house". Somebody asked Ike Hoover the other day who he thought would be his next boss. He replied: "I don't know who it is going to be, but he will have a double 'o' in his name, the same as mine."

The benefit of the women readers of this weekly household necessity we are happy to announce the tentative dates for the second annual Free Press cooking school. The school will be held in Corning on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, January 19, 20 and 21, 1933, according to the present plans. The school will be operated along the same general plan as followed last year, except that we hope to enlarge upon some of the features and there will be a larger number of national manufacturers co-operating in the demonstration of household furnishings and food stuffs. At this time we do not know the name of the demonstrator who will be in charge of the school. We have registered our request for Mrs. Leona M. Jones, who gave such excellent satisfaction in our cooking school last year, but since we are co-operating with over 100 other Iowa newspapers in sponsoring these schools, the making up of the schedule for the demonstrators must of necessity be left to a central headquarters. Only the most capable demonstrators will be used so we may be assured of efficiency along this line. We suggest that you mark these dates now and plan to attend this free cooking school.

Billy Hill, the sage of Douglas township, sends us a newspaper clipping this week, together with a letter which says, "Find enclosed what Will Rogers says about you country editors but before you read it loosen the band on your hat." We acknowledge our thanks to Billy for sending us the clipping in which Rogers describes the National Editorial meeting being held in California. Bill (Rogers not Hill) says: "We have a great bunch out here prowling around. It's the National Editorial association, composed of editors in smaller towns and weekly publications. They are just eating their way around the country, having a good time, and getting a lot of pleasure out of it, and giving everyone that meets 'em a close-up of just about as representative a gang of Americans as would be possible to band together, intelligent, well read, and no national advertising controls their pages. They are not conceited enough to think they command public opinion". They just go along serving their community with the most indispensable article that it has. And yet their real power is greater than all your Metropolitan dailies combined.

LEONARD STANLEY, COUNTY PIONEER, DIED HERE MONDAY

Prominent in County Many Years

A few years ago, because of failing health, Corning and vicinity was forced to give up one of its most useful citizens from the numerous activities which had been blessed by his service. But the wonderful personality of the man remained to bless—to make cleaner and more wholesome every segment of society with which he came in contact, during these years of semi-invalidism. Monday the community was bowed with grief when the news came that L. E. Stanley, one of Corning's best beloved citizens, had passed on. A lovable personality had gone, but the soul of the man will live like a burning flame in the community as long as there is a single person living who has been influenced by that loveliness.

Children flocked to his porches; young people stopped to shake his hand, eager to do some little service for him during the years of failing health; his children took advantage of every opportunity to come back to the home. What better evidence of a lovable nature can there be?

There may be men greater in a sense; there are many richer in material things; but there certainly was never a more kindly man, nor one who was richer in friendship, or more blessed with the love of an adoring family.

Seventy-nine years, three months, and twenty-seven days marks the life span of L. E. Stanley, who died at his home in Corning last Monday morning. Mr. Stanley has been closely associated with the growth and development of Adams County since the settlement days of the early seventies.

His acquaintance in Adams County began in Grant township where he farmed and taught school for several years. It was during this period that

$2,000 Cut Made In The General Fund

The board of directors of the Corning Independent School District met Monday night, at which time a hearing on the budget for next year has been advertised. No persons appeared to object to the budget as advertised and the board adopted the same. It is interesting to note that the school budget in the Independent District of Corning for next year is approximately $3,600 less than the budget of last year. $2,000 of this decrease is made in the general fund. Last year's budget called for $30,000 to be raised in taxation for the general fund while the budget this year calls for $28,000 in the general fund. The remaining $1,600 in total reduction in the budget comes through the reduction in tuition to the rural school districts, the tuition having been reduced from $12 per month to $10.80 per month. This means that the school taxes in the Corning Independent District will be approximately $2,000 lower and the reduction in tuition will mean a reduction of about $1,600 divided among the rural districts who pay tuition for pupils sent from their districts to the Corning schools. The 10% reduction in teachers' salaries in the Corning schools will about equal the reduction in the general fund.

Farmers Union Picnic Here Thurs., Aug.

The annual picnic of the Adams County Farmers Union will be held at the Corning Fair Grounds on Thursday, August 11. The program of the day will be along the same lines as other years, and will include the basket dinner, sports program and speaking in the afternoon. The speaker this year will be Glen Miller of Des Moines, state president of the association. Mr. Miller has spoken here a number of times and always has a message of interest to farmers as well as town people. The Farm Union cordially invited the public to join with them August 11 and enjoy the program which will be arranged.

Dr. and Mrs. J. K. Hogan and Paul, Theresa Hogan of St. Louis and Miss Lizzie Hogan started on a three week auto trip Saturday morning. They expect to visit the Grand Canyon, the giant Redwood trees of California and as many points of interest combined. Any person that don't read at least one well written country newspaper is not truly informed." In closing Bill (Bill) Rogers says that it used to be when you got a check and mailed it in for collection it came back to you marked "no funds", but now it only comes back marked "no bank".

We sat on the side lines for nearly an hour Saturday night and observed Bud Gaddis, inspector of the state motor vehicle department, assisted by local officers, in a drive to eliminate defective lights on automobiles. Each car found with defective lights was halted and the driver asked in a gentlemanly and polite way to have the defects repaired and report back to the officers. There were the average number of cars driving on the streets Saturday night and only 24 were found to have defective lights. Mr. Gaddis tells us this number is low and shows the drivers here are careful in keeping their lights in shape. One fact that impressed us Saturday night was the attitude some people took toward the efforts of the state to make driving more safe. Remarks heard along the street indicated to us that there is a certain amount of antagonism or resentment against the state department in their policy of sending inspectors around to check up on these law violators. Many believe it a useless expense. It is not the driver who has been "called" that complains but usually some onlooker who would be the first to complain if driving on the highway and met one of these numerous "one-eyed" cars so common on the highways at night. This attitude is wrong. The state department is acting in good faith and this inspection work is for the safety of all who drive or ride in an automobile on the public highways. Elsewhere in this issue we publish an analysis of the 1,019 reported (and many accidents are never reported) automobile accidents in Iowa during the month of June. 38 people were killed and 692 injured. In Iowa from January 1, 1932 to July 1, 1932 there were 6,558 reported automobile accidents in which 223 people were killed and 3,234 injured. Isn't it time the state took measures to eliminate as far as possible some of the causes back of these accidents? The best the public can do is to give the state department co-operation in this safety work.

GIRLS WON GAME

The children of this marriage: Alta Woodward of Blackfoot, Idaho; Edgar of Chicago; John (died January 1919); Carrie, Iowa City; Mabel, Corning, and Howard of Milwaukee, have grown up in Adams county. These, together with Mrs. John Stanley and daughter, Winifred, of Des Moines and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodward of Minneapolis are here with the mother and grandmother at this time.

The Stanley home has ever attracted the children and grandchildren to its altar. Vacation times, holidays and week-ends have been occasions of return for those who reside away from Corning. Family friends have likewise formed habits, enjoying the cheerful, friendly atmosphere of his home. Generations of children have loved Mr. Stanley for his real interest in their problems and play, and for his comfort in their griefs. The keynote of his life has been common honesty and genuine good will. No biting envy or petty jealousy found refuge in his generous mind. Firm in his own beliefs, he never sought to force his views upon others, contrary to their own judgments.

The abilities and character of Mr. Stanley have been utilized in public office as clerk of the Courts 1898 to 1902, State Representative to the 37th General Assembly and Justice of the Peace several years.

His church affiliations have been with the Federated church in Corning where he served on the board of Deacons. He was a member of the V. M. S. born and reared in a Quaker home and the early influences never deserted him. All these Christian duties have
