Young Marine Jailed Monday for Car Theft

Richard A. Steele, 19-year-old Minneapolis youth, was arrested near Forest City Monday after he attempted to speed away from highway patrol officers in a stolen car.

Steele was stopped by Patrol Sergeant Robert Reese of Mason City after the car Steele was driving passed Reese at a high rate of speed in a 35-mile-per-hour zone on the outskirts of Forest City. Reese said that he caught up with Steele and stopped him near the intersection of highways 69 and 9 near Forest City.

When Steele was unable to produce his driver's license when told to do so, Reese ordered the youth to drive back to Forest City.

Steele turned east on highway number 9 and attempted to outrun the officer. Reese caught up with the youth after chasing him for about five miles.

Investigation revealed that the youth was driving a stolen car. He was returning to the Marine Corps at San Diego when he left the train on which his parents had put him and stole the car in Omaha. The car, a 1947 Plymouth, was stolen Sunday night.

Steele was convicted of auto theft once before and given a five year suspended sentence at Minneapolis. The sentence was suspended on the grounds of good behavior. He had been on leave from the Marine Corps and visiting his parents when the latest car theft took place.

Police officers at Forest City yesterday said that they are holding the youth pending arrival of a U.S. marshal from Ft. Dodge, Omaha officers called in FBI agents and said the youth would be charged with transporting stolen goods across a state line.

Steele was given a 30-day jail sentence in Justice of the Peace Emory Oleson's court at Forest City. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle without a valid operator's license.

ANDREW J. AND ELLEN ANDERSON FAMILY

Andrew J. Anderson was born in Wisconsin on October 19, 1855. He married Ellen Oldsdatter Opdahl. She was born in Kristiansund, Norway, on July 4, 1846, and died in Thompson on August 27, 1922.

Andrew was said to have been hard working and hot tempered. He was known as "Lightning" Anderson. The Andersons farmed south of Thompson and retired in Thompson. It has been told that there was always a ball game going on in their pasture.

Andrew and Ellen died the same week and there was a double funeral.

Their children were: Oscar, Gilbert, Elvin, Joseph and Bertha.

JOSEPH HERMAN ANDERSON

Joseph Herman Anderson was born in a log cabin in the "bush country" or woods two and one-half miles northwest of Forest City on April 12, 1871. On the night of his birth, his 10-year-old sister rushed through the brush for a mile to fetch a midwife as the wolves howled in the distance. Joe had one brother and six sisters, some of whom were born in Norway. Their parents were Anders and Kristina Anderson.

When Joe was three years old, the family moved into a log cabin on a flat where the town of Leland is now located. At the age of four years, his sisters took him to visit school at Benson Grove. They told him if the teacher looked at him as though she were saying something he was to go up to class. When she looked at him, he sailed up to her desk expecting to read. She took him back to the seat and improvised a pillow so he could take a nap.

The family moved to about seven miles west of Lake Mills for a short time. Joe remembered the oxen swimming the stream at high water mark on the way to town.

Next, the family moved to a farm two miles south and three miles west of Thompson, the old John Anderson Gangsei farm. Joe and his mother and brother herded cattle while his father worked as a hired hand for farmers. Friends and neighbors tore down the log cabin west of Lake Mills and rebuilt it on 40 acres one mile west and two and one-half miles south of Thompson (the old Theodore Austin farm, now owned by Irma Lockrem). The farm was homesteaded by Joe's father. This 40 acres, after he had paid all expenses, got the deed and lived on it for five years, cost him approximately $20.00.

At 10 years of age, Joe started to school in a log school four miles south and one mile west of Thompson. Children from the Arne Dahl, Larson, Osmundson, Mortenson, and Baker Anderson families attended the school. From age 10 to 17, Joe had from three to five months schooling each year.

A school was erected a mile north (Linden No. 2) and Halvor Mattison was the teacher. Joe, Lawrence Larson and John Osmundson got their teaching certificates from this school. Joe then went to the county superintendent and said he wanted to teach. He was told he was too young to take the exams. However, the superintendent soon called him back due to a shortage of teachers. He passed the exams and was given a school in the west end of Linden township. At that time, the present townships had not been platted and Linden township extended west to Kossuth County.

From 1895 to 1898, Joe worked out in the summer, taught the fall term to earn money and then attended college at Cedar Falls during winter and spring sessions. He graduated in 1898, having carried a whole year of credits in two terms. For two years, he taught and was superintendent at Fairbanks, Iowa, and did farm work in the summers.

Joe Anderson and Matilda Keil were married December 26, 1898, at Linden Lutheran Church by the Rev. Salveson. In 1900, they moved to his father's homestead where they farmed about three years. In 1912, they moved to their farm three miles south and one-half mile west of Thompson, the present Dan Thorland home. This was their family home the rest of their lives.

Their children were Delpha, Ada, Orland, Joy, Merlin and Rhoda. Twin boys died in infancy.

Joe was elected and served as Clerk of the District Court in Winnebago County from 1904 until 1912.

In the education field, Joe served on the board of education of Waldorf College; the board of education of the Norwegian Evangelical Lutheran Church of America; and from 1931 to 1937 on the Iowa State board of education. In 1923, he gave the June graduation address at Iowa State Teachers' College. This was the 25th anniversary of his own graduation from the college.

In the agricultural field, Joe was active in local operatives. He helped organize the Thompson Co-operative Creamery and served on the Farmers Co-op Elevator board. He served on the Iowa State College agricultural foundation board which managed endowment farms owned by the college. He was also president of the National Co-operative Creamery Association.

In the political field, Joe served for five terms (1915-1923) as representative in the Iowa State legislature, including one term and five months as Speaker of the House of Representatives. In 1924, he was defeated for the governorship of Iowa, although he carried Gov. Hammill's home county (Hancock) as well as his own home county (Winnebago).

He introduced Pres. Herbert Hoover at his opening speech for re-election in 1932 and was a delegate to the national Republican convention in Chicago that year.

Joe was sent from Iowa to speak before the United States National Chamber of Commerce in May, 1938, to promote closer farm and industry ties.

He remained active in local and state organizations and in the Republican party. He made trips to Washington, D. C. to work on behalf of agriculture. Joe died in September, 1953 and Mathilda in February, 1958. They are buried in Linden Lutheran cemetery, southwest of Thompson.

Joe Anderson's Parents

Anders Anderson (also known as Baker Anderson) was born in Lille Hammer, Norway, the youngest of 12 children. At 15 years of age, he left home, walked 70 Norwegian miles to Trondheim, Norway, where he learned the bakery trade by serving as an apprentice for seven years. He followed this profession for 30 years in Norway and two years in Chicago, Ill.

He married Kristina Hansdatter Haukaason. She was born in Hedemarken, Norway. They came to Chicago, Ill., in 1866. There were eight children in the family.

The skipper of the ship that they came to America on told the passengers, "You folks don't need to think that fried pigeons will fly into your mouths in America." They found this true and that it required continuous, persistent, hard work, a long, determined grind. They came here already schooled in the real privations of want and poverty and were enured to the difficulties they faced on this side of the ocean. Baker Anderson knew the taste of barley bread mixed with ground bark. He died in 1900 at age 73 and his wife died in 1910 at age 63.

About 1885, a terrible storm struck this part of the country. Baker Anderson, who lived on the farm where Irma Lockrem now resides, took his family to the basement and held the doors by pulling them down so the storm didn't take them. Suddenly, the doors were jerked out of his hands and there in the storm stood Ole Dahl. His father, Arne Dahl, was bringing the mother and a three-day-old baby. Their house (where Don and Elmira Bell reside) had been blown over. Eric Dahl had started but was taken by the wind and ended up at Finer's old place.

Matilda Keil Anderson's Family

Andrew Olson Keil came from Keel, Norway, where he herded cattle until he was 15. He went to work as a choreboy for the seamen who were often very cruel to the boys. He was confirmed in Norway in the same class with Ted Isaacson's mother.

Andrew came to America several times as a seaman. When he settled here, he sent passage money to Diktena Antonsdatter from Kageraa, Norway, to come to America. They were married in Chicago. Matilda Keil (Mrs. Joe Anderson) was born March 24, 1876, northwest of Forest City. There were eight children in the family. They moved to the farm three miles south and two miles west of Thompson (Henry Hauan/Dave Larson farm), thereby becoming neighbors to the Andersons.

Andrew Keil died in 1908. Diktena moved into Thompson where she lived in a house one block north of the schoolhouse. She died in 1923.

Because of the teacher shortage, Matilda Keil was asked to teach school, even though not of legal age. She taught for five years until her marriage to Joe Anderson. Joe and Matilda were confirmed by the Rev. Ole Tormesgaard in a neighborhood schoolhouse which then served as the church.

Joe Anderson and his son, Orland, in 1910.

ORLAND A. ANDERSON—LAURA M. (FIELD) ANDERSON

Orland A. Anderson was born September 8, 1904, in a log cabin home southwest of Thompson, the son of Joe and Matilda (Keil) Anderson. He first lived in Forest City where his father was Clerk of the District Court. He took his academy and junior college work at Waldorf College and then attended Iowa State Teachers College in Cedar Falls. He was confirmed at Bethany Lutheran Church in Thompson in 1920 by the Rev. Andvik.

The Andersons attended Linden Lutheran Church where Laura served as church organist, using the old pump organ. They later transferred to Bethany Lutheran Church in Thompson. Both Orland and Laura were active in church and local organizations.

Laura and Orland Anderson observed their golden wedding anniversary at a reception at Waldorf College, Forest City, Iowa, on August 20, 1978. Also pictured is their daughter, Verneil, and her husband, Donald Branstad.

Verneil attended country school, Thompson High School and then St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., and Fairview Hospital nursing program. She was active in 4-H work. On May 18, 1968, she married Donald H. Branstad. Don was born April 1, 1927, and raised in the Thompson area. He served one and one-half years in the Army Signal Corps and was stationed in the Philippine Islands.
