago.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield told a news conference he had just filed a petition with the civil aeronautics board seeking authority to contract with established airlines for their empty space for this purpose. He said it would be on a one-year experimental basis.

The shift from rail to plane, he said, will speed up first class mail delivery between the cities involved by up to 24 hours.

The projected service would include in addition to 3-cent letters, the 2-cent postcard and some newspapers under the latter's rating as "preferential mail" having an important time element.

Effect on Airmail.

Summerfield said he foresaw no decline in the use of airmail postage—8 cents for letters, and 4 cents for postcards—as a result of the plan.

He pointed out that the airmail user will continue to be guaranteed plane delivery while surface mail will have to "take its chances" on space becoming available.

However, he expressed belief that the post office initially can fly up to 2 1/2 tons of surface mail daily between the three cities.

Airline Applies.

United Airlines late Tuesday asked the civil aeronautics board for permission to participate. Summerfield said he had been advised that Slick and Flying Tiger airlines, primarily cargo carriers, intend to follow suit.

If the plan is successful, Summerfield hopes to put surface mail into the air in other parts of the country.

The postmaster general said he would file the plan with the POSTAL—

Nab 2 After Gun Battle in N. Y. Tunnel

NEW YORK, N. Y. (AP)—Two gunmen, their car careening at a reckless pace through the slender Lincoln tunnel, fought a losing gun battle Tuesday 75 feet beneath the Hudson river.

An estimated 100 other motorists were caught helplessly in the tube, their cars imperilled by the fleeing getaway car, their lives at the mercy of bullets that whined and echoed through the tunnel.

Shot in Head.

The case ended near the New York exit of the mile-and-a-half tunnel with the surrender of the gunman, suspects in a foiled holdup earlier in New Jersey. Both men were wounded, one shot through the head.

They were identified by police as John Metcalf, 34, and Peter Simon, 33, both of Miami, Fla.

An unidentified truck driver with nerves of steel ran the pair down. His truck had been commandeered by two tunnel patrolmen, who blazed away at the getaway car from the running-board.

The gun battle started at the New Jersey approach to the 80-million-dollar tunnel. Tunnel policemen recognized the license of a wanted car and tried to halt the two men. With a blaze of gunfire, the pair roared into the tunnel.

Levelled Guns.

Tunnel Patrolmen Thomas Gannon and Robert Mers commandeered the small delivery truck and sped into the tube.

Rocking perilously on the truck's running board, Gannon and Mers levelled their guns but held their fire amid the rattle of the machine guns toward Manhattan.

SERVED IOWA AS GOVERNOR FOR 2 TERMS

His Career Ended At 69; Long Ill.

George Allison Wilson, 69, former U. S. senator and Iowa governor, died at 10:10 p. m. Tuesday in Mercy hospital, where he had been seriously ill since Aug. 27.

His physician said death was caused by a malignant tumor of the throat, a recurrence of a tumor for which he underwent operations in 1944.

Mrs. Wilson, their three sons and their daughter had been at Wilson's bedside since he suffered a relapse early Tuesday.

He had been ill for a month at the family home, 1001 Locust st., West Des Moines, before he entered the hospital.

In 3 Branches.

Wilson, in politics from boyhood, was a United States senator, state senator, governor of Iowa for two terms and district court judge.

A student of government, he was one of few Iowans who served in all three branches of government—legislative, executive and judicial—during a career that spanned a half-century.

The long illness which culminated in his death started in 1944 when he underwent a gland operation on his neck in connection with the extraction of lower teeth.

His health was one factor in Wilson's defeat for re-election by Senator Guy M. Gillette (Dem., Ia.) in 1948. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the presidential candidate heading the Republican ticket on which Wilson ran for a second senate term, lost Iowa that year, too.

Led G. O. P. Back.

Wilson led Iowa Republicans back into the statehouse in 1939 after six years of Democratic administration in Iowa which interrupted 40 years of Republican domination.

He almost won the office in 1936, but would not contest his defeat, which was by 2,431 votes—one vote to a precinct.

Wilson came back in 1938 to win election by 59,123 votes.

Wilson was high man in the general in 1916; but was refused the nomination in the convention.

About 18 shots were fired by police alone, and Gannon and into its body.

Finally, Simon slumped down in the front seat of the gunmen's through the tunnel.

Denied Holdup.
Metcalf was quoted as saying he arrived here Tuesday morn-afterward. He denied any Jersey holdup attempt.

Metcalf and Simon were accused of invading the South

Pinkus was not home. His without loot.

The noise led a passing motor-

Jim" Wilson to distinguish him from his contemporary, James H. Wilson of Tract, who was known as "Tama Jim" Wilson.

The Tama county Wilson was U. S. secretary of agriculture. The Adair Wilson was a trustee of Iowa State college before the board-of-education was created.

Wilson's mother, who resided near the statehouse, lived to see her son twice inaugurated governor before she died at 91 in 1946, four years after he had been elected to the U. S. senate.

Wilson, a sentimental man, often recalled that his father, who got him the page appointment, early confided to him an ambition to see his son become governor.

The senator sometimes added, when he was unhappy about senate rules, that his candidacy for the senate was his own idea. He frequently said in his later years in private life that if he could start over he would live life as he had.

His middle name was Allison, after the late U. S. Senator William B. Allison of Dubuque.

Born in Iowa.

Wilson was one of only eight Iowa governors born in Iowa. The three who have been elected since Wilson stretched the list from five to eight.

Wilson was brought up in politics, was an astute politician aligned with the best politicians in Polk county; had a reputation for possessing a "mind like a steel trap," and was a stickler for exact detail in legislative chamber and in the courtroom.

Senator Allison's motto was "economical, honest and wise expenditure," a policy which Wilson pursued as governor by insisting upon sweeping governmental reorganization and savings in large and small matters.

He took off the road 80 state-owned automobiles, including a limousine furnished his predecessor, and drove his own modest car.

The farm-to-market road law was passed in 1939 in the legislative session of Wilson's first term. So was the soil conservation district law.

Other Accomplishments.

U. S. for planes, tanks, trucks and other war materiel.

He contended the United States would have trouble forming a United Nations to its liking, if it waited until after the end of the war to deal with Russia.

Wilson was born in Adair county Apr. 1, 1884, on the farm south of Menlo to which his father came from New York after service in the Civil war.

He rode a horse 4 miles to the Menlo school. He attended Grinnell college from 1900 to 1903, waiting upon tables for his board and tending a furnace for his room.

Played Basketball.

He was assistant secretary of the Iowa senate in 1904, and started his law course at the State University of Iowa that fall.

He won his "G" at Grinnell and his "I" at Iowa, in basketball. While governor, he appointed John Chalmers, his Iowa basketball coach and a Republican, to the district bench in Dubuque county where Chalmers still is presiding.

In the general overhauling of state departments, the 1939 legislature created the state department of public safety and required budgeting of expenditures of departments formerly given lump-sum appropriations.

While Wilson was governor, farm leases running to Mar. 1 were made subject to cancellation only if notice is given by the preceding Nov. 1.

Wilson insisted on enforcement of long-ignored laws which required insurance companies to sell farms within five years after they were acquired.

A total of 11,500 farms totaling almost 2 million acres were sold by insurance companies to private owners in two years. About 80 per cent of them were purchased by the families on the land.

Ahead of His Time.

In the U. S. senate Wilson was a member of the committees on agriculture, armed services and small business. He fought what he termed the "veil of military secrecy" which he insisted shrouded the operation of many federal government departments.

In October, 1943, he introduced a joint resolution to create a United Nations organization. He was ahead of his time, but got no credit for it when United Nations was created later.

In a statement in connection with his resolution, Wilson said the time to deal with Russia on formation of an international organization was then (in 1943), while Russia still was asking the end of the war to deal with Russia.

Wilson was born in Adair county Apr. 1, 1884, on the farm south of Menlo to which his father came from New York after service in the Civil war.

He began practicing law in Des Moines upon his graduation from law school in 1907. He was secretary of the Iowa senate in 1911.

Sought Army Service.

The next year, former Judge Thomas J. Guthrie, then Polk county attorney, appointed Wilson as his assistant. There was only one assistant at that time.

Wilson succeeded Guthrie as county attorney, by election in 1914, and as judge, by appointment, in 1917. He was 33 when he went on the bench.

In World War I, he sought to resign to take a commission in the judge advocate general's department. The department advised him he could be of more service on the bench.

All three of Wilson's sons, James Henderson, George A., jr., and John, were overseas in combat in World War II. Two, James, a captain, and George, a first lieutenant, also were in the Korean war.

None of the sons would let the father, on the senate armed services committee, help him gain advancement in the army.

His Family.

Wilson married Mildred Zehner in Des Moines, Dec. 8, 1921.

GEORGE WILSON RITES FRIDAY

Services for former U. S. Senator George A. Wilson, at 11 a. m. Friday at the Hamilton Funeral home, will be conducted by the Rev. De Loss Marken, Veterans hospital chaplain.

Palbearers will be Judge Tom K. Murrow; Edward A. Kimball; C. A. Knutson, Clear Lake; Erwin D. Sias, Sioux City; John Zug and Julius Jensen.

Senator Wilson, 69, former governor of Iowa, former state senator, and former district court judge, died at 10:10 p. m., Tuesday in Mercy hospital, where he was undergoing treatment for a malignant throat tumor, a recurrence of a tumor for which he was operated on in 1944.

Burial will be in Masonic cemetery.

"A Real Shock."

U. S. Representative Thomas E. Martin (Rep., Iowa City) paid this tribute to the former senator:

"The death of Senator George Wilson comes as a real shock to all of us, especially we who have had the privilege of serving with him.

"Throughout his service in the United States senate we Iowa members of the house of representatives valued his advice and counsel on all important issues. We enjoyed his warm friendship.

"A Great Loss."

"His death is a great loss to Iowa and the country. Our heartfelt sympathy goes to Mrs. Wilson and the family."

Former Judge Thomas J. Guthrie, whom Wilson succeeded as Polk county attorney and on the bench, said:

"George Wilson was a good citizen. He performed his duties well. Ill health prevented him from going further in public life."

William M. McGriff, 31, of 1803 Grand ave., pleaded guilty to charges of reckless driving and leaving the scene of the accident.

Judge Charles S. Cooter, however, asked for testimony in the case to determine the degree of penalty.

Judge Insists.

Russell Sims, of 2600 Kingman blvd., who had been called as a witness, then said he refused to testify "because I don't desire to do so."

After an exchange of words with City Attorney Doran (Bill) Williams—and at the insistence of Judge Cooter—he finally took the stand.

Sims testified that he (Sims) was driving 60 miles an hour when McGriff's car, flashed by him, swung out to miss other traffic and knocked down the mailbox after digging up the sod at Howell's residence at 3612 Fleur drive.

Sims said he got the license number and reported it to police.

Patrolman Cletus Mark Learning testified tire marks showed McGriff's car skidded a total of 145 feet—75 feet on the wrong side of the street—before striking the mailbox.

"Driving Pretty Bad."

"You were driving pretty bad," Judge Cooter told McGriff.

After McGriff had conceded he "was going right along," Judge Cooter fined him $60 on the reckless driving charge and $40 on the other count.

The city manager, clad in a neat blue suit, sat in the courtroom during the hearing but was not called as a witness. He left before testimony was complete.

(Olham) Henry. Her father was from Pennsylvania and was of Irish descent, while the mother, a native of Indiana, was of English lineage. Unto Mr. and Mrs. Jewett were born two daughters; Bonnie Ella, the wife of Dr. Hugh G. Welpton; and Margaret, the wife of David Lewis Jewett. The latter couple have three sons, Gerald Anson, David Warren and Homer Henry Jewett.

In his political views Mr. Jewett has ever been a stalwart republican. In the days of the underground railway he drove a wagon which conveyed runaway slaves on their way to freedom in the north, although but a boy at the time. He is an advocate of temperance and a friend of all those uplifting influences which promote humanity and advance the moral progress of the race. He was one of the organizers of Drake University, of which he was elected secretary in 1882, serving continuously in that office to the present time. In July, 1911, the Christian church held its annual convention in Portland, Oregon, and one of the interesting social features of the occasion was a banquet there held by the alumni of Drake University. A local religious paper in speaking of this occasion said: "George A. Jewett was called upon as one who had been connected with Drake University as its secretary for nearly thirty years, and whose name was to be found upon every diploma issued by the university save that of Brother Denton's. He expressed his pleasure at meeting so many of the alumni of Drake and said that while they told of their beautiful homes in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and California, making them out to be veritable paradises, yet each would say how much he would give to walk across Drake University campus again, or to be in the old college buildings." Mr. Jewett has not only served as secretary of Drake University but has also been a member of its board of trustees for almost three decades. He holds membership in the Central Church of Christ at Des Moines, with which he united soon after his removal to this city in 1865. The following year he was elected church clerk and has served continuously since. In 1879 he was elected church treasurer and has occupied that position to the present time. He is one of the most active workers in Central church, being untiring in his efforts to promote its growth and advance its various lines of activity. He was prominent in the work of "home coming" among the members of the church on the occasion of the semi-centennial celebration. He has been the editor and publisher of the Christian Worker for a quarter of a century, and many articles from his pen have been strong and forceful factors in supporting the church and in holding its members to the teachings of primitive Christianity. In 1867 he was appointed representative of the Smithsonian Institution, of Washington, which then had charge of the weather bureau and he thus became the forerunner of those who have made weather forecasts at Des Moines. The duties and obligations of citizenship are recognized by him and fully met, but his chief interest and activity center in the church and his life is a contradiction to the too prevalent opinion that the religious life and the successful business career are antagonistic forces, that both cannot be followed at the same time. Real life and character are to him more than wealth, and yet he has been blessed with success as the reward of earnest application and business methods which have neither sought nor required disguise.

GEORGE A. WILSON.

Prominent among the younger leaders in the ranks of the republican party in Iowa stands George A. Wilson, of Des Moines. He was born on a farm near Menlo in Adair county, Iowa, September 1, 1883. His father, James H. Wilson, was a native of New York and, on leaving the Empire state in 1866, made his way westward to Iowa, settling in Adair county, where he secured a tract of land and turned his attention to farming. He was busily engaged in tilling the soil for a number of years or until 1896, when he became connected with the office of secretary of state, and has now made his home in Des Moines for the past fourteen years. He too is a prominent republican and has been a candidate for the offices of lieutenant governor and railroad commissioner. He was also private secretary to Lieutenant Governor Herriott. He married Martha Varley, a native of England, the wedding being celebrated in Adair county.

George A. Wilson largely acquired his education in the schools of Adair county, mastering the preliminary branches of learning in the public schools and afterward attending the Menlo high school, from which he was graduated in 1900. Later he spent three and a half years as a student in Grinnell College and on the completion of his more specifically literary course he entered upon preparation for the practice of law, spending three years as a student in the law department of the State University. He was graduated in 1907 and began practice in Des Moines in October of that year, since which time he has been a representative of the bar of this city and has won a creditable position for one of his years.

Mr. Wilson is well known as one of the younger leaders in the republican party and for three years filled the office of first assistant secretary in the state senate, and was secretary of the thirty-fourth session, his previous experience well qualifying him for the office. In the republican national convention of 1908 he filled the position of reading clerk. He is a member of Sigma Chi, a college fraternity, the Phi Delta Phi, and the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. He is a rising young lawyer and political leader, actuated with a laudable ambition and popular by reason of his social qualities.

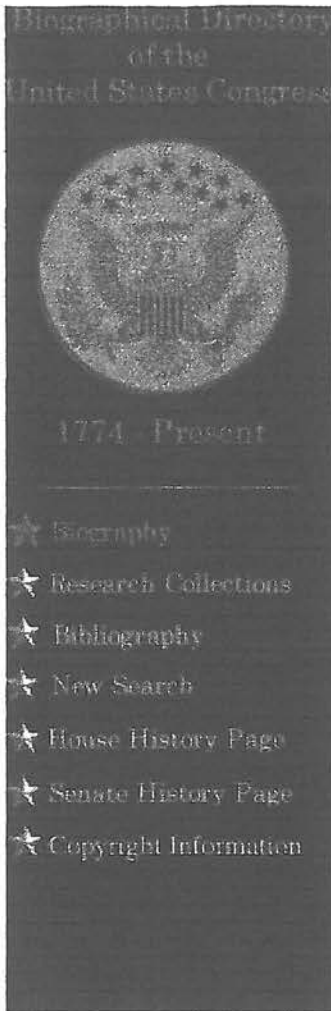

EDMUND P. CHASE.

Although fifteen years have elapsed since the death of Edmund P. Chase his friends have not forgotten his many kindly acts, nor will they permit the memory of his virtues to pass from their minds. He was one of the most highly respected citizens of Des Moines and for more than thirty years was prominent in business and religious circles. A man of the highest integrity, he possessed the qualities which attracted friends and marked him as a true lover of his race.

Born in Boston, Massachusetts, May 30, 1821, he was a son of William Chase, of Shirley, New Hampshire, who for a number of years was engaged in the dry-goods business in New York city. He came west with his family to Beardstown, Illinois, in 1842, and continued in the mercantile business there until his death, which occurred in 1869. He was a man of sterling character and of a highly social nature, who readily made friends and was a leader wherever he was known. The mother of our subject was Hannah Parker before her marriage, a native of Pepperell, Massachusetts, and she had two brothers who served in the Revolutionary war. She died at Beardstown in 1847 and was known as a woman of unusual intelligence and one who possessed many noble traits of character.

Edmund P. Chase was reared under favorable conditions and after making thorough preparation matriculated at Yale College, from which he was graduated in 1841, at the age of twenty. Later he took post-graduate courses at Washington, D. C. His early ambition was to devote his life to the law. He moved to St. Louis in 1844 and engaged in active practice for two years, at the end of which time he went to Illinois, where he was married. There he became connected with the mercantile business. He never resumed the legal profession.

In 1870 he settled with his family at Des Moines, where he spent the remainder of his life. He was a man of remarkably vigorous mind and throughout his life was a zealous student, much of his time being spent in his library, which contained the works of the principal thinkers of the world. He was especially political work he became acquainted with many men of national prominence and was entertained at Washington by President Theodore Roosevelt. In 1903 he was elected to represent the district in the state legislature. During his term in office he served as chairman of the judiciary committee and was connected with much valuable legislation."

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. John R. Rex and Rev. Alexander Wimberly, assisted by the Masonic Order. Interment was made in the Union Cemetery near Guthrie Center.

Thus we chronicle the ending of a beautiful life that is gone from our midst. He established a pioneer home and did much to build up our county and state. During his fifty-five years' experience in law practice he made many acquaintances all over the land, from north to south and from east to west, who deeply appreciated his friendship and judgment. At the time of his death the sun was just sinking in the west, the week had drawn to its close, his book commemorating the lives and works of prominent citizens of Guthrie county had just been completed and his earthly life ended almost at the close of the year.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Forty-fifth General Assembly, That in the passing of the Honorable Elbert Wright Weeks the state has lost a valuable citizen, and this House by this resolution tenders its sympathy to the family surviving him; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the Journal of the House and the Chief Clerk of the House be instructed to have an enrolled copy sent to the family.

HONORABLE THOMAS J. WILSON

MR. SPEAKER: Your committee, appointed to prepare memorial resolutions commemorating the life, character and public services of the Honorable Thomas J. Wilson, a former member of the General Assembly of Iowa, begs leave to submit the following:

Thomas Jonathan Wilson was born in Washington county, October 23, 1854, and came to Mahaska county in February, 1882, to take up residence on a farm near Eveland, Iowa. He served as township trustee for twelve years, was a member of the Mahaska County Board of Supervisors for a number of years and numerous other county activities. He was elected as a member of the House of Representatives in 1914 and served through three sessions of the legislature, the Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth, and was returned to the County Board of Supervisors in 1924, serving with distinction until ill health forced him to resign in 1929.

He was actively associated with the highway development progress in his county and assisted in the first graveled highway in the county; he was always interested in the betterment of Mahaska county and the state.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Frances E. Wilson, and two daughters. Funeral services were held at the home on Thursday afternoon, April 4, 1932, and burial was in Forest Abbey, Oskaloosa, Iowa.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Forty-fifth General Assembly, That in the passing of the Honorable Thomas J. Wilson the state has lost an honored and valuable citizen, a man of high ideals in Christian living and useful citizenship.

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the Journal of the House and that the Chief Clerk be directed to forward an enrolled copy to the family of the deceased.

Whannel and Margaret Brown of Traer; Agnes Galloway and Dalton K. Wilson of Waterloo; Catherine Creswell of Reinbeck; William D. Wilson of Grundy Center; John Wilson of San Francisco, California, and Sara Wilson, who lives in Scotland.

Mr. Wilson was a man among the foremost in the development of Mitchell county and was for half a century one of the foremost citizens of the county.

Mr. Wilson was reared in Tama county, near the boyhood home of Billy Sunday, world-famed evangelist. Both were members of the Marshalltown hose team in the early '80's and were noted for their speed as runners. It was always a boast among "Tug's" boyhood friends that he could equal the famous Sunday on the running paths. As a matter of fact, it was his athletic ability that first focused public attention on young Wilson when he came to Mitchell county. Tremendously strong and unusually swift, he was an outstanding figure in the athletic events of his day, and stories of his performances have become traditions.

Mr. Wilson was always prominent in civic and political affairs. He came to Mitchell county a democrat, and was elected to the office of sheriff on that ticket in 1890, holding it for three terms. Disagreeing with his party on the "free silver" issue in 1896 he became affiliated with the republican party, and rose high in its councils. For a long term of years there was none in Mitchell county who wielded so great an influence politically.

Early in the 1900's he served on the city council of Osage, and from 1914 to 1918 he represented Mitchell county in the state legislature. This was the Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh General Assemblies.

His business career has embraced a number of projects. Always his main business was that of buying and raising livestock, and he was regarded as an expert judge of stock. In the '80's he operated a meat market, from 1903 to 1907 he was associated with T. M. Atherton, Jr., in the publication of the Mitchell County Press. For a number of years he was engaged in the quarrying and sale of stone with the late Dr. M. A. Hansen.

Few men in Mitchell county were as well read as Mr. Wilson. None exceeded him as a student of economics, history and government and his knowledge of classic and scientific literature frequently surprised those interested in those lines.

Mr. Wilson had been actively engaged in farming and livestock raising up until the time of his last illness. For years he was also engaged in the livestock buying business in this community.

Mr. Wilson passed away on October 12, 1932, at the age of 74 years and 3 months. His death has been keenly felt by all the citizens of Mitchell county.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Forty-fifth General Assembly, That in the passing of Hon. Henry Lusk Wilson, this assembly take this occasion to express its appreciation of his character and public services and tender to his surviving wife and children its sincere sympathy in their sorrow, and
