Scholarship Awards Made On Class Day

Much of Class Day activities Thursday afternoon were devoted to handing out special scholarship awards and recognizing outstanding Corydon High School seniors.

Scholarship medals went to the eight students whose high school grade averages put them in the upper 15 per cent of their class. Lucille Woolis was named valedictorian and honored as salutatorian Joyce Ventling. Other outstanding students honored for their scholastic record were Janet and Joan Baker, Jane Holder, Virginia Partridge Bishop, Dale Hilliard and Bobby Robb.

Joyce Ventling was given the Jessie Hinkle scholarship. Joan Baker and Gary Bishop received the Danforth award, and Harold Rexroat was given the DeKalb Agriculture award. The Lydia Dorsey Scholarship went to Gary Wishmeyer. Sue Reynolds won the Bar Association award, and she and Dale Hilliard were given the Chamber of Commerce award. Citizenship "C"s went to Janet Baker and Dale Hilliard. The W. E. Hogue music award went to Lucille Woolis, who was also given the Mathematics award pin.

Medals were passed out to: Ann Dodson for work in vocal music, Gary Wishmeyer for instrumental music, Dale Hilliard in recognition for his track ability, Roy Greenlee as the outstanding football player, Stanley Grismore as the outstanding boy basketball player and Sue Reynolds as the outstanding girl basketball player.

Recognition was given to the following seniors for service to school publications: Janet Baker, Peptim... editor; Joyce Ventling, Hornet year book and to Joan Baker, year book business manager and Lucille Woolis, art editor for the year book.

Five Injured When Wrongway Twister Wipes Out Farmstead

Death Comes to Howard Ballew

Howard Ballew, 67, died Friday of a heart attack at the Veteran's hospital in Des Moines, where he had undergone surgery earlier.

Few men have been more devoted to their adopted county than was Howard Ballew, who had been unit conservationist for the Wayne County Soil Conservation District since its inception. He worked tirelessly in behalf of soil conservation and improved agriculture in Wayne county. Not long ago the Iowa Soil Conservation Service commended him for his longtime service with the department; he entered the Soil Conservation Service in 1935.

Howard served two terms in Iowa Legislature as a representative from his native Appanoose county in the 43rd and 44th General Assemblies of Iowa. He was a graduate of Iowa Wesleyan college, a member of the Masonic lodge, the Corydon Methodist church and the American Legion.

He is survived by his wife, Geroldyne and two daughters, Miss Gloria Davidson of Corydon and Mrs. Joanne Sebben of Independence, Mo.; one brother, Richard of Centerville and two sisters, Mrs. Junior Fiegy of Fayetteville, Ark., and Mrs. Hazel Wertz of Birmingham, Ala.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the Corydon Methodist Church. Burial was at Gravity, Iowa.

Busy Month for Wayne County 4-H

June promises to be a busy month for Wayne county 4-Hers. On June 2 at 8 p. m. in the Farm Bureau rooms, a demonstration workshop is scheduled for all lead-

The ugly, sickening job of sifting through the rubble that were once a two-story farm home and barn Thursday morning on the Harold Hickie farm east of the tiny community of Bethlehem.

Friends and relatives of the Hickie family, five were injured Wednesday evening in the worst tornado county in almost thirty years, poked through the debris while sightseers "ohed" and "awed" at the sight of which was strewn a quarter of a mile along the main highway path of the twister.

Red Cross and Salvation Army Are On The Job

The Wayne County Chapter of the American Red Cross was on the job Thursday morning, and before the day was out the Salvation Army had set up a coffee canteen at the Hickie farm.

Friday the Army served a hot meal to workers on the job cleaning up the debris.

Harold Bishop, disaster chairman for the county, and M. A. Meacham, housing chairman, meshed the gears that galvanized into action the American Red Cross. Friday a state official together with local chairmen had already purchased clothing and personal things for the entire Hickie family and had arranged temporary housing in a nearby country schoolhouse.

Mr. M. A. Meacham told The Times-Republican Monday that fund drives were not really necessary for disaster cases. Already the Red Cross here has purchased clothing and eyeglasses for victims and will buy furniture when the amount and kind are determined by the families themselves. The Red Cross has everything under control, and a state representative asks that before local "fund drives" to check with Harold Bishop of Corydon. Red Cross assistance falls into

"I found her," Mr. Meacham said.

A rain-soaked, White sat dazedly on a board, and a bit from one many of her flock mat hither and thither across and barn lot.

A chest type freezer away, its lid ajar and contents from the freezer. Slices of bread, a barb, plastic bag shred.

The 1949 Mercury the parked in the drive of ment garage had been the bank that is the in the drive. The basement with an overturned electric water storage tank that had been on the floor of the home. Home came intact in glass jars, shelves on their sides.

Not far from an crib of corn farmers hoist a 200-pound sack broken back from a ditch. The sow scream as she was lifted onto a Jersey cow with one leg looked on.
