SUNNY AND BRISK AFTER WINTRY SCARE OVER THE WEEKEND

After a cloudy and cold start, Monday turned out to be a crisp, late fall day.

Although the mercury had only warmed to 32 by noon after the low of 17, the sun was out and winds were calm.

The mild Thanksgiving holiday weather turned wintry late Saturday afternoon, with a wind switch to the northwest. High mark had been in the 50s.

The wind brought light rain, which froze on cars. But the howling wind through the night dried off pavement.

Sunday was sunny, but cold. The high was 43 degrees.
